PROBE OF U.S. LAG DEMANDED

Dulles Meets Gromyko in 'Helpful' Talk

U.S., Russ Stands on Disarmament, Mideast Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko announced after a long conference Saturday that they had held "helpful" talks on major East-West issues including the Middle East and disarmament.

Dulles, it was further reported, brought up to Gromyko what he called the need for reunification of Germany but the Russian minister declined to talk about that problem on the ground that it was not a proper subject for him to discuss.

* * * *

A COMMUNIQUE jointly agreed on by Dulles and Gromyko at their unprecedented 3-hour, 45-minute conference in the study of Dulles' home said that four major topics were discussed. They were listed as the Middle East disarmament, the situation in Europe, and U.S.-Soviet contacts.

Gromyko on emerging from Dulles' house and after a friendly farewell handshake from the secretary of state said that he thought the conversation "was useful" in clarifying the relative positions of the Washington and Moscow governments on the problems discussed.

Gromyko had come to Washington by train from New York earlier in the day.

Not Likely Anyone Has Seen 'Moon'

Has anyone actually seen earth's new moon?

No, say scientists at Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. At least no one in the United States.

Their reasons: At dusk or dawn, the Russian satellite's orbit does not place it over the U. S. It can't be seen at night, for it has no light. And it can't be seen in daylight because of the sun's brilliance.

MYSTERIOUS SOVIET RADIO SIGNAL HEARD

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio Corp. of America experts Saturday reported picking up a mysterious radio signal on one of the same frequencies as the satellite transmissions — but apparently coming from a ground station believed near Moscow.

"What its purpose is we don't know, but can only guess," said the spokesman.

"Our experts think it may be some kind of a signal put out by the Russians to check on the satellite's signal. How that would be done we don't know, either."

Russ 'Moon' No Surprise to U.S., Says L.B. Expert

Russia's launching of the first man-made satellite comes as no surprise to U. S. scientists, a Long Beach City College physicist disclosed here Saturday.

Consequently, the physicist, Dr. Myron S. Allen, doesn't expect a U. S. crash program to get another moon into space. "We had the tipoff a year ago last August when they (the Soviet Union) announced they would make the shot this year," Dr. Allen said.

DR. MYRON S. ALLEN
'Had the Tipoff'

"At the same time, we were advised by a spokesman for the national committee of the International Geophysical Year that it was unlikely we would launch a satellite this year," he added.

Dr. Allen was commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Research Company 11-4, in Compton, until last July 1. He now is on sabbatical leave from City College and will continue scientific visitations as he did while researching the Navy's administration of the Project Vanguard satellite program.

* * * *

DR. ALLEN EXPLAINED that control of propulsion seems to be responsible for this nation's delay in getting an artificial moon spacebound.

It's a matter of precise control, Dr. Allen said. Although there has been pro and con expression on the adequacy of the first stage of the three-stage satellite rocket, that first stage (the one which will blast the moon 40 miles high) apparently lacks the complications which the second has.

Apparently faulty timing—defects wrought by the thousands of feet per second acceleration of the rocket—may be the bottleneck for second-stage success.

Now the third stage, says Dr. Allen, "is completely under control according to assurances given us even though that stage is one of phenomenally delicate orientation. That is, the third-stage propulsion on solid fuel must orient the rocket on a path parallel to the earth's surface and it must be a path accurate within five degrees, plus or minus."

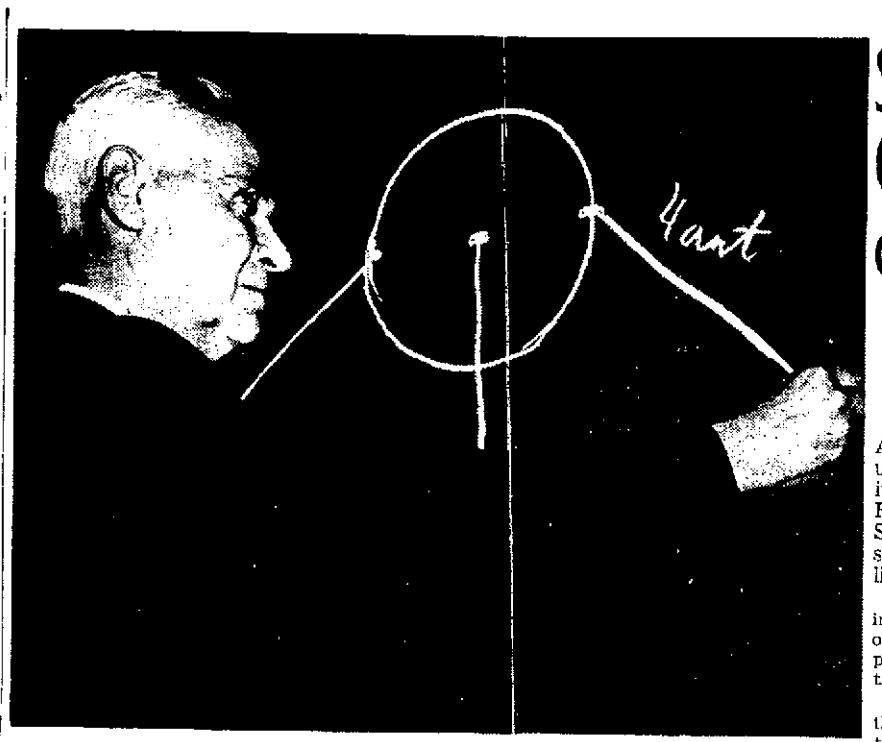

Forbidden to speculate on the time of a United States satellite launching, Dr. Allen did point out that the United States system for tracking is in good shape and very precise. It will track the American satellite, oscillating over a band 40 degrees above and below the equator.

* * * *

"THERE'S NO QUESTION but that the satellite launching Friday is an international development," said Dr. Allen. "Both American and Russian rocket work is based heavily on research done by Germans, some of whom are in our camp and some with the Russians."

Dr. Allen said the Soviet Union is committed to share the satellite findings with other nations with whom they are par-

CHALK TALK ABOUT SATELLITE

Dr. A. A. Blagonravov, chief of the Russian delegation to the International Geophysical Year conference in Washington, draws picture of the Russian-launched satellite for fellow scientists. He said the launched satellite, containing only a radio transmitter, is the simpler of two types the Russians had ready to send out into space.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Solons Take Grave View of Red Feat

Symington Asks for Investigation; Army Chiefs Irked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A demand was heard Saturday for a congressional investigation of why Red Russia beat the United States into the realm of space with an earth satellite.

It was voiced by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), long-time critic of Eisenhower Administration policy in the military and scientific fields.

The Soviet feat also stirred the hot embers of rivalry between the armed services. Rumblings were heard from backers of the Army that if that branch of the service had charge of the satellite program, it could have beaten the Russians to the punch. The Navy has principal responsibility for the baby moon undertaking.

Meanwhile the White House insisted there was no race and that the Soviet satellite launching came as no surprise. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who gave out this word, did not elaborate on his "no surprise" remark.

* * * *

HE SAID THE EVENT is "of course of great scientific interest" and should contribute much to the world's knowledge.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force and a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, gave his views in a telephone interview from Missouri.

"This is a very serious matter that cannot be laughed off," he said.

Relating the satellite launching to Russia's claims of great progress in the military missiles field, Symington said:

"Unless our defense policies

U.S. May Tell Data on Faubus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said Saturday the administration is considering whether to make public certain information that played a part in President Eisenhower's decision to send federal troops into Little Rock, Ark.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the Justice Department is studying the question of releasing the information from its files on the school integration dispute in the Arkansas city.

Hagerty said the data was given to Eisenhower before he decided to use federal troops to enforce court orders requiring integration of Little Rock's Central High School.

* * * *

SENS. MANSFIELD (D-Mont) and Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland have urged the disclosure of information the government has kept secret concerning events at Little Rock. McKeldin was one of four Southern governors who earlier this week made a fruitless effort to mediate the federal-state dispute.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus was "sitting tight and saying nothing" Saturday in the belief that time was on his side in the deadlocked dispute over withdrawal of federal troops from integrated Central High School.

The Arkansas governor, who had previously been seizing every opportunity to present his views to the press and public, went incommunicado Saturday. Telephones at the governor's mansion and at his state capitol office were not answered.

Sources close to Faubus said he adopted the tactic of silent waiting because he is convinced that the pressure of public opinion will compel the White House to make the next move to break the stalemate.

EMPLOYERS NEXT

Solons Plan Quiz on Anti-Unionism

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate labor rackets committee will investigate "improper or illegal efforts" of certain employers to keep unions out of their plants, Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Saturday.

He said the committee's next public hearings, beginning Oct. 21, will concern "certain anti-union activities of employers who had retained Nathan W. Shefferman . . . and the role Shefferman and his staff played."

Kennedy outlined a tentative schedule which would keep the committee busy most of the fall. It apparently left no time for any extended return engagement of Teamsters' Union President-elect James R. Hoffa, swept into office at his union's convention Friday despite corruption charges fired by the committee and a blunt warning by the AFL-CIO to drop him or risk expulsion.

Kennedy said that after two or three weeks of hearings on Shefferman, the committee would investigate alleged violence by Teamsters' Union officials in Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn. and neighboring states.

After that, he said, the committee is expected to investigate the garbage-hauling business in New York, reported for years to be racket-ridden. Kennedy said the investigation would involve the Teamsters but would center on "associations" which conduct the multi-million-dollar business.

Finally, he said, the committee may take testimony from experts on suggested legislation to correct abuses it has discovered.

Hoffa Seeks Unity, Plans Peace Move

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James R. Hoffa worked Saturday to get rival Teamsters' Union factions to close ranks and gird for a coming battle to avoid expulsion from the AFL-CIO.

Dave Beck, retiring union president, proposed a 10-million-dollar Teamsters' battle fund to be ready for use against rival unions in the event the Teamsters are ousted from the parent labor body on corruption charges.

But Hoffa, now in full command of the 1½-million-member union, said he was opposed to Beck's plan and intended to work hard to keep the Teamsters inside the AFL-CIO family.

Hoffa was overwhelmingly elected by a 3-1 margin as Beck's successor by Teamster convention delegates Friday and actually is to take over from Beck on Oct. 15.

Plainly irked at Beck's proposal, Hoffa said he would never "fire the first shot in a civil war in the American labor movement."

Lebanon Arrests 7 as Bombing Suspects

BEIRUT (AP) — Lebanon's security department announced Saturday the arrest of seven pesons charged with bombing newspaper plants and other institutions.

Warsaw Rioters Still Defy Police

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP)—Communist riot police charged angry crowds in Constitution Square again Saturday night with tear gas and noise bombs in new disorders after two nights of student freedom uprisings.

The student targets for beatings and bombings Thursday and Friday nights because they protested suppression of their paper Po Prostu, stayed off the streets Saturday night.

But their anger at government and party heads had spilled over into the general population. Crowds gathered in Constitution Square, scene of violent attacks on the students Friday night.

The riot squads moved into the square from their stations. The crowds picked up stones and bricks from wartime rubble areas and hurled them at the steel-helmeted police.

* * * *

THE POLICE THEN charged with noise bombs and tear-gas grenades. The crowd gave way, then reformed in defiant groups of about 50, each on one side of the square.

Other groups clustered in the courtyards of undamaged homes in neighboring streets.

The police threw a cordon around the square.

But even while the gas clouds billowed, traffic kept moving. Yachts sailed under bleak gray skies on the Vistula River. Parents accompanied students to a university ceremony a half mile across town from the Warsaw Polytechnic School, center of the student resistance.

Just how the Constitution Square disturbance started was not immediately clear.

A Western witness said the Constitution Square rioting began when a crowd of boys, 12 to 15 years old, threw stones

5 Injured, 2 Seriously, in 4-Car Crash

SANTA FE SPRINGS — A four-car collision at the intersection of Telegraph Rd. and Painter Ave. Saturday injured five persons, two of them seriously.

Taken to Carobil Hospital with major injuries were Inocencio P. Espinoza, 32, and Mrs. Gloria Alice Gambina, 25, both of South Whittier, drivers of two of the vehicles.

Also treated at the hospital were three children of Mrs. Gambina, Ted, 8; Steven, 7, and Christine, 3.

The drivers of the two other vehicles were identified as Joseph J. Dongara, 33, of La Habra, and Rose T. Tao, 35, of Whittier.

USS Nautilus Ties Up in French Port

LE HAVRE, France (AP)—The U. S. atomic submarine Nautilus, fresh from NATO maneuvers in the North Atlantic, tied up at this port Saturday for a five-day stay.

French and U.S. Navy security patrols closed off the docks to all but authorized personnel. The crew will take some liberty in Paris.

Told to Lie, Girard's Buddy Says

MAEBASHI, Japan (UP)—SP3C William S. Girard's Army buddy testified in court Saturday that Girard twice ordered him to lie about what happened when the Illinois soldier killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

SP3C Victor N. Nickel said it was because of Girard's orders that he first told a false story which he later retracted.

* * * *

NICKEL, of Inkster, Mich., was with Girard on Hill 655 at the Camp Weir firing range Jan. 30. Girard fired a used cartridge case into the back of Mrs. Sakai from the grenade launcher on his M-1 rifle while she was gathering used shells to sell as scrap.

Nickel originally said that Girard fired only one shot from the hip in an effort to frighten the woman and that no one scattered empty shells to lure her near. He later reversed himself, saying Girard fired two shots from the shoulder and that he himself scattered shells at Girard's request.

The prosecution asked Nickel if Girard ever told him what to say.

"I was told by Girard to say that I heard no shot and threw no brass," Nickel said.

* * * *

"IF ANYBODY asks you," he quoted Girard, "We didn't hear no shots and we threw no brass."

Later, Nickel said, Girard told him, "If anyone ever asks any questions about this (rifle position), how I held the weapon, I held it at my hip and fired one shot."

Nickel also testified that Girard fired cartridges three times at Japanese shell pickers before killing Mrs. Sakai.

11 Killed as Quake, Storm Hit Islands

TUNIS (AP) — A quake and windstorm hit the Kernennah Islands in succession Saturday and official sources reported 11 persons were killed in the village of Kratten.

Officials said 130 of the villagers were injured in the quake, which struck shortly after midnight. The storm that followed destroyed 150 homes.

TARHEELS WIN

Navy's Loss Saturday's Big Upset

Most of the top football teams in the nation came through with expected victories Saturday but Navy jeopardized its lofty position and threw the race for eastern laurels into a scramble by losing to North Carolina, 13-7, in the day's biggest upset.

Top-ranked Oklahoma, running into unexpectedly rugged opposition from Iowa State, nevertheless rolled to its 42nd consecutive victory, 40-14.

In the World Series, the New York Yankees take a 2-1 edge over Milwaukee into this morning's fourth game as the result of a 12-3 triumph Saturday.

Minnesota, Michigan State, Iowa and Oregon State—all ranked in the top 10—ran into trouble but managed to keep their slates unblemished. Minnesota eked out a 21-17 win over Purdue; Michigan State downed California in the nationally televised game, 19-0; Iowa pulled the game out of the fire in the last four minutes to beat Washington State, 20-13, and Oregon State overcame Northwestern, 22-13.

For pictures and details of these and other games across the nation, see Sports Section, pages C-1 through C-5.

A Way of Life

Added to the curriculum of our high schools this year will be "The Four Way Test." It will be presented as a "Design for Better Living." In his foreword, Superintendent Douglas Newcomb says: "Professions and occupations in the industrial world have adopted standards in recent years that serve as guides to moral conduct and ethical practice. The Four Way Test is one of those standards that is in operation throughout the world—students in our schools can benefit from the utilization of guides, such as The Four Way Test, that help in building integrity into daily dealing."

What Good Is a Satellite?

Here are the Answers Minus Technicalities

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK (AP)—A primer on the first explorations of space:

Earth satellite: A man-made object fired into space so it circles the earth—just as our natural moon does.

Why it stays up: Ordinarily anything that goes up has to come down, through pull of gravity. But the baby moon is sent whizzing at a speed which counter-balances gravity pull, and so keeps it swinging in a circle or ellipse. This speed has to be about 18,000 miles an hour. It's like swinging a ball on the end of a string around your head.

How it's hung in the sky: A multi-stage rocket fires off from the ground, curving as it rises. At the top of its flight, the last stage of the rocket and the attached moon are parallel to the earth's surface. The last rocket kicks the moon forward at the necessary speed.

Why it ultimately comes down: Even way out in space, there's still some air. Billions of collisions with individual molecules of air finally take effect, slowing the moon down.

Final fate: The baby moon falls lower, into the earth's thicker atmosphere. Air friction heats it up, burns it up. The same thing happens to shooting stars you see at night. Tiny meteorites heat and glow as they plunge through the earth's atmosphere. Like meteorites, the satellite too will become traces of dust falling gently to earth.

Why send them up: The hazards in and make-up of space must be learned before we ever attempt human trips out there, or to the moon.

Equally important, baby moons are the best way to solve puzzles about the sun, space and earth.

How satellites report back: By radios, in code received and translated on the ground.

Length of life: Days to many years, depending on orbit and speed.

How they're found after launching: By radio signals beamed earthward. Or by special teams of observers, each watching a tiny bit of the sky along the expected path. A number of such "fixes" give the orbit.

Visibility: You could catch a glimpse with binoculars, if scientists plot time-tables and sky areas for your locality.

It is fair to all concerned?

Will it build good will and better friendships?

Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

In the presentation to be used by the teachers we find inspiring thoughts such as "Developing ethical values is one of the most difficult but most rewarding tasks of education. The material in the guide has been prepared as one more tool to aid the teacher in building desirable attitudes and pattern of behavior in the lives of young people. It is based upon the premise that knowledge of the rules of the game, of the right and desirable ways of doing things, is not enough. There must also be a desire to apply this knowledge in a given direction.

"It is emphasized that mere moraliging will not secure the optimum acceptance of the Four Way Test. If ethical codes are to be at all effective in our lives, these codes must not only be learned, we must also be shown how and where they apply. When we memorize material to whatever point of perfection, we have the job but half done. If this material is to be of any use to us, we must see for ourselves how we can use it."

The attitude of our school administration as shown by the above quotation's should call for the greatest interest and cooperation of parents and students. It is a way of living that can be adapted to the field of sports as well as to the business and professions into which the young people will later enter. It can be applied to the family life and to the political activities of our community. But it calls for individual responsibility of each person who believes in such principles as those found in the Four Way Test.—L. A. C.

L.B. Woman Killed in Traffic Accident

A 62-year-old Long Beach woman was injured fatally in a car crash here Saturday.

She was Mrs. May L. Junier, 2366 Fashion Ave., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Joe Henry.

The Junier auto and one driven by Samuel Williams, 1637 Cowles Ave., collided at Adriatic Ave. and 25th St. Williams was cited for not having a driver's license.

* * * *

TWO PERSONS were injured in other traffic accidents Saturday.

A two-car collision at Atlantic Ave. and San Antonio Way hospitalized Ross W. Husted, 18, of 607 Brookhurst Ave., Fullerton. Seaside Hospital attendants said he suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. The other driver, Carmenia Ramos, 17916 S. Jersey St., Artesia, was uninjured.

Aural Leon Heinselman, 24, of 1114½ Via Wanda, suffered possible head and back injuries when his car collided with one driven by Victor E. Bray of Idaho Falls, Idaho, at Atlantic Ave. and 53rd St. Heinselman was treated at Community Hospital. Bray was uninjured.

Epoch-Making Satellite Fascinates the World

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's epoch-making earth satellite sped 'round and 'round a fascinated world Saturday, sending what may be messages in secret code back to its creators in the Soviet Union.

As it circled the globe every 96.2 minutes, 560 miles out in space, the Western world's scientists knew it was there because they could pick up its radio signals.

But they experienced great difficulty in spotting it visually. Although there were some scattered reports that it had been seen, these were disputed, and there was some feeling that it might never be spotted except by Russians.

THE SATELLITE'S course around the globe from north to south brings it over the United States seven times every 24 hours as the earth spins beneath it.

Two American scientists said the Soviet-launched sphere was sending back coded messages that they were unable to decipher.

A Cambridge, Mass. astronomer said it was obvious the Russians had chosen to launch the satellite at such an angle to the sun as to prevent visual observations in the free world.

There were a number of reports of sightings, from different parts of the United States but officials at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge said the baby moon is not yet visible to observers in this country.

A Japanese scientist said he saw the satellite by telescope as it passed over Niigata, 160 miles north northwest of Tokyo. He said it was "barely visible" though much brighter than he had expected.

CAMBRIDGE scientists said the satellite can be seen only in the north and south polar regions at present because of its relation to the earth and sun. They said it might become visible in other parts of the world if it changes direction in two or three weeks.

How long it will continue to whirl through the heavens in its north-south orbit was a subject of the greatest speculation. Estimates ranged from a few days to a million years.

A Soviet scientist attending a meeting in Washington said the batteries operating the satellite's automatic radio transmitter would last over two weeks.

This scientist, Prof. A. A. Blagonravov, said the life span of the satellite is "uncertain."

Real Moon Next Goal of Russians

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet scientists who carried man into the age of space flight have set their goal as the moon "in a few years."

Radio Moscow, in a domestic broadcast beamed also to the western world, hailed the launching of the Soviet satellite as a "triumph of the Soviet regime," but concentrated on feats yet to come in the conquering of outer space.

Prof. Kirill Stanyukovich, a Soviet expert on jet propulsion and member of the Interdepartmental Commission on Interplanetary Communications, was quoted as saying that the launching of the sphere into an orbit 560 miles above the earth was but the first step in the campaign to reach the moon.

"It can be said with confidence that in a few years flights to the moon with instruments will become as much a reality as the launching of the first artificial satellite," he said.

HIS REMARKS were echoed in Paris by Russian-born space scientist Alexander Ananov who said that "in the very near future" missiles will be made that can reach the moon. Ananov said it actually was harder to hurl the satellite into its 18,000-m.p.h. trajectory in space than to fire a rocket to the moon.

And he predicted that the Russians, with their edge over the United States, would be firing rockets carrying animals to the moon by the time the United States makes its first moon-missile tests.

Prof. Stanyukovich hailed Oct. 4 as the day when "man created an artificial body able to rotate around the earth at great height, when man created an artificial earth satellite.

"These men were Soviet scientists, engineers and technicians," he said. "This is a great triumph not only of Soviet science but also of the Soviet regime."

'OUTER SPACE OWNER' ANGRY

Russia 'Trespassing' on 'Celestia' Domain

CHICAGO (UP) — James T. Mangan, who claims to own outer space, Saturday charged the Russians were "trespassing" in his domain with its satellite and "ignoring" his rights.

"I refuse to issue any license to Russia for use of outer space," said Mangan, an industrial design expert.

"Neither Russia, the United States nor Great Britain has any claim to space except through my nation, Celestia," he added.

Mangan proclaimed the formation of "Celestia" on Dec. 20, 1948, and on Jan. 4, 1949, he filed a formal charter of Celestia with the Cook County (Chicago) recorder of deeds. The charter, after much head-scratching and an opinion by the county state's attorney, was officially recorded Jan. 18, 1949.

Mangan, however, said he had issued the U.S. Defense Department a license to shoot its planned satellite into outer space.

"I regret that the United States was not the first to put up a satellite," Mangan said, "because we have the money, initiative and are supposed to be the first with the best."

Mangan, who lives in suburban Evergreen Park, said he has no avenue of filing a protest against the Russian trespass of his kingdom.

"My only legal power," he said, "is the power of protest."

"The Russians have not insured what they are going through. Like a country building a road, they must acquire legal right to property before taking action."

Mangan felt the achievement of the Russians was "wonderful propaganda" for the Communists. "It must give the Russian propagandists a lot of comfort," he said.

Mangan hoped the Russian satellite could be "used for peaceful purposes. But he added, "you can't trust the Russian people."

Mangan, who is fond of outer space because, "there's more of it than there is anything else, lists himself as acting secretary of state of Celestia, with the "capital" his Evergreen Park home.

'Moon' No Surprise, Says Allen

ticipating in this International Geophysical Year.

Because the launching "was not a surprise" to us, Dr. Allen does not expect a crash program on our part to get a moon into space but he does think the development will give added impetus to our programs.

* * * *

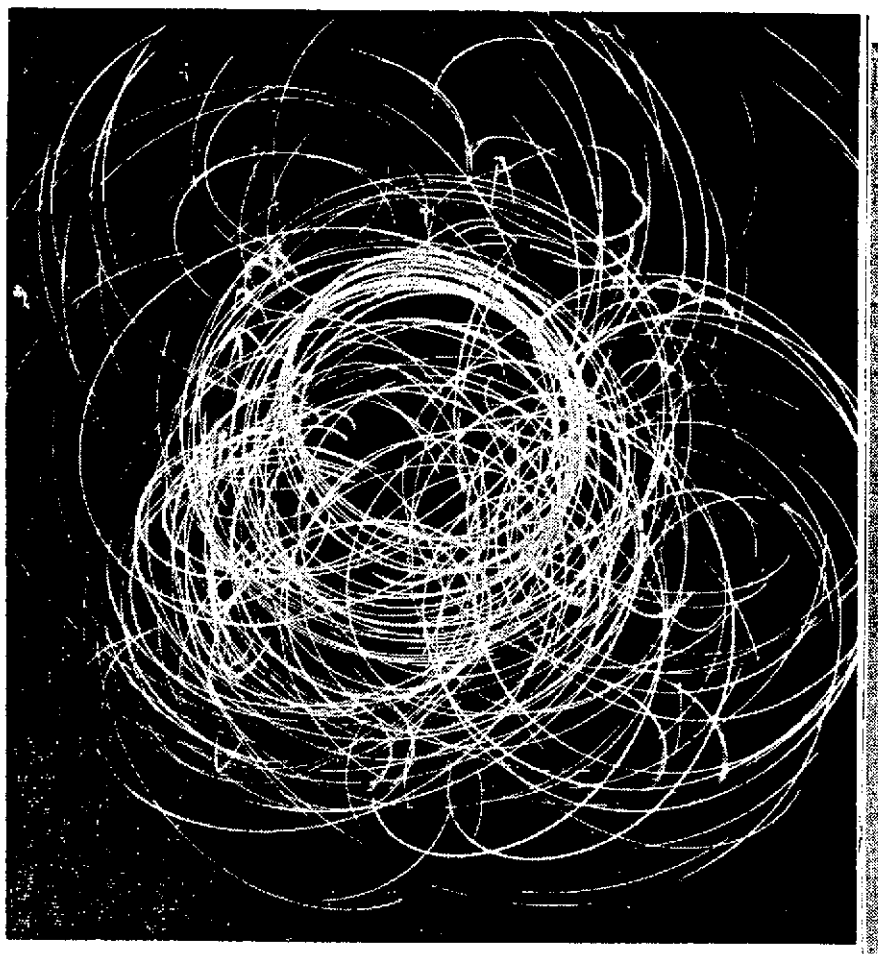

PERSONALLY, for Dr. Allen, the historic step to outer space crystallized the need for a project in creative thinking which he is about to start.

"If we confine our thinking to the boundaries we've used heretofore it can mean only destruction," he said. "Our forthcoming National Research on Creativity program will interest itself in brainstorming new boundaries. We will interview many types of creative people in an attempt to learn how they think when in difficulty or on the threshhold of their creativity. Instead of considering the end product of this creativity we want to know what went into the creation."

* * * *

DR. ALLEN HAS been boning for this new dimension of investigation. He recently was a guest of Alex Osborne, originator of the brainstorm technique of roundtable, off-the-top-of-the-head idea tossing; a guest of the General Electric Creative Engineering program, and a guest participant in the University of Utah's program for identification of creative scientific talent.

Dr. Allen said creativity is not necessarily an adjunct of high intelligence. Persons of average intelligence may have a high level of creativity.

WHAT'S THIS?

Polish Mob Fights Police

at the police. The police charged them without clubs while about 2,000 persons watched from the edge.

* * * *

THEN MORE STONES began to fly. Demonstrators pulled crates off passing trucks and threw bottles, at one time forcing the police to retreat. They fashioned clubs from timbers torn from food stalls and kiosks. With the tear gas loosed, the crowds fell back up Marshalkowshka Street into the wooded square surrounding the skyscraper Palace of Culture.

Reinforced militia used clubs and more tear gas to disperse them.

At least 10 policemen and 15 civilians have been injured in the three nights of rioting. Some hospitals refused to divulge any information about casualties.

The students kept to their boarding-houses on Narutowicza Square, adjoining the school, after renewed warnings that all 6,000 might be expelled and new students enrolled if they kept up their resistaance.

* * * *

THE DECISION to stay indoors was made after a 5-man delegation representing all Warsaw University departments and graduate schools, conferred with Stefan Zolkiewski, minister for higher education.

But a student spokesman said the students stuck by their demands, including an end to the ban on Po Prostu. The Communist Party Central Committee made it clear Saturday morning there will be no retreat on the ban.

A banner still hung from the main student boarding house where police attacked the students three times Thursday night and again Friday night. The banner carried a two-word message: "Wolnosc Slowa." In English that means "Free Speech."

Report Ike, Mamie Plan London Visit

LONDON (Sunday) (AP) — The Empire News said today plans are being discussed for a state visit to London by President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The independent Sunday newspaper reported Queen Elizabeth II will issue the formal invitation in Washington.

Her tour of the United States begins Oct. 16.

The article said American officials have been to London and Balmoral Castle in Scotland, where the Queen has been on holiday, to discuss her trip to America and a return visit of the Eisenhowers.

It did not speculate when the visit would take place.

'Moon' Measures Meteor Crashes

MOSCOW (UP)—One of Russia's top scientists disclosed Saturday night that the Soviet earth satellite carries instruments that can measure collisons with pinpoint-size meteors. He said the satellite may stay aloft "a few days or a few weeks."

Yuri Dmitrievich Boulanger, deputy chairman of the International Geophysical Year said the satellite and its successors will help scientists study the effect of meteors and cosmic rays on "the future interplanetary ship."

Hunt Set for Slayer of Policeman

CHESTER, Mont. (AP) — A hitchhiker killed a veteran Northern Montana undersheriff Saturday, setting off the area's largest manhunt of modern times.

Veteran Undersheriff Otto Fossen apparently was beaten to the draw by the unknown assailant. He had radioed his office that he intended to question the bespectacled hitchhiker.

More than 100 men, armed with a variety of weapons including modern big-game hunting rifles, searched house-to-house. Half a dozen planes circled the area and the 35 miles of open country north of the Canadian border.

The grim canvass in this town of 1,400 persons required two hours. It turned up no trace of the unshaven man who beat the 65-year-old Fossen to the draw and pumped five bullets

VITAMINS and Your EMOTIONS

For 32 years W. C. Kalash, B.Sc., has dedicated his life to nutritional betterment.

Are you needlessly leading a life of quiet desperation . . . have you lost the ability to love and enjoy? Don't be bored, emotionally fatigued, depressed or listless . . . don't let your world be ruined by unwanted thoughts, fears, anxieties, vague aches and pains . . . for which there is no organic or functional cause . . .

Regain your natural ability to enjoy life, to love, by rebuilding your biochemical health with K-54.

In continuing tests K-54 proved to be effective in combating emotional fatigue, nervous tensions, depression, anxiety, vague aches and pains resulting from nutritional deficiencies aggravated by overwork, constant worry and frustration.

Today, nutritionally deficient men and women from every walk of life (bankers, teachers, accountants, lawyers, salesmen, directors, housewives) all found that K-54 helps to build nutritional reserves so that they better withstand the physical and psychological effect of high-pressure living.

. . . If you are emotionally fatigued, depressed, anxious (not organically or functionally caused) . . . Get K-54 . . . build nutritional reserves for a new lease on life. Get full free information about K-54 and university research.

Symington Demands Probe of U.S. Lag on Satellite

U. S. and foreign scientists look skyward as they gather around an optical calibrating apparatus used to check the orbit of the Russian earth satellite Saturday at the Minitrack Test Facility at Blossom Point, Md. Left to right: Edmund Habib, U. S. Naval Research Laboratory; Carlos Castros, Ecuador; A. M. Kasatkin, U.S.S.R.; Lloyd V. Berkener, U.S.; H. K. Afshar, Iran, and A. A. Blagonravov, U.S.S.R.—(AP Wirephoto.)

are promptly changed, the Soviets will move from superiority to supremacy. If that ever happens, our position will become impossible."

Symington said he would ask Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee to call in top defense officials and scientists for questioning.

• • • •

IN CALHOUN, Ga., Russell said launching of the Russian satellite proves beyond doubt that the Soviets have what he called the "ultimate weapon—a long range missile capable of delivering atomic and hydrogen explosives across continents and oceans."

He said in a prepared speech the satellite could have been launched only from a "perfected missile of great strength and long range."

However, Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said he placed "no significance in the fact that the Russians are first with the earth satellite." In a telephone interview from Massachusetts, Saltonstall said "it's apparently one of the fine developments of the geophysical year in which all the scientists from all the nations are taking part."

• • • •

AT KANSAS CITY, Symington said he had sent the following telegram to Russell:

"Recently announced launching of an earth satellite by the Soviets is but more proof of growing Communist superiority in the all-important missile field. If this now known superiority over the United States develops into supremacy, the position of the free world will be critical.

"At the same time we continue to learn of the missile accomplishments of the possible enemy, for fiscal reasons this government, in turn, continues to cut back and slow down its own missile program.

"I have been warning about this growing danger for a long time because the future of the United States may well be at stake.

"Therefore I respectfully but earnestly request that, as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, you arrange for complete hearings in this matter before that committee. Only in this way can the American people learn the truth. Putting it mildly, they have not been getting that truth. Under our form of government, however, they have a right to know."

SEN. WILEY (R-Wis), one of the few senators here in the capital, took a less alarming view of the latest Soviet surprise. "It's nothing to worry us," said Wiley, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. "It's something to tell us to keep on our toes."

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said the Soviet breakthrough "is a devastating blow to the prestige of United States as the leader in the scientific and technical world."

It corraborated the claim that the Soviets have an effective missile propulsion system," Jackson said by telephone from Washington State.

Although the satellite may not have immediate military application, Jackson said, the long-range outlook might be grim.

Jackson, who heads a military applications subgroup of the Congressional Atomic Committee, said the new Soviet success comes just after the defense department had cut back this nation's missile program.

• • • •

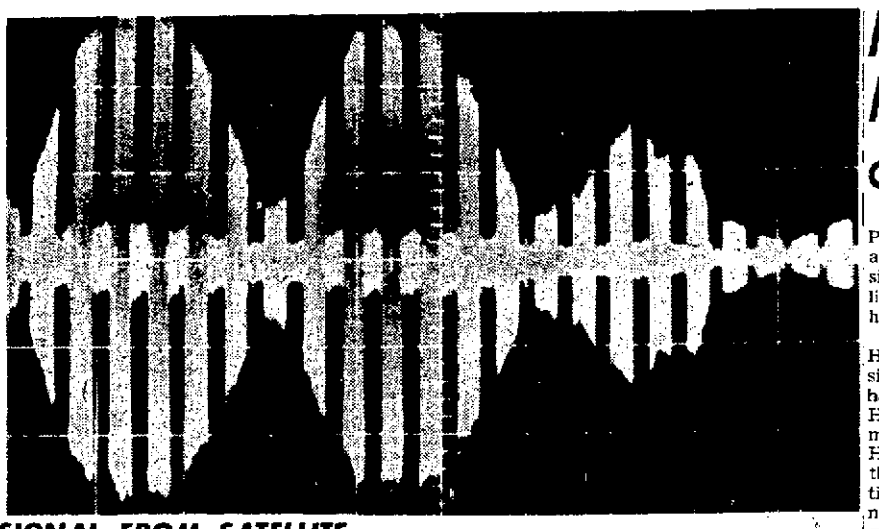

"WE SHOULD RESTORE these cuts and step up our B52 production immediately," he said.

The B52 is the heavy, long-range jet bomber capable of delivering nuclear attacks in all parts of the world.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said the Russian satellite success "calls for an immediate revision of national psychology and diplomatic approach."

In a statement released by his office here, he said:

"The time has clearly come to be less concerned with the depth of pile on the new broadloom rug or the height of the tail fin on the new car and to be more prepared to shed blood, sweat and tears if this country and the free world are to survive."

SIGNAL FROM SATELLITE

A camera Saturday recorded this picture of the Russian satellite's radio signal, as it was caught by an oscilloscope at a Portland, Ore., electronics firm. The vertical grid lines mark off a second each. The horizontal grid lines show intensity of the signal. Variations in intensity, technicians believe, were caused by rotation of the satellite as it whirled through space. (AP Photo.)

Ike Keeps Informed on 'Moon'

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP) — President Eisenhower kept abreast of pregress on the Russian-launched first world satellite Saturday while relaxing at his farm.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, who have remained at the White House, relayed the latest information on the man-made moon. Hagerty said in Washington that they gave the Chief Executive information both from news dispatches and 'from our own people."

THE PRESIDENT got his first word on the Soviet satellite launching Friday night a few hours after making a hastily scheduled flight to his farm for the week end. Hagerty telephoned him shortly after receiving word on the Moscow announcement.

Early Saturday the President went out to the golf course with neighbor-friend George E. Allen in brisk autumn air.

The President appeared in fine spirits. He joked with Allen and club pro Dick Sleichter as he fired a dozen practice shots before teeing off.

Eisenhower and Allen played twice around for their 18 holes in slightly more than two hours and then drove back to the presidential farm.

Soviet Missile-Firing A-Space Ship Seen

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—A former Korean underground liaison officer said Saturday Russia will have a stationary atomic space ship that could fire guided missiles on any part of the earth ready in 1958.

The comment was made by Kilsoo Haan, San Jose, Calif., who served as liaison officer in Washington, D. C., for the Sino-Korean Peoples League during World War II.

In an interview in the Deseret News - Telegram, Haan said members of the Korean underground reported as early as September of 1954 that the Russians probably would complete an atomic spaceship by 1958.

HAAN ADDED that his organization told the Atomic Energy Commission of Russia's work on a space satellite in 1954, nearly a year before the Soviet Union announced the project.

The newspaper also quoted the native Korean, now a naturalized U. S. citizen, as saying he forwarded a resume of a secret meeting September of 1956 between Soviet First Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan and the standing committee of the Chinese People's Congress at which Mikoyan concluded that war between the East and West was "inevitable."

Pensioners to Hear New Law Described

Old-age pensioners will be given an explanation of a new state law regarding pensions in a rally at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. The meeting is being sponsored by the California Institute of Social Welfare and is open to the public.

Scientists Work Overtime to Plot Satellite's Orbit

WASHINGTON (UP) — Scientists worked overtime here Saturday in an effort to plot the exact course of the Russian space satellite.

Officials of Project Vanguard the American satellite due to be launched next year — hoped to determine the spacemoon's orbit, altitude, speed, and size.

Walter H. McDonald, Vanguard information officer at the Naval Research Laboratory, said the data might enable scientists to tell also the weight of the satellite — a point which has been in question.

THE RUSSIANS said the satellite weighs 184 pounds, compared with about 21 and one-half pounds for the American satellite. To launch a 184-pound satellite would take a tremendous rocket.

Headquarters for the American effort to track the satellite is the Vanguard office in a corner of the big Naval Research Laboratory here. It was a scene of confusion. The office receives reports by a complex teletype system from stations in North and South America which track a satellite with a system known as Minitrack.

These Minitrack stations were set up with the thought they would follow an American satellite beaming radio signals at 108 megacycles. The Russians crossed up the plans by sending their signals at 20 and 40 megacycles.

McDonald said laboratory technicians worked through the night to modify equipment so it can track the Russian satellite. He said "adapted" antennas were en route to the nearest Minitrack station at Blossom Point, Md. where they were to be installed at once.

McDonald said similar modifications were being made at Minitrack stations at San Diego, Calif. and Fort Stewart, Ga.

He said when the changes were completed the scientists should be able to plot "refined orbits" charting the future course of the satellite.

• • • •

McDONALD SAID the office also was being swamped with phone calls and wires from all parts of the country from ham radio operators who reported picking up the satellite's signals.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Bodies of 2 Pilots Taken From Jet

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The bodies of two Air Force jet pilots arrived here Saturday after they were removed from the ruins of their plane in rugged country near Nevada City.

The fliers, Capt. P. C. Omann, of North Highlands, a Sacramento suburb, and Lt. J. C. Sutton, of Craig Air Force Base, were killed when their plane crashed Feb. 23.

Rescue crews reached the ruins Friday night.

Gifts Sent to 'Blue Boy'

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (UP)— Americans sent thousands of cards, letters and gifts Saturday to "Little Boy Blue," an 8-year-old child left alone in a losing fight against death.

Huge bags of mail arrived from points as distant as Philadelphia, Montreal and California for the youngster who wanted only " four or six cards, funny cards," for his birthday.

The boy, identified only as Francis X, is dying of muscular dystrophy at Lakeville State Sanatorium near here. Hospital officials made a plea for a few cards for the child when it appeared that he'd have a lonely ninth birthday next Tuesday. Francis had received no mail or visitors in his four months at the sanatorium.

His mother is dead, his father in prison for a slaying.

Russ Gets 7 Years for Book

SREMSKA MITROVICA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Hilovan Djilas, former vice president of Yugoslavia, was sentenced Saturday to seven additional years in prison for writing hostile propaganda against communism and the Yugoslav government abroad.

He was brought into court here—after a one-day trial Friday—from the penitentiary where he is serving a prison sentance of three years for a similar offense. The court decided to connect his previous sentence and today's into a new sentence of nine years. The maximum sentence could have been 20 years.

The charge against him Friday arose from publication of a book in the United States called "The New Class." He told the court he stands by every word of what he wrote. In the book, Djilas said communism, like capitalism, creates an elite class.

Djilas, 46, was once considered in Yugoslavia to be a top ranking leader second only to Tito.

Siamese Twins Separted

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Siamese twin girls, joined at the base of the spine, were successfully separated Saturday in a rare operation performed at Children's Hospital here.

Pamela and Patricia Shartz, born nine days ago at Mercy Hospital in Rockville Center, L. I., were reported in "good condition" following the major operation by 10 physicians.

A complication developed when the infants were separated. The heart of one stopped beating and surgeons had to open her chest and massage her heart back to normal. The heart beat was re-established in six minutes.

The girls, whose parents live in New York, were placed in separate incubators following the two and a half hour operation. One of the twins was born with a heart condition. The hospital spokesman said her heart apparently stopped beating when it was separated from the better blood supply of her twin.

Good for Home Only

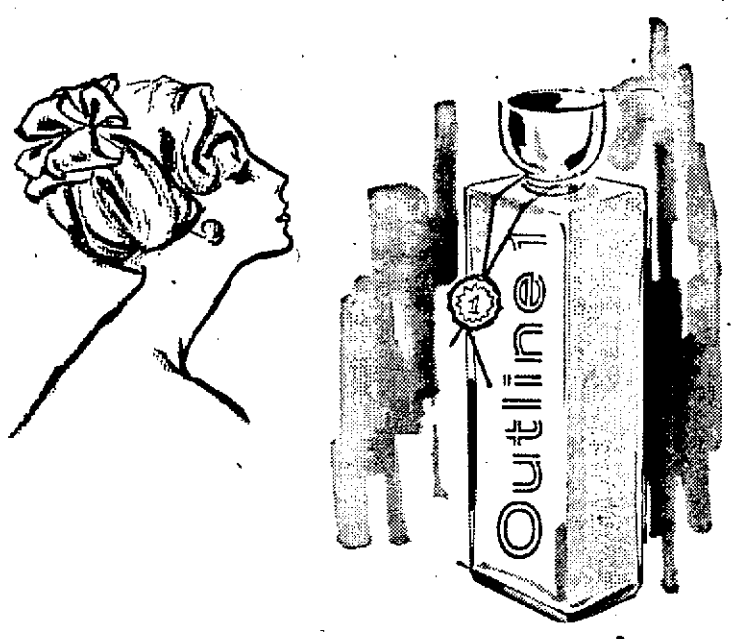

MOSCOW (AP)—Fourteen American youths who went to Red China over U. S. State Department objections arrived here by plane Saturday and were informed their passports are good only for return home.

Edward Killham, a U. S. consular officer, told the group at Vnukovo Airport that as soon as they leave Soviet bloc territory they must report to a U. S. embassy to have their passports stamped.

Balloon lands on grounds of Hotel Raymond near Pasadena in 1903. Those were the days when ballooning was an adventure.

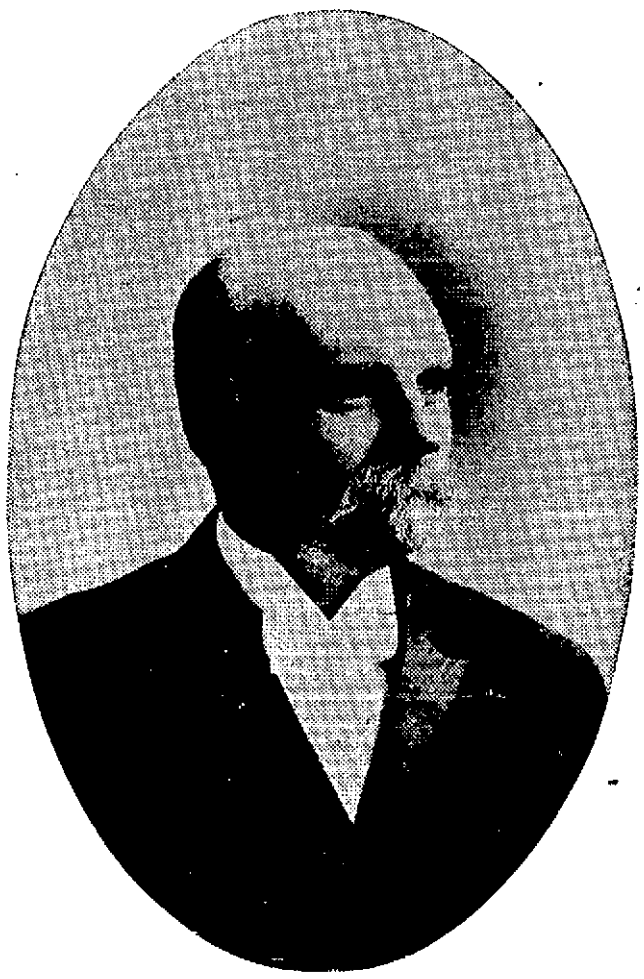

Daring Young Man in a Flying Balloon

By Harry Karns

WHEN Maj. David Simons of the Air Force recently ascended to 102,000 feet to set a new altitude record for manned balloons, he wore an emergency pressure suit, rode in an aluminum gondola equipped with a dry-ice cooling system, and carried with him a pair of two-way radios and a couple of parachutes. His balloon was made of polyethylene and controlled by an electric valve.

This may be science. But it's not ballooning. Not in the old tradition—the tradition of Montgolfier, Wise, and the fabulous Prof. Thaddeus Lowe.

Lowe, who in his "declining" days built the famous Mt. Lowe railway and resort in the Sierra Madre Mountains behind Pasadena, was the one-man air force of the Union Army in the Civil War. In his time only hot air, a few patches, and a wicker basket stood between the balloonist and eternity.

Portrait of Thaddeus Lowe in elegant-type clothes he so often wore when up in clouds.

THAD LOWE originated in Jefferson Mills, N. H., where he kept the neighbors in a constant state of unrest by his tests of natural laws. He was particularly fascinated with the law of gravity.

"One thing about that Lowe boy," a townsman recalled later. "he was never underfoot."

Though he had no formal education, he was called "professor" by his 23rd year, and it was a title which his showman's soul easily tolerated.

The times were looking for him. America prior to the Civil War was searching for a means of rapid communication across the Atlantic. Cyrus Field's Atlantic cable had experienced a discouraging setback.

LOWE PROPOSED a balloon crossing. His eloquence and confidence impressed the noted physicist, Joseph Henry, head of the Smithsonian Institution. Henry discussed Lowe with the Smithsonian regents, who gave the young balloonist a provisional go-ahead. "Go inland and make some trial ascents."

His first big experiment took place at Cincinnati. He proposed to ascend while surface air currents were flowing westward and travel on an upper current which theoretically would be going east. He waited for days for the right conditions.

They developed at 4 o'clock on the morning of April 21, 1861.

Prof. Lowe was six feet tall and of powerful physique. He had a formidable black mustache. Wearing the silk hat and black coat in which he had attended a banquet in his honor the previous evening, he stepped into his basket, severed his balloon from the earth, and rose into the darkened sky.

MOST OF THE reporters automatically treated the project as a failure. Then the telegraph began clicking with a report from Lexington, Ky.: "Large balloon seen rapidly moving eastward."

At about 7,000 feet Prof. Lowe had hit his eastward current, which swept him along at breathtaking speed. For a time it looked as if he would make the Atlantic flight whether he was ready for it or not.

The Civil War had just started, and down in South Carolina folk had their eyes peeled for strangers who might be Yankees.

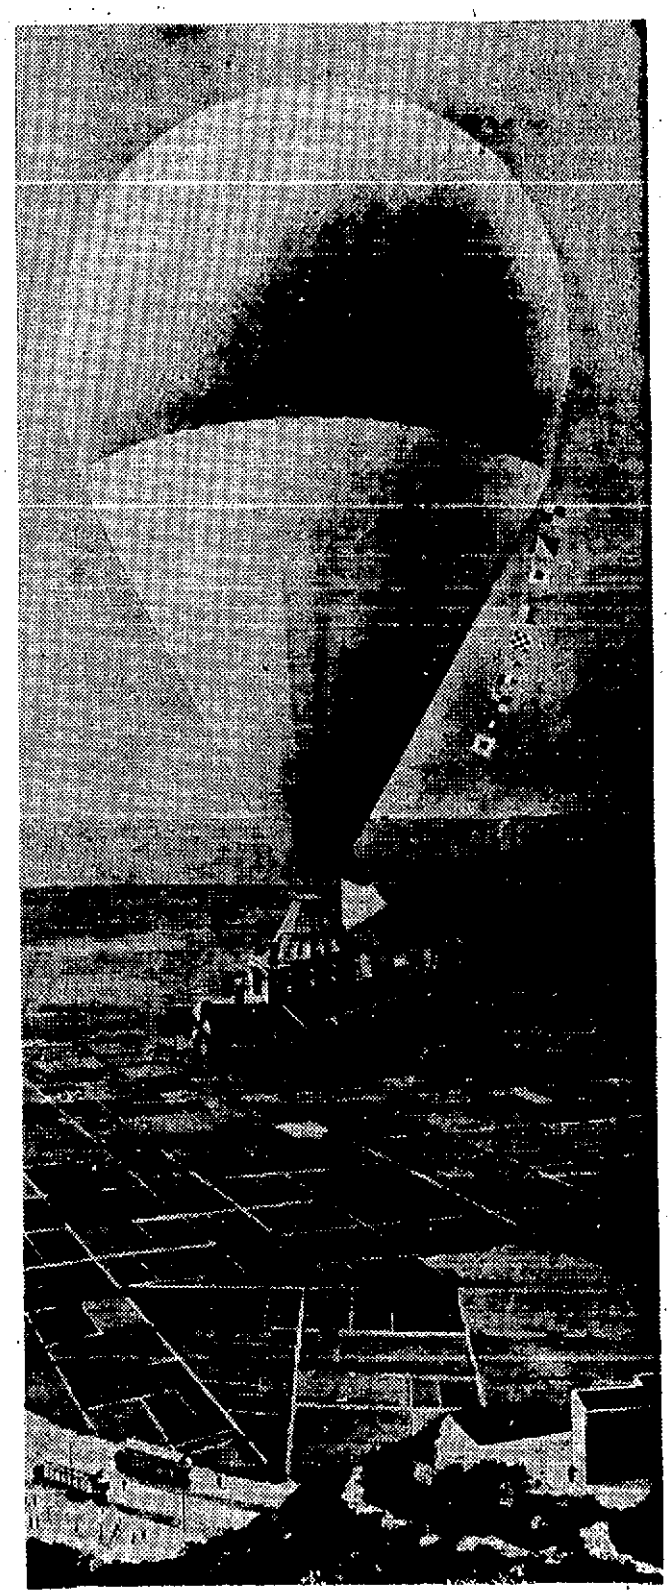

Just after lunch on April 21, a field hand noticed a distant black speck in the sky moving from the direction of the Allegheny Mountains. The speck grew into a balloon, and the balloon settled to earth. There in the gently swinging undergear stood a dark-clad man in a black silk hat. Satan or a Yankee, for sure.

Field workers armed with pitchforks and shotguns surrounded the stranger. Lowe stepped forward smiling. "I left Cincinnati this morning," he said.

"THAT'S FAST GOING, YANKEE. But it'll take you a hell of a lot longer to go back."

But it didn't take so long, at that. They escorted him to town, where his claim of being a civilian scientist was verified—and he talked himself up a railway

Birdland's Building Boom

—Story and Pictures Courtesy Steelways, Official Publication of American Iron and Steel Institute

By Richard Cheney

IT PROBABLY will come as no surprise in this Tranquilizer Era that a man named Alan Hinton, with offices on Murray St. in downtown New York, is making a good living selling Happiness. His colorful 10-ton trucks, with skyline views of paradise on the side, ply the streets of the city imprinted with the promising, almost apocalyptic question, "Do you want Happiness?"

Hinton, a hard but cheerful worker, has no couch on the premises, nor has he ever put together a best-selling guide to serene and confident living. His line is real estate and he turns it out in a sizable factory on nearby Staten Island.

Hinton is vice president of Hinton & Co., which manufactures Happiness Homes (he usually eschews the word "cage" in his catalogues) for man's jolly feathered friends and companions—mostly parakeets, canaries, parrots and myna birds.

IN THE COMPETITIVE bird housing game even the parrots don't talk sales figures, but annual sales of all bird cages may run as high as $12 million. Hinton is probably one of the largest manufacturers of bird cages in the U. S. Since 1950, when he stopped selling another company's cages and started making and selling his own, the bird cage business has had a boom rivaling that for U. S. housing in recent years.

French's Pet Bird Institute of Rochester, N. Y., estimates that the U. S. parakeet population itself has increased tenfold since 1951. Today the nation has some 14 million parakeets—one for every fifth home, including the White House. Canaries are also undergoing something of a revival (there are four to five million in the country).

EVEN THOUGH business has fallen off slightly since the big parakeet year of 1954, Hinton still estimates he uses 200 tons of steel wire a year and 200 tons of steel sheet to make his homes. His plant goes full blast before every holiday that calls for the giving of gifts, including Mother's Day. As his friends say, no wonder Hinton's happy.

While Hinton's success is partly the result of the nation's soaring parakeet sales, it also stems from his colorful merchandising ideas. He holds patents on the split level home for pet birds as well as the Cape Cod (with garden), which has a colorful planter box around the outside. He has plans for a ranch type as well as a colonial home. He also does a big business in such items as edible rocking chairs for birds, shower baths, parakeet pinball games, bird toys, bird valentines (seed compressed into the shape of hearts), cuttle bone and the good old staple, bird seed.

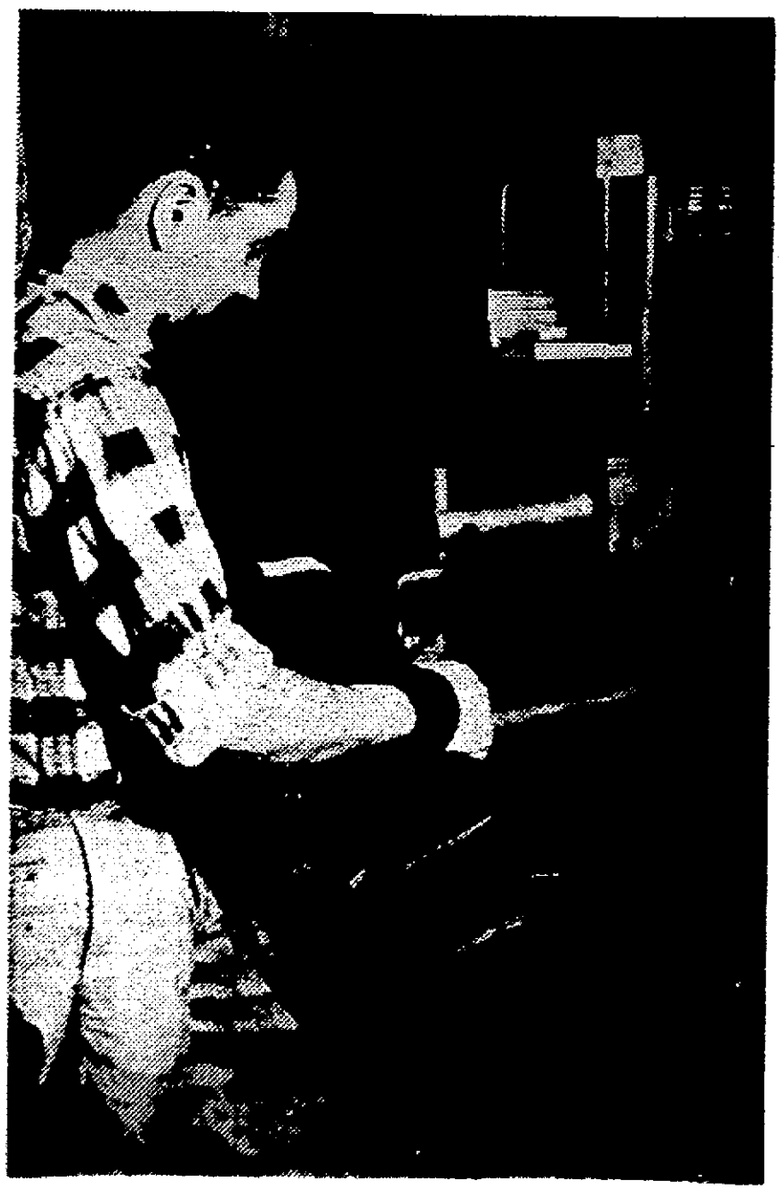

BIRD SEED, in fact, was the original line of Hinton & Co., prior to the firm's entering the cage, or home, business. The company has been selling bird seed since 1900, when Hinton's father, Frank, who still goes to work every day, started it as a young Irish immigrant.

Another big factor in Hinton's success stemmed from his hiring an engineer named Max Haas, who fled Nazi Germany in 1938 and did important work in high frequency wiring for the U. S. during the war. Haas and three employes started Hinton's Staten Island factory in 1950, an enterprise now calling for as many as 100 employes during busy periods. While this factory has scores of machines, including welders, power presses and bending machines, bird cage manufacturing still calls for a lot of hand craftsmanship. Perhaps the most important job is the making of grooved wooden forms into which the wires that make up the sides and top of the cage are laid prior to welding. Haas estimates that the forms, or fixtures as he calls them, in the Staten Island plant are worth about $25,000.

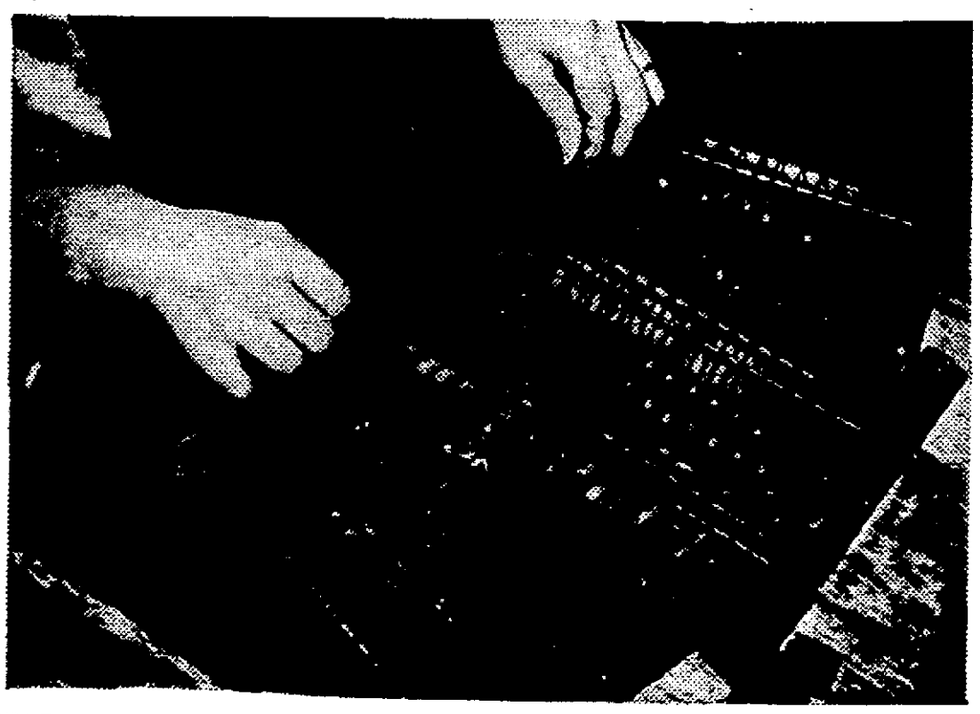

ALONG WITH WIRE, the company uses electrolytic tinplate, cold rolled steel sheets or chromium or nickel plated steel sheets for its cages.

A lot of the Happiness Bird Cage factory employes have their own birds. But perhaps the top parakeet man is Hinton himself. He has one bird, whose name is Lucky. It doesn't talk, it laughs.

Hinton's friends have been trying to get him to teach the bird to say a few words. They feel it would be appropriate if the pet would reply, when asked why so happy, "Just lucky, I guess."

Homes for growing U. S. population of pet birds are spot welded at Hinton's plant.

Grooved wooden forms, like one above, are to a modern bird cage what a blueprint is to a new home. When a given cage is in production, it is used over and over in mass output.

Once they are formed, the parts are then assembled, ready for welding into a future home for a fortunate pet of some proud household.

Deny Russ Chief in Threat

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet delegation to the United Nations denied Saturday that Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev ever told Western diplomats: "We will bury you."

The delegation said those words, quoted by U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge here Monday, "are idle inventions of those who are given the assignment to hamper by all possible means the improvement of Soviet-American relations."

The delegation issued a statement declaring the Soviet Union "is in favor of peaceful coexistence between all states, irrespective of their social systems. This is true in regard to the United States as well."

* * * *

LODGE QUOTED Khrushchev before the General Assembly's steering committee as it considered putting on the session's agenda a Soviet proposal for a general declaration of peaceful coexistence. The item later was included.

The U. S. delegate said Khrushchev had "made it plain that he did not want to coexist peacefully with the United States" through "his own remark of Nov. 17, 1956: 'We will bury you'."

On Nov. 18, 1956, Western newsmen reported Khrushchev shouted those words at diplomats of NATO countries and Israel at a Polish embassy reception in Moscow that night not Nov. 17. The reports said he taunted the diplomats as they left the room in protest to his abusive language on the subjects of Egypt and Hungary. He also was quoted as saying: "Whether you like it or not, history is on our side."

* * * *

SATURDAY'S Soviet statement said:

"By the whole practice of its relations with other states the Soviet Union has proved its willingness to base relations with other countries on the principles of peaceful coexistence."

Referring to the date Lodge mentioned, the statement said that at a Kremlin reception for visiting Poles Nov. 17, Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would "pursue consistently the policy of peaceful coexistence."

At the Polish embassy reception Nov. 18, it is asserted, Khrushchev told "representatives of capitalist countries" that "it is necessary for us to coexist."

SAC Selects Targets for Bombing Test

OMAHA (AP) — Atlanta, St. Louis and Kansas City were announced Saturday as targets for the mythical nuclear bombing of the Strategic Air Command's annual bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition starting the night of Oct. 30-31.

The six-day test of precision flying will be undertaken by 88 top combat crews from 45 SAC bombardment wings and four crews from the Bomber Command of the British Royal Air Force.

Although British crews have competed in previous contests, the RAF fliers for the first time will compete in two of their own medium bombers, the four-jet Vulcan, only delta-wing bomber now in operational use, and the four-jet Valiant.

* * * *

SAC CREWS will fly the six-jet medium B47 and the reconnaissance version, RB47, as well as the B36 and B52 heavy bombers.

Flying alone at 10-minute intervals, the string of bombers will take 7½ hours to pass over each of the three cities selected for the test.

Results of the simulated nuclear bombing will be calculated by radar and competitors will be judged on accuracy in bombing, navigation, reconnaissance and the ability of the crews to keep their planes ready to fly.

Posters of Students to Boost Chest

Students in the seventh and eighth grades at the nine parochial schools in the Greater Long Beach area are eligible to compete in a poster-making contest during October to show services provided by the Community Chest.

The students themselves will select the top 10 per cent of the posters made in their own schools, for submission in community-wide competition.

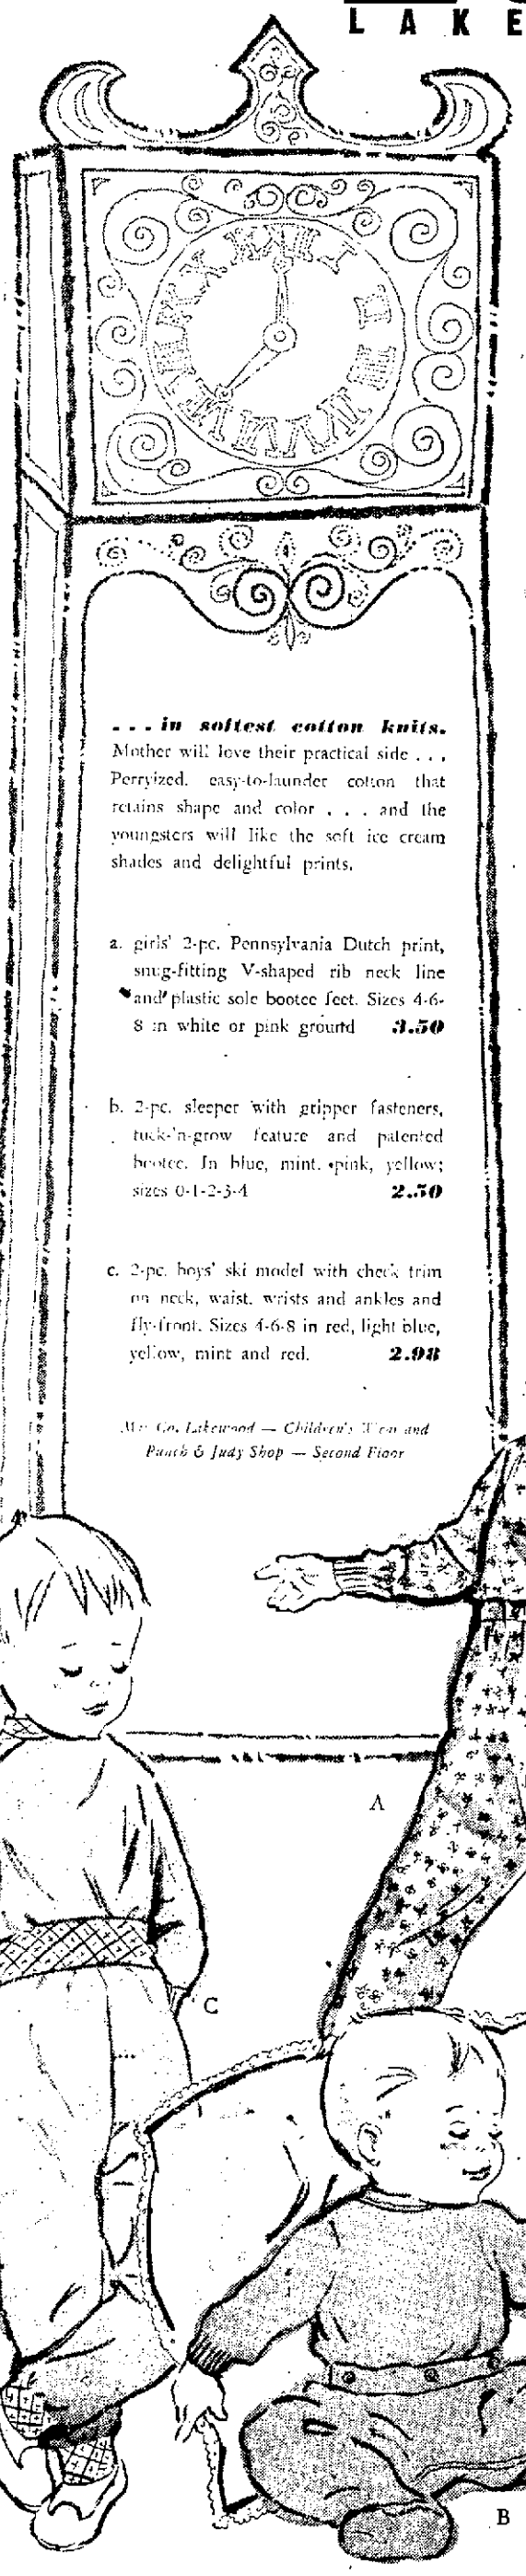

Final judging of the posters will be by Isabel Conner, public school art supervisor; James Crafts, Long Beach State College art department, and Mrs. Leo Maleo, local artist.

In charge of the project is Mrs. Leo Tondreault of the Catholic Welfare Bureau board of directors.

Sample of Long Beach's present-day football talent is Dave Schilling. St. Anthony High back, who scored 13 touchdowns last year.

Lonzo McGlothern, a real flash and a comer, is probably Poly High School's best backfield ace. He'll bear watching again this year.

Football's 50 Years Young in Long Beach!

By Dick Zehms

A HALF CENTURY of American football is being played out this season in Long Beach—on eight fronts.

It wasn't always like this. In 1908, when player-coach Fred Trude converted the Long Beach High School team from rugby to the U. S. brand, there was only one team in town.

Those were the good old days . . . when surreys with fringe on the top bounced down Pine Ave . . . when dairy farms snuggled at the foot of Signal Hill . . . when the 20-mule teams were hauling borax to the harbor for export, providing cargo ships could get close enough to the shore to permit loading . . . and when touchdowns counted five points—before inflation set in.

THIS SLEEPY seaside village was united on one front—football. Long Beach High was the apple of the town's eye.

We've come a long way. In this 50th season, five public schools are hard at it. So are one parochial school, one city college and one state college.

It's an auspicious occasion 50 years later, if only because this 1957 season marks the formation of an all-Long Beach public school athletic conference named in honor of Harry J. Moore, "Mr. CIF." Harry, who retired last June as assistant superintendent of schools here, served for more than 40 years in the California Interscholastic Federation.

Poly, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan and the new Lakewood prep institution are banded together in a single athletic fold to settle a family feud (the first league game is scheduled Oct. 18). Long Beach is a city divided 50 years later. There are five separate loyalties among the public high school fans. Another segment lives and dies with the fortunes of St. Anthony's High in the Catholic League. Another supports Long Beach City College of the Metropolitan Conference, and still another backs Long Beach State College in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

LONG BEACH HIGH took to the American-style game like a polar bear to an ice cube. Trude's first efforts were successful. Long Beach enjoyed a 5-3-0 season in 1908, mainly through the inspired efforts of Trude, who was player, coach and manager, and cohorts Ed Peterson, captain, and Rupert Armstrong, Buell Funk, Pat Fulton, Floyd Frazier, Tommy Davis, Wilmot Long, Ross Middough, Carl Poor, Clarence Rees, Ivan Ringheim and Stubby Smith.

This was the foundation on which Long Beach High, later to become Polytechnic, built a remarkable record of football achievement. Until 1926, the Jackrabbits were the No. 1 athletic love of the city.

Then Woodrow Wilson High took to the gridiron, to be followed in 1928 by Long Beach Junior College. In 1933, Jordan High and St. Anthony's joined the flock. Next came Long Beach State College's 49ers two years ago, then Millikan last year and Lakewood this fall.

IN THE INTERVENING years other football teams blossomed and died here. The Southern California Military Academy and the Dewey Vocational School fielded teams for a short time in the prep league. In World War I the Keel Klub operated. And at the turn of 1930 the Long Beach Longshoremen, Policemen, Firemen and Lifeguards sent teams into action.

Chief historians of Long Beach football who have provided most of the facts in this story include James C. Heartwell, one-time sports writer turned banker; Rockwell Kemp, one-time SC grid star, coach and now athletic director at Jordan; Don Drury, City College publicist; Gene (Skip) Rowland, ex-Wilson and UCLA player now coaching Wilson's varsity, and Leo Haggerty, St. Anthony's High coach.

Elsewhere on this page you will find the "lifetime records" of the schools as compiled by the various historians. There is disagreement in a small measure here and there, since at the outset the various schools were using junior varsity and Class "B" players in their varsity lineups for want of manpower.

HOWEVER, IN THE MAIN the records are authentic—or as authoritative as newspaper clippings, yearbooks, and musty old records will permit.

As the pioneer, Poly High of course rules the roost in the matter of victories and championships. League titles are legion. The Jackrabbits, moreover, have won more Southern California Interscholastic crowns than any other school in the Southland—six—in 1919, 1923, 1929, 1930, 1934 and 1936.

FAUBUS' FEARS CHALLENGED

Arkansas Experiment United Negroes, Whites in College

By BOB HOUSER

Challenges to Arkansas Gov. Faubus' motives in the Little Rock integration crisis are contained in a six-year Ford Foundation study to be published next year, a local educator revealed Saturday.

David L. Wolfe, assistant professor of sociology at Long Beach State College and one of three educators who last March completed a six months evaluation of the Foundation experiment in Arkansas, charged Faubus once sanctioned integration "for a price."

The price, Wolfe explained, was almost $4 million provided to finance the Arkansas Experiment in Teacher Education, 1952-57. A condition, which Faubus accepted, was that Negro colleges be included in the 15-college experiment and that fifth-year college students be integrated," Wolfe said.

* * * *

"NEGROES AND WHITES worked together beautifully in two fifth-year centers," Wolfe said, "and Negro and white educators worked side by side on the experiment's executive committee."

Wolfe said evidence gathered through intensive, deep-probing interviews among college presidents, deans, teachers, newspaper editors and public officials as recently as last March completely contradicted Faubus' presentiments of violence with integration this September.

The Arkansas experiment was sponsored by the Ford Fund for the Advancement of Education, a division of the Ford Foundation. Studies were conducted from Sept. 1, 1956 to March 10, 1957 by Wolfe, Dr. Keith Goldhammer, assistant professor of education, University of Oregon, and Richard Colvard, assistant professor of sociology, University of Texas.

Terms of the experiment were that 15 progressive Arkansas colleges (seven state institutions and eight private) would abandon their regular academic programs in favor of those prescribed in the experiment: that teacher trainees would spend four years in a college program devoted exclusively to general education and would spend a fifth year in specialized teacher instruction. Two Negro colleges took part.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH FAUBUS' first term as governor began in 1955, he countenanced the experiment's required high-level integration when the alternative was loss of the $4 million grant, Wolfe said.

"Although Gov. Faubus cited probable violence as his reason for using National Guard troops to bar Negroes from Little Rock's Central High School, all our evidence showed the absolute contrary. As of last March there was no need to usher Negro children into any school," Wolfe declared.

Wolfe appraised Faubus as a man who overplayed his people's fierce local pride and unwillingness to accept outside interference in state affairs.

"The climate of opinion is one of terrific defensiveness toward the outsider," Wolfe said. "Arkansas newspapers deplore the hillbilly label, the Ozark joke stereotypes but contend the only way to get rid of the loathed labels is to stand on their own feet and show everybody they're capable of social reforms on their own part.

"So Gov. Faubus played his theme with pretty solid backing of his constituents. But he pulled out too many stops, not figuring on the uprising by a violent and vocal minority which exploded in his face at Central High School."

BUT IN VIEW OF the "We'll do it ourselves" feeling in the state, Wolfe believes, the presence of federal troops can only intensify the emotional distress there.

"While I think the President did the only thing he could do to put teeth into the law of the land—even though I feel he did it too late—I now think immediate withdrawal of those troops is necessary, for two reasons: (1) to accommodate the state's intense defensiveness against outside interference and (2) to avoid triggering similar episodes in other cities across the South.

"I think that with this withdrawal it would be ideal if the NAACP would pull out of the crisis also for at least two months. This is a crisis of emotions. What we need now is a reduction of emotions.

"Understanding this resentment of outside pressures, I think President Eisenhower might have solved the problem at the outset with a personal appearance in Little Rock. With his great personal popularity, and speaking directly to citizens there in person, I feel even the violent minority would have fallen away in awe. It would have appeared to be a settlement on a community basis rather than dictation from afar."

Even though Faubus was guilty of political opportunism in catering to the states rights climate of opinion, he needs a face saver now, Wolfe believes, and should be given one.

He also asserts the problem would not have developed in Little Rock had the issue been placed in the hands of the students themselves. He ascribes the manifestations of juvenile violence and near violence to adolescent imitation of the small mob of adults at the scene.

Quemoy Fired On 2nd Day by Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (U.P.)—Communist Chinese coast artillery shelled the Nationalist offshore island of Quemoy for the second straight day Saturday.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Reds fired 30 shells which fell short of the island and landed in the sea. There were no casualties, it said.

Friday, Red batteries in the Amoy area of the mainland fired 21 shells at Quemoy. Nationalist artillery returned the fire.

E. Reich Models to Lose Waddles

BERLIN (U.P.) — Communist East Germany has opened its first school for models at the state-owned East Berlin fashion institute.

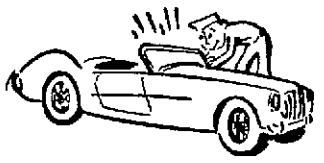

East German girls who started training at the school were told their faces were pretty enough, but their figures left much to be desired. They were ordered to do special exercises daily.

Dio de la Raza

By Barbara V. Myers

"HOLIDAYS" a historian once wrote, "are the memorial stones raised along the path by which a nation rose to greatness." Although the discovery of this hemisphere on Oct. 12, 1492, by Christopher Columbus was the first "stone" so placed in our nation's path to greatness, it was not commemorated nationally until 400 years had passed.

In 1892, President Benjamin Harrison recommended a general holiday on which the "people should, as far as possible, cease from toil and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer."

Now the majority of states have set aside Oct. 12 as a holiday. Cities, streets and parks have been named in honor of the explorer and statues, such as the one presented to Columbus, Ohio, by the city of Genoa, in 1955, have been erected.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER similar honors have been given. In many countries Oct. 12 is celebrated under the name Dio de la Raza, or Day of the Race. The great South American country of Colombia, the cities of Cristobal and Colon at the Atlantic end of the Panama Canal, whose names together form the Castilian version of the name of the explorer, and the great cathedral in Havana, reputed to have held the bones of Columbus, are but a few of the places that carry his name.

Yet all these memorials are but relics compared to the spirit of the man which lives as part of the American heritage helping to mold the character of oncoming generations. For though Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa, Italy, his life reflects many values which have become synonymous with the American way.

HE DID NOT, for example, let the circumstance of humble parentage and lack of schooling keep him from dreaming great dreams, and setting out

How High Court Changes

Time Alters Decisions, Not Powers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—At a corner of the Supreme Court grounds, almost obscured by a fast growing hedge, is a sign that reads: "No roller skating."

Yet sometimes in the evening youngsters skate there anyway.

As the justices return to work Monday for another session, those skating youngsters seem almost symbolic of what has happened nationally.

Despite certain decisions by the court—particularly in the field of segregation — some state and local officials carry on as if they never heard a word it said.

Some say they will defy the decisions, at least as long as they can.

Some, while accepting the court's authority, loudly insist that it is wrong.

It's hard to evaluate criticism of any kind. After a close play at a ball game some time, did you ever try to figure out what percentage of the fans is booing? But anyone can see that the court's historic decisions have brought catcalls from all parts of the grandstand, and specially from the southern sections.

* * * *

CERTAINLY THE DECISION of May 17, 1954 — that segregation is unconstitutional in public schools — brought fierce criticisms and violent reactions.

But other verdicts have drawn fire, too.

Critics have pointed out that as a result of court actions:

1. A rapist, some second team Communists, and two Army wives who killed their husbands have been turned loose or granted new trials.

2. The Justice Department would have to give defendants pertinent evidence in the secret FBI files, a decision later modified by Congress.

3. Congress will have to be more specific in its questioning if it expects to see many balky witnesses convicted of contempt.

4. The President may hand an American soldier over to a foreign government for trial even though he was on duty when he allegedly violated the law.

The list could be extended. But, for flavor, let's sample some comments.

"The Supreme Court must be curbed," said James F. Byrnes, once a justice himself. "Power intoxicates men. It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them."

"The House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security," Rep. Donald Jackson (R-Calif) said in a House speech, "have been rendered as innocuous as two kittens in a cage full of rabid dogs."

And Sen. Norris Cotton (R-NH) said:

"The court has gone a long way to protect the wolf from Little Red Riding Hood."

* * * *

THERE HAVE BEEN cheers as well as boos. Take this burst of approval from a former dean of law, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore):

"In the inevitable march of history, we have reached the point where the Supreme Court has proclaimed the right of equality of justice under the 14th and 15th Amendments."

Repeatedly the Constitution has meant something to one Supreme Court at one moment in history and something else to another court.

Charles Evans Hughes, who served two hitches on the high court, said:

"The Constitution is what the judges say it is."

A few notes will show the court has changed with the years.

1790—Court held first meeting. Had six members. Only three bothered to show up. No need for a full house. Didn't hear one case in its first two years. Court in such low esteem Washington had trouble filling vacancies.

1801—John Marshall of Virginia named Chief Justice.

During Marshall's 34 years these points were nailed down:

1. The federal government is supreme over the states, although the exact boundaries remain in dispute, as recent events in Little Rock showed.

2. The last word on what is and isn't constitutional belongs to the Supreme Court.

* * * *

1856—The Dred Scott case, involving the rights, if any, of a slave taken to free territoy.

Many northerners, including a country lawyer named Abraham Lincoln, were concerned because the court held that no Congress could declare any U. S. territory free soil. Slavery, therefore, could spread anywhere.

1895—By a 5-4 vote, court ruled income tax unconstitutional.

1896—Plessy vs. Ferguson. Court ruled, 7-1, that no one's constitutional rights were violated if separate but equal facilities were provided for both white and colored races.

1902—Oliver Wendell Holmes named to court, to serve with wisdom and wit for 30 years. Conservative by heritage and training, he dissented in cases where the court held the government could not go into such fields as minimum wages, child labor, protection for railroad workers.

Holmes' view, as once expressed to Justice Harlan F. Stone:

"About 75 years ago I learnt that I was not God. And so, when the people . . . want to do something I can't find anything in the Constitution expressly forbidding them to do, I say, whether I like it or not, 'dammit, let 'em do it!' "

1913—16th amendment adopted, permitting income taxes.

* * * *

1924 — BOB LAFOLLETTE for President on Progressive ticket. Progressive platform denounced court for nullifying acts of Congress by declaring them unconstitutional. It called for a constitutional amendment that would permit Congress to have the final word.

1933 — Great industrial and economic contraction. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House. Stage set for dramatic showdown, with FDR and Congress racing down an economic highway that would run smack into a court roadblock.

1937—Collision came off, as expected. Within three years, court nullified 12 acts of Congress, including some of the New Deal's most important legislation.

Roosevelt came out for a comprehensive judicial reform, but most attention centered on that part wherein the number of justices would be increased.

Congress rejected his so-called court-packing plan, but though Roosevelt lost the battle, he won the war. For Justice Owen D. Roberts, who had been voting with the conservatives, switched sides, and the ultra-conservative Justice Willis Van Devanter retired.

* * * *

1940—Court ruled it's okay for a state to expel children from public schools for refusing to salute the flag.

1943—Court changed its mind about flag saluting. Said state statute compelling youngsters to salute the flag is unconstitutional.

1952—President Truman ordered steel mills seized. Court said no. Stuck with a clearcut opinion delivered 70 years earlier: "No man . . . is so high that he is above the law. All the officers of the government, from the highest to the lowest, are creatures of the law, and are bound to obey it."

1953 — Eisenhower became President. Four of the present justices were appointed by him: Chief Justice Earl Warren (1954), Associate Justices John Marshall Harlan, William J. Brennan Jr. (1956) and Charles E. Whittaker (1957).

Two, Harold H. Burton (1945) and Tom C. Clark (1949), were named by Truman.

Three go back to Roosevelt: William O. Douglas (1939), Felix Frankfurter (1939), and Hugo L. Black (1937).

1954 — Court decided, 9-0, that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

1956-57—Court handed down series of decisions on civil rights. These narrow considerably what a city, state or federal government can do with individual liberties—and this holds true whether he's a convicted rapist or a convicted Communist.

Justice Frankfurter once said: "It is a fair summary of history to say that the safeguards of liberty have been forged in controversies involving not very nice people."

* * * *

ALL RIGHT, you may say. So the court has changed frequently. So these changes have brought protests from those who disagreed. Where do we go from here?

Only one prediction seems safe: The court doesn't appear likely to switch directions soon on civil rights. And on the hottest issue of all, segregated public schools, the court spoke unanimously three years ago, and hasn't budged a syllable since.

To those who say that if the court won't change its way, the court should be changed, one problem always remains:

If the court isn't to have the last word on what is constitutional, who is to have it? Should it be with the states? With Congress? With the President?

Even the harshest critics can't agree on an answer.

Which suggests the struggle is likely to go on much as before, with the court keeping the job of trying to draw the precise line between state and federal government, between Congress and President, between civil rights of a citizen and security rights of a nation.

How the court and its reputation to make out in all this, no one can say.

But it would seem wise never to underestimate the power of the court.

It has had rough times before, and it has survived.

TO PLEDGE OR NOT TO PLEDGE

Pledge to the Flag in schoolroom is traditional, but not compulsory. This is one of the issues on which the Supreme Court has reversed itself. The court held in 1940 that a state could bar youngsters from a public school for refusing to share in ceremony. In 1943, the court changed its mind.

Supreme Court Set for Knotty Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opens a new term Monday facing more cases in the controversial fields of communism and racial integration.

One of the school cases awaiting attention concerns the refusal of the University of Florida to admit a Negro, Virgil D. Hawkins, to its law school. Hawkins has been trying to get in since 1949. He has been to the high court three other times.

On March 12, 1956, the court ordered him admitted promptly under earlier rulings integrating state university graduate schools, but the Florida Supreme Court said his admission might "do great public mischief."

Other school cases concern integration orders for Charlottesville and Newport News, Va.

The court has agreed to hear arguments on an appeal of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from a $100,000 contempt fine in Alabama.

The court has scheduled arguments on the complaint of 23 writers and actors that they have been blacklisted by the movie industry for invoking the Fifth Amendment; the dismissal of a Philadelphia schoolteacher after he refused to answer questions about past Communist affiliation, and contempt findings against two top Communist conspirators who jumped bail in 1951.

I'LL SAVE YOU MONEY AND GIVE YOU ALL THE CREDIT YOU NEED AT THE SAME TIME

You cannot afford to take chances with your health, at any time by putting off needed dentistry

Long Beach, Oct. 6th, 1957 — You can save on all dental plates and at the same time know that your work will be the very best Dr. Beauchamp and his large staff can render. "While it's true my tremendous volume is due largely to my low price policy," Dr. Beauchamp says, "I also attribute a great deal of this volume to my pay later credit plan that makes it easy for everyone to get all their dental work attended to when they need it. Regardless of how little you pay," Dr. Beauchamp continued, "I'll always give you the best work it is within my ability to render. I point with pride to the fact that most of my patients come to me recommended by others previously served in my offices, so I can honestly say, 'You don't have to fear my low prices.' "

HERE'S GOOD NEWS FOR NEW CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS

If you are one of the many thousands of new residents or visitors that are now making California their home this credit offer from Dr. Beauchamp applies to you.

"We will either start all of your new work immediately," Dr. Beauchamp says, "or complete any work that you may have had started by your dentist back home on my easiest credit terms."

"You don't have to be an established resident to have credit in my California offices," Dr. Beauchamp continued, "you can have all of your work completed at once and pay me later."

Join the many people that each day are visiting the dental offices from Oregon, Washington, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Minnesota, etc., in fact every State of the Union! I assure you that we shall give you every consideration and try in every way to make your visit pleasant.

SAVE MONEY BY HAVING YOUR TEETH RESET IN NEW MODERN MATERIAL

Your plates are fitted to your mouth when they are new and when your tissues change, your dentures should be reset in new material. It has always been my policy to charge only a nominal fee to reset your teeth. My special reset plan saves you money. Come in and let us explain this to you.

"CLOSING OF BITE" DANGEROUS TO PLATE WEARERS

Dr. Beauchamp wishes to point out the dental plate policy in all of his offices includes adjustments of your dentures at any time, checking your bite and the fit so as not to impair your health by improper fitting dentures. After dental plates have been worn for several years, Dr. Beauchamp said, your gum tissues change, causing loose plates and an incorrect bite. Often your bite changes through the constant wear and grinding of teeth thus impairing your hearing. This dentists call "closing the bite." If you are faced with any dental problem see your dentist. Visit any of my offices and have this attended to immediately, I'll be happy to serve you. No appointment needed.

DR. BEAUCHAMP says:

FIRST Small Credit PAYMENT AFTER NOV. 21st

Start your first small credit payment after NOV. 21st THIS PLAN ENABLES YOU TO HAVE THE NEW DENTAL PLATES you need AT ONCE and PAY DR. BEAUCHAMP LATER.

BOON OR BOOBYTRAP?

'Right-to-Work' Law a State Issue

By JOHN H. AVERILL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Right-to-work . . . a guarantee of a basic freedom or a disguise for union busting?

That question promises to be one of the dominant themes of California's 1958 political campaigns.

A right-to-work law, for years a smouldering issue on the state's political scene, is shaping up as the most explosive controversy in next year's Knight-Knowland race for the Republican guebernatorial nomination.

A law of this type outlaws the union shop—or, in other words, prohibits labor-management contracts that require an employe to join a union as a condition of keeping his job.

* * * *

RIGHT-TO-WORK advocates, largely spearheaded by business, farm and employer groups, describe it as a means of guaranteeing job freedom to the workingman.

Opponents, primarily labor groups, describe it as a misnamed device to bust unions.

"Right-to-work," says an AFL-CIO pamphlet, "is a misleading slogan. It is intended to be. It implies the guarantee of a job. . . The real purpose of right-to-work legislation is to outlaw collective bargaining and compel a return to the open shop."

Supporters, on the other hand, argue that union-shop contracts deprive workers of their basic American right of free choice and that the issue is squarely one of compulsory or voluntary unionism.

They point to abuses brought out by the Senate's McClellan committee investigation of the huge Teamsters' Union as examples of what a right-to-work law would curb.

The 1947 Taft-Hartley Act set off the real drive for right-to-work legislation. It gave the states the green light to enact their own laws banning union shops.

At present, 18 states, the majority of them in the south, and three California counties and one city have right-to-work laws.

But the idea hasn't fared so well on the state level in California. In 1944, California voters defeated an initiative measure to outlaw the union shop by some half-million votes — 1,893,589 to 1,304,418. Several right-to-work bills also have been introduced in the legislature, but none was approved.

* * * *

PROSPECTS FOR a state right-to-work law are far from dead, however.

Sen. William F. Knowland breathed new life into that possibility a few weeks ago when he picked right-to-work as a key issue in his campaign to unseat his fellow Republican, Goodwin J. Knight, as California's governor.

Knowland, deliberately risking labor opposition in an ostensible appeal to GOP conservative elements, announced if he were governor he would sign a right-to-work bill if it were fair and equitable.

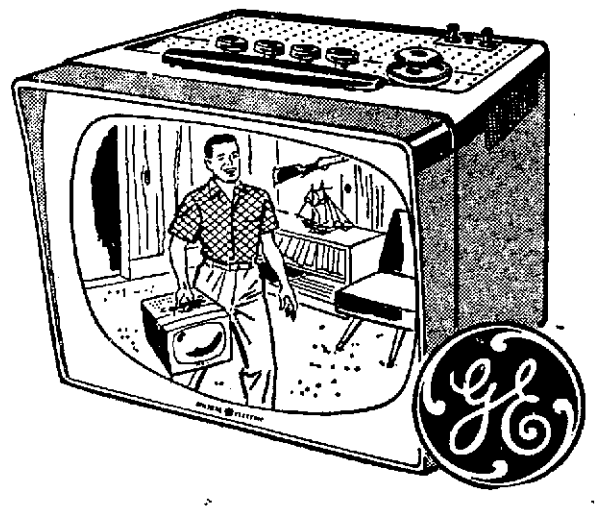

Knight, elected governor with strong backing from the AFL's state federation of labor, fired back that if California got a right-to-work law "there would be a tremendous upheaval and a tremendous depression."

Pageantry, Carnival Spirit to Climax Fisherman's Fiesta

300,000 Expected at Rites, Parade Set in San Pedro

SAN PEDRO—Religious pageantry and the gala carnival spirit of shore liberty today will capture this sea port with the climax of the 11th annual Fisherman's Fiesta.

Throngs estimated at 300,000 will join the mixed nationalities of the fishing fleet in the celebration.

Hightlight events include 1 p.m. parade of 50 garlanded and decorated fishing boats and floats over a winding course through the inner channel, blessing of the fleet in high mass and colorful and elaborate dockside ceremonies.

* * * *

The festivities begin at 11 a.m. when Bishop Timothy Manning presides at solemn high mass at Mary Star of the Sea Church.

Following the mass, a procession headed by an armed forces color guard and white plumed Knights of Columbus will be a golden statue of the Blessed Virgin, patron saint of fishermen, down to Fishermen's Wharf for dock ceremonies beginning at 12:30 p.m.

* * * *

AT 1 P.M. blue-robed daughters of fishermen will cast garlands of roses into harbor waters in memory of those who have perished at sea. Then follows the impressive blessing of the fleet ceremony during which Bishop Manning will invoke the blessing of the Almighty on the boats and their crews.

The fiesta then reverts to gaiety with Fiesta Skipperette Frances McHale, 16, of San Pedro, aboard the lead boat Western Monarch, signaling the start of the Parade of the Fishing Fleet.

Theme of this year's parade is "Legends of the Sea."

The lead boat, skippered by John Zankich, will be decorated as "The Birth of Venus." Also aboard will be Juanita Gomez, 18, of Wilmington, and Lynn Husted, 19, of San Pedro.

OTHER BOATS registered for the parade and their themes include Santa Teresa, "The Flying Dutchman"; Santa Rita, "Outward Bound"; St. Anillo II, "The Vikings"; Russo Brothers, "Aleta and the Swan"; City of Pacific Grove, "Boy on a Dolphin"; Sea Pride, "Wynken, Blynken and Nod"; New San Antonio, "Sea Monster."

Decorated boats in the sponsored division include Comet, "Davy Jones Locker," Van Camp; Ronnie M., "Sinbad the Salior," Starkist Tuna; Jo-Ann, "Viking of the Sea," California Fish Canners Assoc.; Corsair, "The Old Man and the Sea," City Department of Parks and Recreation; St. George II, "Bali Hai," Falstaff.

Other boats signed up for the parade include Gigi, Bella Marie, St. Christina II, Liberator, Robert M., Sea Scout, Sea Maid, American Venture, Endeavor, Maria, America and Navy Recruiting.

Hurry, Hurry

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (U.P.) — Donald R. Scurlock, 29, was arrested for speeding as he hurried to city court to pay two parking tickets.

Russians Say No to Test Plea

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Russia, like the United States and Britain, has rejected Japan's request for a suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

The Foreign Office announced Saturday that Moscow replied Thursday to a Japanese plea of Sept. 2.

The reply, it said, was that the Russians could not suspend the tests for security reasons "so long as the Western nations do not show an attitude affirmative to suspension . . . and so long as the United States and Britain continue their tests."

The two big Western powers, however, have offered to halt the blasts in the framework of a general disarmament agreement.

The Moscow radio expanded on the reply in an English-language broadcast Saturday night. It said Japan was told the Soviet government has been insisting in disarmament talks for several years on an agreement to stop the tests at once.

U.S. Bidder Tops All for Welsh Pony

HEREFORD, England (AP)—An American buyer paid a British record price of 250 guineas ($735) for a Welsh mountain pony at the Hereford sales Saturday. The buyer's name was not disclosed.

Other Americans, attracted by the rising popularity of the sturdy little ponies in the United States bid briskly against local breeders. V. D. Rider of Charlottesville, Va., paid 225 guineas ($661) for a 2-year-old filly.

California breeder J. E. Van Divier of San Jose said he too is taking home a string of the ponies and hopes to start a Welsh pony stud in California.

PULLED OUT WITH ROPE

Save Boy in 150-Ft. Hole

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (U.P.)—Ten-year-old Richard Nasuti fell 150 feet into a drill hole of the Gilberton Coal Co. Saturday but was rescued by a rope lowered to him by an ambulance crew.

The boy was admitted to Locust Mountain State Hospital in serious condition. He suffered shoulder bruises and skinned ankles in the abrupt fall into the hole, which was one foot in diameter. X-rays were ordered to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Richard disappeared into the hole while he and two companions were jumping over it, reminiscent of the Benny Hooper case on Long Island, N. Y.

* * * *

THE PLAYMATES, William Pancerella and Robert Kuchinsky, both 10, said Richard slipped at the edge of the opening and fell in.

The companions ran 100 yards to a coal company crew operating a shovel and shouted the alarm. A telephone call was made to the company office, which, in turn, summoned the Frackville Community Ambulance Corps.

A rescue team of five men rushed four miles to the scene in an ambulance and fire engine.

The rescuers found Richard conscious in the hole. They took a length of rope and tied a loop in it, lowering it to the boy and instructing him to put it around his wrist. Richard complied and he was lifted from the deep, dank pit.

The hole was made by an electric drill to determine the depths of coal veins in advance of the power shovel.

Stealing Books Is Costly Habit

LONDON (AP) — They keep hauling Edgar Russell Austing into court for stealing expensive books to give to his friends. On his most recent court appearance, the 55-year-old Austing paid a 20 pound fine ($56). His attorney told the court:

"I have defended this client so many times on this same charge that I have almost been receiving an annuity from him."

Palomar Man Discovers New Comet

NEW YORK (AP)—Discovery of a new twin-tailed comet was reported Saturday by the Hayden Planetarium. It said the comet "should not be confused with the newly-launched Russian satellite."

The planetarium said the comet was discovered Friday by Howard S. Gates of the Palomar Observatory in California, who notified the Harvard College Observatory, clearinghouse for comet data.

The new comet will appear in the northeast sky early today and should be visible to the naked eye, the planetarium said.

It said the comet was expected to "rise approximately three hours before sunrise and to be visible in the constellation Leo between the bright stars Regulus and Denebola until dawn."

The comet was described as having a two-part tail, one of them short and the other long.

It probably will be named for its discoverer.

WHO WAS THIS COLUMBUS?

Chinese, Arabs Boast Discovery

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

If you can believe the legends, America must have been the most discovered New World on record by the time Christopher Columbus set foot on it.

Obscure and curious histories tell how the men of half a dozen primitive nations found this remarkable land beyond the sea.

There were Norse, Irish, Welsh — even Chinese and Arabs.

Despite what is set down here, of course, there are those who will insist on celebrating Columbus Day next Saturday.

Even so, let's take a look at some of the fascinating accounts of what happened before 1492:

"He was blown about by the storm and he saw lands he did not expect to see and he found there self-sown fields of wheat and grapevines. . ."

The writer, a 14th century scribe, was telling the story of Leif Ericson and how, tossed by storm, he found a new land across the western sea and named it "Vinland."

* * * *

THE SAGA of Iceland and Greenland tell of Norse explorations and attempts to colonize Vinland and how they were foiled by the savage native Skrellings — "dark men and ugly, with unkempt hair on their heads."

There was Leif's brother, the tragic Thorvald, slain by Skrellings and buried on a Vinland cape "with a cross at my head and a cross at my feet and you shall call the cape Crossness." And it was done.

There was the heroic Thorfin Karlsefni, whose son, Snorri, was born in Vinland, but whose colony gave up after three stubborn years because "they would always live in terror and turmoil of those already living there."

And, there was the ambitious Freydis, Leif's half-sister, and her hen-pecked husband, Thorvard, who murdered half their trading company out of greed for ships and goods and "from that time on, no one thought anything but evil of them."

The sagas end there but Vinland goes on.

* * * *

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH notes that an Eric Gnupson, "bishop of Greenland and Vinland in Partibus Infidelium," vanished on a mission to "Partibus Infidelium," in 1121.

Oriental legend has claimed a Fifth Century discovery of the Land of Fusang, variously placed in California or Mexico. It was notable for the Fusang tree, whose bamboo-like shoots and red fruit were food and whose bark kept the civilized inhabitants of Fusang in clothing and writing paper.

There were Irish monks of an obscure Culdee order hiding on the fringes of Vinland when the Norse came, if you will believe a yarn spun around a collection of cave-like stone structures found in New England.

The Culdees, primitive Christians fleeing the pagan Vikings, established their community more than 500 years before Columbus, or so the story goes.

And don't the Norse sagas make casual reference to "Irland-it-Mikla" or Great Ireland, scarcely a Blarney stone's throw from Vinland, where "people wore white clothes, uttered loud cries, and carried poles with banners on them?" A St. Patrick's Day parade, for sure.

* * * *

EVEN BEFORE the Culdees, another Irishman, St. Brendan of Clonfert, was examining "the most wonderful things" on an island across the western sea. The year was 565.

Belief in St. Brendan's fabulous isle was so strong in the Middle Ages that, even years after Columbus, no map of the western world was complete without it. It was likely to pop up most anywhere from pole to pole.

The Welsh of song and story also discovered America. And, unwittingly, they led the American frontier on one of its merriest chases.

The story began in 1170 with the death of Owen Gwynedd, hero-prince of North Wales. Owen, it is said, left behind four sons and a principality for them to fight over.

One turned down the throne. Two had a go at civil war. The fourth, Madoc, packed his gear and sailed into the setting sun. The fact that Owen never had, or never admitted to, a son named Madoc has never bothered the theorists.

Anyhow, as the Welsh bards sing, Madoc "came to an unknown country where the natives differed from those he had ever seen (and) all things were strange and new."

The prince set up a colony, imported more settlers from Wales and, say the songs, "they followed the manners of the land they came to."

That was indeed an unfortunate thing to say.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, tribes of light-skinned, fair-haired Welsh Indians began sprouting like spring crocuses all over North America. They were the flying saucers of their day, always around the next bend in the river or just beyond the next foothill.

The last bend in the river was rounded and the last foothill scaled before the will-o'-the-wisp Welsh Indians found their place in the realm of dragons, mermaids and the Cardiff Giant.

* * * *

EIGHT ARABS sailed west from Lisbon in the 12th Century and, say the Arab geographers, they came upon a land where the natives had red skin and straight black hair. Indians, for sure.

A globe of the world, made in 1492, locates a western isle called "Antillia," and explains it was discovered in 743 by the Archbishop of Oporto who built there seven cities. The Spaniard Coronado was looking for them when he explored the American Southwest.

And, in 1488, the French navigator Cousin of Dieppe made a landing at the mouth of a wide river, identified hopefully as the Amazon.

Lectures on Africa Scheduled

Four public lectures, including a new series on "Awakening Africa," were announced for this week by City College General Adult Division.

Dr. Giles T. Brown will speak on "The Skyline Kingdom of Ethiopia" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Room 202 of Poly High School, in the first of four weekly color-slide illustrated lectures.

Dr. Brown, chairman of the social science department at Orange Coast College, completed a 30,000-mile tour of Africa last year.

Additional lectures scheduled for this week:

MONDAY

Psychology—Dr. Arthur L. Bietz, "Alcoholism—A Disease or a Way of Life?", 7:30 p.m., City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave.

WEDNESDAY

South America in Transition—Dr. Harvey B. Franklin, "Epoch of the Conquistadores," 2 p.m., Dewey auditorium, 8th and Locust Ave.

Land and People of Mexico—Herbert Williams, "Historic and Modern Mexico," 7:30 p.m., Room 422, City College music building, Clark Ave. and Harvey Way.

Murderous Routine Confronts Elizabeth

By WALTER T. RIDDER, R. E. LEE AND W. W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

Queen Elizabeth soon will arrive in Washington to find a murderous schedule awaiting her. There is not one free moment.

Her Majesty's counselors and the British embassy here wouldn't have dared arrange such a busy agenda, but the Queen ordered it.

One hour of her two days in Washington had been left open in the preliminary list of arrangements presented to Buckingham Palace. The Queen spotted it and ordered her advisors to fill up that hour, preferably with a visit to a hospital.

And so the Embassy made arrangements for her to visit Washington Children's Hospital during the brief hour before she is scheduled to have lunch with Vice President Nixon. It may cause her to be a trifle late.

The Queen is supposed to have told her intimates that she will be happy to go without rest during her five days in the United States and catch up on her sleep with it is all over.

* * * *

ARRANGEMENTS for Vice President Nixon's visit to Western Europe have hit a snag. At British request, he has to figure out a way to arrive in England without its looking as though he is paying a return visit to the Queen.

* * * *

PERCIVAL BRUNDAGE, director of the Bureau of the Budget, has a curious economic theory which is held, as far as we have been able to ascertain, only by himself.

A cut in taxes, Mr. Brundage has been heard to explain, would not be inflationary because the worker would find less money deducted from his pay check. The higher take-home pay would so exhiliarate the worker, Mr. Brundage has declared, that he would not ask for wage increases. Ergo, a tax cut is not inflationary.

We are told that labor union officials do not subscribe 100 per cent to Mr. Brundage's rationale.

* * * *

BOB KING, long the assistant to Vice President Nixon here in Washington, is quitting to take on a perilous job. He is slated to become executive director of the operating committee for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games to be held at Squaw Valley, Calif.

If Bob thinks that his job soothing the troubled brows of American politicians has been rough, he should just wait until he hits the temperaments of international sports figures. He might as well be warned in advance that his greatest problem will be something he cannot do much about.

Almost invariably at the time the winter games are about to commence, the sun shines, the mercury soars, and spectators and contestants dolefully watch the speeing rivulets of what had once been snow and ice. Good luck, Bob, in your new job—and good weather!

Nevada U President Quits Post

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Dr. Minard W. Stout, 49-year-old University of Nevada president whose administration weathered five stormy years and a full-scale legislative investigation, Saturday submitted his resignation to the board of regents.

Stout, who came to the school at the beginning of the 1952 academic year from the University of Minnesota where he was director of the university training school, had been under attack periodically since the spring of 1953 when a biology professor was fired after a three-day public dismissal hearing.

The state legislature, irked by continued reports of faculty unrest on the campus, appropriated $25,000 for a "top-to-bottom" survey of the school.

Viet Nam-born Chinese lad bids goodby to Eve Myers, former San Pedran, after a recent CAT repatriation flight.

Flight in the Far East

CIVIL AIR TRANSPORT, designated air carrier for Free China, recently made nine flights to Saigon, Viet Nam, from Taipei, Taiwan (Republic of Free China), to bring back Viet Nam-born Chinese students who chose to retain their Chinese citizenship.

The one passenger aboard one of the nine C-46 aircraft, with three crew members, was Eve Myers, former San Pedro resident.

The plane made the direct nonstop flight from Taipei to Saigon in seven hours and returned the next day with 51 Chinese students aboard, via Tourane (Viet Nam) and Hong Kong to Taipei, Taiwan.

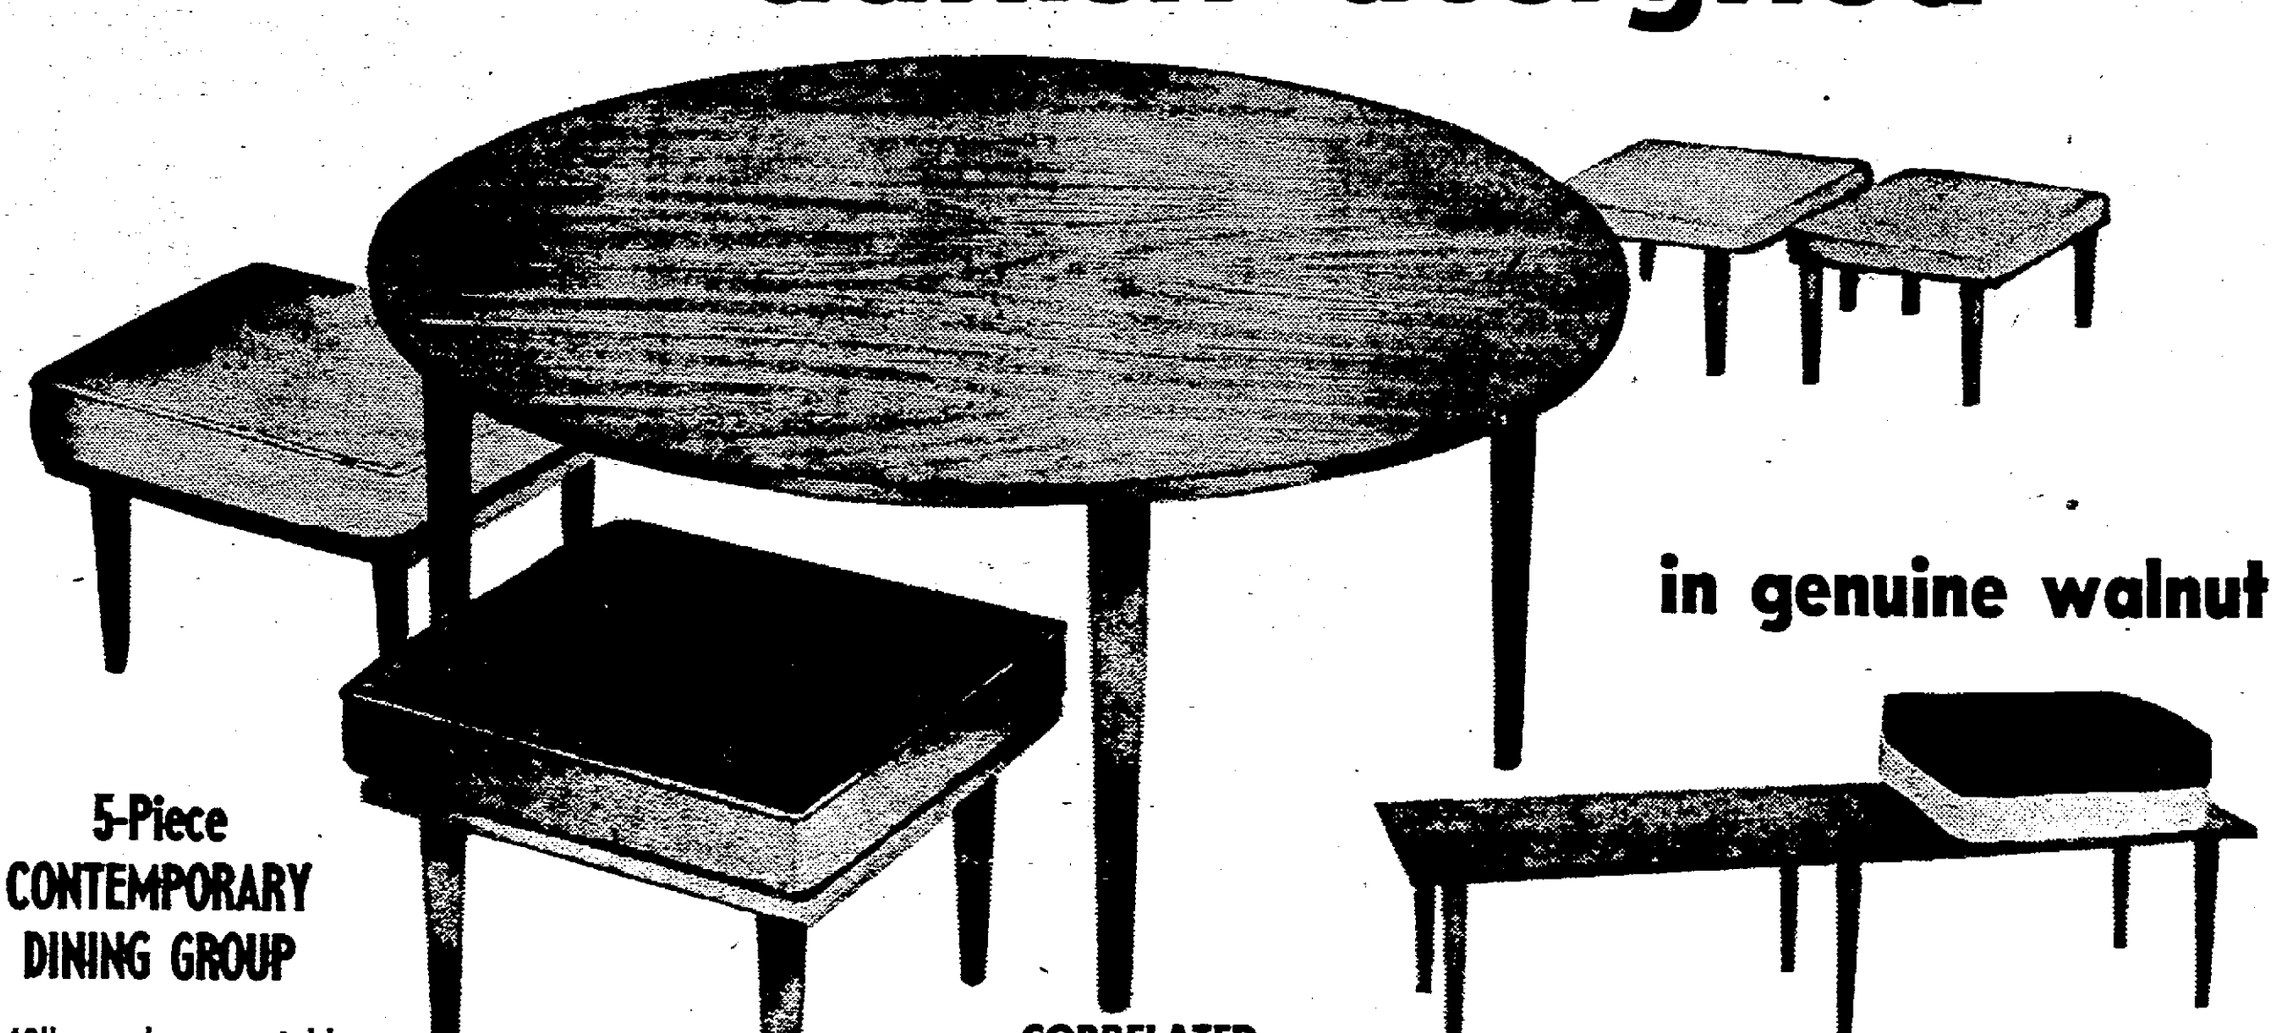

A TOTAL OF 447 Chinese boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 have been flown out of Saigon to date on the nine aircraft.

Miss Myers is employed in the public relations office of Civil Air Transport in Taipei and has lived on Taiwan (Formosa) for the past five years.

Civil Air Transport was founded by Gen. C. L. Chennault of Flying Tiger fame.

French Tell Clash in Libya Area

ALGIERS (AP) — French authorities announced Saturday a Foreign Legion platoon clashed Thursday with a group of rebels who crossed into the Sahara region from neighboring Libya.

This was the second official French indication that the nationalist rebels are spreading their three-year-old fight into the desert, using Libya as their base.

But Libyan authorities challenged the French version. They declared a strong French unit crossed into Libya and attacked a military post there.

* * * *

THE AREA where the clash took place was pinpointed by the French as about 15 miles south of Ghat in the Tassili region. The frontier between Algeria and Libya is not clearly indicated there.

Last month, the area was the scene of an attack against two French trucks.

The French version of Thursday's clash said the Legion platoon was attacked by a group of khaki-clad rebels. Aided by planes from the Port-Charlet base, the Legionnaires pushed the attackers away, killing one man and seizing a number of weapons.

In Tripoli, Libyan Foreign Minister Wahbi Bouri charged Saturday that the French attacked the border village of Ibsin.

* * * *

HE TOLD newsmen the Ghat garrison was compelled to resist aggression and consequently two Libyan soldiers were wounded, a civilian was killed and damage was caused to the village.

The French force withdrew and, although its casualties were unknown, one French plane was hit, Bouri said.

The Libyan government has protested to the French ambassador, he added, and it has been decided to reinforce the Ghat garrison.

Princess on Holiday With Handsome Noble

LONDON (Sunday) (AP) — Princess Alexandra, 20-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, today was linked romantically with a handsome, jazz-loving British nobleman.

The Sunday Dispatch reported the pretty, dark-haired Princess is on holiday in Scotland with Lord O'Neill, 24, whose family owns a castle and a large estate in Northern Ireland.

They are staying at the Scottish home of Mrs. David Butler, socialite and friend of the royal family. The Princess's lady-in-waiting, Lady Moyra Hamilton, has been told she is "not needed in Scotland at present"—a sure sign that the holiday is an especially private one, the Dispatch said.

Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, will be 21 on Christmas Day.

O'Neill is a friend of the Princess's brother, the Duke of Kent.

Crime Spree Ends for Two Teen Couples

ANOKA, Minn. (UP)—Four runaway teenagers, who raced through at least eight midwestern and southern states on a crime spree last week, were captured by police here early Saturday.

The youths, two boys and two girls, admitted 16 burglaries and told police they stole three cars since leaving their homes a week ago at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Police said three of them are 16 years old and the fourth is 15.

They were picked up when police found them loitering about town late Friday night. Police said their car was loaded with goods they had stolen.

* * * *

POLICE SAID the two boys left Benton Harbor a week ago Saturday and took a bus to Madison, Wis., where they stole a car. They drove it back to Benton Harbor, repainted it Sunday and, accompanied by the two girls, set out again Monday.

They drove through Kentucky, Arkansas and Tennessee, leaving a trail of burglaries. In Illinois, they abandoned the car picked up at Madison and stole another.

They then moved into Iowa, where they abandoned the second stolen auto and stole a third. They said they also committed several more burglaries.

President Congratulates L.B. Woman 100 Years Old

Congratulations from President Eisenhower were presented Mrs. Jeanette French, 100 years old, at a reception Saturday afternoon in her honor in First Baptist Church, 10th St. and Pine Ave.

From the White House came a card that read: "Please accept my sincere congratulations upon your birthday. May good health be yours through many more happy years.

(Signed)
"DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER"

The reception was given by Mrs. French's class, the Women's Bible Class. She cut a tiered cake. Mrs. French, long a member of First Baptist Church, for many years sang in its choir. Her husband, the late Frank D. French, was a trustee when the original church was built at 4th St. and Locust Ave.

MRS. FRENCH
Honored at Church

Mrs. French, 2455 E. 4th St., was born in Geneva, Wis., lived in Lafayette, Ind., and in Riverside and Colton before coming to Long Beach in 1903. She has three sons, two grandsons and four great-granddaughters.

State Nets Big Oil Profit Here

HOW A RUMOR can run wild was nicely demonstrated in the flurry of reports around here Friday and Saturday that the Long Beach Naval Shipyard had been slated for closing in a few days.

There was nothing to the story, but it was not hard to trace its origin.

It apparently stemmed from testimony presented at the interim subsidence committee hearings here, where things were said about the subsidence threat to the shipyard.

It was stated plainly that the shipyard will be ultimately closed if the state and city do not do something to attempt, at least, stopping subsidence.

This is not new. It has been said publicly many times here, and has been again and again in the news.

But this time, somebody must have heard just a scrap of the report, misunderstood, and started a false rumor. It spread like wildfire. At the yard, morale took quite a beating before it was learned that absolutely nothing new had happened. This newspaper's telephones jangled.

A long distance call to Washington finally disposed of the rumor. But meanwhile, a lot of nerves had been pretty shaken.

I DO NOT want to belabor the tolerant readers of this dept. with stories about the singing water closet at our house, but it seems necessary to put out a final bulletin.

It has stopped singing?

Yes, sir, and I did it with my own hands, thereby reestablishing my standing at home as a handyman and worthy husband and father.

FROM MANY readers I received suggestions, some serious and some intended to get me into more trouble.

Among them, I found a letter from L. A. Meyer, 5932 Lorelei Ave., Lakewood, who sure knows his water closets.

The secret imparted by Mr. Meyers: A thin coat of vaseline on the plunger that shuts off the water coming into the closet.

My thanks to all who have shown such interest in this problem, and particularly to those who sent in instructions and offers of tools. And to those others who reported that they too, have had bathroom fixtures that groan, moan and sing: Have courage, and get out the vaseline.

IT'S NOT OFTEN a man can claim credit for public reforms in a city not his own, but Bruce Galbreath of Long Beach has just turned in such an accomplishment.

Galbreath, as was reported in this dept. recently, visited Honolulu and was driven to furious anger when he saw the condition in which pets are kept in quarantine there. He was not only sore about that, but he thought the 120-day quarantine requirement was excessive.

So he sat down and wrote a hot letter to the editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, expressing himself frankly and colorfully.

Saturday he got a letter from the police chief or some other Honolulu official, who said that after Galbreath's letter appeared, the city allocated $20,000 to clean up the quarantine situation. Galbreath is going to keep after them about that 120-day business, now that he has achieved a bit of success.

THE SUBSIDENCE hearings here, which I covered, went along generally without much humorous relief. It was pretty serious business.

But one incident occurred that helped a little.

Rev. Russell Brougher, the Civic League prexy, was testifying before the committee and was indicating from a distance, some things on a map on an easel.

Now it happened that map had been put there by Engineer William L Horner, one of the city's consultants in connection with previous testimony.

Horner, not realizing that Brougher was using his map, walked up and calmly took it down, even as Brougher's finger was pointing at it.

The good preacher had a bad moment, but the engineer, discovering what was going on, promptly replaced the map on the easel. And all the oil men, and politicians, and legislators, and city officials, and newsmen, and interested citizens got one big laugh out of a long, tough hearing.

Radar Traps 1,700 Here in September

Operation Radar of the Long Beach Police Dept. netted over 1,700 speeders during September, according to figures released Saturday by the department.

Injury accidents for the month were reduced by almost 75 per cent while noninjury accidents increased slightly, a police spokesman said.

Since the radar car was put into service in July, more than 4,300 citations for speeding have been issued by the radar unit.

* * * *

THE SEPTEMBER speeding tally for the city is slightly higher than the average for the cities of comparable size, the police official said.

Present plans call for addition of a second radar car in the near future.

145 Million Yielded by Local Wells

By GEORGE WEEKS

City of Long Beach has paid to the state a total of $145,106,179.93 in oil and gas revenues under terms of the 1956 compromise legislation.

The whopping figure was disclosed by City Auditor John R. Mansell in a report which also covered royalty payments to city from Long Beach Oil Development Co. and Richfield Oil Corp., operating contractors in the tideland field.

Latest payment by the city to the state was made last week, representing one month's equal sharing of net tideland oil revenues and the value of all dry gas produced. It amounted to $1,317,273.40.

LBOD oil production accounted for $819,631.85 of the monthly remittance, with $395,745.77 from Richfield production and $101,895.78 from gas.

* * * *

THE SPLIT in revenues became effective Jan. 31, 1956, as specified in the compromise legislation and a subsequent court decree. Only deductions from the state's share have been 25 per cent of subsidence costs incurred by the city.

Of the $145,106,179.93 total, LBOD produced $112,797,797.34 and Richfield $32,308,382.59.

Mansell's report also quoted additional figures emphasizing the high productivity of the city-owned parcels and the relatively high percentage of return to the city under the operating contracts.

* * * *

SINCE FIRST PRODUCTION by LBOD in 1939 the gross value of oil and gas sales has reached $400,334,429.56.

The city has received $230,961,866.52, or 57.69 per cent.

During the 12 months ended June 30, 1957, the net revenue payment was $20,151,033.81, or 68.27 per cent. Not included in this amount is $943,477.19 payable to the state for dry gas revenue, in which the city does not now share.

Total barrels of oil shipped by LBOD are 191,610,357.60. There are 713 wells currently producing.

NET REVENUE to the city from the Richfield contract has risen to $58,701,849.30, or 71.45 per cent of the $82,157,202.43 gross total.

During the last fiscal year the city received $8,731,009.32, a cash return of 81.16 per cent without counting $526,488.55 accruing to the state in dry gas value.

Richfield has shipped 35,409,472.69 barrels during the 10 years of its contract. The area in which it operates has 151 producing wells.

Mansell pointed out that the revenue figures for both companies do not include material and equipment purchased by the contractors but owned by the city. Its estimated original cost is $28,000,000.

Officers Get New Duties

Two command changes were announced by Long Beach Navy officials Saturday.

Capt. Earl T. Hydeman, USN, has succeeded Capt. Louis D. McGregor Jr., USN, as commander of Destroyer Squadron 9. Capt. McGregor's new assignment is with Bureau of Navy Personnel in Washington, D. C.

Capt. Hydeman, who previously commanded the USS Kawishiwi, will reside with his family at 6010 Appian Way.

Cmdr. John J. Phillips, USN, becomes commanding officer of the destroyer USS DeHaven, relieving Cmdr. Floyd M. Symons, USN, who has been ordered to Recruit Training Command of San Diego's Naval Training Center.

Cmdr. Phillips formerly was ordnance officer for 9th Naval District.

Radio Free Europe Hosts, I, P-T Exec

W. J. Morrissey, Independent, Press-Telegram circulation director, will be one of 60 American civic, business and newspaper executives to leave New York Friday on a 10-day inspection tour of the Radio Free Europe broadcasting center in Munich, Germany.

The tour, sponsored by the Crusade for Freedom, will include side trips to the Iron Curtain.

THE GROUP WILL FLY to West Berlin, where its members will be briefed by the U.S. mission on the current Soviet situation.

They will spend one day examining a segment of the Iron Curtain, heavily reinforced since last fall's Hungarian revolt.

On their return trip to New York, group members will stop in Paris where they will be addressed by Supreme Allied Commander Lauris Norstad.

HOLLYWOOD'S constant search for new screen personalities brings into sharp focus five lovelies recently placed under contract by Universal-International Studio. They include one redhead, two brunettes and two blondes, and their birthplaces range from Hollywood to Sandviken, Sweden. Beauty is not their only common attribute—they are all in search of film fame. Here is a peek at them, as they start their climb toward stardom.

Judy Meredith, 20, once with the Ice Follies, also makes her screen bow in the forthcoming "Summer Love."

Joanna Moore, a honey blonde from Georgia, already has appeared in two pictures. Future looks bright.

SPANS TO END ISOLATION

T. Island May Link to Land

By LEE CRAIG

Long awaited improvement of access to Terminal Island and its many industries may be near to reality if current plans of harbor, state and federal authorities bear fruit.

Now under consideration are plans which ultimately will provide:

1. Access to Terminal Island from San Pedro—other than the present slow, outmoded ferry—by means of either a $20,500,000 tunnel or a modern, $25,000,000 high-level bridge.

2. Improved entry from the north by replacing the Bascule and Commodore Heim bridges with a quarter-mile-wide causeway.

3. Replacement of the narrow, hazardous pontoon bridge on the east, across the Long Beach harbor entrance channel to the island, with the Commodore Heim structure.

* * * *

CONSTRUCTION of a tube beneath the Los Angeles channel has been sought for more than 30 years, spearheaded by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro.

Local leaders now apparently favor a bridge, which would be four lanes compared with two for the tunnel, and would cost less to operate and maintain.

Favored site for the bridge—either cantilever or suspension type—is across the Boschke Slough area from Harbor Blvd. and Amar St. in San Pedro to Seaside Ave. and Ferry St. on Terminal Island.

This location would link the nearby Harbor Freeway with Long Beach Freeway across Terminal Island at the Ocean Blvd. Bridge, now under construction.

* * * *

MAIN HITCH is how the cross-channel bridge would be financed. Assemblyman Thomas has said the project should be financed with assistance by state gasoline tax funds. He plans to introduce legislation at next year's Assembly session to accomplish this.

Construction of a causeway across the Cerritos Channel at the present site of the Bascule and Heim structures has also been considered for many years, although unofficially.

The idea was first broached officially by Rear Adm. Robert L. Campbell, Terminal Island Naval Base commander, on a suggestion by Charles L. Vickers, Long Beach assistant port manager, and Rear Adm. (ret.) J. R. McKinney.

Adm. Campbell's letter asking consideration of the proposal has been received favorably by both Long Beach and Los Angeles harbor officials. A third copy of the letter went to the Army Corps of Engineers which, presumably, would also favor the project.

* * * *

WORKING FOR the scheme is the effect of subsidence on the two bridges. The Bascule Bridge is now being raised for the last time. It will become permanently inoperable in another 8 to 10 years, depending on the subsidence rate.

The Heim bridge, under tremendous pressure through horizontal subsidence, will soon need costly major repairs.

Few ocean-going vessels now use the Cerritos Channel between the two harbors because of the danger of striking either of the bridges. Only small craft would be affected by closure of the channel.

Construction of the causeway would be far from an overnight job. Officials feel that a start should be made soon to insure completion of the causeway before shutdown of the Bascule Bridge.

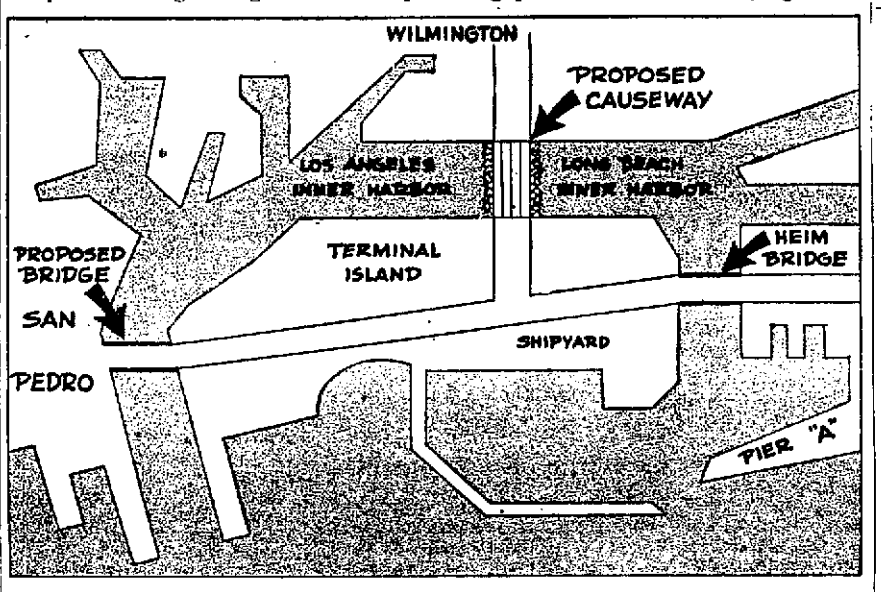

Next step to further the project, local authorities feel, would be a joint meeting among Long Beach and Los Angeles harbor officials and Navy and Army Engineer representatives.

Such a meeting may soon be held.

SAN PEDRO OPENS ITS BIG GAP

A ferry-boat chuffing across the one thousand yards that separate Terminal Island (lower left) from San Pedro points up isolation of the island in terms of modern transportation. Harbor planners envision a high bridge or tube to span the gap for commuters employed in big industries and Navy installations on the island. Plans also call for a rock-solid causeway to link island with the mainland. (Staff photo by Don Webster from Aircraft Associates Flying School Plane.)

HOW TO MAKE A PENINSULA

Terminal Island would be converted into a peninsula of sorts if long range planning results in action. A causeway one-fourth mile wide would replace the Heim bridge at its present location, providing a rock-solid link between the mainland and island. The bridge would be moved to the east end of the island to replace the present pontoon bridge. The ferry between San Pedro and the island would be replaced by either a high bridge or tube.

SALESGIRLS SELL WARES IN UNDERWEAR

KEOKUK, Iowa (UP)—The "ridiculous day" sale in downtown Keokuk, complete with girls wearing red flannels, was in full swing for the second day Saturday.

Businessmen hauled their wares to sidewalk tables, slashed prices and attracted customers with pajama and underwear-clad girls.

Hawkers bellowed "Don't go elsewhere to get cheated," and "Don't go next door, they haven't got anything anyway."

Height of Peaks 'No Inducement'

DARJEELING, India (AP)—It isn't the height of the mountain that intrigues mountain climbers any more. Guido Magnone, leader of a French mountain climbers group here surveying the 25,300-foot Mt. Janu for a climbing expedition, had this to say:

"Now that all the highest mountains (in the Himalayas) except Dhaulagiri have been climbed, the challenge is for the lower, more difficult peaks."

Science's Loud Mouth

By Rennie Taylor

Associated Press Science Writer

PROBABLY the loudest mouth in existence is SAM, a mechanical contrivance at Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park.

It can shout loudly enough to be understood at least 1½ miles away, and it is the forerunner to a projected machine to make the voice carry at least four miles.

Some day SAM's successors may come in handy at the battlefront, to harrange the enemy or terrorize him. They might be useful to communicate with men underground or people overboard in a ship wreck, or individuals lost in the wilds.

BUT RIGHT NOW SAM's assignment is to make noise for scientific research. To prevent it from driving the neighbors crazy, it is set to talk into a 30-foot long tunnel constructed on a framework resembling a cattle chute. The tunnel itself is only one foot in diameter and is surrounded by 12 tons of sand.

SAM, which is short for Stanford Airstream Modulator, is the creation of Dr. Vincent Salmon, acoustics expert for the Stanford Research Institute.

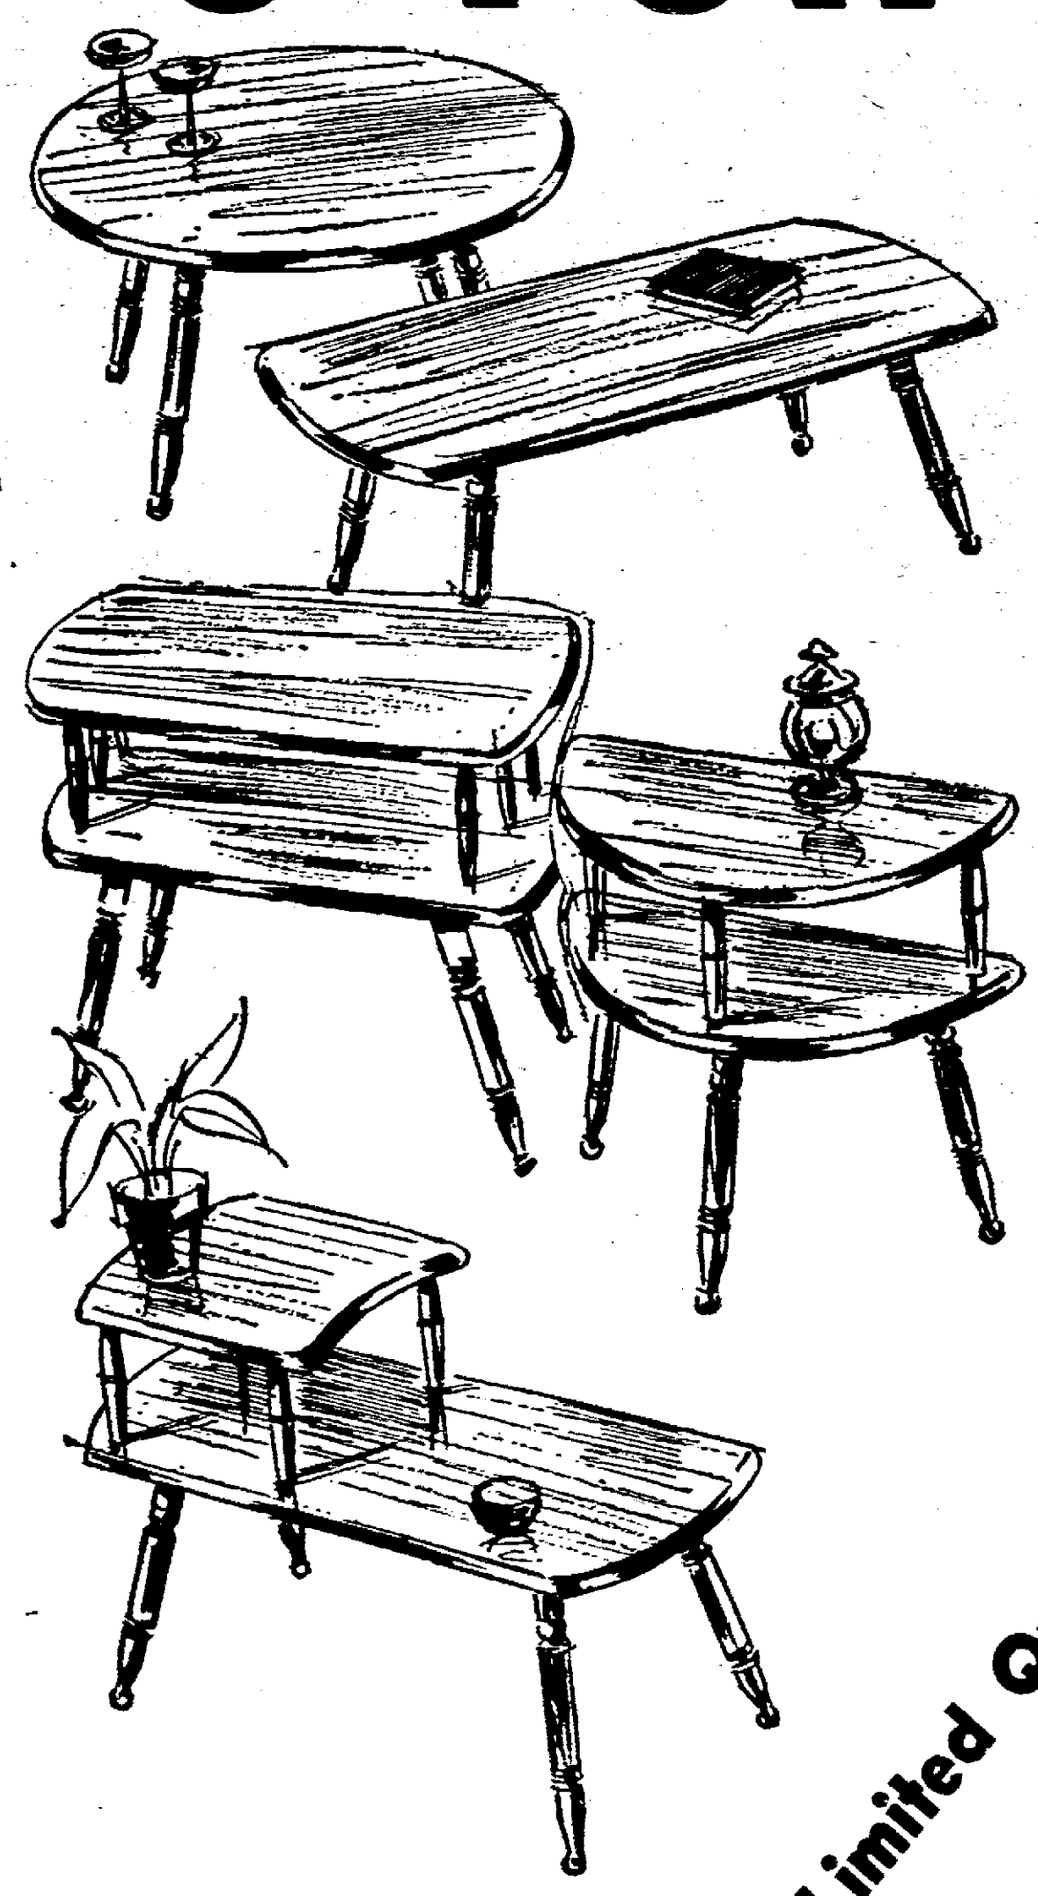

Because of its versatility it can imitate, for research purposes at least, the sounds of many noisy gadgets. In this role it will help researchers to work on noise control problems in the laboratory. Otherwise they would have to work beside roaring jet engines, diesel trucks, freight trains and riveting machines.

ESSENTIALLY SAM is a super-loud speaker which operates on compressed air, like the horn on a diesel truck or diesel locomotive. Because the characteristics of the noise it produces can be changed in many ways, it may be able to show the way toward making sounds less offensive if not less intense, Dr. Salmon said.

Way 'Out of World,' Return Sought by L.B. Area Man

By HERB SHANNON

PALOS VERDES ESTATES—Looking for the way out of this world? The one with the return-trip ticket?

Keep an eye on Alfred M. Mayo, 40, of 2901 Via La Selva, who is rated as one of the nation's leading authorities on space travel.

Not that Mayo is one of that select group which claims to have hitch-hiked on flying saucers. Nor does he write fiction, science or otherwise.

As chief equipment and safety research engineer for the El Segundo division of Douglas Aircraft Co., Mayo is daily engaged in removing roadblocks in the path of interplanetary flight.

* * * *

AND AS president of the Space Medical Society of the Aero-Medical Assn., he spends most of his spare time on a kind of spaceman's holiday, assisting research toward the day when man will blast off on the first excursion to Mars or the moon.

The Aero-Medical Assn. is a national organization of physicans, engineers and technicians both in and out of government service which works closely with the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field in research on the human problems of space flight.

Since April, Mayo has been president of the Space Medical Society, one of the groups within the parent organization. His election is unique in that he is the first man without a medical degree to hold the office since the association was formed in 1952.

* * * *

"THERE SEEMS to be a need for engineering knowledge in every field," the modest engineer explains.

How close are we to actual space flight?

"It's just a matter of money," Mayo maintains. "We would be on the verge now if there were sufficient public interest, reflected by investment of cold cash."

ALFRED MAYO . . . The Rub: Way Back

Mayo believes that inhabited space craft will fly up to 80,000 miles an hour and will take from several months to several years to complete round trips to nearby planets.

* * * *

"SPACE TRAVEL will be limited not so much by distance as by time," he said. "It won't do much good to send a man to a distant planet if he dies of old age en route."

The space ship itself will be compartmented like a submarine, with automatic air locks and probably an outer layer of thin "buffer skin" to resist instant destruction by contact with a meteor particle, Mayo continued.

Other problems, such as those posed by solar radiations, will soon be solved by advancing technical knowledge, Mayo believes. But the chief obstacle which must be overcome, in his opinion is the question of how to bring a space craft safely back to earth again.

* * * *

NOW THAT science is all but ready to shoot for the moon, Mayo thinks it is about time more brains and resources are aimed at providing a return voyage.

As he puts it:

"Who wants to be the first space man if you can't come back to brag about it?"

9 Students Hurt as Log Tower Falls

BALDWIN, Kan. (AP)—A 25-foot-high pyramid of logs collapsed under the weight of 45 Baker University fraternity members Saturday, injuring nine students.

The students were posing for a picture after building the pyramid for their annual steak fry.

"One corner gave way and the side dropped about four feet throwing practically everybody to the ground," said Perry Miller, president of Zeta Chi, a local fraternity.

The logs had been raised around a large tree in pyramid fashon, with a base about 20x20 feet.

Harvest Haste Plea of Pravda

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda has appealed once more for Soviet grain harvesters to get in the crop. Warning that winter weather is moving in fast, it called for the mobilization of more workers to complete the threshing and storage of grain.

The Communist Party newspaper said there has been a serious lag in the processing of grain this year.

BOY MEETS BOSS

Boys Camp Extends Program to Winter

The three-month summer program of the R. M. Pyles Boys Camp is being expanded to cover the entire year.

Starting this fall, the youngsters who populate the High Sierra camp during the vacation will receive year-round help and services from the camp director, Bob McAdams, and his assistant, Benny Wharton.

Under the plan, McAdams and Wharton will inaugurate a winter job placement service for their summer charges, helping the school boys find part time work.

* * * *

THEY ALSO PLAN to offer home counselling to the youngsters as problems arise. In addition, recreational activities will be scheduled.

The boys will go on outings to Disneyland and to football games. McAdams and Wharton will help them join Boy Scout troops and boys clubs and find other wholesome leisure time activities.

* * * *

THE CAMP PROGRAM started and has continued under sponsorship of men and women in California's petroleum industry. Its purpose is to send boys who otherwise couldn't go to two weeks in the camp in the wilds north of Porterville.

Several thousand youths have enjoyed the program in the nine years since its start. Deserving youngsters are referred by school, welfare and juvenile authorities.

Originated by local oil man R. M. Pyles, the program now has two other Long Beach men, Freed Fairfield and John Hancock, on the board.

Haiti Spurns U.S. Demand, Denies Guilt

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UP) — Haiti's ruling military junta has snubbed United States demands for guarantees against mistreatment of its citizens, it was learned Saturday.

It also was learned that the junta declines to admit any wrong-doing in the case of Shibley Talmas, U.S. citizen who died in army custody Sunday. The United States charges he was beaten to death in prison, despite formal assurances he would not be mistreated.

The threat of civil war has hung over Haiti since the presidential elections two weeks ago. The junta has declared Dr. Francois Duvalier the winner, while Duvalier's chief opponent, Louis De Joie, has accused the junta of election fraud. De Joie is in hiding.

Blind Craftsman Stays on the Job

By BRYAN HODGSON

COSTA MESA—Before he was blinded in an accident, Jack Polston was a skilled electrian.

That was two years ago.

Today, he's working as an electrician again, more than holding his own in the highly-technical job.

But the 32-year-old Costa Mesan, who lives at 326 E. 22nd St., has no patience with people who think it's "just wonderful" that he can do the job despite his handicap.

"Sure I'm blind," he said this week. "But that's not important. What is important is whether or not I'm a good electrician."

* * * *

POLSTON BELIEVES too many people — including many blind persons— think that blindness means helplessness, and that a blind person who becomes self-supporting is a man of rare courage.

"Everybody sympathizes with us," he said. "But very few people are willing to give a chance to prove that we can handle many jobs as well as any sighted person.

"I applied for a civil service electrician's job several months ago. They told me I couldn't do the job. But I am doing the job. So who was right?"

* * * *

DESPITE HIS DISCLAIMER of courage, many people might find something to admire in Polston's reaction to the problems which have beset him and wife, DeeDee.

When he was nine years old, a BB-gun accident destroyed the sight of his right eye. He became an electrician in 1942, and in December, 1955, the grinding wheel shattered as he worked in the back yard of his home. A fragment entered his left eye and blinded him instantly. Recently his wife discovered that she may lose her sight because of an hereditary disease.

"It was just one of those things," Polston said, "After I got out of the hospital, I spent 17 months at a state-supported orientation school for the blind in Oakland—there is a lot you need to learn."

When he left the school, Polston had very little luck convincing anyone that he could do a useful job until he contacted W. A. Ferguson, business manager of Local 441, International Brotherhod of Electrical Workers.

"I shook my head at first when Jack asked for a job," Ferguson said. "But he convinced me it was worth a try. We finally found a contractor who was willing to give him a chance.

"I'd like to emphasize that there was no charity involved—contractors are in business to make money, and if Jack's work hadn't been acceptable it would have ended right there."

HOW DOES POLSTON manage to perform the intricate wiring and installations jobs required in his job?

"Well, it was my job before I was blinded," he said. "So it was just a matter of learning to do it with my eyes closed, so to speak.

"Don't get me wrong—there are quite a few things I can't do.

"I had to hire a high school girl to drive me to work and home again. I can't read the serial numbers on parts boxes so the other guys usually put them where they're to be installed. And it takes me a little while to learn the layout of the houses I work in.

"As for wiring—well, it's always done the same way. I haven't had any trouble yet."

POLSTON'S FOREMAN, Russell Baker, of 1810 S. Parton St., Santa Ana, agrees.

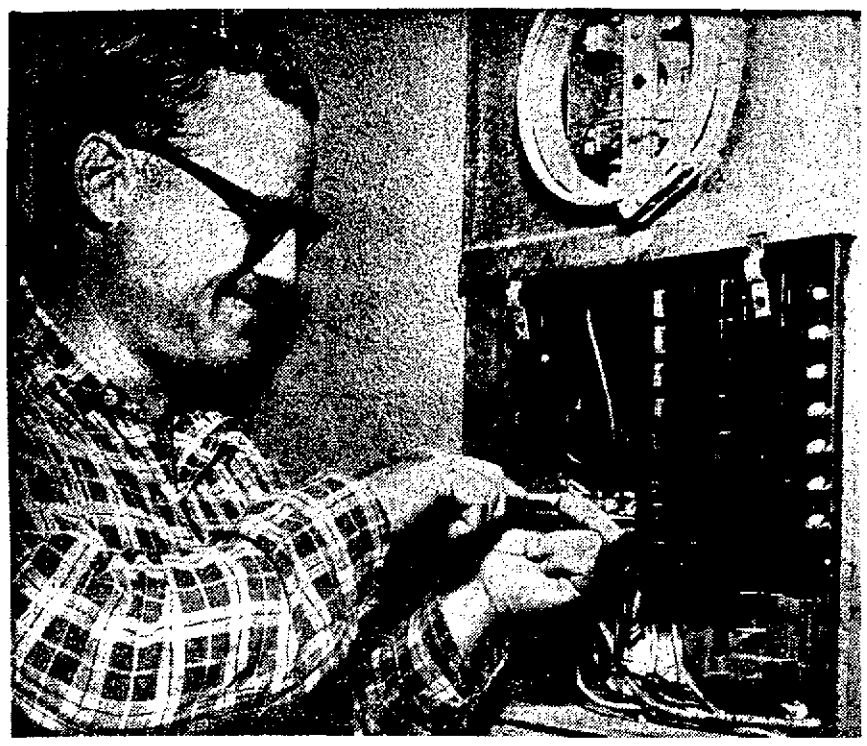

"At first I thought we'd have to carry him," he said. "But it didn't happen. There are a few minor things he can't do, but outside of that he does as much work—and as well—as any other man."

Polston was reluctant to receive any publicity.

"Most of the stories you read about blind people are pretty maudlin," he said. "But maybe this will help other blind persons who run into a stone wall when they look for work.

"We don't need sympathy and we don't need charity.

"All we need is a chance."

HE'S GOT THE TOUCH

Blinded by an accident, Jack Polston, 32, of 326 E. 22nd St., Costa Mesa, continues to work as an electrician. Here he completes installation of circuit breaker panel on tract home. His co-workers agree that his handicap hasn't hurt his efficiency.—(Staff Photo.)

Hosmer Sees Water Need as Greatest

California has a greater influence in world affairs than most independent nations, Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) said Saturday night.

But if the state is to continue in this substantial role, it must solve its water problems, the congressman said. He addressed an assembly of the Past Presidents' Assn. of Native Sons of Golden West in Lafayette Hotel.

"Vice President Richard Nixon, Chief Justice Earl Warren and a large and able delegation in Congress make this state powerful in both national and international decisions," Hosmer said.

* * * *

"OUR AIRCRAFT and electronic industries and our agriculture have worldwide influence," he continued. "Our movie industry is a major factor in shaping world opinions."

Further growth to maintain the state's position can come only if new water sources are obtained, the speaker said.

Henri C. Storti, San Francisco, was installed as governor general of the organization.

Appointed Director

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — University of Wisconsin regents Saturday approved the appointment of Prof. Arthur D. Cole of the California Institute of Technology as director of the university's Washburn Observatory. He will replace Prof. Albert E. Whitford, director of the University of California's Lick Observatory.

Missing Coed Threatens to Take Her Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Police said Saturday that Marcia Horan, missing 21-year-old coed, has written from New York to a Chicago friend, saying she intends to take her own life.

Chief of Detectives Patrick Deeley asked New York police to seek the Horan girl, missing from her Chicago home since Sept. 4, at 53 W. 73rd St., New York—the return address on the letter received here.

Miss Horan, a student at Loyola University, Chicago, disappeared after withdrawing most of the funds in her $300 bank account.

PE Proposals for Subdivision Up for Study by City Planners

A proposed 99-lot subdivision north of Appian Way and south of the Marine Stadium—part of the package deal whereby the city expects to obtain land for marina expansion — is scheduled for consideration next Thursday by the City Planning Commission.

Planning Director Werner Ruchti said the tract map, filed in his office by E. Van Dusen, manager of the real estate division of Pacific Electric Railway Co., is being reviewed by technicians, pending action by the commission.

Under an agreement already executed between the city and PE, land for the marina will be conveyed by the railroad only in the event the subdivision is approved.

* * * *

THE PROPOSED housing strip extends from a line 200 feet east of Nieto Ave. to Padua Dr. near J. H. Davies Bridge. It is zoned R-2 so each lot may be occupied by two dwellings or a duplex. Most of the lots measure 50x150 feet.

Residents in the marina area have repeatedly opposed the subdivision, contending the land should be developed as a public park.

* * * *

PE ASKED THE CITY to grant six variances from the subdivision code. These are:

1. That a 20-foot easement for the widening of Appian Way, plus a 10-foot strip for an acceleration lane, be accepted in lieu of any requirement for a service road or alley.

2. That a proposed private street 40-feet wide be permitted since it will serve only two interior lots. (Under usual circumstances, subdivision streets must be at least 54 feet wide.)

3. That a proposed extension of La Verne Ave. to serve six lots be approved at a 50-foot width.

4. That a 40-foot frontage be permitted for one lot.

5. That length of blocks exceeding 1,325 feet between intersecting streets be permitted because, in the negotiations, the city expressed a desire to have only one mid-block access to the stadium.

6. That block widths providing for only one tier of lots be permitted because of the physical characteristics of the land.

Ruchti pointed out that, while the Planning Commission initially considers all subdivisions, final authority rests with the City Council in applications where there are variances from the code.

Jones will autograph copies of his book from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday at Buffums'.

The four points to success, Jones thinks, are: 1—Identify (Make up your mind definitely what you want); 2—Pretend (Act as if you already have what you want, or are the person you want to be); 3—No Thank You (Turn a deaf ear to discouragement); 4—How (Get your subconscious to work for you.)

Choristers' Reunion Set

The fifth reunion of the St. Luke's Choristers, nationally known Long Beach choral group, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in St. Luke's Church, Atlantic Ave. at 7th St. About 75 singers, including several members of the original choir organized in 1930, are expected to attend. Following a baked ham dinner, the singers will be entertained by present choir members.

USC Honors for L.B. Quartet

Four Long Beach freshman students at the University of Southern California will receive certificates of scholastic honors Wednesday at a special convocation on the campus. The local students are Marleen Maddry, 245 E. Adams St.; Anita Tebbets, 62 61st Pl.; Patrick MacLyman, 215 Scott St., and Robert Irwin, 3830 Myrtle St.

Wayne Alumni Meeting Set

The 19th annual get-together and potluck lunch for all Wayne College (Nebr.) alumni will be held at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 20, in Houghton Park, Atlantic Ave. and Harding St. . . . A breakfast workshop in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel will high-light today's final sessions in the three-day executive board meeting of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society. The program will begin at 8:30 a.m.

L. B. Presents Clear, Strong Case

LONG BEACH on occasion has lacked luster in its performances before legislative committees probing this city's tidelands, oil, and subsidence problems. The trouble has not been the absence of a good case, but failure to organize and present it in an effective way. Fortunately, there was no such shortcoming this week when Long Beach testified at the Assembly interim committee hearings here.

The city's representatives and consultants deserve praise for a clear, strong, well-documented presentation of the causes, effects, and most likely remedy of land sinkage in Long Beach's tidelands.

THEY TOLD THE COMMITTEE that oil extraction is causing subsidence and that repressurization is the remedy proposed by the experts who have studied the problem. Committee members developed the point that it has never been proven that repressurization (injection of water to restore pressures destroyed by oil withdrawal) can prevent sinkage. The city had an answer to that.

The answer is that the very best evidence developed by scientists in this field points to repressurization as the solution. The only way to find out for sure, however, is to try it out. If we don't try something, all we'll know is that we didn't try. We'll continue to sink.

We have nothing to lose by repressurization. While the effect on subsidence has yet to be demonstrated, it has already been established that repressurization increases oil production. The increased production in Long Beach's case could be counted on to offset the expense of the project.

ON EVERY FRONT, local people made a sound case. We include the Navy's representatives, who described the danger of subsidence at the shipyard, and the value of the shipyard to national defense and the economy of California. Adm. Robert Campbell, commander of the Naval Base, stated flatly that subsidence must be stopped if the yard, a vital link in West Coast defense, is to continue to operate. Such testimony must have impressed upon the committee the crucial nature of the decision they are to make.

Further hearings are scheduled for a later date. We trust that the committee will remain open-minded, and that Long Beach will meet the occasion with the same poise and organization displayed this week.

President Digs in for a Long War

AT LAST THURSDAY'S press conference, President Eisenhower dug in for a long war.

He said emphatically that federal troops will remain in Little Rock until Gov. Faubus changes his mind on school integration and gives satisfactory and unequivocal assurance that law and order will be maintained.

There is no present indication that Arkansas' governor intends to surrender by meeting these conditions. Rather, he is scurrying about the state, taking bows at county fairs and lapping up the glory.

THE ROAD TO CONCILIATION was unblocked when four Southern governors intervened to promote a workable understanding between the President and Gov. Faubus.

Their efforts, which "excited the admiration" of the President, came to naught when Gov. Faubus failed to carry through with what appeared to be an agreement in principle.

This impasse left the President with no choice but to continue the use of federal troops to enforce the order of a federal court.

Any other course would have meant the abdication of constitutional authority by the President and subsequent defiance of the federal courts whenever it pleased someone to defy them.

IT CAN BE ARGUED, as many are doing, that it was a blunder to send federal forces to Little Rock.

It has been stated, principally by David Lawrence, that the 14th amendment to the Constitution was never properly ratified and is therefore of no force and effect.

It can be said, as the ardent integrationists are saying, that the President was too slow to exercise leadership in the integration crisis.

Whatever the merit of these varying contentions may be, they come after the fact.

Elements of the 101st Airborne Devision are in Little Rock and, barring a complete backdown by Gov. Faubus, the President proposes to keep them there.

They are there, the President has reasserted, not for the specific purpose of enforcing integration, but to uphold the directive of a federal court.

To dwell upon what might have been, to re-examine errors in procedure or to debate the validity of the 14th amendment are at this time mere exercises in futility.

The President's position is such that he cannot now turn back and still uphold the Constitution as the supreme law of the land.

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT so far as the Little Rock crisis is concerned, critics of the President are forgetting that he is sworn to uphold the Constitution, and that the Supreme Court is the final interpreter of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court has decided, by unanimous vote, that segregation in the public schools is unlawful. It has given a mandate that desegregation must proceed "with all deliberate speed."

President Eisenhower did not make that decision, the Supreme Court made it.

It is bootless to ask, as David Lawrence is doing, if the governors and state legislatures are mere puppets, and whether "our several states have suddenly become 'satellites' which can function only with the consent of a federal dictatorship."

This question has long since been resolved. The Supreme Court has ruled that desegregation falls under federal authority.

Now, in effect, Gov. Faubus is in defiance of that authority. And, as the President has said, "to permit unchecked defiance of a court order would be to invite chaos and anarchy."

House A-Energy Group Playing Hookey, Gadding in Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Drew Pearson column today is written by his assistant, Jack Anderson. Mr. Pearson will be back writing from Washington Monday.)

WASHINGTON — The congressional atomic watchdog committee, supposedly in Vienna to attend an international atomic energy meeting, is playing hookey and gadding about Europe instead.

PEARSON

The congressmen requisitioned a special Air Force plane to fly them to the meeting, which is organizing a new international atomic energy agency.

Russia and America are now struggling in Vienna for control of the agency. The outcome will determine not only which country dominates the world-wide atoms-for-peace program but whether American manufacturers will gain the lead in the atomic field.

Yet some of the congressional watchdogs took off for Copenhagen shortly after the conference opened. They are spending the week end sightseeing, then are splitting into two separate junkets — one heading for Moscow, the other for the Mediterranean.

Even Congressman Sterling Cole, the New York Republican who is American candidate to be director general of the new agency, deserted the Vienna meeting, leaving lesser delegates to promote his candidacy. He and Mrs. Cole are scheduled to take the junket to Russia at the same time that Russia's atomic experts are working hard in Vienna.

THE COMMITTEE'S travel plans have been guarded as jealously as the atomic secrets in the committee safe. However, this column has seen the plans marked strictly "For Committee Use Only."

Most committee members boarded a special Air Force plane for Berlin Sept. 22 and got in a week of sightseeing before the Vienna meeting opened Oct. 1. They spent three days rummaging around Berlin, then were flown to London. In fairness, they spent part of their time inspecting England's atomic energy facilities before departing for Vienna.

REP. COLE
Among Those Absent

Aboard the special plane Gore (D-Tenn), Sen. John were Sen. and Mrs. Albert Pastore (D-RI), Rep. and Mrs. James Van Zandt (R-Pa) and Rep. Mel Price (D-Ill). Outnumbering the congressmen were the escort officers, assigned to make their trip pleaant.

Doing escort duty were Lt. Col. Jerry Jorgenson and Maj. Walter Weddle, both Air Force; Adm. and Mrs. Paul Foster and Bryan La Plante, Atomic Energy Commission; plus Tom Huff, State Department. Also going along for the ride were committee staff members George Norris Jr., Dave Toll and Bruce Burris.

Though there was plenty of room on the plane, some congressmen preferred to travel by slower, pleasanter ship at additional expense to the taxpayers. They were Chairman Carl Durham (D-NC), Rep. and Mrs. Chet Holifield (D-Calif), Rep. and Mrs. John Dempsey (D-NM), with staff director James Ramey. Congressman Cole and his wife caught a later Air Force plane to Vienna.

DAVID LAWRENCE

No Law Expressly Authorizes Use of Troops to Enforce Court Order

WASHINGTON.—Many lawyers are writing to this correspondent from all parts of the country asking when President Eisenhower and the commanding general of the U.S. Army at Little Rock are going to uphold "the supreme law of the land" and cease violating a specific statute passed by Congress which forbids the use of federal troops to enforce court orders.

LAWRENCE

The law in question—known as the "posse comitatus act"—was originally passed in 1878 but was restated and recodified by Congress on Aug. 10, 1956, and now reads as follows:

"Whoever, except in cases and circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both. This section does not apply to Alaska."

As one lawyer, now retired from a legal branch of the armed services, writes:

"Obviously the only reason for this statute and its predecessor is to insure the people against the use of troops to enforce a court order; otherwise, the law has no meaning whatsoever."

There is, of course, no act of Congress which has "expressly authorized" the use of federal troops to enforce a court order. The three sections of federal law which were cited by President Eisenhower in his proclamation ordering federal troops into Arkansas have been restricted by the above-quoted "posse comitatus act."

There is, moreover, no provision in the Constitution by which the use of troops to enforce court orders is "expressly authorized." The Constitution says the President "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed," but it does not say he can use any means he pleases. The statutes specify the means whereby marshals and the thousands of citizens who may be deputized to act as assistant marshals can enforce the laws of the United States. This is what is known as a "posse comitatus" engaged in "civil process."

"This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the Supreme law of the land."

NOTHING is said to the effect that decisions of the Supreme Court or orders or mandates of the courts interpreting the Constitution are "the supreme law of the land."

The late Charles Warren, himself an assistant attorney general and regarded as the nation's most noted historian in the field of the judiciary, says in his monumental "History of the Supreme Court of the United States," Page 748, Volume II:

"However the court may interpret the provisions of the Constitution, it is still the Constitution which is the law and not the decision of the court."

Local Republicans Get Set for Bitter Primary Strife

LONG BEACH area Republicans have come to the inevitable realization that they'll have to start choosing up sides in what promises to be a bitter gubernatorial nomination battle.

And inasmuch as both Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Sen. W. F. Knowland have indicated they will crossfile, the strained relations between their camps may well reach into Democratic ranks before the big fight ends next June.

EPLEY

Knight and Knowland have both scored heavy ballot victories in this area in past elections, when they weren't running against each other. And so, for that matter, has Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, the likely Democratic opponent of whichever Republican romps off with the GOP nomination.

Crossfilings, of course, open the possibility of a double nomination in the gubernatorial battle, but nobody at this time suggests that could happen.

Sen. Knowland, however, thinks that the fight between himself and Gov. Knight might well kick up the registration of the Republicans, with Democrats coming over to help settle what promises to be one of the hottest intra-party struggles in decades.

THE EFFECT of the early announcements on politics here, as well as the rest of the state, will be to stir up the whole political situation far ahead of the customary schedule. Not only will the Knight and Knowland campaigns get on the road, immediately, but other contests will begin to develop early. Democrats won't sit around watching, but will begin beating the bushes for workers and money to support Brown and other Democratic candidates.

Already, a movement has started here to line up a list of names of Republicans who will back Knowland. Knight supporters have been busy in one way or another since Knight announced some time ago that he would be a candidate for re-election.

Obviously, the campaigns will cost a great deal more money as well as more than the usual time and effort on the part of workers. Some party leaders are already bemoaning the fact that the long drawn-out campaign will bleed out the pocket-books of contributors.

GOV. KNIGHT'S remark that the governorship fight won't be a panty-waist affair was undoubtedly a realistic prediction.

There has been some fancy talk of keeping the ballot battle on a "high level" of sweetness and light, so everybody could join hands and support the winner after the primary.

But if the Republicans do join hands after the primary, they'll have to forget some rough-an-tumble battling that is certain to develop before the vote in June.

At the recent Republican Assembly conference here, when Knowland hadn't even announced, there was evidence of mounting feeling. Knowland was the speaker, and while there was a lot of enthusiasm shown during his speech, there were those who sat on their hands, too.

Knight and Knowland are both forthright speakers and seasoned fighters. They're not going to run this one out, smiling and waving at each other.

Praises Collins' Column, 'Anarchy'

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish every bigoted hoodlum in the country could read Mr. Collins' column headed "Anarchy." How correctly he explains Mr. Eisenhower's position and action in the Little Rock affair; the only action the President could take to meet the challenge of anarchy.

★ ★ ★ ★

ALSO, IT is not difficult to guess who Mr. Collins is referring to as the radio commentator whom he fears might bite himself in his emotional frenzy. This erstwhile Republican who has degenerated into the lowest type of rabble rouser . . . this inciter of moron hoodlums who knows everything except an intelligent solution to anything . . . this demagogue, reactionist who has grown to hate the President so violently, is a vicious example of the depravity that can overcome one who lives a life of hate.

★ ★ ★ ★

THIS MAN is one of those pitiful souls who never has an intelligent solution, but who is always quick to ascribe an ulterior motive to any right act. The disdainful perfidy of their very nature conjures such questions as: "Why should anyone believe that Mary Magdalene was sincere . . . that she wasn't just putting on an act . . . that hers wasn't just an emotional, transient, fit of repentance? And what about that box of precious ointment she used? . . . What proof have we that she didn't steal it?"

When Is a Person Intoxicated?

TO THE EDITOR:

When is a person intoxicated?

This question and its answer spells the difference between guilt and innocence of a driver or pedestrian who causes a traffic accident or even becomes involved in one.

The drinking driver is in for trouble. And that is as it should be.

★ ★ ★ ★

TWO organizations have come out favoring the Uniform Chemical Test for Intoxication Act. They are the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and the American Bar Assn.

The Uniform Act makes submission to chemical tests a must. If a driver refuses the test, his license will be suspended six months.

"Any person who operates a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state," reads the Uniform Act," shall be deemed to have given consent subject to the provisions of this act to a chemical test or tests, of his blood, breath, saliva or urine for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of his blood."

THIS ACT has more teeth in it than do the majority of statutes now on the books of 26 states.

If the arrested driver's blood contains 15/100 of 1 per cent or more by weight of alcohol, the test results are admitted as absolute evidence that the person was intoxicated.

The ratio of 5/100 of 1 per cent to 15/100 of 1 per cent is relevant but not absolute proof of intoxication; and less than 5/100 of 1 per cent means he was not intoxicated.

As I understand it, California has no such law. Let's get it!

Super-Highway 'Vandalism'

TO THE EDITOR:

If someone came into your office or home and broke up your furniture, window and walls, you would call it vandalism.

Well, look what we the people and our government are vandalizing—God's green earth. We are building superhighways, some over 500 feet wide going through grassy hills, vineyards, orchards, pastures, garden land, dairyland, and driving the farmer into place where he can make a living only by starting a dude ranch.

We are putting in big parking lots where kids used to play ball and running the kids into the streets, and nobody protests. Why is our automobile more important than farm land or playgrounds?

SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Gem in a Hillside Setting

Heavy shake roof helps provide a pattern as house is seen from the roadway above.

Master bedroom of Myers' home has roomy proportions, is a quiet daytime retreat.

Den, dining room (beyond shoji screen) and living room of Earl Myers' home are under single central beam. Unifying agent is lofty and dramatic ceiling.

By Eileen Ball

OCCUPYING a scenic hillside all its own is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myers. Located at 2 Georgeff Road, Rolling Hills, the house embodies an architectural philosophy that combines beauty with function, living with leisure, privacy with hospitality.

The Myers home is rambling, but the architect, James Friend, AIA, simplified what might otherwise have been judged a complicated plan by means of a continuous ceiling. Flowing planes are centered with an enormous structural beam that spans from one room to another. However, architectural features in no way interfere with or dominate the family residing there or the furnishings which they have installed. Plainly stated, this dwelling place that is spectacular in many ways, is primarily comfortable and compatible with its occupants.

THE ORIENTATION of the many rooms was determined with the pool and patio as focal points. Thus, the living room, kitchen, den and master bedroom all relate directly to this spacious outdoors area that, as a result, is an integral part of the structure.

A large, circular, guest landing leads down in a sloping sweep to the door. The house, located at a level lower than the road, makes the most of its

Week Begins Today to Aid Handicapped

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — More than 3,500,000 handicapped persons have found jobs since National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week was started 12 years ago, it was announced Saturday.

The figure was cited by Paul A. Strachan, president of the American Federation of the Physically Handicapped, in calling attention to observance of the week beginning today.

10-Story Beer Hall in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI)—Tokyo may be the home of the largest beer hall in Asia. A building 10 stories high and with a huge beer barrel on the roof is gradually guzzling into full operation. The building will house two movie theaters and practically every sort of European and American type tavern and restaurant.

Across the front of the building is a mosaic depicting the story of beer.

IN 'FINIAN'S RAINBOW'

Pictured singing "Ol' Devil Moon" are Harvey Wagner and Jackie McFadden as Woody and Sharon in the Broadway musical hit "Finian's Rainbow" to be presented Oct. 18, 19 and 20 by the Singers' Workshop in Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. This tuneful, whimsical show will be presented by an all-star cast, singing and dancing with carefree abandon one of the favorite scores ever written for a musical show. Other hit songs from the score include, "How Are Things in Glocca Morra?," "Look to the Rainbow," "If I'm Not Near the Girl I Love (I Love the Girl I'm Near)," "If This Isn't Love," and a guaranteed show-stopper called "The Begat."

Will Screen New Talent

Members of the Lakewood Players will join 20th Century-Fox Studios in conducting a contest to discover new acting talent Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Fox West Coast Theater, 333 E. Ocean Blvd.

The contest is open to all persons 15 years of age or older. Contestants must prepare a two-minute dramatic scene, either alone or with another person. The contest will be held from 10 a.m. to noon each of the days.

Preliminary judging will be by Al Rashkow, Lakewood Players' director, and Bill Sorenson, Fox West Coast Theater manager. The winner of final judging by Fox Studios will receive a screen test. Contestants may register at the theater.

It Happened Last Night

IT'S A SIN TO TELL A LIE

Patti Page comes from a wonderfully religious Tulsa, Okla., family which believes that movies, instrumental music in church, and white lies, are sinful.

If the local paper calls at 7 a. m. when Patti's home on a visit and she whispers to her mother, "I'm not here!" her mother hands her the phone and says, "YOU tell them you're not here! I'm not lying for anybody."

PATTI PAGE

And now we find Patti in the big, sinful city, starring in CBS' costliest TV show, "The Big Record," and involved in assorted minor deceits which are common in Show Business. For example, while I was visiting her apartment on Central Park South, hairdresser Ernest Adler arrived.

"You got Patti's hair with you?" asked Patti's husband, Charles O'Curran, the movie director.

• • • •

HE DID HAVE—boxes of it, including a pony tail, and when he dragged that out, I spoke right up to the pony tail and said, "Why, Patti, how you've changed!" I happened to ask what shade it was.

"Champagne blond," advised Mr. Adler. "I set it with champagne instead of beer."

"Is that common?" I inquired intrepidly.

"Oh NO!" His voice had a hurt quality. "When I asked Patti for beer to set it, she said she had nothing in the house but champagne."

"So," shrugged her husband, "they used one glass to set the hair and drank the rest."

"Champagne or beer gives body to the set," Patti said.

Patti's against the practice—which caused a scandal when Mario Lanza denied he did it—of "pre-recording" a song and then "mouthing" it on the air, although Eddie Cantor did it recently to "bravos."

It enables a singer to dance, romp, fall down, or do a 100-yard dash while ostensibly singing, without seeming to get out of breath.

And the "boom," holding the overhanging mike, is eliminated, and cameras can catch the whole set with the star gaily cavorting across it.

• • • •

"I DON'T LIKE IT for myself," frowned Patti. "For Janis Paige, I thought it was fine, for they found the secret of 'authenticity.' They showed her when she should look out-of-breath!"

As star of the show, Patti plans songs and clothes four weeks ahead, has no days off, and must suffer the brunt of the reviews.

To my query, "Did you mind them?" she answered, "I'd better not—I have a whole year to go on the show!"

Patti must scan the list of hit songs and watch the trend. "'Tammy' has been No. 1 for 5 or 6 weeks, so it's not going to drop to No. 30 in four weeks," 'she reasons. So she plans to do "Tammy" eventually.

"What kind of panic will ensue if you decide not to do it?" I asked.

"She'll be out a very, very expensive 'Tammy' arrangement, and a 'Tammy' hairdo," supplied hairdresser Adler.

• • • •

THE BUDGET for "The Big Record"—reportedly biggest in TV—didn't include clothes for Patti, who's a clothes-horse.

"You see, before this, they've had mostly men singers—and one necktie was all they had to buy every week. Well, I'm moving into a bigger apartment next week, for all the clothes they've got to give me."

"They'll be yours when the shows are over?" I indelicately asked.

"That's one of the things I'm working on!" Patti admitted.

"Are you wearing the Paris 'gunnysack' styles?"

"Yes, but we fit them into feedbags."

"How?"

"With a belt!"

Patti's husband, who's an owner of "Bally Records," thinks it's a dirty shame that his company can't even get a record on "The Big Record." Patti doesn't — she thinks that's a testimonial.

• • • •

"I TRY TO FIGURE OUT, 'Would my mother dig this'?" Patti says. "If I don't think she would, I wonder whether it's right.

"They are the kind," Patti said, "who never call me up about anything. The night of the first show, I phoned them. They weren't home — they'd gone to church! They're members of the Church of Christ.

"I phoned again and my mother said she was just going to call me. This was a big thing for them to do. She thought it was wonderful. I spoke to my father. He generally has nothing to say.

"He said, 'Well, I thought it was good,' a great concession for him.

"So then I asked him, 'What did you like about it?' The daughter trying to get a compliment, you know. . . .

"So my father said, 'Well, I sure liked Eddie Cantor!' "

Spahn Faces Sturdivant; Braves Favored Today

(Compiled from UP and AP)

MILWAUKEE—Veteran left-hander Warren Spahn will try and deadlock the World Series for the Milwaukee Braves today while knuckleballer Tom Sturdivant will endeavor to provide the New York Yankees with a commanding 3-1 lead. The American League champions won Saturday, 12-3.

Spahn, 21-11, was beaten, 3-1, in the series' first game. Sturdivant, leading Yankee pitcher at 16-8, beat Brooklyn last year with a six-hitter.

The Yankees are 13-5 favorites to win the series but the Braves are 11-10 favorites to win today.

Tony Kubek, a 20-year-old Milwaukee boy, ruined the Braves Saturday with two home runs.

The rangy crewcut, who hit only three homers in 127 games, drove in four runs with his two blasts into the right field bleachers.

Mickey Mantle also deepened the gloom with his ninth series homer, a 400-foot drive into the bullpen after Kubek singled in the fourth inning.

Six Milwaukee pitchers, starting with Bob Buhl, eased the Yanks' way with 11 walks.

The lights were burning through the heavy gloom when the 45,804 wandered out of County Stadium after the 3 hour, 18 minute marathon.

Henry Aaron, whose two-run homer rekindled Braves hopes in the fifth when the score was 7-3, left eight Braves on base. The National League homer and runs batted in champ failed with three on in the second and sixth and two on in the first.

Bob Turley was almost as ineffective as Buhl in this heralded duel of bullet-throwing righthanders. He walked four and allowed three hits before Casey Stengel brought in Don Larsen in the second.

Larsen pitched as though he were still throwing that perfect game of 1956. He blew down the first seven Braves he faced, running his two-year series string to 34 consecutive batters, before Johnny Logan hit a two-strike single to center in the fifth. Aaron then came along with his homer.

Larsen wobbled briefly in the sixth when two singles and a walk loaded the bases, but Jerry Lumpe threw out Aaron on a close play to snuff out the threat.

A total of 19 walks by the six Milwaukee pitchers and two Yanks set a series record. The old mark was 16, set by the Yankees and Giants in 1936. Milwaukee's wild men passed 11 and the Yanks gave up eight bases on balls Saturday.

* * * *

KUBEK STARTED this wild scoring splurge. He hit Buhl's third pitch into the right field seats in the first inning.

Walks to Mantle and Yogi Berra and a wild pickoff throw by Buhl set up another run on McDougald's sacrifice fly that Aaron finally caught on his knees after stumbling. Harry Simpson, first of three Yank first baseman, drove home Berra with the third run of the first inning on a single off Red Schoendienst's glove.

Milwaukee had men on first and second with none out and loaded the bases with two out in the first but Turley got off the hook by throwing a third strike past Joe Adcock.

The Braves didn't let Turley escape for long. A walk to Hazle, Del Rice's single and Schoendienst's single produced a quick run in the second.

* * * *

TWO MORE YANK runs came across in the third off Juan Pizarro, 20-year-old Puerto Rican southpaw who had relieved starter Buhl in the first. Singles by Mantle and Berra and a walk to pinch hitter Elston Howard had loaded the bases with only one out. Jerry Lumpe, starting his first series game at third, singled off the lefthander to score both Berra and McDougald.

Gene Conley, towering 6-8 righthander, gave up the next pair in the fourth. Kubek's single and Mantle's home run did the trick.

Mickey's nine series homers moved him one ahead of Joe DiMaggio in the all-time class and tied him with Berra. Babe Ruth set the record of 15 and Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider each hit 10.

The Yanks closed out their big afternoon with five runs in the seventh against Bob Trowbridge, who had only his own wildness to blame. Walks to McDougald, Gerry Coleman and Larsen filled 'em up with one gone and Hank Bauer singled home the first two. Kubek's second homer of the day, deep into the bleachers, brought Larsen and Bauer romping in front of him.

Bauer now has hit safely in 10 consecutive series games.

Oregon Trounces Inept UCLA in Drizzle, 21-0

1st Duck Win Over Sanders

PORTLAND (U.P.) — The University of Oregon's driving Ducks, led by halfback Jimmy Shanley and clever quarterback Jack Crabtree, whipped UCLA, 21-0, with a surprising display of brilliant running and passing on a wet field before 16,332 fans in Multnomah Stadium Saturday night.

Oregon, victor over Idaho and last-minute victim of Pittsburgh, kept its strong Rose Bowl hopes alive with the decisive victory. It was the first time Oregon ever has beaten UCLA under Red Sanders.

It was the first loss for UCLA after wins over the Air Force and Illinois.

Oregon overturned UCLA, a 6-point favorite, by driving 70, 53 and 65 yards for scores in each of the first three quarters.

The scoring was shared by fullback Jack Morris, end Ron Stover and Shanley, the latter piling up 101 yards.

* * * *

OREGON SCORED the second time it got the ball. Shanley, sure-footed despite the slippery turf, sliced off sizable gains in leading his team on its 70-yard march.

Crabtree mixed in a 23-yard pass to Stover to the UCLA 12 and in three plunges Morris was over for the score. Morris kicked the first of his three conversions.

Rain began falling heavily in the second quarter but it did not bother Oregon. The first six Oregon passes were directed to Stover and he caught them all.

Three of them came in the second Oregon scoring march. He hauled in tosses from Crabtree for seven, 11 and, finally, four yards with the last one accounting for the tally.

Oregon took the second half kickoff and drove 66 yards to the final score, this time springing an unbalanced line on UCLA.

Crabtree, sliding behind the line on the split-T offense, repeatedly handed off to Shanley, who angled to the weak side for gains.

* * * *

THE FINAL PLAY of this drive came with Oregon on the UCLA 10, needing inches for a first down. While UCLA piled into the middle, Shanley scooted around left end, unnoticed, for the score.

UCLA never got beyond the Oregon 48 in the first half and it was not until the fourth quarter that the Bruins made a deep penetration.

Then they drove 64 yards to the Oregon eight. But a stout defense blunted that threat and moments later threw back another one that reached the 25.

The tough Oregon defenders handed UCLA its first blank in 22 games.

Shanley led the backs in rushing, gaining 101 yards in 20 carries.

Rice Rolls Up Easy 34-7 Win Over Riddled Stanford

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Rice Institute's man-under duo of King Hill and Frank Ryan ran and passed the Owls to a 34-7 victory over flashy Stanford before a home debut crowd of 54,000 fans in Rice Stadium Saturday night.

Stanford's vaunted passing attack failed to materialize and the loss of three valuable players injured in the game held the Indians to a lone score in the final quarter when reserve fullback Rick McMillen went over from the six.

Coach Jess Neely's Owls scored almost at will against the Indians 26-0 vanquishers of Northwestern.

Rice scored in all but the third quarter when a 35-yard pass interception return by Stanford left half Jack Taylor of a Ryan pass on the Stanford one caught the Owls as the clock ran out.

The Indians never penetrated beyond the Rice 45 for the first three quarters, and only to the Rice 36 in the final, except for the score. Stanford's ace signal-caller, Jack Douglas, No. 1 end, Gary Van Galder, and fullback Chuck Shea were injured and benched.

Rice took command of the game from the opening gun when Stanford won the toss and chose to kick. Two minutes later Rice fullback Ray Chilton went over from the three.

End Buddy Dial, fullback David Kelley, halfback Monte Robicheauz and Hill accounted for the rest of the Owl touchdowns. Chilton lost a touchdown in the first quarter when he fumbled as he plunged over the Stanford goal line.

Statistics told the story. Rice ran up 583 yards total offense to Stanford's 205, of which 343 yards was Owl rushing and 240 yards passing. Stanford gained 52 yards passing.

Ryan rushed 78 yards and completed eight of 12 passes for another 123 yards for Rice. Hill carried five times for 65 yards and completed four out of seven aerials for 117 yards.

RICE BEST TRIBE FOE IN YEARS--CHUCK

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — "Rice is the finest football team we have played in several years," Stanford coach Chuck Taylor said Saturday night after seeing Rice defeat his Indians, 34-7.

"Rice went out there and took the game away from us with their great play," he said. "They were terrific."

Rice coach Jess Neely said the Owls played "good, solid football."

"To tell you the truth I didn't think we could beat a team like Stanford like that," he said.

Flores Passes COP Over Tulsa, 21-13

STOCKTON (U.P.)—College of the Pacific, riding on the passing arm of quarterback Tom Flores, spotted Tulsa a one-touchdown lead then stormed back to defeat the Golden Hurricane, 21-13, before a crowd of 16,000 Saturday night.

3 TD PASSES

Spartans Blank Cal

BERKELEY (UP)—Michigan State, which normally grinds its foes into the ground with line plays, took to the air to score all three touchdowns Saturday as it ran up a solid 19-0 victory over a surprisingly stubborn University of California team.

Stopped cold on the ground by a rugged defense when within scoring distance, quarterback Jim Ninowski tossed two touchdown passes to ends Dave Kaiser and Sam Williams in the first and second quarters. And for top dressing in the last period quarterback Mike Panitch tossed to halfback Art Johnson for the final score.

This was supposed to be a walkaway for the big bad Spartans from the Big Ten as Cal had already lost to SMU and Washington State.

Michigan State marched to a touchdown the first time it got the ball, going 59 yards in 12 plays, with the payoff Ninowski's toss from the five to Kaiser for the score.

* * * *

BUT CAL CAME right back the first time it got its hands on the ball. Halfback Darrell Roberts passed to halfback Jack Hart, who carried to the Michigan five for a 63 yard gain. California couldn't push it over from there and three plays found the Bears on the ten. Max Hale tried a field goal from the 16 but it was wide, ending California's only real scoring threat of the day.

The second Michigan State touchdown came in the second period and ended another long 68 yard drive capped by a seven yard pass from Ninowski to Williams.

California decided to stay on the ground in the third quarter and made a lot of yardage. But every time the Bears threatened the Spartan defense tightened.

* * * *

THE FINAL SCORE came midway in the last stanza on a 32-yard drive with Panitch passing to Johnson from the five.

California threw back two Michigan State threats in the third period, stopping the Spartans at the 25 both times. In the final quarter Bear end Ron Wheatcroft stopped Walt Kowalczyk on a fourth down play at the four after the Spartans had reached the Cal two.

California's final threat came late in the third period when quarterback Gabe Arrillaga hit halfback Hank Olguin on a 24 yard pass play that carried to the visitors' 17. A 15-yard clipping penalty put the Bears back and Michigan State controlled things from then on.

British Win: It's Their Cup of Tee

LINDRICK (AP) — Britain's reviled professional golfers won the Ryder Cup, Saturday for the first time in 24 years, crushing a polished U. S. team that stumbled off the course in shocked disbelief.

The final score read: Britain 7, U. S. A. 4. One match was halved.

In a great last ditch stand and counter attack, the British won six of Saturday's eight singles matches to carry off the golfing upset of the century.

And these British pros, rising above years of frustration, really had to be good, since they lost three of Friday's four Scotch foursomes and left themselves only the dimmest chance of pulling the match out of the fire.

Here was the way the singles went:

Eric Brown, Scotland, defeated Tommy (Thunder) Bolt, Los Angeles, 4 and 3.

Peter Mills, England, downed Jackie Burke, Bellaire, Tex., 5 and 3.

Ken Bousfield, England, turned back Lionel Hebert, LaFayette, Louisiana, 4 and 3.

Dai Rees, Wales, blasted Ed

RED AND MICK PUT ON SHOW

A centerfield camera caught this expression on Mickey Mantle's face Saturday as he slid safely back into second under Milwaukee's Red Schoendienst who dived for a ball which went into centerfield on a pick-off play in first inning of third Series game. Mantle got up and went to third on the play.—(AP Photo.)

far-flung cedar shake roof to dramatize its appearance from above.

The front door opens to a gallery-entry that extends across the front of the house, as does the living room it borders. The floor is polished, cocoa-pink-flecked terrazzo; and between three ceiling-height colonnades of Arizona fieldstone are set wide stationary panels of clear glass that separate the indoor planting from the shrubbery growing outside the house. Thus, all along this highly effective area, greenery grows in a profusion that brings the outdoors right into the house.

SEPARATING THE terrazzo entry from the living room are shoulder-height storage compartments of natural Philippine mahogany. At the far end of the long entry, one sees into the dining room alcove where an attractive, turquoise-blue, wrought iron-and-glass breakfast set stands. Against the background of greenery, this rearrangement seems to be a secluded garden rather than actually inside the house.

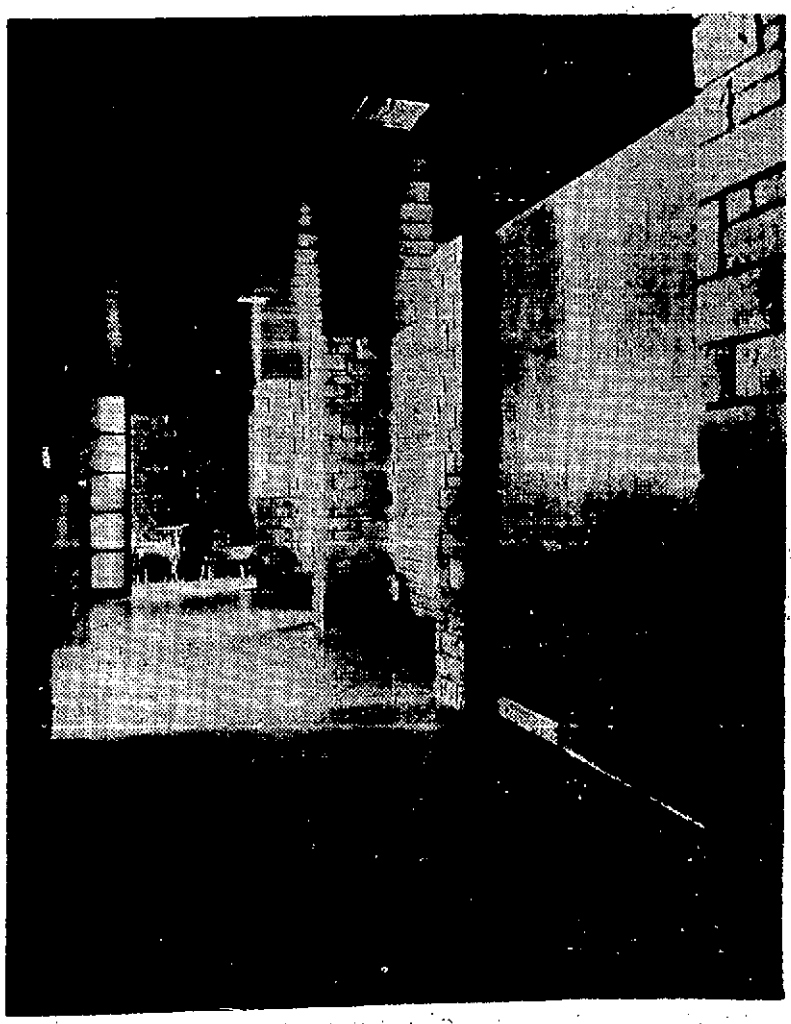

The level ceiling of the entry is surfaced in mahogany. In the living room adjacent, the ceiling is loftily pitched up to the central supporting beam which, in its enormity, is importantly scaled for the living room and for the den and dining areas which merge with it. Walls of the living room are paneled in natural mahogany. However, the back wall of the long, comfortably furnished room is entirely of glass, sections of which slide open to a fabulous view.

A massive sliding shoji screen of plastic parchment set in ebony framing may be pulled across the opening between the living room and the dining area. Open or closed, the eye is permitted to carry over the ceiling-height partition into the dining area—with the ceiling beam conducting this line of vision.

At the opposite end of the living room, a huge fireplace of the Arizona fieldstone features an oversized firebox and widely extended hearth. The carpet—custom-woven to the exact dimensions of the room—is a soft wool chenille. Casement draperies for the vast glass expanse are a matching soft cocoa tone.

The den, a smaller area located next to the living room in a manner that it enjoys the masonry back of the fireplace, is furnished with a saffron leather sofa, lounge chair and

FRANCIS, DURDEN STAR

OSC Scores, 22-13

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Halfbacks Joe Francis and Earnel Durden accounted for three touchdowns Saturday in leading Oregon State to a 22-13 victory over Northwestern and made a success of the defending Pacific Coast champions' first foray into Big Ten circles this season.

The Oregon State triumph, their third straight of the campaign, came before 34,500 fans who filled Dyche Stadium to watch the first gridiron clash between the two schools.

Officials called a total of 215 yards in penalties, 115 of them against Northwestern.

The Beavers stopped a Northwestern drive with six minutes to go in the first period and put across their first touchdown. Marching from its own 30 on a series of ground plays and a 16-yard pass from Francis to Bob De Grant, Oregon State moved the ball to the Wildcats' 38. Francis tossed a pass to Durden who caught it on the 10 and scampered untouched into the end zone.

Three minutes later another drive put the ball on the Northwestern 10, and Francis skirted the Wildcat right flank for a second touchdown. Ted Searle for the second time missed the try for the extra point but made up for it when he booted a second period field goal from the 21 after the Wildcat defense stiffened.

The Beavers iced the game with eight minutes remaining when Durden took the ball on a reverse at the Wildcat 15-yard line and sprinted into the end zone.

Northwestern scored in the second period after failing on four drives to move the ball past the Beaver 20. Ron Burton paved the way by intercepting a Francis pass on the Northwestern 28 and running the ball to the Beaver 49. A short series of plays and a personal foul against the Beavers moved the ball to the 16 and quarterback John Talley flipped it to end Fred Williamson for the touchdown.

Burton became the Wildcat hero again when he took a pitch-out from Talley on the Northwestern 21 in the third period and sprinted 79 yards down the west sideline for a touchdown.

Tarheels Turn Navy Bobbles Into 13-7 Upset Triumph

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina turned a recovered fumble and an intercepted pass into touchdowns Saturday to upset sixth-ranked Navy, 13-7, before a wildly-cheering crowd of 25,000.

The impressive victory gave coach Jim Tatum's Tarheels a big lift back up the football ladder.

Navy's vaunted offense, which had crushed Boston College and William and Mary, was held in check by a tight Tarheel defense until early in the final period when halfback Harry Hurst scored from the one to climax a drive that carried from Navy's 27. Ned Oldham kicked the extra point.

North Carolina just missed a third touchdown when officials ruled that Jim Schuler stepped out of bounds on what appeared to be a 61-yard scoring run.

North Carolina co-captain and end Buddy Payne personally halted Navy's last threat when he intercepted a Tom Forrestal pass on his own 26 with less than two minutes left in the game.

Cadets' Rally Pays Off

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Army's offense-minded Cadets, passing and running with poise, power and skill, rammed through three third-quarter touchdowns Saturday and established themselves as a definite Eastern power with a 27-13 win over Penn State.

It was a rip-roaring offensive game all the way as the Nittany Lions delighted a home crowd of 32,660 by outscoring the Cadets 13-7 in the first half.

But the roof fell in the third quarter as quarterback Dave Bourland from El Paso, Texas, guided the Black Knights to three touchdowns.

Army employed its "foot soldiers" for huge ground gains that pierced the Lions' defense. The Cadets moved 75 yards with a third period kick-off for the tying touchdown as halfback Pete Dawkins climaxed the drive with a 10-yard run that outflanked the enemy.

Hawks Wheeze Past WSC, 20-13

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Iowa's flu-weak football forces wheezed to a 20-13 victory over Washington State Saturday.

Iowa, crowded hard by the West Coast team, broke out of a 13-13 tie with four minutes left in the fourth period and brought obvious relief to the Iowa clientele in the gathering of 47,334.

The Hawks, who at one time early in the week had 27 players affected by the flu, took quick advantage of a recovered fumble for the victory drive.

Alex Karras, all-America tackle, snapped up WSC quarterback Bob Newman's fumble on the Iowa 46. Eleven plays and 54 yards later Iowa had the winning touchdown on Kevin Furlong's dive from the one. Karras put on the finishing touch with a conversion.

Washington State, going all out for a possible tie, went to midfield but the Cougars were driven back. On fourth down they disdained a punt and lost the ball on their 29. Iowa, plagued by four lost fumbles, played it safe and ran out the time with conservative ground maneuvers.

Iowa shot into a 13-0 lead by going 60 yards in 13 plays for a first period touchdown and traveled 65 yards on 13 more in the second quarter. The Hawks appeared headed for another touchdown in the second period but lost the ball on the Washington State 14 when Don Nelson recovered John Nocera's bobble.

* * * *

WASHINGTON STATE, with Bunny Aldrich completing four passes for 50 yards, picked up a touchdown with 19 seconds to go in the half. An eight-yarder, Aldrich to Don Ellersick in the end zone, did the business.

The Cougars, with two minutes left in the third period, gobbled up Ray Jauch's fumble on the Iowa 30 and Chuck Morrell banged over from the one on the first play of the final period. Nocera smashed through and blocked Ellersick's kick which could have sent Washington State ahead.

Jauch, the sophomore halfback whose play was marred by two lost fumbles, scored the first two Iowa touchdowns with three and four yard runs, respectively.

* * * *

Sooners Reel Off 40-14 Win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A wobbly Oklahoma football team, obviously off stride after a bout with the flu, caught a stubborn Iowa State eleven Saturday, and it wasn't until the late stages of the Big Eight Conference contest that the Sooners were able to finally pull away with a 40-14 victory.

Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, won its 42nd straight game but it was the Sooners' second team that showed the spark which marked the previous triumphs. The alternates made two late touchdowns.

For the rejuvenated Iowa State team under new coach Jim Myers, the game was a moral victory if nothing else. It was the first time since 1951 that a Cyclone team was able to score against the Sooners.

* * * *

BOTH IOWA STATE touchdowns were on passes by halfback Dwight Nichols. Starting quarterback Carl Dodd made two of Oklahoma's six touchdowns with the others contributed by Clendon Thomas, David Baker, Jakie Sandefer and Bobby Boyd.

Iowa State	0	7	0	7	—14
Oklahoma	12	7	14	7	—40

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns—Dodd 2 (2, plunge; 9, run), Thomas (10, run), Sandefer (82, punt return), Boyd (1, plunge), Baker (1, plunge). Conversions—Dodd 3, Rolle, Baker.

Iowa State scoring: Touchdowns—Gibson (28, run-pass from Nichols); Dennis (19, pass from Nichols); Conversions: Carlson 1, Gibson 1.

Wolverines Capitalize on Breaks, 26-0

ANN ARBOR (UP)—Michigan mixed the right blend of senior halfback Mike Shatusky and sophomore quarterback Stan Noskin Saturday to defeat penalty and fumble-ridden Georgia, 26-0, before a crowd of 85,002.

The Wolverines were the opportunists, looking good in spots but still showing a weak line, as they gained their second straight victory of the season while handing Georgia its third consecutive setback.

Noskin, second-string quarterback from Evanston, Ill., and Shatusky, both scored a pair of touchdowns against a Georgia eleven which never got closer than the Michigan 21-yard line.

The Georgia team helped every Michigan touchdown march except the first, fumbling and losing the ball five times and suffering 110 yards in penalties.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

As you're digging into your Sunday hotcakes and coffee, let me ask you two questions:

1. How long are you going to put up with Harvey Knox?

2. How long are you going to continue to lose money betting on those friends of the common people, the Milwaukee Braves?

If they seem like leading questions, that is exactly the way they were meant.

Parasites like Harvey Knox continue to live on the fat of the land because the people in the sports kingdom continue to feed them. I feed such parasites whenever I write about them, whether it be good or bad. You feed such parasites whenever you yourself devour—and enjoy—the information that is written about them.

The Harvey Knox saga took a sudden turn this past week when Harvey projected himself into the spotlight with a blast at the Chicago Bears, the latest employers of his talented son, Ronnie. The parasatic father ate up every line of type concerning the Knox family (father or son), regardless of the consequences to the real man in the family, the son, Ronnie, the football player.

Knox (the player) suffered a $500 loss this week when he was suspended by Bear owner George Halas. The father didn't mind—really—because he figured he earned $500 worth of publicity through his son's suspension.

But what about the son? He merely got himself racked up—but good—during last week's opening league game against Green Bay. Ronnie was slaughtered in his FIRST play in professional football, then he was re-injured during Bear scrimmages this week.

The parasite prospers, but his son suffers—but good!

As far as the Braves are concerned, let it suffice in this column to say: They may be nice fellows, but they ain't the Yanks.

Everyone in Milwaukee figured the Yanks were done when they lost that second game in New York. But the city of beer drinkers forgot one thing: They weren't playing the Dodgers or Cardinals. They were playing real competitors.

The Yanks are something they never see in the National League!

From the special mail bag. . . .

Dear Unidentified: Your postcard prediction—Texas 14, Oklahoma 13—won't be accepted by this department. I refuse to acknowledge it!

Dear Jack Shurtz, 6541 Montoro: I will continue to let Don Clark handle the Trojans. I will accept your suggestion that I write a column and let Mr. Clark do the coaching. I should try to coach a team that has an 0-3 record?

Dear Robert J. Smallwood, Paramount: Your request I refuse. Your letter—or any part of it—will not appear under this column. Neither will I dignify your plea that I answer your immature questions. To get an appropriate answer, I would suggest you return to Little Rock. We became civilized in California more than 100 years ago.

From the regular mail bag. . . .

". . . You must hate everybody. That column you wrote on spying on people watching the World Series through sidewalk TV sets, proves it. I happened to be one of those 'odd fellows' you wrote about. By the way, I saw you, too. You were that little jerk, 5-foot-2, with horn-rimmed glasses and a dumb look on his face." (signed) Arnie Brewer, 135 Bonito Ave.

(You've got the wrong guy, Arnie. I'm definitely NOT 5-foot-2.)

"The column you wrote about those friends of yours in Louisiana and Wisconsin ridiculing us Californians for our laxity in getting the Dodgers was absolutely correct. However, being friends of yours they must have realized that anyone connected with city affairs (like City Councilmen) and school affairs (like faculty representatives), must be so far behind the eight-ball to begin with, that they couldn't arrive at a reasonable decision if they were in front of a firing squad." (signed) Grant Meyers, Lakewood.

(Why give them the excuse of a firing squad?)

"The nuttiest thing I've read in years was from that guy Tweed of Washington State, which appeared in your column. If he wants to put the PCC's Northern schools in a "Northwest Ivy League" with Montana and Utah, I would advise the poor jerk NOT to buy out the concession franchise. A crowd of 200 wouldn't buy enough beer and hot dogs to stall off the sheriff." (signed) Andrew Corvasi, Bellflower.

(. . . not unless the 200 concentrated on beer!)

". . . can you tell me why the five Long Beach public high schools are in the Harry J. Moore League? When I first read that, I thought it was a fraternity league, or something. Please tell me if the next league they will form around this joint is the Harvey J. Knox League. If it is, I will move back to Arizona." (signed) Stanley Lasswell, 431 Maine Ave.

(Better start packing. Harvey won't last long in Chicago!)

BOWLS OVER GOPHERS

Fullback Jim Redinger (40) of Purdue bowls over Minnesota players for big gain in first quarter Saturday, his forward progress stopping just inches short of a first down on Gophers' 38. Minnesota's Bob Soltis (25) tripped him up while lying on ground. Gophers won, 21-17.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Salas TKOs Velasquez in Eighth

Former world's lightweight champion Lauro Salas, 129, Los Angeles, scored an eighth-round knockout Saturday night over Julian Velasquez' 130, La Habra, in a scheduled 10-round main event at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Salas, ahead on points, floored his 20-year-old opponent early in the eighth with a smashing left to the head. Seconds later, the 29-year-old Salas connected with a right to the jaw and Velasquez went down.

Referee George Latka didn't bother to count and Velasquez' seconds came into the ring to administer to the fallen boxer, automatically stopping the fight. The time: 1:59.

Rhinos, Venice in Rematch Today

The Orange County Rhinos return to friendly home surroundings today for a 2:15 contest with the Venice A. C. Bulldogs at Anaheim's La Palma Stadium.

After losing two in a row, the Orange County pro gridders are a one-touchdown favorite. The two teams met earlier this season with the Rhinos winning 23-7 in a game that was close for three quarters.

Hurricanes Trip Baylor

MIAMI (AP) — Little Fran Curci, 152-pound quarterback, sparked Miami's Hurricanes to a surprising 13-7 victory over Baylor Saturday night before 41,160 football fans in the Orange Bowl.

Two pitchouts, good for nine and 10 yard scoring runs from Curci to John Varone gave the Hurricane's a 13-0 halftime score after Varone converted following the first TD. A blocked kick on Miami's 20 and a pass from Doyle Traylor to Earl Miller gave Baylor its TD. Arthur Beal converted.

Gamecocks Upset Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Stocky halfback King Dixon sprinted 98 yards to score on the opening kickoff and sparked a three-touchdown comeback drive in the fourth quarter Saturday night as the South Carolina Gamecocks upset Texas, 27-21.

Dixon, a driving, 5-foot, 8-inch runner, shared honors with halfback Alex Hawkins as South Carolina, outplayed and behind 21-7 after three quarters, took advantage of its opportunities and surged back in the fourth period.

The loss was the first for Texas under the rebuilding regime of Coach Darrell Royal, after two successes.

Texas	7	7	7	0	—21
South Carolina	7	6	0	20	—27

Texas scoring: Touchdowns, Ramirez (21, run); Schulte (8, pass from Fondren); Alvin (4, pass from Fondren). Conversions: Lackey, Fondren 3.

South Carolina scoring: Touchdowns: Dixon 2 (98, kickoff return; 36, pass from Hawkins); Hawkins 2 (10, plunge; 18, run). Conversions: Hawkins 2.

Minnesota Edges Fumbling Purdue

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — Steady Dick Larson, Bobby Cox's alternate at quarterback, led Minnesota to a 21-17 victory over an inspired, but fumbling Purdue team in the Big Ten opener for both schools before 65,605 fans here Saturday.

The veteran signal caller, usually overshadowed by Cox in the Gopher attack, scored two touchdowns and rifled a 16-yard pass to halfback Bill Chorske for the other.

Larson rallied the Gophers to a near-flawless second half drive after the Boilermakers had taken a 10-7 half-time lead on the brilliant passing of quarterback Bob Spoo and the kicking of Tom Fletcher.

The fiery Boilermakers controlled the first half, handling the ball 44 times to 18 for the Gophers. However, in the second half fumbles ruined three Boilermaker drives. Minnesota recovered five Purdue fumbles in the game.

* * * *

THE BOILERMAKERS closed up the score in the last second when coaches Murray Warmath of Minnesota and Jack Mollenkopf of the Boilermakers cleared their benches. Wayne Jones fired a 47-yard pass to move the ball to the Minnesota two, and then hit Francis Anastasia in the end zone for a touchdown.

Minnesota	0	7	7	7	—21
Purdue	0	10	0	7	—17

Minnesota scoring: touchdowns, Larson 2 (78, reverse and 5, run); Chorske (18, pass-run). Conversions: Rasmussen, Blakely 2.

Purdue scoring: touchdowns, Brooks (40, pass), Anastasia (2, pass). Field goal: Fletcher (5). Conversions: Fletcher 2.

A&M Rolls to 3rd Straight

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—Four Texas Aggies, headed by Bobby Conrad who ran a kickoff back 91 yards, cracked through Missouri's off-and-on defense to down the Tigers, 28-0, Saturday for their third straight victory.

The Aggies, ranked fourth in the nation, scored 14 points in the second period and sealed the game with Conrad's long run to open the third period. Other scoring was by fullback Richard Gay on a one-yard plunge; by left half Roddy Osborne on a six-yard pass from Charlie Milstead; and by Bobby Marks on a six-yard pass from Osborne. Milstead kicked all the conversions.

Florida Hands Kentucky 14-7 Loss

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Halfback Bernie Parrish's breakaway running put the spark in Florida's precision offense Saturday night and the Gators rolled over Kentucky, 14-7, in their first Southeastern Conference test.

Kentucky scored its first touchdown of the year in the fourth period on Lowell Hughes' six-yard dash.

Jimmy Dunn sprinted 32 yards for Florida's first touchdown and the 142-pound junior pitched to halfback Jim Rountree covering 27 yards for the other.

Compton Tartars Rout Pierce, 64-0

Powerful Compton Junior College rolled to 400 yards rushing and a 64-0 victory over Pierce Junior College before a capacity crowd at Ramsaur Stadium Saturday night.

Twin living rooms and a gallery are features of this seven-room house that has been designed for maximum living but without requiring an airport-sized site. The gallery, with "2-story" windows, adjoins the informal living room and can be used for many purposes; i.e., for a potting shed or greenhouse, for sketching and painting, for indoor play area. It has an easily kept concrete floor and a storage closet at one end.

Trim Ranch with Twin

By John O. B. Wallace

AN ADEQUATE living area is the goal of any home. When you have a home with two living rooms, you know it's been designed for maximum living. And if this has been accomplished without an airport-sized plot, you have a design achievement.

This, happily, is the case with the House of the Week, HW-72. It has unusual features to recommend it to the home buyer looking for something special but at a price within his means. You can build this luxury house and still stay out of the luxury price range because it has a total of only 2,118 square feet.

The overall dimensions are 70 feet by 38 feet, 4 inches. The main level of the house has 1,572 square feet. The informal living room area has 546 square feet.

THIS HANDSOME ranch house was designed by Architect Alan Wood Fraser. Here are some of its features:

Three bedrooms. The master bedroom is 16 feet by 13 feet.

Two baths. They're back-to-back for ease of plumbing installations.

The two living rooms! One is 20 feet by 15 feet. The other, for informal living, is on a higher level and is well over 400 square feet in area. Its actual dimensions are 21 feet by 21 feet.

The dining room. It is below the informal living room and has a large bowed-out window.

A roomy kitchen. It has a snack bar ideally suited as a breakfast nook for the modern family.

A two-car garage. It's on a lower level, at one end of the house.

AN INTERIOR GALLERY! This is a unique contribution to the features of this home and can be put to many exciting uses.

A flagstoned entrance patio. This is a practical feature and also adds a mark of distinction to the exterior design.

This house lends itself to any locale and any climate. It is a year-round beauty for any American, anywhere.

The exterior design has been meticulously executed. The size, style and arrangement of all windows add unusual charm to

Littler in Field for L. B. Open

Rosburg, Bradley in $10,000 Tourney

By JERRY WYNN

Gene Littler, the golden boy of Southern California professional golf, will play in the $10,000 Long Beach Open at Lakewood, Nov. 8-10, it was announced Saturday.

Although no longer a novice on the tournament trail, the popular crew-cut San Diegan has lost little of the glitter that accompanied his entrance into the pro ranks in 1953 when he won the San Diego Open in his first pro tournament.

In 1954, he finished second in the U. S. Open, and a year later won the L. A. Open. Of all his accomplishments, he is most famous for an amazing three-year straight sweep of the rich Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas.

Littler has never played competitively in the Long Beach area. In a practice round at Meadowlark in 1955, he fired an eight-under par 63.

* * * *

OTHERS AMONG the touring pros to join the Long Beach Open field Saturday were Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto; Don Whitt, Alameda; Jackson Bradley, Houston, Tex., and Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill.

Rosburg, former Stanford baseball and links star who uses the unorthodox baseball bat grip, has been one of golf's most consistent money winners the past few years. Whitt flashed into prominence by reaching the semi-finals in the 1957 National PGA Championship. Bradley is a Long Beach product and former Recreation Park and Lakewood assistant pro who has made a big name for himself as a home club pro. Fairfield is one of the more promising younger players on the tour.

Many more entries are expected in the near future.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to the touring pro contingent, practically all of the leading Southern California home club pros (Eric Monti, Tommy Bolt, Jerry Barber, Jim Ferrier, etc.) are certain participants. Other players will come from delegates and celebrities who will attend the National PGA Convention in Long Beach, Nov. 7-15.

Pre-season tickets, costing $5 for all three days of championship play and admittance to qualifying and practice rounds, are now on sale. They may be obtained at all golf courses and driving ranges throughout Southern California and also at the Chamber of Commerce office and Apple Valley Steak House restaurant in Long Beach.

The tournament is being jointly sponsored by the Long Beach Century Club, the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and Los Angeles County, operators of the Lakewood course.

COMPETITIVE L. B. DEBUT

Popular Gene Littler (above) will make his Long Beach area competitive debut Nov. 8-10 in the $10,000, 54-hole L. B. Open at Lakewood Golf Club. Littler won the rich Las Vegas Tournament of Champions the past three years.

CROSBY JOINS TIOGA CLUB

Bing Crosby, low handicap golfer who sings on the side, has joined the new Tioga Country Club near Long Beach, club officials revealed Saturday.

Crosby is the first of several celebrities expected to add their names to the growing list of Tioga members.

Deadline for membership applications is Nov. 1. For information on joining, call GA 5-1291 or GA 9-1865 or write to the Tioga CC, 1415 East Anaheim St. The club will be located on Carson Street, one-quarter mile east of Norwalk Blvd.

L.A.-Dodger Parley Today

A meeting that could affect the City Council's showdown vote on the proposed Brooklyn Dodger transfer will be held at Los Angeles city hall today.

The informal session was arranged after two councilmen who had been opposing terms of the transfer deal indicated they might change their minds if a few points could be cleared up. They asked that a representative of the National League club come west to talk the situation over.

As a result, the Dodgers will have Henry J. Walsh here for the meeting. He is an attorney for the Dodgers and a member of the club's board of directors.

The principal subject of the talks is expected to be the real estate deal that would give Los Angeles title to Dodger-owned Wrigley Field in partial payment for a stadium site in Chavez Ravine. Opponents of the deal have claimed the swap would favor the Dodgers.

The ordinance embodying terms of the transfer will come before the council for a final vote Monday. Ten affirmative votes—or a two-thirds majority—will be required for passage of the legislation.

Today's meeting will be televised at 1:30 p. m. over KTTV (11).

RATE DEBATE
Golf Hearing Wednesday

The city's proposal to increase greens fees at the Recreation Park courses will have a public hearing before the City Golf Commission at the City Council chambers, City Hall, Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Among those scheduled to speak against the proposal are Mark Greer, president of the Southern California Public Links Golf Assn.; Col. C. K. Crockett, president of the Recreation Park Men's Club, and Mrs. Jack Swanburg, president of the South Course Women's Club.

All interested golfers are urged to attend.

Vikes Open Metro Play

Long Beach City College's Vikings, down but not out after a narrow loss to Santa Ana College, jump from the frying pan into the fire this coming Saturday night when they open their Metropolitan Conference season against Bakersfield here.

The Renegades, idle this past week, ripped Hartnell 52-6 the week before after opening with a 36-7 win over Gray's Harbor.

Long Beach State plays its second game in a row away, tangling with a strong Arizona State team at Flagstaff Saturday at 2 p. m.

St. Anthony faces an important Catholic League test here Friday night against Cathedral to top the prep slate. In other games; Wilson is at Mira Costa, Paramount at Lakewood, Poly at Lynwood, Downey at Jordan and Excelsior at Millikan.

Riley Destroyed, Decathlon 'Wins'

BOSTON (UP) — Decathlon, the national sprint champion, tired in the stretch run at Suffolk Downs Saturday but managed to finish in a dead heat with Lord Jeep for the top prize in the $28,100 John Alden Handicap.

Decathlon, carrying top weight of 133 pounds and favored by the crowd of 23,122, led by four lengths heading for home in the six furlong sprint. The time was 1:11 flat and Decathlon, winner of five races this year under 130 or more pounds, paid $2.60, $2.80 and $2.20.

Fiskin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

(Editor's note: While Donnell Culpepper is on vacation, some of his outdoor buddies are pinch-hitting for him. Today's column is by Harvey Dryden, Saskatchewan Tourist Supervisor. Culpepper and Dryden were together for two weeks in June of 1954, flying from one lake to another in the uninhabited wilderness of northern Saskatchewan.)

By HARVEY DRYDEN

STONY RAPIDS, Sask.—Tanned, bewhiskered and toughened by 20 days at the paddle, six modern-day "voyagers" have just retraced a 400-mile canoe route through northeast Sasketchwan pioneered by famed geographer-explorer David Thompson 161 years ago.

Like Thompson, they roughed it, paddling from dawn to dusk, stopping regularly, like the old voyagers, for "un pipe." Often, they waded neck-deep in fast, ice-old water to "line" their three 16-foot canoes through rapids.

They saw a wilderness unchanged from that described by David Thompson, who, in 1796, sought a better route—than the Churchill-Clearwater-Athabasca Rivers' system—into the fur-rich Lake Athabasca country.

* * * *

THOMPSON'S ROUTE by way of Reindeer and Wollaston Lakes and the Fon du lac (then Black) River proved easier and faster to negotiate. But this advantage was more than offset by the very late spring ice breakup on Reindeer and Wollaston.

The six canoeists—Sigurd Olson, president of the United States National Parks Association, and crew chief; Dr. Omand Solandt, vice president of the CNR; Tyler Thompson, United States minister to Canada; Dennis Coolican, president of the Canadian Bank Note Company; Eric W. Morse, national director of the Association of Canadian Clubs; and Maj.-Gen. N. E. Rodger, former vice-chief of the general staff — covered the Thompson route in 20 days, starting from Southend, Reindeer Lake.

They are members of a group which has canoed more than 2,000 miles, retracing early Montreal-to-Lake Athabasca fur routes since 1954. The other members are A. H. J. Lovink, former Netherlands Ambassador to Canada (now his country's ambassador to Australia); J. Frank Delaute, secretary to Governor-General Massey; and Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's magazine.

* * * *

RETRACING the Thompson route took the adventurers over some of the "fastest water" in Saskatchewan's far north. Said Eric Morse of the tricky route: "I wouldn't recommend it to anyone who hasn't had lots of experience with white water."

But all agreed it was a wonderful trip. Sig Olson couldn't get over "that land of incomparable beauty. There's a stretch of country along the Fon du Lac, between Hatchet Lake and Manitou Falls, that the Saskatchewan Government should set aside as a wilderness reserve. You see sandstone of all colors, craggy cliffs, topped by stately evergreens; we even paddled through a 40-foot rock tunnel."

Mr. Olson was the party's "Bourgeois" (brigade boss in the old fur trade days). "He had the final say when the rest of us couldn't make up our minds," said General Rodger.

* * * *

THE PARTY MADE 25 portages between Southend, Reindeer Lake and their destination, Stony Rapids. The two longest were on the last leg, between Black Lake and Stony. They were three-and-a-half and two miles long, respectively.

"At the longer portages, we made what the voyagers called a 'pose'," explained Dr. Solandt. "We'd carry part of our gear halfway over a portage, then return for more. When we had everything halfway across, we'd do the last lap."

The canoeists ate 20 pounds of food a day. Their diet regularly included fresh-caught fish. "We had fish fried, baked, boiled and broiled," reported Denis Collican. Tyler Thompson thought cooking was fun, "but the trick was to keep the sand out of the frying pan."

* * * *

THE MEN SLEPT in tents and had little trouble with mosquitos and flies. Asked if they read a chapter from David Thompson's narrative nightly before bed, one group member said: "We did occasionally, but most of the time, we were so tired we just hit the sack right after supper."

As they made their way along the Fond du Lac River, averaging about 20 miles daily, the party saw, in turn, a moose, caribou and timber wolf.

"That wolf's den was so close to shore, we could have almost reached over and touched him as he came out," recalled General Rodger.

The canoeists had "fair paddling" for the most part. They "lined" their canoes through rapids daily. Being wet was normal, they stated.

* * * *

ASKED WHY MEN, like themselves, who spend most of their lives behind office desks, choose to spend their holidays roughing it by canoe through northern Canada's wilds, Mr. Morse answered for the group:

"We like to live and travel—for a few weeks a year—as the old voyagers did. They had an exciting, carefree, satisfying life, with no telephones, jet planes and fast motor cars. Here, we find nature unspoiled and we like it."

Future plans are indefinite. However, the modern-day voyagers hope, soon, to tackle the Athabasca Lake - Athabasca - Clearwater - Churchill Rivers' route—the one David Thompson hoped he could better.

RYDER CUP-

Furgol, Miami Shores, Fla., 7 and 6.

Bernard Hunt, England, defeated Doug Ford, New York 6 and 5.

Christy O'Connor, Ireland, conquered Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., 7 and 6.

After the British victory was assured, Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., came in with the day's only American victory. He beat Peter Alliss, England, 2 and 1.

Then the two in the tailend match—Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., and Harry Bradshaw, Ireland—came down to the 36th green and halved that hole and the match. They had seesawed all day.

Burke, skipper of the crestfallen American side, said afterward:

"I think we overtrained. We came here too soon and played ourselves out in a week of practice.

Buckeyes Bury Huskies, 35-7

SEATTLE (UP)—Don Sutherin returned a punt 81 yards for a touchdown in the second half Saturday to set off an Ohio State scoring spree which buried Washington, 35-7, in an intersectional football game before 37,000 fans.

The teams had battled on even terms until Sutherin's electrifying dash through the Washington defenders, but after that the fired up Buckeyes scored almost at will.

Sutherin's long sprint came on the fourth play after the second half kickoff. He added the second of his four extra points to make it 14-7.

The Buckeyes scored again a few minutes later after Russ Bowermaster fell on a Washington fumble on the Huskies' 38. The Buckeyes smashed through for a touchdown six plays later with Galen Cisco going over from seven yards out. Sutherin made it 21-7 with the extra point.

Ohio State increased the lead to 28-7 on the first play of the fourth period when left halfback Don Clark, another Ohio State hero, passed nine yards into the end zone to Dick LeBeau.

The teams traded touchdowns in the first half. Washington broke the scoring ice early in the second period when Bobby Dunn sneaked over from the one to cap an 87-yard drive led by fullback Jimmy Jones and left halfback Luther Carr.

Ohio State matched Washington's second period score after left end Jim Houston recovered Dunn's fumble on the Washington eight and LeBeau drove to the one. Two sneaks later Frank Kremblas crossed into the end zone. Sutherin converted to tie it up.

Their last score came late in the game when second string halfback Joe Connavino bucked over from the one, ending a 70-yard drive.

It was Ohio State's 11th victory over Pacific Coast Conference opposition in 16 games.

SCHOENDIENST ALMOST HIT

Flipping his feet out of the way, Braves' Red Schoendienst escapes being hit by one of Bob Turley's fast-balls in second inning Saturday. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra made neat stop of ball (arrow). Umpire is Bill McKinley. (AP)

Bob Kelley Says---

SAN FRANCISCO—Mr. Waterfield and I just flew in from Las Vegas, where we served as chorus boys during Mrs. Waterfield's act at the Sands Hotel.

We arrived too late to see the Cal-Michigan State game. From what Les Richter told me, however, Cal might hold the score down to less than the three touchdowns predicted.

"Cal's got a better club than the two losses show," Les said. "The first defeat, by SMU, was helped by an absent-minded call by a quarterback. Then they went up to Pullman and drew five 15-yard penalties at crucial times. But the kids love Pete Elliot, and they play hard for him."

Elsewhere on these pages, you can check the score of the game and see how important "loving your coach" is.

The few Ram players I've noticed so far have the typical pre-49er attitude. Riding silently up and down in elevators with heads hung. Playing the 49ers is like a championship game. You never saw so many serious guys in all your life.

* * * *

TRADITIONALLY, a team that is quiet and sullen and serious before a game is "up." They're ready for a big performance. On the other hand, a team that is kidding and clowning and laughing before a ball game is in for a shock. They've taken it too lightly. They're not ready.

I have seen both kinds, and usually tradition holds good.

"But not always," Ram line coach Joe Madro told me before the Eagle game last Sunday. Just before the kickoff, Madro walked into the scouting booth.

"What kind of an attitude have your boys got?" I asked.

"Good," Madro said. "Real quiet. You can't get 'em to say three words.

"Of course," he added. "That isn't always a sure sign. I've seen teams like that before. Then they come out and play a dull, ragged football game."

Madro was a prophet. The Rams were flat last Sunday.

* * * *

MOST PRO PLAYERS will tell you the crowds don't affect them, one way or the other.

"That is, all except here in San Francisco," Artie Hauser told me a little while ago. "These people just go wild for the 49ers.

"Maybe it's because this stadium is smaller and more compact than most. But when they start roaring when the 49ers are on the move, the roar thunders right into your ears. It actually rattles you a little."

I've noticed the same thing. There is no sound in the world like the 49er crowd when they begin to whoop it up. It's almost unworldly. You'll be able to notice it on our telecast today, on channel 2.

Or if you're in your car, Bill Brundige and Jim Healy will be handling the radio version on KMPC.

One thing about doing the broadcast on TV, you absolutely can't make a mistake. They'll be hundreds of thousands of fans watching who know that No. 82 is Soltau; you can't get away with saying Billy Wilson caught the pass, when they can see that 82.

Actually, that's our policy on radio, too. If you make a mistake, correct it—admit it. No one cares about an error, as long as you get it right eventually. At least, that's what Harvey tells me.

Streak Ends

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Fired-up William and Mary, winless in 15 games over a three-year span, methodically ground out touchdowns in the second and third quarters Saturday for an astonishing 13-7 football victory over Virginia Tech's fumbling Gobblers.

We Were Bad, Umps Were Worse-Haney

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Fred Haney Saturday declared "we were bad but the umps were worse," following the Braves' 12-3 throttling at the hands of the Yanks.

The watery-eyed little pilot minced no words about what he considered bad calls by the men in blue.

He claimed a decision in the first inning by second base umpire Joe Paparella cost the Braves two runs and another by plate umpire Bill McKinley in the seventh opened the flood gates for the Yankees' five-run splurge.

"Schoendienst said he had (Yogi) Berra on the relay from (Hank) Aaron in the first," Haney said, quietly, purposefully.

With one run in, Mickey Mantle and Berra drew walks off Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl. Buhl whirled and threw to Red Schoendienst in an attempt to pick off Mantle, but the throw, low and wide, skipped into center. Mantle went to third and Berra to second, sliding in under Schoendienst's tag.

* * * *

"RED HAD BERRA," Haney said. "If the right call had been made we would have been out of the inning with only one run, (Tony) Kubek's homer. "He was out," Schoendienst declared. "But what can you do?"

"The plate umpire blew one in the seventh when he didn't call (Jerry) Coleman's full swing for a third strike," Haney continued as he stalked back and forth in front of his locker in the Braves' quiet dressing room.

"That would have been the third strike and we would have been out of the inning with no runs scored," he said. "But we've bounced back before after lickings like this."

Haney said Buhl, his fast-balling righthander who lasted less than an inning, "has had days like that before. I thought he'd work himself out of it. He might have, too, if that call at second hadn't gone against us. I'd rather get beat that way than by 1-0."

Asked why he relieved Buhl with Juan Pizarro, 20-year-old rookie who never had appeared in a series game, instead of one of his more experienced hands, Haney replied:

"He's been pitching good ball for us."

In reply to a question about Tony Kubek's two home runs, Haney said, "we didn't figure him for a home run hitter, but then we haven't seen much of him. As for our 'book' on him, some of those pitches weren't where they were supposed to be."

INDIANA BOWS, 26-0

ND's Second Win Matches '56 Mark

SOUTH BEND (AP) — Notre Dame sent four different backs across Indiana's goal line and blanked the Hoosiers, 26-0, Saturday. The Irish now have two victories in two starts, matching their successes in the school's worst-in-history season last year.

The stout Notre Dame defense, which stopped Purdue last week in a 12-0 Irish victory,, held Indiana to 12 yards by rushing in the first half and 84 altogether. Notre Dame picked up 253 yards on the ground and 65 in the air.

Halfbacks Dick Lynch, Charles Lima and James Just and quarterback Bob Williams scored for the Irish on short runs.

Nick Pietrosante, 210-pound fullback, didn't score but continued his hard running of the Purdue game and wound up with 47 yards in 11 carries. Lynch got 50 yards in 11 tries and just 35 in only five rushes.

* * * *

NOTRE DAME drove 54 and 27 yards for the Lynch and Lima one-yard touchdowns in the first quarter. Williams sneaked a foot for another in the second period in a 45-yard push that included a 14-yard pass from Frank Reynolds to Lynch. Just ran six yards for the last touchdown 12 seconds before the gun.

Badgers Rip W. Virginia

MADISON, (AP)—A Wisconsin team with considerable power on the ground and a good aerial game overwhelmed West Virginia 45-13 in an intersectional football game before 38,000 Saturday.

The Badgers scored in every quarter, running up a 28-0 lead in the first half. They added 14 points in the third quarter and a 27-yard field goal in the closing seconds.

The Badgers scored before the game was a minute old on a 63-yard pass. Added another in that period and then coasted to victory with reserves seeing most of the action.

A sensational 94-yard touchdown run by sophomore Ron Steiner after a pass interception and a great 86-yard scoring gallop by senior Danny Lewis from scrimmage were high lights of the game.

Groza's 11 Points Rip Steelers

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Lou Groza, who has been toeing the mark unfailingly since Cleveland began its fabulous professional football era 11 years ago, booted the Browns to a 23-12 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night.

He kicked three field goals and added two conversions.

Bob Gain recovered a second period fumble by Steeler quarterback Earl Morrall who was shaken up in a pass attempt on his own 30. Chet Hanulak tossed to Ray Renfro, who caught the ball on the 15 and ran over.

* * * *

MOMENTS LATER Morrall passed 22 yards to Jug Girard in the end zone for a Pittsburgh score, but the Browns boosted their halftime edge to 10-6 on Groza's 29-yard field goal.

The Browns boosted it to 13-6 in the third quarter on Groza's 45-yard field goal, but Pittsburgh got back into the game when Morrall threw 21 yards to Girard, who caught the ball on the 10 and jogged over.

Cleveland clinched the win with 10 fourth period points on Groza's 14-yard field goal and a pass-run from Tommy O'Connell to Milt Campbell which covered 25 yards.

46,558 See Colts Upset Bears, 21-10

BALTIMORE (UP)—Johnny (Sandlot) Unitas threw two second half touchdown passes Saturday night to lead the Baltimore Colts to an upset, 21-10, victory over the Chicago Bears before a crowd of 46,558 in Memorial Stadium.

Unitas, who learned his football on the sandlots in Pittsburgh, threw an eight-yard pass to end Jim Mutcheller in the third period to give the Colts a 14-10 lead and then connected with fullback Alan Ameche on a nine-yarder in the final period to sew it up.

The victory gave the surprising Colts the lead in the National Football League's Western Division. In their season opener last week, the Colts upended the Detroit Lions, 34-14. The loss was the defending Western Division champion Bears' second in as many starts. Green Bay beat the Bears last week, 21-17.

* * * *

BALTIMORE SCORED first in the opening period when Lenny Moore, who came to the Colts from the New York Giants, dashed 55 yards off tackle.

Chicago tied the score in the same period when quarterback Ed Brown threw a 56-yard touchdown pass to rookie halfback Willie Galimore and went ahead, 10-7, in the second period on a 22-yard field goal by George Blanda.

The Bears appeared to be on the way to another score late in the final period, but rookie linebacker Don Shinnick picked off a Brown pass on his own 15 and ran it back to the 30.

* * * *

THE TWO SCORING passes gave Unitas, who cost the Colts the price of a postage stamp, six for the young season. Unitas completed 16 of 26 passes for a total gain of 162 yards. The Colts picked up 177 yards rushing and held the vaunted Bears to 29 yards on the ground.

Jayhawks Edge Colorado, 35-34

BOULDER (AP) — Colorado, plagued by fumbles that produced three touchdowns for Kansas, rallied for three scores in the fourth quarter to take a brief lead before the Jayhawks sailed through the air for a 35-34 Big Eight Conference victory Saturday.

Trailing 34-28 with four minutes left, sophomore quarterback Larry McKown took over the controls for the Jayhawks and guided them to victory. He connected on a 58-yard pass play to halfback Homer Floyd that carried to Colorado's 4. On the third play, halfback Larry Carrier plunged in for the tying touchdown. Quarterback Duane Morris kicked the decisive extra point.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill (UP)—Fullback Ray Nitschke scored three touchdowns Saturday as Illinois crushed Colgate, 40-0, in the Illini's home opener before a Memorial Stadium crowd of 41,594.

The Illinois victory evened the score for the last time the two teams met, in 1916 when Colgate won, 15-3. The victory also evened Illinois' season record at 1-1, and the loss was Colgate's first in two games.

Illinois' superiority was proved in the statistics which showed the Illini rolled 365 yards on the ground to only 101 for Colgate.

Giants Fight Off Winless Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The New York Giants, generous to a fault, gave up four scores through the fumble and interception route Saturday night but hopped on two big breaks themselves to come from behind and defeat the winless Philadelphia Eagles, 24-20.

Jerry Norton, Eagles defensive back, returned an interception 99 yards for a touchdown in the thrilling but wild and wooly game in which the defending champions could be thankful the Eagles had no passing game.

Norton's interception, third longest in league history, and three Giant fumbles which turned into Eagle scores kept the Birds in the running before 28,342 fans. But offensively, the home team gained only 10 yards in the air in the first half and only six in the second.

In the game of jumping on opportunities, the Giants turned a blocked kick into one touchdown and scored another when rookie John Bookman latched on to a Bobby Thomason pass and returned the interception 31 yards for a score.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, ONLY two sustained drives, both by the Giants, resulted in scores. New York marched 77 yards on 14 plays from the opening kickoff to send quarterback Don Heinrich sneaking over from the one. And in the final period the Giants marched from their own 27 to the five where Ben Agajanian booted a 12-yard field goal.

The Eagles' height of frustration came in the third when they trailed, 21-17, and had a first down on the Giant one as a result of an end zone interference penalty. Three plays lost six yards and Bobby Walston kicked his second 15-yard field goal to make it 21-20.

Gavilan Launches Serious Training

Former world welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba settled down to serious training Saturday for his fight with Gaspar Ortega of Tijuana, Mex., at Wrigley Field Oct. 15.

The Cuban Kid will box a four-round exhibition in the Tijuana bullring Monday night on a Red Cross benefit card.

Favor Rams in TV Tilt

San Francisco's 49ers find out today how well they rebuilt the dike after the Los Angeles Rams smashed it on a memorable Friday the 13th.

It was the last month in Los Angeles and the final score was 58-27, the only pre-season loss for the 49ers. But that setback shocked Coach Frankie Albert into a couple of moves to shore up the defensive corps.

So this afternoon at 1:30 when the Rams invade Kezar Stadium with a capacity crowd of about 59,000 anticipated, they'll meet a couple of fellows who weren't here before, linebacker Marv Matuszak, a 235-pounder, and defensive halfback Val Joe Walker.

* * * *

STILL, THE PASSING of Norm Van Brocklin and the running of Tom Wilson, Ron Waller, Tank Younger and Joe Marconi looks to be more than the 49ers can handle. Attesting the running strength on the club, coach Sid Gillman has installed rookie star Jon Arnett at end again.

The Rams are favored by six points. The game will be televised over KNXT (2) and broadcast over KMPC beginning at 1:30.

Los Angeles opened its league campaign last Sunday with a 17-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, while San Francisco was upset by the Chicago Cardinals, 20-10.

There was some good news from the 49ers camp, however. End Billy Wilson, out since Sept. 7 with a knee injury, was reported ready for service. Also fullback Joe Perry, hampered by a knee injury and poundage picked up by inactivity, reportedly is regaining his shape and will see duty against Los Angeles.

* * * *

PERRY PLAYED only a quarter last week, his first game of the season, and lacked his usual sharpness.

As usual, Y. A. Tittle starts at quarterback for the 49ers with Hugh McElhenny at left half and rookie R. C. Owens at flanker. Clyde Conner and Gordy Soltau get the starting call at ends with Wilson available for replacement duty.

Probable offensive starters:

RAMS		49ERS
Arnett (184)	LE	(195) Conner
Fry (238)	LT	(240) Cross
Putnam (231)	LG	(240) Connolly

Praise, Shouting in Yankee Quarters All for Kubek

MILWAUKEE (AP) — All the praise and shouting in the Yankee dressing room centered on Tony Kubek, the Milwaukee - born all - around man of the Yanks, who hit two home runs and a single in Saturday's carnage.

"Kubek was pretty good, wasn't he," Casey Stengel crackled. "He wanted to wait until he got home to do it. It didn't disturb him none to move him around. He's just a 20-year old kid and he's played five positions in the big leagues."

Kubek, who played at third earlier in the series, went to left field Saturday.

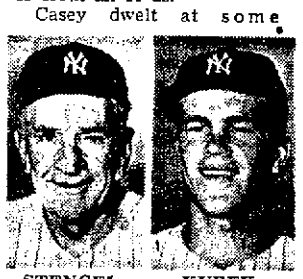

Casey had a warm word, too, for Bob Turley, his starting pitcher.

"I expect Turley will pitch again before this series is over," he said. "He had plenty of stuff, if only he could have got the ball over a little more."

Stengel said he may start Elston Howard at first base today, and Andy Carey at third.

In the shower room, Stengel told the Milwaukee-born Kubek: "You go home and thank your father and mother from all of us."

Casey dwelt at some length on Kubek's Milwaukee background.

STENGEL KUBEK

"You take a big strong boy like Kubek," said Stengel. "He's used to the cool weather like they have around here, you polish him up and then you bring him home and show him to the home folks."

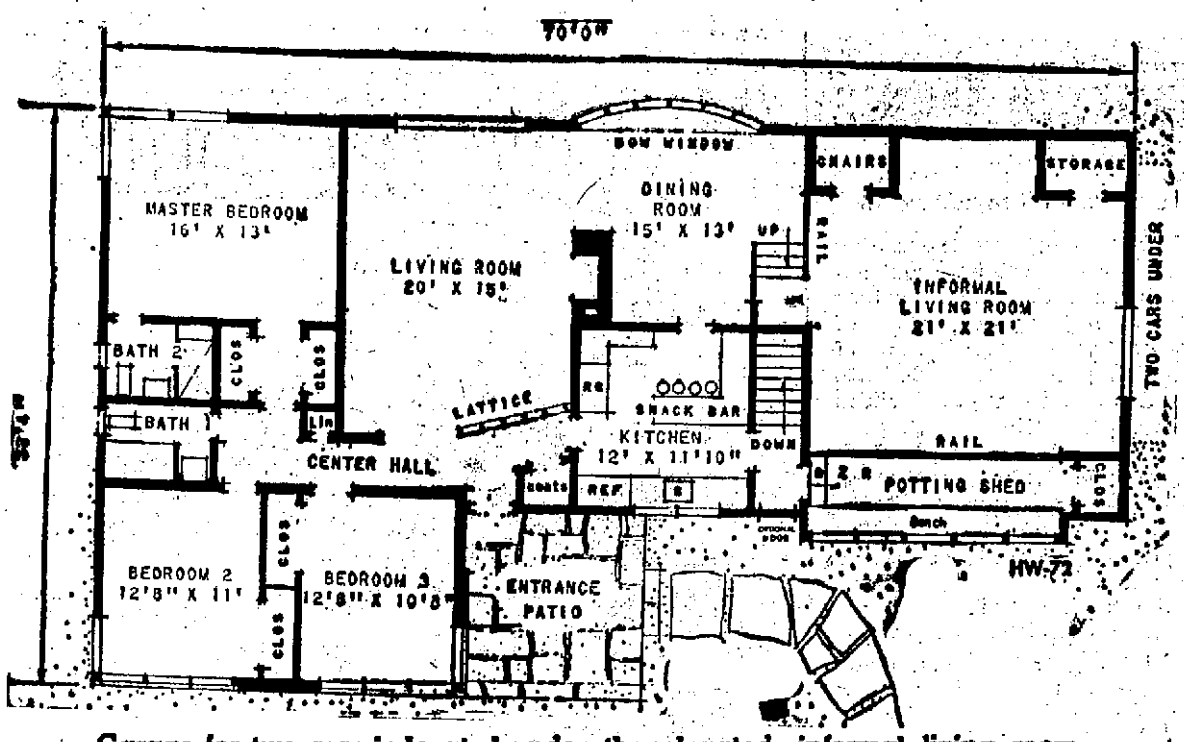

Then Stengel added, with a sly grin, "Sometimes—like today—it makes them mad as hell."

Stengel said he didn't mind the boos of the Milwaukee fans.

"I really love 'em," said the Yankee skipper. "I worked here for them (a reference to the fact that he once managed the Milwaukee Brewers in the American Association). I won a pennant for them. The trouble is, they forgot I worked here, and they don't seem to care too much about me now. But really, they're wonderful and I don't get mad when they boo me."

Stengel, relaxed and genial, was not yet in a mood to celebrate. "We still got a long way to go," he said.

Mickey Mantle, who hit his last previous homer August 30, talked about how good it felt to smash one Saturday. "It sure was a long time between homers. I knew this one was going out almost as soon as I hit it. He (Gene Conley) threw me a good curve ball."

the styling of this house; fullest use is made of all natural light sources.

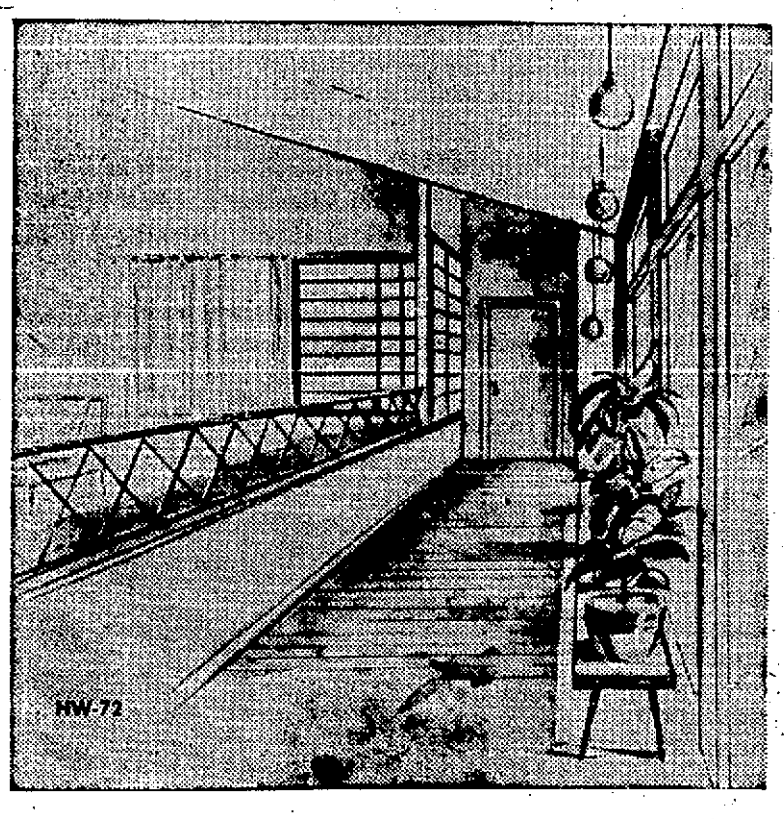

FLAGSTONES, used on the entrance patio, also have been selected as exterior surfacing material for the front of the bedroom wing. Horizontal wood siding, asphalt shingles and a decorative overhang on the roof add contrast.

A flagstone wall extends from the corner of the bedroom wing to make an enclosure for the entrance patio.

Inside, there is a center hall. An angled lattice wall is a modish touch between the front door and the living room. The latticed wall also forms a vestibule which enlarges the apparent space of the living room but at the same time maintains the center hall plan.

EACH OF THE three bedrooms has corner windows, good wall areas and spacious wardrobe closets. Double closets in the master bedroom form an

TO SPEAK

J. Floyd Ragan, executive vice president of the Bank of Belmont Shore, will address the Long Beach Board of Realtors at their regular Tuesday morning breakfast at the Lafayette Hotel. L. A. Martin, president of the Long Beach board, also said that slides would be shown relative to the Community Chest. Ragan's topic will be "You and Your Community Responsibilities."

Vets Can Still Get Big Home

In one of the few remaining developments in Southern California, Signature Homes in Garden Grove, formerly builders of custom homes, now offers veterans the opportunity of buying quality homes with 29-year loans at 4½ per cent interest.

Noteworthy about this is the fact that there are only 42 weeks left for veterans to use their certificate of eligibility and by act of Congress there will be no more VA-financed homes, salesmen point out.

Even now there is only one veteran-financed home for every 10 eligible veterans and these homes are being sold at a rate far beyond the ability to build them.

Veterans can take advantage of an offer that will never be theirs again, and save as much as $4,500 on a home they purchase.

Signature Homes in Garden Grove report a tremendous increase in activity among veterans who desire to buy a home of their own before this type of financing runs out.

More Units Are Opening

Norwalk Village, with a record of 800 homes sold in the first six units, even before they were built, is opening units 7 and 8, according to Natan Shapell, president of S and S Construction Co., builders of the community just off the Santa Ana Freeway near Rosecrans.

Priced from $13,900, homes in Norwalk Village are available to veterans on 29½-year loans, with low down payments. Financing is also available for non-veterans. Price includes semiautomatic dishwasher, sink-installed disposer, range hood with light and fan, parkway tree, lawns, and in some plans forced-air heat. Sewers, streets, and curbs are in and paid for.

These are three-bedroom homes, with one or two tiled and heated baths, and full-sized two-car garage.

To see the furnished models, take Lakewood or Bellflower Blvds. to Rosecrans, then east on Rosecrans just past the Santa Ana Freeway junction to model homes at Greenstone.

Realty Meeting

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet Thursday at 8 a.m. at Mayo's restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave., with Ruby Peterson, program chairman, introducing a record from the Long Beach Board of Realtors workshop.

Expecting Over 4,000 for State Realty Convention

More than 4,000 Realtors, representing every community in California, are expected by Monday in Los Angeles for the 53rd annual convention of the California Real Estate Assn. at the Biltmore Hotel. Over 3,000 of the Realtors paid their registration fees in advance to avoid the congestion of registering at the hotel, according to J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, president of the Association. The CREA state secretary, H. Jackson Pontius, reports that this will be the largest convention in the 53-year history of the association.

More than 80 sessions on specific real estate subjects are listed in the 36-page convention program covering all departments of real estate. An impressive list of nationally prominent speakers will address the general sessions which will be held in the Philharmonic Auditorium and the Biltmore Theater. The conferences, panel meetings and after breakfast round-table discussions will all be held in the Biltmore Hotel. Luncheon and banquet events will take place at the Ambassador, Statler and Biltmore hotels.

First event of the convention will be the CREA Past Presidents' Dinner tonight. Various displays featuring Realtor business-getting material, promotion for multiple listing services and exhibits of equipment, services and materials used by Realtors will be opened today at the Biltmore.

* * * *

MOST OF MONDAY will be devoted to committee meetings on internal business subjects. Sen. Thomas Kuchel will address a luncheon meeting of the appraisal division at the Biltmore. That evening the general convention banquet will be held at the Statler featuring entertainment by the Golden Horseshoe Review from Disneyland. Leo Carrillo will be toastmaster of the event which will honor the real estate boards in California celebrating 50 or more years of service.

The formal opening of the convention will be Tuesday morning in the Philharmonic Auditorium when the first general session will be called to order by Clive Graham of Long Beach, general convention chairman. After words of welcome by Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles, Dan Duggan, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, and J. Mortimer Clark, CREA president, the delegates will hear an address titled, "Real Estate—No Man's Island," by Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples Church of Chicago. James C. Downs Jr. of Chicago, president of the Real Estate Research Corp., will follow with his annual review of business and real estate conditions and a look into the future with predictions of business trends.

TUESDAY EVENING two major banquets will be held. The executive vice president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, John M. Dickerman of Washington, will address the home builders' and land developers' division of CREA. James Q. du Pont of Wilmington, Del., will address the 6th Annual Salute Awards Banquet of the Institute of Real Estate Management.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight will address the general session on Wednesday morning. His subject will be "Dynamic California." Other featured speakers will be Eugene P. Conser of Chicago, executive vice president of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, and Albert M. Cole of Washington, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. That evening the social highlight of the convention will take place—the Presidents' Dinner Dance at the Biltmore Bowl. Entertainment will feature Myron Floren, Alice Lon, Bobby Sargent and the Happy Jesters.

* * * *

THURSDAY MORNING the Philippine Ambassador to the United States, General Carlos P. Romulo, will be the featured speaker. That afternoon the election of the new president and other officers of the association will take place. Also, reports will be given on the after breakfast round-table discussions which take place Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Subjects at the round-tables are the everyday problems which confront the Realtor in his service to the public.

Among the other principal speakers to address the convention are: Tom Collins of Kansas City, Bill Gove of St. Paul, Bob Ringer of Los Angeles, J. Wallace Paletou of New Orleans, Herbert L. Breed of Oakland, Dr. Arthur L. Bietz of Beverly Hills, and Robert B. Collins of Tulsa.

Lois G. Smith, classified advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram will be director in charge of a special roundtable session Tuesday when advertising will be discussed. Among those directing the program will be Earl Capper of the I., P.-T. staff.

G. MELVIN SHELDON
Heads Sales Drive Plans

Heads Sales Promotion in Hancock Oil

G. Melvin Sheldon has been named sales promotion and training manager for Hancock Oil Co., according to Joe W. Perry, marketing manager. Sheldon will be responsible for the development and operation of a comprehensive sales and dealer training program. This coincides with Hancock's plans for retail expansion in California to provide more modern service station facilities and improved customer service.

Sheldon brings to Hancock twenty years of diversified experience in the petroleum industry. He was formerly with Hickok Oil Corp., Toledo., in charge of sales promotion and training; Richfield Oil Corp., Los Angeles, as sales promotion assistant to the retail merchandising manager; and most recently, Leo Burnett Advertising Agency, Chicago, serving the marketing department of Pure Oil Company.

A graduate of Colorado College, Colorado Springs. Sheldon is an active member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Toastmasters International, and The American Society of Training Directors.

Big Dividend by Home Savings

The highest quarterly dividend payment ever made by a savings and loan association was paid by Home Savings and Loan for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1957, according to Dwight Jenkins, local manager, 201 East First St.

Charles Brinton, treasurer of Home Savings, reported to Jenkins that dividends paid on withdrawable shares totalled over $4 million for the quarter just concluded. This record dividend payment was shared by the more than 180,000 savers affiliated with Home's 20 offices throughout Southern California.

Big Missiles Really Cost

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Uncle Sam's missiles cost from $4,400 to more than $4 million apiece, a trade pubisher says.

Bennett H. Horchler of Cleveland, publishing director of the trade magazine Aeronautical Purchasing, told a news conference that the magazine's Washington correspondent made these estimates of costs for 15 missiles:

Sidewinder, $4,400; Sparrow III, $40,000; Falcon, $9,000; Nike I, $20,000; Nike II, $80,000-$100,000; Tartar, $40,000; Bullpup, above $10,000; Petrel, $80,000; Corporal, above $100,000; Matador, $100,000; Redstone, $1,000,000; Lacrosse, above $50,000; Regulu II, $430,000; Snark, $1,000,000.

The Atlas, Horchler said, costs more than $4 million.

TV set. Here, too, the ceiling plane carries over in a continuous statement of plan. Further contributing to the feeling of singleness, the glass wall of the living room extends into the den where a panel slides open to the patio.

In the dining room, an Italian provincial dining set is the focal point of interest. Here, privacy or openness is a matter of choice and responds to the dictates of occasion by the use of the hidden shoji.

The kitchen is proportionally large and has been made outstanding by the use of pink marble-pattern plastic for its extensive countertops. Centering the room is a huge cooking island that is located under a large and handsome polished copper hood. All cabinets are of natural mahogany, —the ceiling is pale pink, the floor is pink vinyl. At one end of the kitchen and built in along its angled wall is a long sofa-bench, upholstered in foam rubber covered in pink leather.

OFF THE KITCHEN are maid's quarters. A bath is available to bathers as well as a complete dressing room, a pantry and a service area.

The master bedroom, opening to the pool and patio from the bedroom wing, is paneled in Oriental ash that has been rubbed with a soft cocoa-rose stain. There, the carpet is the same as that used throughout the dining room, den and living areas. Furnishings are Italian provincial, including two separate double beds spread in quilted, cocoa antique satin to match the draperies.

Adjacent to the master bedroom is an enormous dressing room and bath. The dressing room is carried out in tones of cocoa and pink, with pink Norwegian-rose marble surfacing the countertops. Adjacent is an ivory-and-pink bath.

No Delay to Buyer of Home

New owners of Holiday Park 3-bedroom, all-purpose room and 2-bath homes in Garden Grove are taking immediate occupancy of their dwellings, according to W. W. Keusder, president of Davies, Keusder & Brown, Inc., builders and developers of the spacious homes.

The large kitchens in the homes are equipped with Gaffers and Sattler wall ovens, built-in ranges and rotisseries, food pulverators, automatic dishwashers, ventilating hoods, breakfast seats and ash cabinetry.

Buyers have a choice of Provincial or Contemporary styled homes, with heavy shake or crushed rock roofs. Cul de Sac streets give added safety and seclusion to the homes on lots which are already fenced and landscaped.

* * * *

FIREPLACES at Holiday Park are offered in three designs, one built into a solid brick wall extending to the patio, free-standing with an indoor barbecue or raised hearth with brick seating or decorating space on either side.

Other features include sliding walls of glass, concrete patios, roof and ceiling insulation, utility rooms, radio-intercom wiring, forced air heat with thermostat, Pullman lavatories, oversize stall showers, glass-enclosed tub showers, electric bath heaters, ample wardrobes and closets.

Priced from $16,700, Holiday Park homes are available on FHA financing with down payments of $1,700. They are close to new schools, churches, major transportation, shopping centers and recreational areas.

Models are open on West St. north of Chapman Ave. From Long Beach, visitors drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Hwy. 39, turn left (north) to Chapman and east on Chapman to West St., north to the homes.

VERN POPE
To Speak at Dinner

Speaker for NOMA Meet

Members of the Long Beach Chapter, National Office Management Assn., will hear a talk on "Office Communications" at their monthly dinner meeting Tuesday. Vern Pope, director of industrial relations for Grayson Controls Division of Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co., will be the speaker.

Pope, a graduate of Montana State University, has been with Grayson Controls Division in Lynwood and Long Beach for 17 years. Pope also serves as a director of Community Rehabilitation Industry, Long Beach, and as a lecturer at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena. His varied business activities also include active membership in the Long Beach and Los Angeles Chambers of Commerce, Los Angeles Civil Service Commission, California Management Assn., and Personnel & Industrial Relations Assn.

The dinner meeting will be held in the Cavalier Room of the Lafayette Hotel at 7:00, preceded by a social hour at 6:30 and a study group session at 5:15. The study group, conducted by Edward E. DeFreitas, office manager of Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., will discuss "Principles of Management Development."

Get Low Terms on Big Home

Homes with 4 bedrooms and 2 baths are available for low down payment of $295 in Excelsior Village, Garden Grove. Monthly payments are also at low figure, salesmen say. Terms are available to both vet and non-vet.

Features include forced-air-heating system, 50-gallon water heaters, Honeywell fire-alarm system, and American standard bath fixtures. Western Holly built-in range and oven, Nutone vent fan, Waste King disposal, and natural ash cabinets are kitchen features. All homes have 2-car garages.

Furnished models are located at Wright Rd. and Traylor Way, just north of Westminster Blvd. and may be seen daily.

Walker's Launching Birthday Sale With Big Cake to Be Cut

J. F. BISHOP
Optimistic as to Future

Walker's 24th Birthday Sale starts Monday, and the traditional big Birthday cake is now on display in the store's Pine Ave. window.

This cake weighs more than 1,000 pounds.

This year the store is dedicating it to the Miss Universe Pageant. The cake is decorated with the flags of all the participating countries, and miniature replicas of the Miss Universe girls. Twenty-four marked pennies are in the cake—one for every year—and when the cake is cut and distributed, each customer who finds a penny will receive one of the gifts which are on display in the window.

Actually this particular birthday is also a FIRST, for it marks the first year since Walker's was purchased by Joseph Bishop, and Leo C. Malco. These men have been with the store since it's inception.

Bishop, president of the corporation, said, "We are very optimistic relative to the future of downtown Long Beach. We have recently had some fine improvements in this area. It will always be Walker's policy to keep pace with the new improvements.

Malco, in addition to being vice-president and general manager of the store, also directs the merchandising activities. He spent most of the month of August, with a number of buyers, in the Eastern markets.

They visited the company's buying offices in St. Louis, Chicago, New York, Miami and Dallas.

Said Malco, "I was delighted with the wonderful response and encouragement from our friends in the market. They went all-out to make our Birthday Sale a tremndous success. The values that we obtained for this event are the most outstanding of any in our history. I know that our customer-friends will be pleased with the savings that we are able to pass on to them."

Three Choice Stratford Homes Back on Market

There are three choice locations available at Stratford Homes of Anaheim, it was noted by Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents of the Cunningham Co. subdivision in Anaheim. The homes, with 3 or 4 bedrooms and two baths, were previously sold but placed back on the market because prospective buyers failed to qualify.

Priced from $15,755, Stratford Homes are available for only $900 move-in, as a result of new financing terms recently announced. A choice of gas or electric built-in oven and range is offered, with all kitchens equipped with ventilating hood and fan, garbage disposal, built-in clocks and door chimes and handsome hardwood Sakar cabinetry. There is also dining space in the kitchens.

* * * *

MORE FEATURES are paneled walls, dust-free slab doors, sliding glass doors, brick fireplaces, service porches, oversize two-car garages, lustrous oak floors with two-inch tongue and groove sub-floors, Pullman baths, stall showers and luxury-size mirrors. Some models are equipped with built-in bookcases and dressing rooms with patio doors in the bedrooms as well. Street lights are in and paid for and there are sidewalks throughout the development.

Major transportation to Los Angeles, Santa Ana and Long Beach is readily accessible, it was noted, while major shopping centers, including the mammoth Broadway center, are nearby. There are new schools and churches, parks and recreational centers and famous Southland recreational areas, including Disneyland, golf courses, beaches and resorts nearby.

Visitors may reach the models by driving out Carson (Lincoln Ave.) to Euclid and south to the homes.

Tails, Stripes Out, Says Mayor

NEW YORK (UP)—Protocol or no, Mayor Robert F. Wagner says he does not intend to wear striped trousers and tails when he greets Queen Elizabeth of England here Oct. 21.

Wagner, always dressed impeccably, just doesn't like the formal attire. He calls it a "rig."

Asked what he would wear, he pointed to his blue-gray business suit and said:

"Probably something like this."

Survey of Automation

CHICAGO (UP)—The Mortgage Bankers Association of America is going to hold a clinic on how far the push-button era of automation has gone in its industry. The electronic and tabulating equipment servicing clinic, sponsored by the association, will be held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, Sept. 23-26.

U.S.-Canada Economics Parley Set

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States and Canada will hold cabinet-level talks here next week on growing strains in economic relations.

The parley, set for Monday and Tuesday, will be the first full-fledged conference on economic differences since Canada's new government took office last summer. Outspoken criticism of some U. S. foreign economic policies by Canada's new prime minister, John Diefenbaker, may indicate the Canadian delegation plans to do some tough talking.

The conference will be the third session of the joint U. S.-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. Sessions were held in 1954 and 1955 but none was held last year because Canada felt they were not worthwhile.

New Members Are Approved

New members approved at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants were, Frank Hardin Courtney Jr., chief cost accountant for Star-Kist Foods; William G. Kormalis, supervisor of the cost accounting department of Arrowhead Products; Nathan Meltzer of the National Metal and Steel Corp. and Lawrence C. Richards, who is comptroller of National Metal and Steel.

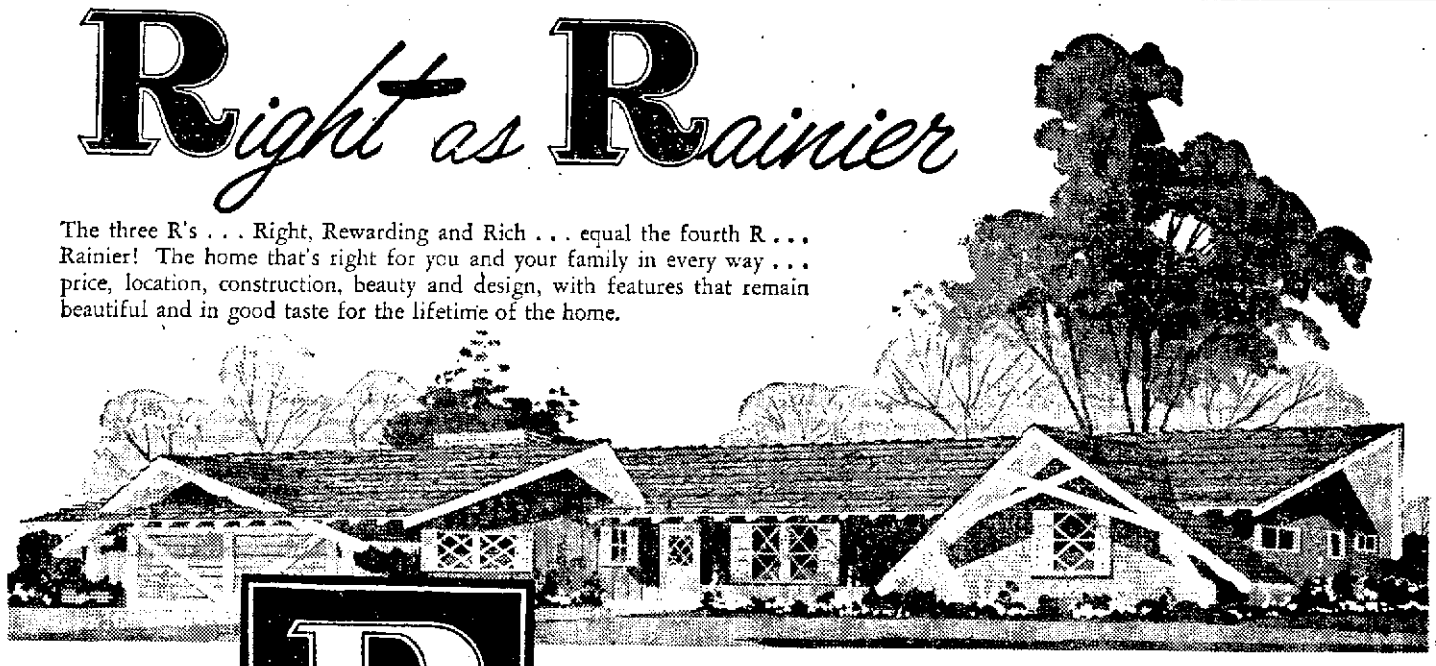

Douglas Exec Wins Aeronautics Award

NEW YORK (UP) — Aircraft executive Arthur E. Raymond has been named winner of the 1957 Daniel Guggenheim medal for notable achievements in the advancement of aeronautics, it was announced Saturday by Edward Warner, chairman of the judging board.

Raymond, vice president-engineering of Douglas Aircraft Co., will be presented the medal on Jan. 28, 1958, during a dinner here of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

TOM COLLINS
Famed as Dinner Speaker

Tom Collins Speaks Here

Tom Collins, Kansas City humorist and philosopher who is nationally recognized as an outstanding after-dinner speaker will be featured at the dinner of the Long Beach Sales Executive Club Monday night. The dinner meeting will be in the Supper Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Collins, who is publicity director of the City National Bank and Trust Co., of Kansas City, is a former newspaperman who became so popular as a dinner speaker that he changed his profession. He has been featured in radio shows and movie shorts.

Sales Now Soaring for Rainier Homes

Sales continue to increase since the opening of the fourth unit of Rainier Homes 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath and family room homes in Anaheim.

According to a spokesman for the Marjan development, buyers largely constitute families with growing children who will take full advantage of the new schools and churches nearby. Also within easy access of the homes is the Broadway Shopping Center, major transportation to Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles, and famous Southern California recreational areas including Disneyland, parks and beaches.

Kitchens in Rainier Homes are all-electric by Westinghouse and include built-in oven and range, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposals, exhaust fans, ventilating hoods, dining or serving peninsulas and natural finish alderwood cabinetry with raised panels. Optional equipment includes Westinghouse built-in refrigerator-freezers.

LIVING AND FAMILY ROOMS have used brick fireplaces and sliding glass doors opening onto patio areas. There are Pullman lavatories topped with imported Italian marble, genuine lath and plaster construction, sliding wardrobes, walk-in linen closets, entry halls, front and side landscaping. Baths also have stall showers and ceramic tiled tub areas.

Hardwood floors, cement drives and walks and heavy shake roofs are more features, with optional equipment including complete hi-fidelity music system with AM, FM and four-speed record changer, custom designed patios and swimming pools, all contracted for before construction, to be installed and ready for use at the time of occupancy.

Priced from $18,640, the homes are available to both vets and non-vets on new FHA financing. Models are open daily on Broadway between Brookhurst and Euclid in Anaheim. Visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway from Los Angeles, turn south on Brookhurst (La Palma) to Broadway and east on Broadway. From Long Beach, drive out Carson (Lincoln) to Brookhurst and south on Brookhurst to Broadway, east to the models.

Accountants to Tour Plant

On Oct. 10 the members of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants and their invited guests will make one of their semi-annual plant inspection tours of the McCulloch Motors Corp. at 6101 W. Century Blvd. A first hand opportunity to observe the manufacturing of this line of small gasoline engines and their chain saws will be accorded the touring group.

The plant tour will be preceded by dinner on the grounds.

Bike Appeal

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Police said three thieves stole Donald L. Hickok's car, drove it for five hours, parked it, and rode off on bicycles.

New Jet Is Ready

DENVER (UP)—Lockheed Aircraft Co. is ready to offer a new two-engine jet utility transport to the U. S. Air Force.

Robert I. Mitchell of Marietta, Ga., sales manager of Lockheed's Georgia division, said the new plane is the JetStar, a 500-mile-an-hour jet which can seat 10 passengers in addition to its crew of two. Its two Curtiss-Wright TJ-37 engines are mounted on either side of the fuselage, just forward of the tail section.

Mitchell said the plane could be turned over to the Air Force soon for testing. He said the Air Force has indicated a need of approximately 200 planes of this type. The craft currently is being flight tested in California.

The company estimates the plane's cost will be about $720,000 each once total production rises to about 400.

L. B. Apartments for Vegas Motel

Consideration in the exchange amounted to approximately $250,000. The principals were represented by James P. Kelly, real estate broker, 1240 E. 4th St.

The Dusty Road to Ballarat

By O. G. Boyd

AN OLD WOODEN SIGN along the rocky desert road read: BALLARAT 21 MILES. In a cloud of dust loaded down with various tools of the prospector, the gray burro walked sedately along. Leading the ancient animal, with faded overalls tucked into the tops of his hob-nailed boots, and his old black Stetson perched jauntily on the side of his head, was the grizzled figure of Chaparral Charley.

The road led into a small canyon whose sides, composed of a black lava flow, narrowed to a U at the bottom. A few mesquite trees and greasewood bushes bunched together to form a small oasis were the only green things in sight.

"Git a move on, Cadwallader," said Chaparral to the old burro, "ef that little ol' spring is dried up I'm a goin' to bust right out cryin'."

THE OLD BURRO sensed the nearness of water, too, for his long rabbit ears flopped forward as he broke into a trot. The pots and pans that adorned his flanks rattled and banged like a steam pipe on a winter morning.

"Doggone you, Cadwallader," said Charley, waving a futile fist in the air, "I'm sure goin' to take it out of your hide ef you mess up that water—ef there is any," he added doubtfully. When he arrived a few minutes later the burro was standing with his forefeet in the small seepage.

"Git out of there you ol' hog," Chaparral said, exasperated. "Been tryin' to larn you some manners for 20 years and all for nothin'." Charley eyed the muddy mess distastefully but stretched out full length on the ground and took a few eager gulps.

HE TOOK THE PACK and pack saddle off the animal's back and poured some rolled barley into his gold pan. While the burro was eating he adjusted a set of hobbles to the burro's four legs.

"Nary a bit of use jes' hobblin' two of 'em," he complained bitterly, warily eyeing the burro's dainty hoofs, "dern ol' critter kin run jes' as fast with two like he didn't have none on."

Cadwallader had finished his meal now and was rolling luxuriously in the desert dust. When he got up there was a ticket out of Confederacy!

Lowe went straight to Washington, staged a balloon demonstration over the capital, and secured an appointment from President Lincoln as Chief Aeronaut of the Union Army. He was 29.

Riding equipment which today's Air Force wouldn't send up in target practice, he flew 3,000 missions over battlefields. For the first time in U. S. military history ground fire was directed by a "spotter" from a station in the air.

LOWE RELAYED his intelligence from basket to earth either by telegraph or by means of a pasteboard tube sent down on a thin wire line. During the famous Battle of Fair Oaks, where his reports saved the Union from a disastrous defeat, he sent a message to an assistant by way of the tube:

"Did you see that? They shot my hat off. And I'm just a civilian!"

On his next trip aloft he wore another tall black hat—with a bull's-eye target painted on it in white.

The Official Records of the War of Rebellion are sprinkled liberally with reports of the Professor's operations. More than once he made the difference between defeat and victory. In his report on the operations of the Army of the Potomac, Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan wrote: "To Professor Lowe, the intelligent and enterprising aeronaut, who had the management of the balloons, I was greatly indebted."

THE FACT IS, American military aviation is indebted to the intrepid Professor for its beginnings. He was the pioneer of U. S. military aerial reconnaissance.

Following the Civil War, Lowe contributed significant inventions to the gas and refrigeration industries and settled in Southern California. Here he was a civic and business leader until after the turn of the century. One of his last projects—never brought to fruition—was the designing of a balloon with a huge gondola for carrying tourists to the mountain tops.

ON THE DUSTY ROAD TO BALLARAT

cup-like depression in the sand. The sharp eyes of the old desert rat caught the glimmer from a piece of rock that protruded from one side of the imprint. He picked it up and examined it critically.

"THAT'S CERTAINLY a good lookin' piece of rock, Cadwallader," said Charley, a look of amazement coming over his face. "Do you know what it is?" he shouted, holding the rock in the air, his hand shaking, "that's high-grade from the ol' Goldfield Con. an' it's richer 'an all gitout. Know it anywhere. Never seen any ore like it. Might pay to do a little more diggin'."

It certainly did pay to do a little more diggin', for in a short time he unearthed about fifty pounds of the ore, together with some bleached bones which he handled gingerly. There was a look of awe on his face as he viewed his find.

"It's a dern poor burro that don't do nobody no good," said Chaparral, a smile on his wrinkled face. "Looks like we got ourselves a pretty good little stake, Cadwallader. Might be seventy-five ounces of gold in that little heap of ore. Give a lot to know how it got here. Some poor miner packed it here on his back, I guess. Weren't no water. Guess he jes' didn't make the grade, that's all.

"TAKES ME BACK to the time when Goldfield was boomin'," mused Charley. "Sure was a poor man's camp. I've seen the boys comin' off shift with their overalls tied at the bottom. They had so much high-grade in 'em they could hardly walk. Funniest lookin' bunch of cripples you ever did see. They staggered down the street to an assayer who bought it off 'em for half what it was worth."

"Did I git any of it, you asks, Cadwallader? Sure did. Didn't do me no good, howsomever. Easy come, easy go, as they says. Weren't called stealin' in them days. Jes' high gradin' ".

"Know what we're goin' to do now, Cadwallader?" said Charley, and his face glowed in anticipation. "We're goin' to turn smack aroun' and head back to Barstow. When we gits there I'm goin' to hire you a corral and you're goin' to have all the alfalfa hay and oats you kin eat. An' once a day you're goin' to have a load of the finest swill I kin find in the back of Gung Duk's eatin' place. Might keep you from knockin' over garbage pails all over town and gittin' inter a peck of trouble."

"YOU THINK I ORTER bury this feller's bones, you say, Cadwallader? That's jes' what I figured on doin'. Goin' to write him an epituge too. Guess that's all I kin do for him.

He dug a shallow grave and covered the bones. Taking a piece of paper and an empty tobacco can for a receptacle, he wrote laborously with work worn fingers:

"Here lyes a miner
Safe in the fold.
I buried his bones
And took all his gold."

Appetizers for After the Game

Finger foods with football names meet with terrific response from guests at after-game party. Above, pigskin parades, touchdown canapes and more.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

KICKOFF your fall entertaining with an after-the-game party that's sure to score with the food-and-fun fans.

Let guests help themselves to tasty finger foods from a large appetizer tray. As hostess, you can decline the penalty of missing out on the party fun by planning ahead and keeping the refreshments simple. So many appetizers are merchandised in glass jars these days, that by little more than a flip-of-the-lid you can be all set for your guests. Stuffed green olives pearl onions, pickles, cheese curls, salted nuts, cheese and meat spreads, cocktail franks, and pimientos are examples. All of these foods are available in glass containers that let you see in advance just what you are getting.

To serve with hot or cold beverages, here are several quick-tricks that will have guests in a huddle around the serving center. Arrange the appetizers on a large tray or Lazy Susan with bowls of crackers, potato chips, salted nuts and corn curls near by. If you're entertaining a crowd, you'll probably want to make several appetizer trays.

Pigskin Parade

Use lid flipper to remove pry-off cap from a jar of cocktail franks. Drain and rinse franks. Cut a deep slit along one side of franks. Insert small strips of cheddar cheese in the slits. For variety, stuff some of the cocktail franks with small dill pickle slices, cut crosswise, and others with slices of stuffed green olives. Place stuffed franks on broiler rack in broiler pan and broil about five to six inches from source of broiler heat until franks are heated through, about 3 to 4 minutes. Serve piping hot on cocktail picks.

Winning Teams

Cut Swiss cheese into ¾-inch cubes. Top each cube with a stuffed green olive or a cocktail onion skewered with colored plastic toothpicks.

Cheddar Bowl

2 5-oz. jars sharp pasteurized process cheese spread
1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce
½ tsp. dry mustard
dash Tabasco sauce
2 tblsps. catsup
2 tsps. minced onion

Have cheese at room temperature. Combine all ingredients and blend until mixture is fluffy. Heap into a bowl and serve as an appetizer "dunk" or spread with crackers and potato chips.

Touchdown Canapes

Select a variety of assorted jars of meat sandwich spreads, such as beef with barbecue flavor added, or a liver with bacon combination, for canape toppings. To make canapes, cut rounds or any fancy shapes desired from slices of day-old bread. Toast lightly on one side only in broiler. Brush untoasted side of bread lightly with melted butter. Spread generously with meat spread and garnish prettily with slices of stuffed green olives, strips of pimiento, sieved hard cooked eggs, tiny pickle slices, or parsley. Keep canapes refrigerated until serving time.

Complete appetizer tray with stuffed green olives and small sweet pickles.

Hot Potato Salad With Bacon

½ lb. bacon, diced
5 potatoes, cooked in jackets (3½ cups)
1 onion, diced
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 beaten egg

Cook bacon. Combine potatoes, bacon, and onion. Add remaining ingredients to bacon drippings; heat thoroughly. Pour over mixture and mix well.

SERVE WITH: Tomato Juice—Hot Potato Salad—Buttered Asparagus—Glazed Pineapple Rings—Poppy-Seed Rolls—Jelly Roll and Vanilla Sauce

STEAKS

Beef Tenderloin, also known as Filet Mignon, is a boneless, very tender little steak that is cut from the beef tenderloin, and is really not expensive when you consider it a solid piece of meat. A one inch thick steak weighs 4 to 6 ounces. They are thick, but for the person who wants his steak well done, it would be a good idea to butterfly it. Because it is always tender and cooks quickly, it is excellent company fare.

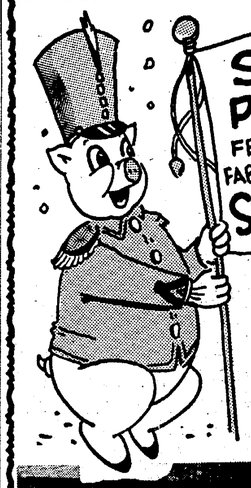

BROILING CHART for 1-inch Steak:

RARE: 6 minutes on each side
MEDIUM: 7 minutes on each side
WELL DONE: 8 minutes on each side

MENU

Broiled Tenderloin Steaks
Buttered Peas — Green Salad — Coffee

7:30 P.M.

Rushing to the airport, "Jack Benny" (2) runs into all manner of complications including Frank Nelson, Mel Blanc and Sheldon Leonard.

In a river-boat game of high-stakes poker, "Maverick" (7) is heavy loser to a woman who uses obscure rules to win. He gets his revenge.

"Sally" (4) and Mrs. Banford find themselves inadvertently involved with a group of existentialists on Paris' Left Bank.

8 P.M.

COLOR for the "Steve Allen Show" (4) with Anthony Perkins, Joanne Dru, Johnny Pulco and the Harmonica Rascals, Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane as the guests.

"Ed Sullivan Show" (2) has Danny Thomas, Kate Smith, Eva Marie Saint, Alan King, the Everly Brothers, the Piel Brothers (Bob and Ray), the Kirby Stone Four, Mr. Pastry, winners of the Harvest Moon Ball, the Mambo Aces and a juggler. Too much talent for not enough time. Next week Crosby and Sinatra take over this hour so Sullivan is off for Europe.

9 P.M.

NEW dramas for "C.E. Theatre" (2) with James and Pamela Mason as the first fall stars. Story of an author who has had a mental breakdown and tries to recover on an island in the West Indies only to run into a most unusual situation.

"Bob Hope Show" (4). See above.

Movie on (11) is "Deep Waters" starring Dana Andrews, Cesar Romero and Jean Peters. Conflicting tale of a fisherman torn between the lure of the sea and the love of a pretty girl.

9:30 P.M.

NEW dramas for "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2) stars Jessica Tandy, Tom Conway and William Shattner. There's no murder in this one but plenty of suspense and a shocking climax.

SPECIAL on (7) will present Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

Henry Armstrong, once one of the world's great fighters, will face a panel of "Dateline" (5).

10 P.M.

Jeff Richards portrays a courageous newspaperman of the old west in gold-rush days who crusades against local lawlessness until hoods raid his plant and kill his wife, on "The Web" (4). This winds up the series. Next week a big spectacular followed in a week by "Loretta Young."

10:30 P.M.

NEW TIME for the "Mae Williams Show" (5) as she tells of some star who came up the hard way.

The effect of atomic fallout on the people is discussed on "Your Decision" (7). State Senator Robert McCarthy is the host-moderator.

MEMORIALS TO COLUMBUS

to make them come true. Indeed, his career might well be labeled "poor boy makes good."

Settling at Lisbon, Portugal, the center of the greatest seafaring nation of the day, he read scholarly books on geography and learned as much about navigation as he could.

His marriage to the daughter of a famous Portuguese navigator gave him access to the best maps and charts of the day, and also raised his social rank to the place where he was able to meet important officials.

NOR DID HE LET discouragement, poverty or ridicule overcome his faith in his dream. Though by 1483 he presented to Portugal's King John II his theory that Asia could be reached by sailing west, it was not until 1492 that a sudden long cry of "land ho" from the masthead of the Santa Maria proved him not a fool.

In between were long years of vainly seeking support, not only in Spain and Portugal, but through his brother in England and France. Though he often must have been disheartened, he never gave up. Finally, on April 17, 1492, he succeeded in persuading King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain to subsidize the expedition.

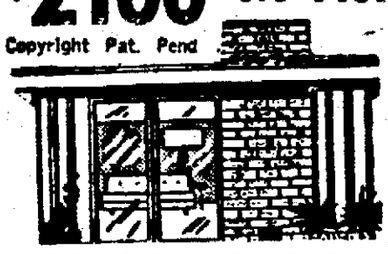

Then followed the grim weeks on the "sea of darkness" with a starving, terrified crew on the verge of mutiny. A weaker spirit would have turned back many times, but Columbus looked only west to sail on.

AND SAIL ON he did, not only once but four times to discover what he thought to be the western islands of India, but which we know was Central America, the northern mainland of South America, and a multitude of islands including the Bahamas, Trinidad, Jamaica, Haiti, Porto Rico and Cuba.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you tell about the name SKINNER.—Mrs. S. K., Downey; M. S., Huntington Beach.

S.K. AND M.S.: The English surname SKINNER has a dual occupational source. Originally spelled Skynnere, it is diversified in meaning, either a dealer in hides and furs or a man who prepared skins for sale. The first seller's shop in "Ye Olde England" was given the descriptive name of "Skinnery." The Skinners attained prominence in Hereford, Essex and Devonshire. One member of this family was honored by being made Lord Mayor of London in 1596. The coat-of-arms of the Skinners of Hereford, descended from Stephen Skinner who died in 1557, has a gold chevron between three silver griffin heads on a black shield. The first of this family in our country is believed to be John Skinner of Windsor, Conn., who married there about 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would greatly appreciate the brief genealogy of the name SEAL.—The Seal Family, Long Beach.

LINGUISTIC evidence shows that this surname originated as "At the Sele." Sele was the English spelling of the French "Salle" meaning "Hall." "At the Hall" described the manor house location of the family. In English records of 1347 a John Atte Sele was listed. By the 16th century the name was altered, for example, Richard Seale of Warwick, 1574. The Seal family coat-of-arms, granted in 1599, had three black wolf heads and a blue bar on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the brief genealogy and coat-of-arms of NUTTALL.—Mrs. A.W. and G.W., Long Beach.

A.W. AND G.W.: NUTTALL was the name of an English manor house many centuries ago. This early surname was acquired by the family who dwelled there. The oldest spelling was Nut-Hall from "Knot-Hall," or Hall on the Hillock. A Hall was a large, imposing manor house owned by a nobleman or a member of the landed gentry. Agatha de Nuthal lived in Nottinghamshire in 1272. The family coat-of-arms has a black shacklebolt on a silver shield.

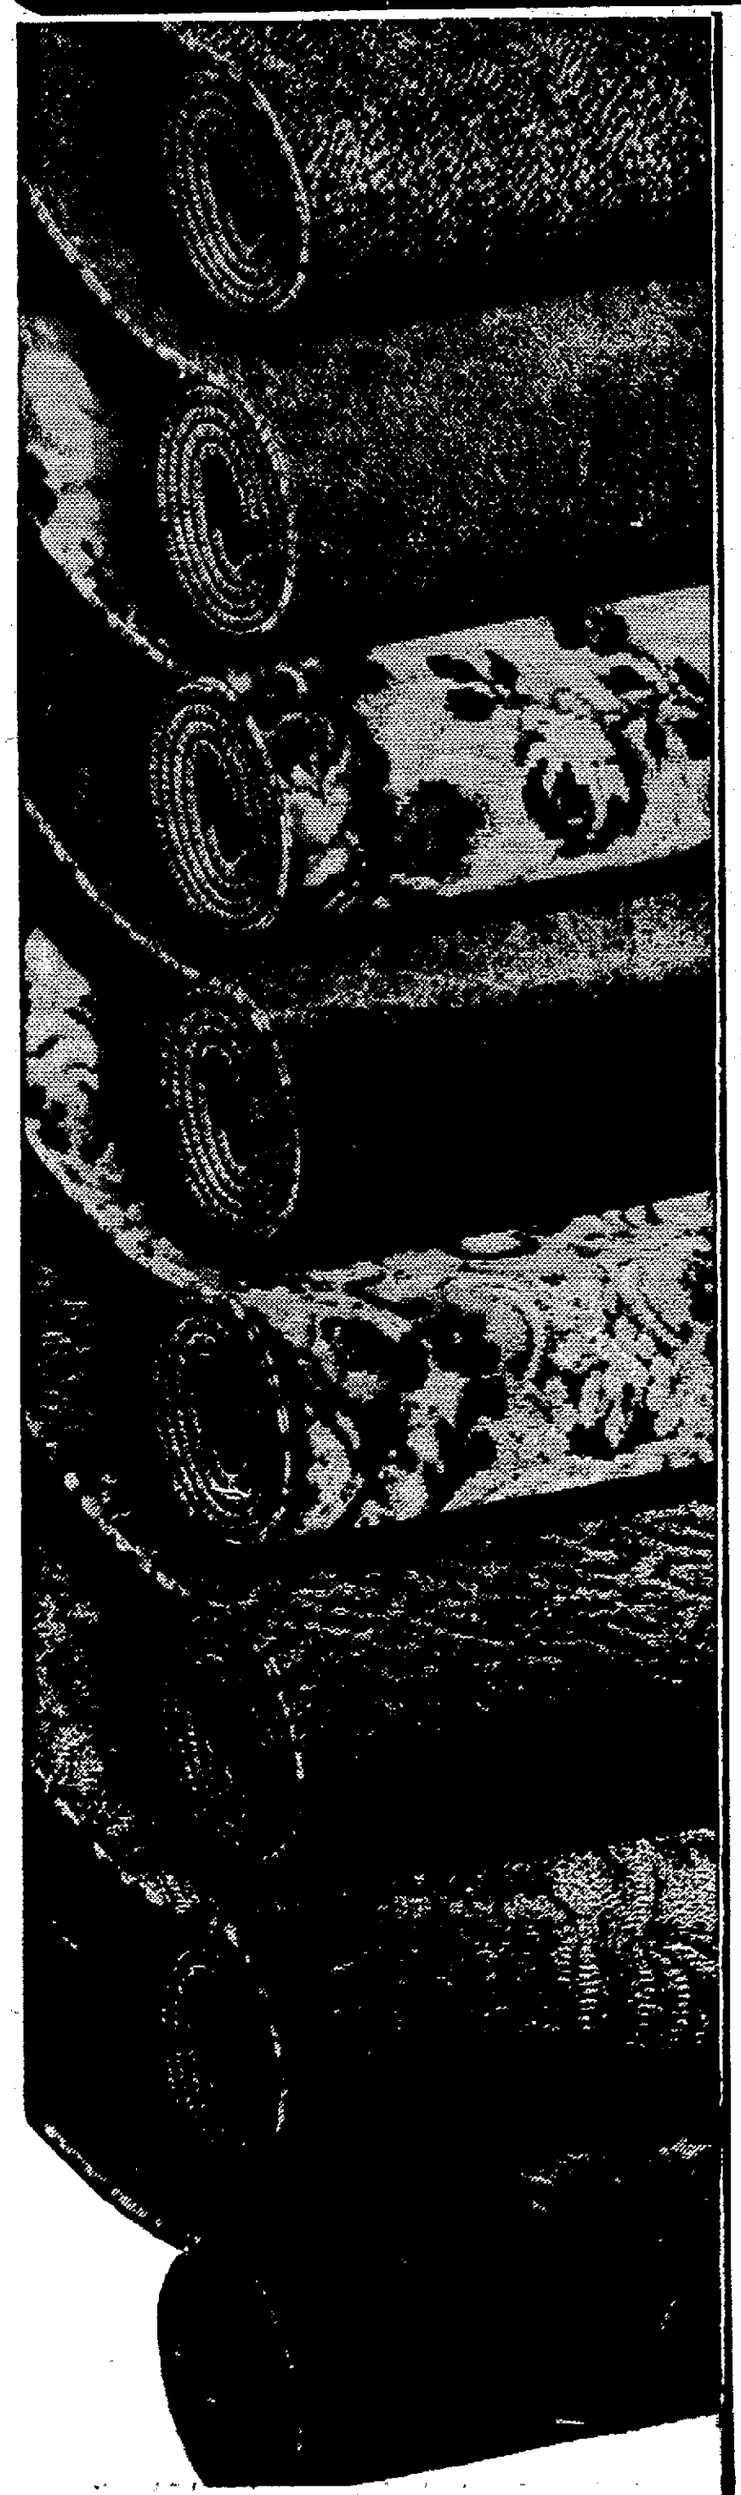

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like to know what you have in your genealogy research files pertinent to the name WENZEL or WENZELL as I use it. —W.V.W., Long Beach.

W.V.W.: WENZELL, from the German surname Wenzel, was given, many generations ago as a complimentary name for a clear-thinking, sharp-witted, wide-awake ancestor who was baptized Wenceslaus meaning "the wise one." This name was rare for it is a description of the mental prowess of the progenitor, rather than his physical attributes. In southern Germany Wenceslaus was shortened to the nickname Wenz-el. The name was used in memory of King Wenceslaus of Bohemia, a 14th century ruler famed for his benevolence.

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

A Used Car Is Just

a machine subject to repair. We have felt that a customer of Donel Edsel Sales Used Car Dept. should enjoy solid assurance of no cost for repairs on any car we guarantee.

Therefore we henceforth will place a bonded guarantee of 100% coverage on parts and labor, to be used in any garage in the United States, with no mileage restrictions, effective for 12 months. This, indeed, takes the gamble out of buying a Bonded Used Car — No Gamble at Donel Edsel.

Money Lessons Are Important to Children

Children can learn the value of money with tiny bank.

By Alan Farrant

AS SOON as your child wants something he does not possess, the time has arrived to start teaching him the value of money. No definite age can be set as the starting point for such training, because it varies with the individual.

But such training is all-important! See to it he quickly learns the way to get money is —work! If the child grows up without an appreciation of the connection between work and money, he may always try for easy and quick returns.

Do not make the mistake of paying the child for every bit of help he gives around the house. Homemaking is for every member of the family, and he should realize this. But he can be paid for extra jobs, such as a special trip to the store, or raking up an unusual amount of leaves.

WHEN CHILDREN are 10 years or more old, they can be expected to find jobs away from home. Parents should check closely into the work, for it may be a job too strenuous, or of too long duration. But if it is necessary to make the child quit, be sure he understands why—otherwise he'll quickly be discouraged about working for a wage.

All phases of money-importance must be taught.

Sometimes a youngster will borrow from a member of the family, then fail to pay it back. Wrong! Others go shopping and fail to give back the change. Wrong again! And as for taking coins from mother's purse: again, wrong!

AS SOON as the child has saved up a little money—from earning it, or from his weekly allowance—he wants to spend it. He should be made aware that he can spend, save, or share. But the spending urge will be the strongest. He must be helped, by showing that if he saves he can soon get something better.

And as for sharing, it should be pointed out if he buys something as a gift for a friend, then both he and the friend are happy. It is advisable, however, to let most of the money be spent when the child wants, and for what he decides to buy.

Problems of saving are numerous. Where will he keep the money? How will he know where it is? How will he figure out how much he spent? How much is left?

THE EASIEST WAY is to have the child keep written records, extremely simple ones. Even before he can write and solve adding and subtracting, records he can understand can be thought up. It must be explained carefully, slowly. For very young children it is expedient to use only a coin of one value. Always give him nickels, never dimes. This makes it much easier for him to understand.

Small amounts are kept in a "piggy bank," or small box, larger ones in a bank. But if in a bank, let the new depositor fully realize the bank takes care of the money only. Unless this point is stressed, the child will be confused. He will think he has spent the money, getting only the bank deposit book.

Parents putting in a little effort on this training will find it time well spent. For as the child grows older his responsibilities toward money will be superior to the untrained child. His value of the dollar will be such that the tendency to spend foolishly will be held to a minimum.

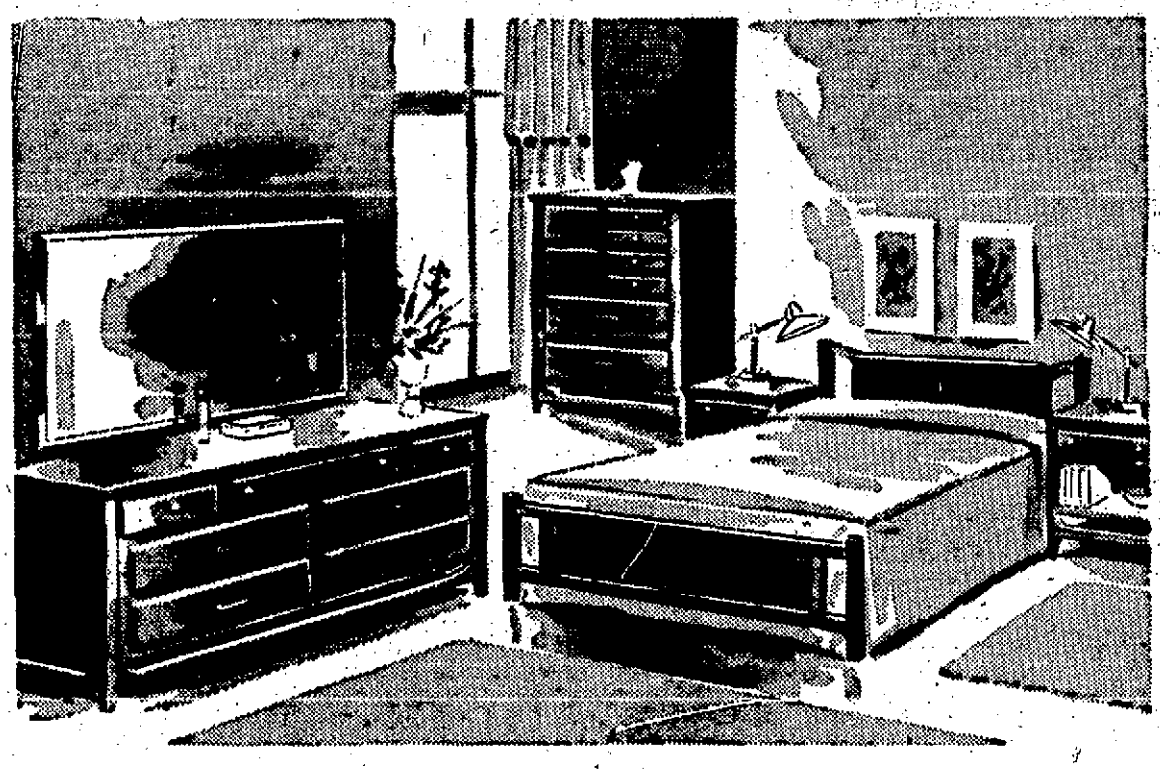

And what more could you ask?

WORLD OF WHEELS

More Models for Ford's Continental

By ART STEPHAN
Independent Press-Telegram Auto Editor

Introduction of a full line of four models in a new Continental series for 1958, to be offered by Ford Motor Co., was revealed in New York last week.

Two all-new four-door sedans and a unique retractable-top convertible will be added to the previous two-door hardtop to give the Continental an across-the-board choice of four body styles in the famed classic prestige car line, the company announced.

The new Continental line was shown for the first time to Lincoln, Continental and Mercury dealers of the eastern region who met in New York for a meeting with James J. Nance, vice president of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of the Lincoln and Mercury Division, and other officials of the division.

• • • •

"THIS NEW AND complete line of highly styled Continentals will be a vital part of our program in the new Lincoln and Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co.," Mr. Nance said. "With this entry, we will make a strong bid for a top position in the luxury car field."

The new Continental, built on a wheelbase of 131 inches with an overall length of 229 inches, will be one of the longest and roomiest American made cars. It will be powered by a new V-8 engine with a horsepower rating of 375 at 4800 RPM and a compression ratio of 10.5 to 1.

The new Continental line, to be known as the "Continental Mark II," will be the successor of the "Mark II" which was introduced in 1955 as a two-door hardtop coupe. The company's plan for introducing a full line of body styles in the new 1958 Continental series had not been announced previously. Detailed features of the new cars were withheld until public introduction.

• • • •

FORD MOTOR CO. had said in May that production of the Mark II Continental had ended with completion of a model run of 3,000 units—a sales total never before approached in the ultra-high priced car field. Despite a great many inquiries about product plans for the Continental, the company made no further public announcement.

"Our 1958 plans reflect in no small measure the experience the company had with the Mark II," Nance said. "It was known that from a basic styling concept, the company had hit the target. From a prestige standpoint, it had hit the mark—the Continental brought distinction to the owner."

Merchandising for the new 1958 full-line Continental will bring the luxury car line within the reach of a much larger number of car buyers at a cost which reflects the economies of increased production, Nance added.

PRICES OF THE NEW Continental, which will be announced when the new models appear in dealer showrooms in November, will be substantially lower than the Mark II, Mr. Nance said.

"This achievement results from two factors—increased production made possible by our new plant at Novi, Mich., which was designed expressly for the type production we are using for the Continental, and secondly, the fact that the Lincoln for 1958 will incorporate Continental styling and performance, thus enabling the company to spread the costs of luxury car design and manufacture over an increasing number of units."

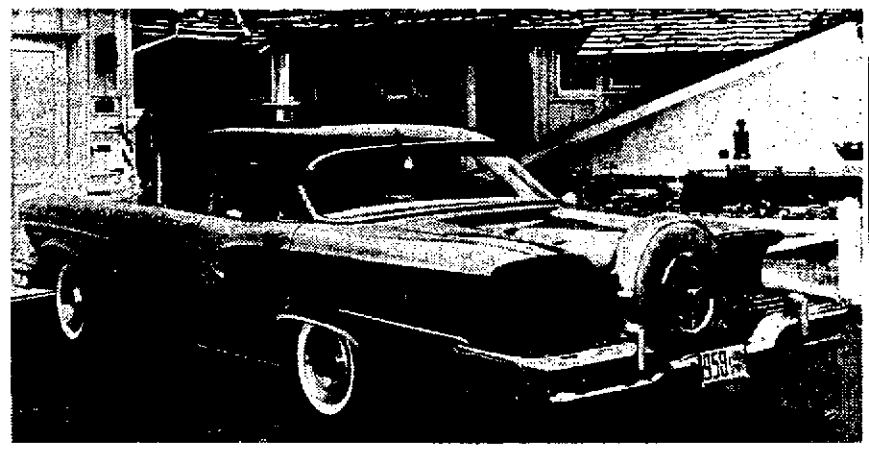

Seek Short Names for Quebec Towns

STE. ADELE, Que. (AP)—Municipal Affairs Minister Paul Dozois favors shorter names for communities in Quebec province. For example, he thinks authorities should cut down this one: The Municipality of the Parish of La Visitation De La Sainte Vierge De L'Isle Du Pads.

TRUCK-TRAILER HOME

Here is the Escort, a unique travel car manufactured in Denver, Iowa, by Homeway Mobile Homes. The revolutionary combination of station wagon and trailer features such innovations as shower, lavatory, thermostatically-controlled floor furnace, range with oven, sleeping accommodations for four —while retaining the highway and parking maneuverability of an automobile. The Escort will be on display today at Hale Young Ford Co., 2641 E. Anaheim St.

HERE'S EDSEL WITH CONTINENTAL KIT

Keeping pace with the 1958 models, Bonzer Manufacturing Co. of Long Beach shows their Continental Wheel Kit for the new Edsel. In keeping with Edsel's revolutionary lines, the Bonzer Kit has been designed with heavy accent on style and high fashion flare. Donel Edsel Sales of 2055 American Ave. is the new Edsel dealer here.

Must Control Higway Access for Safety, Engineer Declares

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A highway engineer says that studies show motorists are in more danger of being killed while driving on a highway on which access is only partly controlled than on one with no control at all.

Full control of access, on the other hand, brings a notable reduction in accidents.

The statement was made by Planning Director H. S. Wiley of the New Mexico Highway of the New Mexico Highway D Department at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

"The fatality rate on surface arterials with no control of access is 8.0 per 100 million vehicle-miles of travel," Wiley said. "Expressways having only partial control of access are guilty of killing 9.6 persons per 100 million vehicle-miles. Full control of access reduces the fatality rate to only 2.8."

• • • •

WILEY, WHO is in charge of future planning for the state's highway department, devoted considerable attention in his talk to the matter of access to highways.

"With regard to the control of access required for the interstate system by the Federal Highway Act of 1956," he said, "it should be noted that the state's own economic interest demands such control. It has repeatedly been demonstrated that free access sharply reduces the capacity of even the most modern highways. Therefore, to invest money in new roads that will within a few years be unable to handle the traffic flow for which they were designed would be the most flagrant waste of public funds.

"For business establishments along a highway, uncontrolled access grants only short-lived benefits. If a highway is rendered obsolete by the congestion generated by roadside businesses, it must eventually be relocated, leaving the businesses stranded."

HE STRESSED that the purpose, on such highways, is "not to limit access, but to control it."

Wiley told his fellow engineers that changes in automotive design are among factors which can change the highway picture rapidly. A few weeks ago, he said, his department was momentarily perplexed at finding about twice as many unsafe sight distances as previously on identical stretches of roadway. The explanation was that a 1957 model car was being used for the new testing and the eye-height of the driver above the roadway was about seven inches lower than it was last year when an older model was used.

"In other words, drivers of new-model autos can't see as far over the vertical crests as they did in the old cars. As a consequence, we now have many more miles of highway which are critically hazardous because of this one simple change in vehicle design and we must compute new minimum safe standards for vertical curves."

Big Drop in Auto Production

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry will build 22,725 cars and 6,047 trucks this coming week, Ward's automotive reports said. The low level reflects the model switchover of both General Motors and Ford.

Last week the industry built 51,552 cars and 9,242 trucks. In the like week a year ago 59,367 cars and 19,926 trucks were produced. Ward's said GM's Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick and Oldsmobile divisions are set to start 1958 model output next week.

That's Not Ky. Dew in Bottle on Beach

CALAIS, France (UP)—A bottle bearing a message supposedly written by an American with a Kentucky address was washed up on the beach near this English channel port, police reported.

The message read: "Thrown from USNS Upshur, Sept. 10, 1957. If found, contact Mr. Charles Boarman, 823 Clay St., Owensboro, Ky., U. S. A."

MOTOR SPORTS

Many Outstanding Events for Cars Booked in Coming Weeks

By PAUL WALLACE

The waning year will bring with it a series of sports car races as promising in prospect as any ever held in California.

The first of four Sports Car Club of America events will begin the weekend of Oct. 19-20 with a warmup session—a San Diego Regional SCCA skirmish.

Dubbed the 6th annual Torrey Pines Sports Car Races, the event actually will not run over the old Torrey Pines course but at Hourglass Field, an airstrip-type course several miles away.

The real action is expected to start two weekends later on Nov. 2-3 at the chi-chi desert spa, Palm Springs.

The next weekend, Nov. 9-10, action moves to the Monterey Peninsula for the 8th annual running of the Pebble Beach Road Races, then returns the following week to Southern California for an SCCA go at the new Riverside International Motor Raceway.

• • • •

THE LATTER THREE all are SCCA national championship events. The top Eastern and Mid-western racing teams probably will make the long trip here for the bonanza in championship points waiting to be claimed in the three consecutive weekends of competition.

Enthusiasts should look forward to six days of racing between the best sports cars and drivers in America.

Carroll Shelby will be on hand. Phil Hill should be back from his summer duties driving with the Ferrari factory team. Maybe the aspiring grand prix driver Masten Gregory will be present.

Entries may also include a strong contingent from the famed "Lavender Hill Mob" of Washington, D. C., plus the Briggs Cunninghams, Jim Kimberlys and other name eastern racing buffs.

• • • •

WITH THE Palm Springs and Pebble Beach affairs always popular social events as well as race meets and climaxing with the nation's best drivers on the West's best course, Riverside, the series gives every promise of a large time for all.

The Pebble Beach race, incidentally, will be run on a new two-mile circuit on the grounds of Ft. Ord. The beautiful peninsula course dropped after the death of Ernie McAfee there, is still unavailable.

• • • •

TODAY THE second installment of a competition between the local Lions Associated Drag Strip and the San Gabriel Drag Strip will get under way at the latter course.

Last night, the valley hot shots brought their machinery here to open the challenge meet.

The local raceway at 223rd and Alameda Sts. will remain open from 3:30 to 11 p.m. Saturdays for several more weeks before the winter schedule of Sunday afternoon dragging returns.

Incidentally, LADS manager Mickey Thompson, an El Monte resident, now owns the ex-Al Hoskings Cadillac-powered Kurtis Kraft roadster, a mate to Bill Murphy's car.

Mickey has been working the bugs out of the big auto at recent sports car races. He seems to drive road racers as well as he tools dragsters although the Kurtis has given him a full share of mechanical and handling problems.

• • • •

THE ROAD RACE Training Assn. will hold a session next Sunday at the San Diego Hour Glass Field. Post entries will be accepted (at double the usual entry fee). Regular entry deadline is Friday.

Sports motorcycle racers will gather on the desert next Sunday to run the State Championship Hare and Hound cross-country event.

The affair is being sponsored by the San Gabriel Valley Motorcycle Club. It will get off at 10 a.m. with the route to the start limed from Hwy. 66 and Hwy. 395 near Victorville. The start, gas stop and finish will be at the same point.

All proceeds are to go to Bill Holcomb who was injured at a recent race in San Jose.

This weekend, the Antique Automobile Club is running a statewide meet with San Luis Obispo as the congregating point. The Southland contingent left Friday and will return today.

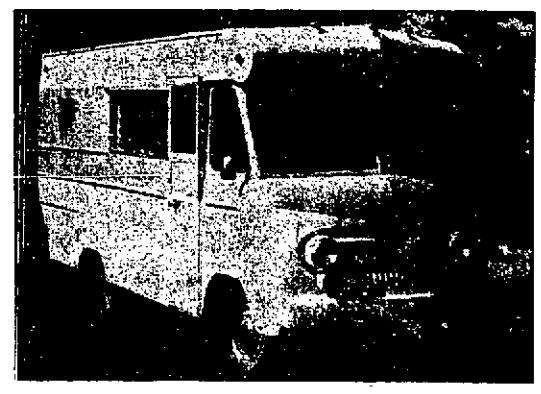

Film About Pamir

MUNICH (AP)—A West German film distributing company announces plans for a movie based on the sinking of the German sailing ship Pamir. The four-masted bark, with 86 seamen on board, sank during a hurricane in the Atlantic Sept. 21. Only six were rescued.

LONG BEACH FOOTBALL'S 50 YEARS YOUNG

St. Anthony's is the only other Long Beach prep school to win the VIF crown, although Wilson, Jordan and Millikan have made a run or two at it on occasion. The Saints turned the trick in 1948.

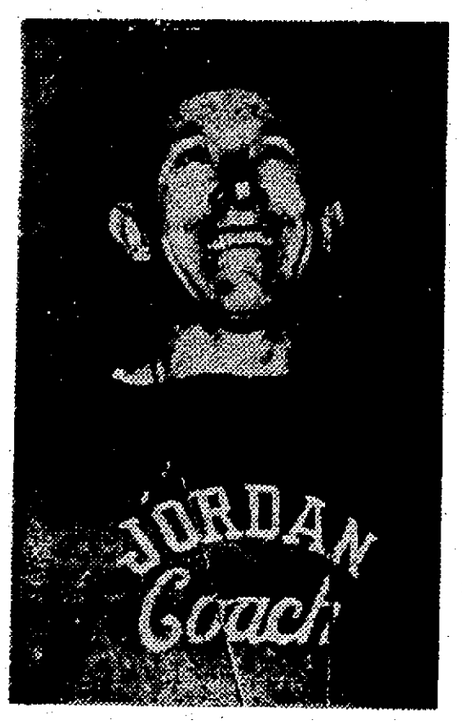

State College, of course, is too young to be a power in the collegiate field at this infant stage of three years, while City College's Vikings hit the jackpot with a Junior Rose Bowl triumph over Boise, Idaho, in 1950 and claimed a national championship.

WHEN THE NAMES of all-time greats are bandied about there is bound to be a difference of opinion according to Long Beach loyalties, but foremost on the list must be Morley Drury, the "Noblest Trojan of Them All," from Poly; Norman (Moose' Standlee, Wilson fullback product who went on to Rose Bowll fame with Stanford and professional glory with the Chicago Bears and San Francisco 49ers; Norman (Red) Franklin, ex-Polyite who won All-American recognition at Oregon State; Johnny Olszewski, the great fullback at St. Anthony's and later a star with California's Golden Bears, and Bob Davenport, the dynamic Jordanite who whirled, smashed, drove and dove from his fullback slot for UCLA.

Dozens of others belong on the same list.

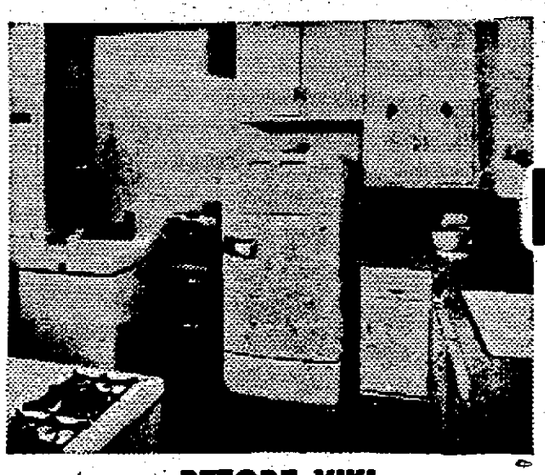

IN THIS 50TH YEAR of high school football here, Bob Parke, once a dashing halfback at Poly, stands out as the dean of the grid skippers. This is his seventh successive year at the Panther helm. The neophytes are Dave Levy, serving his first season at Poly, and Chuck Toy, who will be introducing Lakewood's first team to the public.

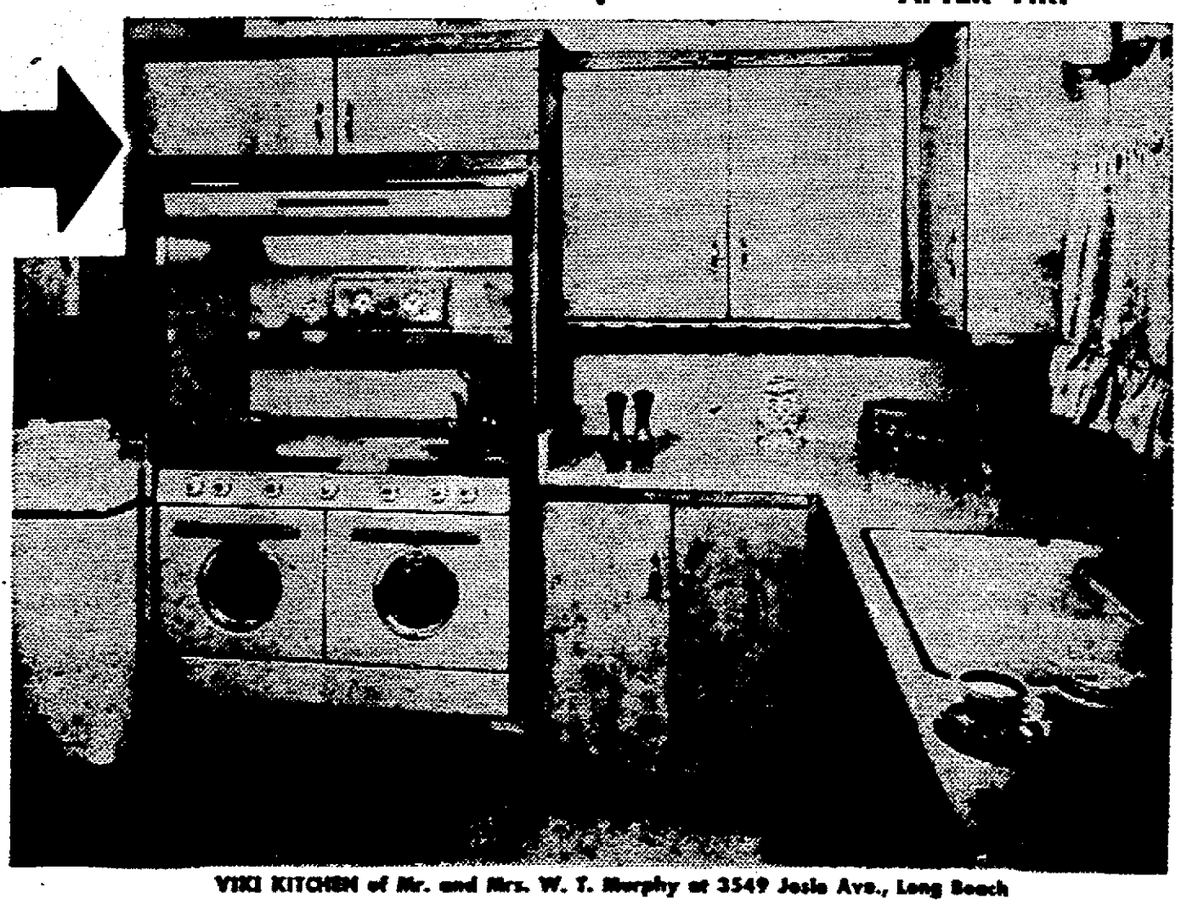

Dave is the 14th coach in Poly's 50-year history. Parke is the fifth at Jordan, Leo Haggerty the eighth at St. Anthony's, Rowland the seventh at Wilson, Tom Kincade the second at Millikan and Toy the first at Lakewood.

Mike DeLotto has handled State College in all three seasons of its short life, while Jim Stangeland at City College becomes the tenth to command the Vikings

Time was when these gents would have commanded the entire Long Beach scene—had they bossed Long Beach High in 1908. It's a different picture today. They must share the spotlight and the newspaper space as the city grows.

Forecast: Brilliant Fall Fashion Event Ahead

Hundreds to Attend PCC Fashion Event

The Pacific Coast Club's Sunrise and Sunset dining rooms will take on a rich seasonal atmosphere when masses of multi-colored autumn leaves and flowers are added to set the stage for the gala 10th annual fall fashion show and luncheon for PCC members and their guests Friday, Oct. 18.

Advance reservations indicate an attendance of more than 500. Members are asked to make reservations with the club in advance as space is limited.

Indications are that this year's fashion event may prove to be the most exciting in the club's long series, as a result of the season's trend toward unusual new stylings and the free use of luxurious materials and vivid, bright colors. In addition to the all-occasion wardrobe showing to be presented by Schick's, there will be millinery from America's top designers, handsome furs and smart accessories.

Mrs. Tex Ritter will act as commentator of the show and music will be by Ted Roe and his orchestra.

* * * *

LUNCHEON WILL BE served at noon. Many hostesses are planning to assemble their guests in the lounge for the cocktail hour beginning at 11 a.m. The fashion parade will immediately follow luncheon.

Among members of the Pacific Coast Club who have made reservations are the following:

Mrs. Charles R. Brantingham, who will be hostess to Mmes. Robert Emerson, Hugh Emerson and George Dunk. Mrs. James Foasberg and a trio of guests will also be seated at the Brantingham table.

Mrs. Herbert H. Frothingham will entertain Mmes. Darrell Neighbors, Roy Brown, Eleanor Kimball, Irene Burkhalter, Florence Hurd, D. C. Hurd and Doddridge Farrell.

MRS. GEORGE DOLESSI'S guests will be Mmes. M. G. Dolessi, James Hanbery and Claude Fredrick.

Crowds of Americans Still Touring Continent

By ILKA CHASE

We're off! Having been thwarted in our attempt to get to Europe earlier in the season due to my engagement with the embroidery department of Roosevelt Hospital (very high-grade stitching) we are about to take our holiday.

I had thought that at this season of the year reservations would be a cinch, that every American tourist would have landed on home shores the day after Labor Day. Such is by no means the case. September and October are still packed and Mr. Conti, the gentleman who is arranging our accommodations, tells us that the holiday season gets later and later. I'd be dubious about going beyond October, though, I don't care what they say. I have lived through a few European winters. Brrrr. Art and architecture and delicious food and the time to enjoy them is what Europeans have. We have steam heat. As far as I am concerned, it ranks right along with Mom as an institution to be respected.

Also, it seems that the Pacific is now back in the limelight. My dear, you

A Woman in a Man's World

Capitol Hill Post Poses a Challenge

By VIRGINIA W. KELLY
Washington Staff Correspondent

The green pastures of a stimulating career always beckon alluringly to imaginative and dynamic women.

As Capitol Hill secretary to Representative Craig Hosmer of Long Beach, Mrs. Eilleen Squires Case has a challenging assignment in a field dominated by men.

Maturity is not only an asset but a necessity in the position of ranking assistant to legislators. On the Senate side the legal terminology is legislative or administrative assistant. In the House of Representatives, the senior assistants legally are called clerks, but Congressmen frequently grant the title of secretary.

A handsome and vital woman, Mrs. Case believes that qualified women are ideally suited for these well paid and responsible jobs. She reasons that few women assistants aspire to Congressional office, whereas nearly all the men potentially are opponents of the legislators.

* * * *

HUMOROUSLY, Mrs. Case said one must be wedded to one's job for there is little time for social life or hobbies. She explained, as the writer knows, that the more important a legislator is, and the more dedicated he is to the welfare of his constituents, the busier he and his staff will be. This is as it should be, and for that reason a Congressional assistant must have a warm and outgiving personality that enables her to deal with many varied human problems. Mrs. Case said, too, that a sincere interest in national politics and international affairs is vital.

Eilleen usually arrives at the office by 8:30 and seldom arrives home before 7:30 or 8. On occasion she has worked as late as 1 a.m.

Mrs. Case enumerated qualities necessary for success in Capitol Hill assignments: a sense of humor; good health and endurance; flexibility and adaptability; emotional stability; and an optimistic outlook.

* * * *

HER NEWSPAPER background was the training field that taught her to stay calm under the pressure of events and deadlines.

She gives full credit for her serenity to her religious convictions for more than 20 years.

Mrs. Case advises young women who aspire to be Capitol Hill secretaries to work for a broad education and varied business experience. It is necessary to have all the basic skills so that one may assist and direct the other members of the staff.

For office wear, she favors feminine semi-tailored suits and dresses.

In her leisure hours, she enjoys reading for a purpose and she owns one of the exercise couches "that give one the equivalent of nine holes of golf." Eilleen Case enjoys her apartment and cooking although — like most American women—she counts calories to maintain her trim figure.

Following high school in Batavia, N. Y., she worked as a secretary for a year to earn funds for college. She applied for and won a scholarship in piano at the Eastman School of Music.

After a year, she married and lived for several years on a fruit farm where she taught herself to cook, to can, and to sew.

Later she took a business course and taught bookkeeping, rapid calculating and business arithmetic. For all of this in the depression, she earned $15 a week. She worked for a year as secretary to a bank treasurer before becoming secretary to Dr. Meyer Jacobson, publisher of the Rochester, N. Y., Evening Journal. Mrs. Case did the research for his radio program. She went on to do rewrites, the Prudence Penny column, and was society editor for two years.

Mrs. Case said that society writing and editing taught her to meet all kinds of people and situations. She agrees that society writing is the most arduous and least appreciated job on a newspaper. She believes that society writing sells more papers than any other department.

AT THE REQUEST of New York Sen. Robert Wagner, she came to Washington in 1938 to be secretary to Nathan Strauss, public housing administrator. With PHA until 1951, she served as Congressional liaison specialist, and as information officer. She became assistant director of public information for the Salary Stabilization Board. In 1953, she applied for and got the job on Capitol Hill with Hosmer.

Mrs. Case has one son, Ed Case, and two small grandchildren. Her son is program director and news commentator for television station KTHT in Houston.

Judge Maltby, Bride at Home

Now residing at 3065 E. 2nd St. following their late summer marriage are Superior Court Judge Joseph M. Maltby and his bride, the former Rita Skinner.

They were married in a quiet ceremony conducted by Judge Fred Miller at his home. Mrs. Miller was the only attendant.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Maltby was a nurse at St. Mary's Hospital. Her husband presides over Department E of the Superior Court here.

'Put More Men to Work!' Say Sandlarks

"You are there"

"This is Ila Tellu broadcasting over station. KFUN. I'm standing just inside the entrance at Virginia Country Club this lovely Tuesday morning. Bright sunshine is pouring in through the big glass doors and to my left are those gracious co-hostesses of today's brunch, Marion Heedwohl and Elaine Moore.

They have just surveyed the buffet where gleaming silver and rich autmn flowers make handsome companions. Apparently they found everything to their liking because they are smiling and relaxed as they wait for the first of more than 150 guests expected. Two others have just joined the hostesses. They are Ora Lee Ridings and Winifred Parr who are among those assisting. Although I haven't seen them yet this morning I understand Mary Whisenant, Maggie McFadyen and Flossie Rene are also here to assist as are Mrs. Heedwohl and Mrs. Moore's daughters and daughters-in-law, Louise Vinson, Lucia Moore and Sadorous Lower.

Here come the first of the guests and so we'll return you to the station because "I Am Here" and Ila Tellu is staying!

WHEN THEY FIRST started as a dance club there may have been good reason to call themselves "The Shufflers." Now they dance much better. Very few bruises result from their monthly parties. Saturday they'll descend on Virginia Country Club and among those cavorting with finesse will be Lillian and Otto Beck, Louise and Dayton Boyson, Lois and Roland Raasch, Naomi and Pat Tierney, Margaret and Stanley Smith and Virginia and Merrill Lilley.

Also braving the evening, sans shin guards, will be Maude and Harry Gillen, Betty and Homer Grant, Caroline and Bill Hardcastle, Bea and Bob Pettifer, Mary and Pete Merkus, Ardice and "Nick" Nicolaus and Mary Alice and Les Dahl. That isn't "dahl" but we'll end with Dahl.

IT'S A SMALL world even in Southern California. Florence and Dr. Ward DeWitt landed at International Airport last Sunday night on a flight home from Dallas and New Orleans and first people they saw were Virginia and Charles Wailes, waiting to board a plane on its way to Dallas! Flo and Ward were in Texas territory to attend the national osteopathic convention (where Ward received his fellowship from the American Osteopathic College of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, no less). After this they went on to New Orleans where they exercised their rights as tourists in the best American tradition—gawping to hearts content!

IF YOU'VE GOT a couple of extra hours some day ask Ed Simons about his daughter, Helen Lee, born Sept. 26 at Seaside. If you're pressed for time, however, we suggest you ask Pauline who is just as proud but less vocal in her description of the new little six pound, 12 ounce charmer. Mothers are like that. Look out for fathers! Incidentally, Pauline's birthday was Sept. 27 which made any other gift received that day as anti-climactical as the first page of a just read mystery story!

SHEER GOLF hysteria seized a goodly portion of the population during the past couple of weeks. In search of greener fairways and easier sandtraps went a whole passel of club swinging, cart toting, tournament-bound people who neither shanked nor hooked but drove straight to Carmel and Pebble Beach. Among 'em, one time or another, were Vivian and Harold West, Mary and "Red" Whisenant, Ina and Jay Reed, Myrl and Dr. Fred Clarke, "Matey" and Dr. "Duke" Mahannah, Helen and Charlie Foulks, Nell and Mark Taylor, the Harry Bouchlers, Bernice and John Watkins, Chuck DeCoudres, Helen and Bob Buck, Julia and Dr. Bob Helms, Dot and Bill Cook, Joan and Julie Bescos, Charlotte and George Waldvogel, Lillian and Glen Thomas, Jackie and Dr. Ed Neushutz, the Dr. Walter Newburns, the Wilbur Bradleys and Marge and Jim Ferrie.

ANYBODY BUT A real sport—and we do mean the athletic variety—would have felt like an alien with no place to register at Joyce and Al Jacoubowsky's home, 257 Belmont Ave., last night. Here's why. They had a small dinner party. Their guests were Betty and Jess Hill (director of athletics, USC), Eleanor and Forrest ("Toogie") Twogood (SC head basketball coach), Ada and Clem Miller (sturdy officer of SC's Trojan Club), Mary Lou and Dick Zehms (the old redhead himself, dean of Long Beach newspaper sports reporters) and the Jacoubowsky's guest of honor, Al Saake (director of athletics, University of Hawaii) who has been houseguesting with Joyce and Al while attending the big recreation convention here.

Hand me my gym clothes, mother, I'm trying out for the team tonight!

EVERYBODY partook with relish of food and drink at Della and Bob Joy's last Saturday night and we don't mean sandwiches and milk! No sirree, bob! The Joy's joyful guests rode the trails out to Garden Grove for cocktails, chuck wagon dinner and a stampede of fun; a real Indian summer western shindig, pocner. Among those who went thataway were Mattie and Earl Sullivan, Ruth and George Clark, Dorothy and Milt McGrew, Isadine and Ken McCall, Eve and Ed Harvey, Julian and Mary Knutson, Phil and Fort Alcorn, Sybil and Al Beach, Nan and Roger Williams, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty, Dot and Lynn Harshbarger, Genevieve and Dr. Bob McCoy and Dorothy and John Edgar, to name just a few. Helping corral bosses with the party roundup were Della's mother, Ellen Balch, and her sister, Barbara Crossley (visiting here from home in Peru).

The best place to sit (or stand) Wednesday was at Virginia Country Club, provided you were invited by Doris (Mrs. Gerald) Secord to be one of her 300 guests at a tea honoring her soon-to-be daughter-in-law, Patricia Campbell. Patricia and Dick will be married at a simple "at home" ceremony on Oct. 25.

"Either way"

Jack and Stella's daughter, wearing a swish cinnamon beige lace dress, was never lovelier as friends of both families crowded around to wish her happiness.

Assisting during the teatime hours were Midge Lupher, Helen Newcomb, Margie Sims, Sally Campbell (Patricia's sister-in-law), Betty Cooper, Barbara Wakeham, Hartley Gurrey, Betty Winckler and Alice Mainland (from Glendale).

Music Club Sets First Fall Date

Mrs. William H. Crutcher will conduct her first meeting as president of Woman's Music Club at the group's formal opening of the new club year Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in Ebell Auditorium.

An active member for nine years, the new president served on the executive board as second vice president for a one year term and as first vice president for two years. Mrs. Crutcher's other musical affiliations include Civic Music Assn. and she is a member of the board of the Long Beach Symphony Assn.

Rachel Morton, program chairman, has arranged a distinctive concert as the program with favorites of the club scheduled to be presented. Laura Killingsworth, coloratura soprano, Betty Kimbor, soprano, and Connie Lu Berg, pianist will perform. An organ prelude will be played by Ruth Nichol.

The opening meeting also marks annual Presidents Guest Day and is open to all friends of club members. After the program a reception and tea will be given in the clubhouse patio.

Card Party Set

St. Anthony's Altar Society will sponsor a public card party at 8 p.m. Monday in Catholic Center. Bridge, 500, pinochle and canasta will be played with Mrs. Josephine Terry as chairman.

Rick Rackers Report Magazine Progress

Although summer may glide imperceptibly into autumn climatically, the transition of seasons is dramatically marked by renewed activities in Long Beach clubs. One of the events which challenges the attention of numerous organizations each fall is the announcement of Rick Rackers choice of the Woman of the Year, coincident with the publication of their yearly magazine, the Rick Racker Reporter.

Now in preparation, the 64-page edition will contain stories and pictures of local women's clubs. Mrs. Eugene Kirkpatrick, ways and means chairman, is editor of the magazine, Mrs. William A. Smith Jr., is art director, Mmes. Lester Callahan, Paul Harder, Merretta Harris, Donald Hodges, Raymond Kelso Jr., Julius Molina, Loyal Pulley, Eldor Sagehorn, Norman Stow, John Turner, Arthur Frenzel, Greg Hoskins and Wendall Wilson comprise the assisting committee, and Mrs. Bess Settle Webster is serving as copy advisor.

The awaited announcement of the award will be made at a coffee hour Oct. 31 in Mrs. Gus Walker's Country Club Drive home. Special guests will be presidents of these organizations which will be included in the magazine:

Alamitos Bay Garden Club, Altrusa, American Association of University Women, Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital, Children's Benefit League, Children's Theater, Council of Jewish Women, Dames Club, Dental Auxiliary, Downtown OptiMrs., Ebell Club, Ebell Juniors, Hadassah, Junior League, Las Madrinas, Lawyers Wives, Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony, Long Beach Exceptional Children, Medical Auxiliary, Nightingales, Panhellenic, Pilot Club, St. Mary's Hospital Guild, Sandlarks, Uptown OptiMrs., and Woman's City Club.

Former recipients of the Woman of the Year honor, Mrs. Everett M. Findlay and Mrs. Gail C. Hudson, also will attend.

All proceeds from the publication, made possible by generous contributions of Long Beach merchants, will go to the West Long Beach Girls Club in Truman Boyd Manor. The club is supported solely by the Long Beach Assistance League and the Rick Rackers, the league's junior auxiliary.

Ebell Meet on Monday

Ebell Club of Long Beach will open the fall season Monday at 1:30 p.m. The clubhouse has had a rejuvenation on the exterior by a facial pack of fresh paint, a permanent wave of new lawns, shrubs and twisted junipers, intriguing eye makeup on the windows with glamorous pink glass curtains. The patio floors are blushing with a coat of red rouge and even the kitchen has had new gadgets purchased for it.

Mrs. Arthur F. Bonzer, presiding for the first time, will present members of the board of directors.

The day's program, a streamlined version of "The Song of Norway" by an all star cast in costume, will be presented by Mrs. Arthur A. Knoll, program chairman. The group, called "The First Operetta Group," is under direction of Harper MacKay.

Tea will be served in the clubhouse patio following the program.

University Wives Installation Noted

University Wives, auxiliary to the Long Beach University Club, installed new officers at an attractively appointed luncheon Wednesday at the clubhouse, 1105 E. Ocean Blvd. Mrs. Paul D. Southgate accepted the chairmanship from Julian Davis, immediate past president of the men's club, the day's installing officer.

Others accepting duties for the year were Mrs. Dominic Cavaliere, first vice chairman; Mrs. Pat DeRosa, second vice chairman; Mrs. Chester Laubscher, third vice chairman; Mrs. Ernest Folsom, secretary; and Mrs. Cecil Willis, treasurer.

Mrs. Edward A. (Laura) Killingsworth, member of the auxiliary and well known local vocalist, concluded the program with a group of songs.

Pi Phi Events

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club will meet Oct. 14, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. John Pitblado, 3912 Cerritos Ave. when Bryan Waller will present the group with new and different ideas for Christmas decorations. Waller, prior to operating a gift shop, was an interior decorator.

Members of the group are also planning an afternoon of bridge on Oct. 25 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. D. S. Will, 3853 Myrtle Ave.

Kirkpatrick-Camden Vows

A spirit of hushed reverence prevailed last Saturday night at First Baptist Church as more than 500 guests gathered to witness the touching ceremony uniting Nadine Helene Camden in marriage with Robert Ray Kirkpatrick. Dr. Frank M. Kepner read the nuptial lines.

The popular young pair, daughter of Mrs. Burtram Leroy Camden of Santa Monica and the late Mr. Camden, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Kirkpatrick of Long Beach, both are natives of this city.

A princess gown of gleaming white peau de soie with Alencon lace embossed neckline enhanced the bride's youthful beauty. Pearls and sequins traced the neckline and were repeated in the princess crown of lace that held her fingertip length veil of French illusion. Her cascade bouquet was of stephanotis and phalaenopsis surrounding a single white orchid. An uncle, Louis P. Camden, gave her in marriage.

* * * *

PRECEDING THE bride to altar were her flower girls, Connie and Carol Hodges, Gary Kirkpatrick as ring bearer, and bridal attendants, Mrs. Kenneth Kiser, matron of honor, and Mmes. Henry M. Kline Jr., twin of the bridegroom, Donald M. Hodges, also a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Robert Dill, and Miss Carole Kolway, bridesmaids.

The attendants all wore dresses of nylon chiffon, fashioned with shirred bodices and full skirts with satin bows and full length streamers adding back interest. Their gowns gave a rainbow of color in the Paris blue worn by Mrs. Kiser and aqua, lavender, pink and pale green worn by the bridesmaids. Their cascade bouquets were of off-white spider chrysanthemums with pink rosebuds and streamers matching the colors of their gowns.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Eugene R. Kirkpatrick, to serve him as best man and guests were escorted to their places by Dr. Henry M. Kline Jr., Conrad Camden, brother of the bride, Donald M. Hodges Jr., and Don Mattson of San Francisco.

* * * *

FRIENDLINESS and warmth were felt as guests gathered in the church banquet hall following the ceremony to extend best wishes to the popular newlyweds. Decor echoed the white and pink theme of the church, with the five tiered wedding cake resting on a round table adorned with pink lace cloth and net skirt. Reception hostesses were Mmes. J. Roscoe Howell and Lloyd Vaughan. Mmes. Eugene Kirkpatrick and Bill Ridgeway presided at the guestbook.

Honor guest at the wedding and reception was the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. L. S. Kirkpatrick, who has been a resident of North Long Beach since the turn of the century.

The newlyweds sailed Monday aboard the Matsonia for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, and after Oct. 20 will make their home in Long Beach.

* * * *

BOTH YOUNG persons were graduated from Wilson High School where the bride will be remembered for her light opera lead in that school's presentation of "Naughty Marietta." She was graduated from Santa Monica City College where she was a student body officer and member of Epsilon Women's Honorary.

Her husband was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley where he affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega and was a member of Golden Bears. He received his law degree at the UCLA School of Law and is a member of Phi Delta Phi, legal, and Beta Gamma Sigma, business, honoraries.

Off to Europe

haven't been to Okinawa? Really! This information comes not only from the travel agency, but also from my friend Deppy Messanesi.

* * * *

MY CHUM is mad about it. "Eschew Europe," she cries, "the Pacific is heaven." I must say it sounds piquant. She went to the Fiji Islands and just like in the National Geographic, they do have all that hair. Deppy was shown into the governor's office for an interview. He was behind his desk, looking very businesslike, if with a slightly better thatch than some of his American counterparts, but wearing a Brooks Brothers coat and bow tie, and Deppy thought East and West had indeed met, until he got up and came around his desk to shake hands with her and she saw he was wearing a little skirt.

* * * *

ALL MY LIFE I have yearned to go to the Orient, but that will have to be for another time. This time we fly to Lisbon and then on to Rome, Florence and Venice.

My husband was dubious about the trip at first. Was I sure I felt strong enough? And we had little discussions about the budget—you know, married talk—but what I say is who gets younger and we live in parlous times.

Although he doesn't have quite the travel mania that I have, the doctor always weakens when I point out the wonderful pictures he can take.

* * * *

WE HAD AN experience once, though, that proves that some others must feel as we do and leads us to believe that mutual hobbies are the great unifiers. When I was in Monaco for the Kelly-Rainier wedding, I lost my camera case as I was leaving the Onassis yacht. It wasn't found on board and although I searched the quai industriously, I had to conclude that it had dropped from the pocket of my topcoat into the water and was lost forever.

But never lose heart! It had my husband's name and address written in ink inside the cover and two months later it arrived at his office with a Leningrad postmark. Some iron-curtain camera buff must have been at Monaco at the same time and a sympathetic cord was touched.

Mmes. Richard Miller, Lee Shuff and James Matson and Miss Elizabeth Harmon share happy smiles over plans for the "Pretty as a Picture" fall fashion show Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., to be given by the Recent Graduate Section, American Association of University Women, at the Bank of Belmont Shore. Miss Harmon or Mrs. Arthur Griggs may be contacted for transportation or further information. Young women interested in AAUW and the Recent Grads group are invited.—(Staff.)

Emblem Club

Long Beach Emblem Club No. 106 has numerous activities slated for this week, foremost of which will be a canasta luncheon at Linden Hall, Broadway and Linden, Thursday, with Mrs. Sam Landsworth and Mrs. Edith White cochairmen, and a benefit spaghetti dinner at the Elks Club Saturday, beginning at 6 p. m. Cards will be after-dinner diversion. Mrs. Garnett Terhufen and Mrs. Manila Paine are in charge. BOOK REVIEWS

Drumbeats Under an Eerie Moon

ALICE LANG had wanted to go to Africa for many years, and when she began to correspond with a man in Africa whom she had never seen, the desire grew. Finally, she arranged, by mail, to marry the man, Andrew Miller, warden of a wild animal sanctuary. But the marriage was set in the nebulous future, since Alice, a nurse, was required to remain with her bedridden mother.

When her mother died, Alice set off on the journey, and at the end of the trip she was disappointed, for Andrew did not meet her. He sent his younger brother, Rusty, to meet her and bring her to her future home. A number of adventures involving witchcraft, wild animals and native customs befell Rusty and Alice before they finally reached the isolated place where Andrew waited. And before the trip was over Rusty and Alice were in love. Then she found herself accused of her mother's murder.

This is part of the story of "The Moon by Night" by Joy Packer (Lippincott, $3.95), chosen by the Literary Guild as its September selection.

"THE ACTRESS," by Bessie Breuer (Harper's, $4.95): Of special interest in California, this novel tells of a young film starlet who tries to make a life for herself away from the cameras. When Hollywood is unable to give her what she wants, she tries to start a new career in the motion picture colony in Rome. Miss Breuer, playwright, novelist, short-story writer, talent scout, draws on her wide knowledge of humankind and the theater for this engrossing book.

"THE HEALING POWER OF FAITH" by Will Oursler (Hawthorn, $4.95): Author of a dozen books and countless magazine articles, Mr. Oursler declares that no work he ever attempted affected him as profoundly as gathering material for and writing this rather long account of healing by faith when all other means fail. The job took him more than two years during which he delved into an enormous mass of material, extending back, he feels, to the dawn of time itself, and to every race and creed on earth. An additional feature of the book is the first published listing of American churches of all faiths having a special interest in spiritual healing.

From "The Merchant of Venice"

"TWISTED TALES FROM SHAKESPEARE" by Richard Armour, illustrated by Campbell Grant (McCraw-Hill, $2.95): With the same irreverent satire that characterized "It All Started With Columbus" and his other previous best sellers, Mr. Armour strikes a rich vein of tomfoolery in this new one, "in which Shakespeare's best-known plays are presented in a new light, the old light having blown a fuse, together with introductions, questions, appendices, and other critical apparatus intended to contribute to a clearer misunderstanding of the subject."

Comments Mr. Armour in his introduction: "Much of his good taste Shakespeare inherited from his father who once held the position of ale-taster for the town of Stratford. Young Will made the local team and met the Bidford Sippers in a spirited contest, winning his liter. According to Legend, the chief source of information about Shakespeare's youth, it took him two days to get home from Bidford, which was only a short walk but a long ways on hands and knees."

Of "Macbeth" he observes: "There are some beautiful passages. One of them is the hallway in Macbeth's castle, where Lady Macbeth loved to fingerpaint on the wall in other people's blood."

Of "A Midsummer Night's Dream": "One question, never satisfactorily answered by scholars, is this: Did Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' result from something he ate?"

Of "Romeo and Juliet": "If the part of Juliet has sometimes overshadowed that of Romeo, it is because Romeo spends so much time under the balcony."

Of "The Merchant of Venice": "The earliest recorded performance . . . was before King James I on February 10, 1605. He ordered a second performance two days later, hoping against hope that he would get the point this time."

Of "Hamlet": "Hamlet is unquestionably Shakespeare's Magnum Opus, of enormous interest to scholars and critics who would otherwise have been forced to seek honest employment."

Of "Othello": "That Othello is a late work is further indicated by the fact that, Shakespeare having run out of gravediggers, gatekeepers, and ghosts, there is no comic relief. In fact only the final curtain brings any relief whatever."

Shakespeare never took a greater spoofing, but even Shakespeare would have loved it.

District Meet Set

"Of Shoes and Ships and Sealing Wax" is the intriguing title selected by Anne Reher when she speaks to the afternoon session of the first council meeting of Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, Monday at the San Pedro Woman's Clubhouse.

Mrs. Reher, well-known lecturer and book reviewer, plans to tell the many products made from crude oil.

Mrs. Icy M. High, district president, will open the morning session by presenting Dr. Mabel E. Kinney, state legislation chairman for CFWC. Music, under the direction of Mrs. Edward Burns, district music chairman, will be provided during both sessions. Mrs. A. F. Benton, state vice president, will give a brief message on current state projects.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Can't Live With Chester!

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

When my husband and I were married a year ago, he had a cat which he insisted on making a third member of our home.

I never had liked cats very much. I always thought they were arrogant, unfriendly beasts with no loyalty and no intelligence. But I loved my husband so much that I agreed to take in Chester.

Now I am ready to shoot Chester, or poison him. We have moved at last in a home all our own, with fresh new furniture, drapes and lovely wallpaper. Apparently Chester agrees. For he already has ripped great gashes in the upholstery, has torn the drapes (which, being a Siamese, he loves to climb) and has scratched the wallpaper.

My husband gets furious when I threaten to heave out Chester. But, honestly, I can't go on like this, with Chester tearing apart our expensive home. Isn't there something you can do with these horrible animals?

—TRUDY.

DEAR TRUDY:

Not very much, I'm afraid. There are chemicals you can put on the upholstery that is supposed to keep them at teeth-length. And there are scratching posts that are designed to divert them from their furniture assaults.

But they never seem to work for me. Actually, my cat seems to have developed a great fondness for the chemical I use: it seems to stimulate his claws.

So you're just going to have to put up with Chester, I suppose. After all, every wife has at least one cross to bear, and Chester is not the worst.—M. M.

Council One Meeting Set

Dr. Ralph C. Smedley, founder of International Toastmasters Club; Mrs. Neil Jackson, international parliamentarian of Toastmistress Clubs; and Mrs. Gertrude McMahan, past president of International Toastmistress Clubs, are among those who will take part in the program when Council One, International Toastmistress Clubs, meets Monday at Huntington Beach Country Club.

The program will date back to 1926 with one of the original "Toasties" portraying her part in the formation of Toastmistress Clubs. Many of the original chairmen and officers who organized Council One in 1949 also will participate.

Charter members and those with a long active membership in Toastmistress Clubs are invited.

PARTY 'PLANTERS'

Seeds of fun have been planted by Alamitos Bay Garden Club and will bloom, full-blown, next Saturday night in the gardens of the Ralph Robesons, 65 66th Pl., when the club entertains at a "Come and Enjoy Yourself" affair. Party gardeners pictured are, from left, Mmes. James Carroll, John Arkush and Mrs. Robeson. A swiss steak dinner will precede games, dancing and just informal visiting.—(Staff photo.)

Aunts Fete Bride-Elect

A bridal nosebay on the door of the Eugene Chace residence in Rolling Hills this afternoon will herald the theme of a tea and shower honoring Marcia Penrose, who will become the bride of Robert Schuler Nov. 1.

Mrs. Chace and Mrs. Edwin H. Ripperdan, Marcia's aunts, and Mrs. Ora B. Ripperdan, her grandmother, will be hostesses and Pamela Chace will greet guests at the door.

* * * *

RECEIVING with the hostesses will be the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. Donald W. Penrose, and Mrs. Wayne Beckett.

The tea table will be covered with turquoise satin and an overdrape of white net, and will be centered with white roses in a silver epergne. Mmes. Edward Larsen, Robert MacDonald and L. W. Clarke will pour.

The more than 70 guests will include many from out of town and relatives of the engaged couple. They will present Marcia with a group gift of china.

CLUB ANNIVERSARY

Wives of Navy Doctors Club will celebrate the organization's 22nd birthday Wednesday at the Officers Club, Allen Center. Beginning at noon, the party will borrow from Hawaii for its theme. Among club members who will model Hawaiian fashions are (from left) Mmes. Edward Schnell, William C. Thorne, Lyman Vaughan and Walter H. Taylor. Officers Wives Club and Fleet Officers Wives Club will join in the festivities.—(Staff.)

Navy Wives

Long Beach Navy Wives Club No. 1 will meet at the Savannah Gardens Clubhouse, Tuesday at 8 p.m., with Mrs. Harold Koch presiding. Wives of servicemen are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger G. Webster

Roger G. Websters Note Golden Date

Mr. and Mrs. Roger G. Webster, 4506 Barker Way, spent one of the most memorable days in their eventful life together on Saturday when they were feted at a golden wedding anniversary reception in the Santa Monica home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Webster.

Cohosts at the gala affair were the other Webster children: Grace Margaret of Philadelphia, Katharine of San Francisco, Frederic, Long Beach; Harold, Riverside, and Roger, of Dallas, Tex. Assisting were the couple's other daughters-in-law and their five grandchildren. Nancy, Donna, Diane, Alfred and Richard.

* * * *

THIS YEAR also marks the 50th anniversary of the First National Bank in Holtville which Mr. Webster founded on March 21, 1907, and served as cashier for many years. It was in Holtville, too, that he met the young woman who was to become his bride on Oct. 2, 1907.

After disposing of his banking and farming interests in Holtville, Mr. Webster brought his family to Long Beach in 1921, associating in March of that year with the City National Bank, Broadway and American.

* * * *

IN 1922 the new Belmont Heights Branch of the bank was started and Mr. Webster was appointed as its first manager, a post he held until the earthquake of 1933 damaged the building to such an extent the branch was closed. Subsequently he was associated with the Security-First National for a number of years.

Still active, Mr. Webster is engaged in business with his son as sales manager in the manufacture and national distribution of commercial and ceramic decals.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"If we go to France, should we buy French francs even though the franc has been devalued now?"

AT THIS writing, yes. The franc slid for tourists to 420 to the U. S. $1. And the open market slid at the same time. If you can get better than 420 in New York or San Francisco, buy. France allows you to bring in all the francs you want.

"Can you suggest a place to have shoes made while we are in Spain?"

I haven't bought any shoes in Spain for several years. But if you ask the concierge at the Palace Hotel, he has a couple of good places. I've heard one problem with Spanish shoes is they make them too tight.

This certainly happened to me. I had them make me some boots. Took them off in the plane going over to Rome and walked into Customs in my socks. Couldn't get them on again until they had been stretched for a couple of days.

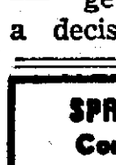

I have an idea this is a Spanish custom. Mexican boots usually come out small. And Texas bootmakers say when they are making boots for Mexicans, they always make them a size small. Mexico prefers them that way.

"What is the evening entertainment in the Caribbean?"

YOU HEAR the calypso and drink the rum punch. That's generally. Depends on where you are. There are plenty of night clubs in Havana. A few in Kingston, Jamaica. Two in Fort-de-France, Martinique.

Nothing that I found in Curacao. Dirty Dick's Swizzle Stick in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. Steel oil drum music.

A couple of real wild ones in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. Lots of beating on four-foot drums. Lots of brass, warm, tropic breeze and usually a rich odor of fish and strong perfume.

If you want to just stay home and turn on some calypso music, this is the standard "1, 2, 3 rum punch."

One part lime juice. Two parts cane sugar syrup. Three parts dark rum. Shake it up, pour it over ice and grind a little fresh nutmeg on top. Sweet, fragrant and powerful.

"With three months in Europe, renting a house in Southern Italy, shall we buy or rent a car?"

BETTER WAIT until you get there before you make a decision. Three months is right on the edge of the break-even point. Under three months it is usually cheaper to rent. Over three months, usually better to buy and sell back.

I'd wait if I were you and see what prices you can get (maybe on used cars). And how much assurance that you can sell back. In the meantime, take a CIAT bus.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Service Set Launches Colorful Fall Program

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

As gay and diversified as brilliantly colored autumn leaves floating through the crisp air are the many exciting fall events happening in the service set.

On the evening of Oct. 12 Officers Wives Club members at Long Beach Air Force Base are honoring their husbands with a gala semi-formal cocktail party in the Officers Club at the Air Base.

Then among the "big ships" crowd there's to be a bridge party for the wives of officers attached to the USS Roanoke, at the home of Mrs. N. B. McIntosh in Garden Grove. Recently this group enjoyed a luncheon party at the Hawaiian with Mrs. C. A. Creel and Mrs. Irving Briggs as senior hostesses. Then the same gang had a bridge party at the home of Mrs. C. A. Creel.

* * * *

THE NEW executive officer of the USS Columbus, Cmdr. A. T. Nicholson, Mrs. Nicholson and children, Douglas and Nancy, just settled down here, coming from Honolulu. They now are "islanders" over at Naples.

Folks of the USS Implicit welcomed aboard and as residents here Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Marsh Wright, from Astoria.

* * * *

SATURDAY night a group of friends had an enjoyable time at the home of Mrs. Robert Gee, helping her celebrate her birthday. An evening of bridge followed.

* * * *

* * * *

MR. AND MRS. RALPH TAYLOR of Columbis, Ohio, are visiting with Capt. and Mrs. Walter Taylor, who are leaving this area for new duty and residence in Portsmouth, Va.

Recently the board members of the Wives of Navy Doctors' Club attended a farewell coffee given by Mrs. Edward Schnell at her home in honor of Mrs. Walter Taylor.

* * * *

ONE OF THE prettiest events of the week was the tea given by Mrs. Robert Campbell in her quarters at the Naval Station in honor of Mrs. A. L. Wadsworth of the Florence Ross Navy Wives Club No. 123 of this city. Beautiful autumn blossoms were used throughout the rooms and assisting at the tea table were Mmes. Wadsworth, Campbell, Myers and R. S. Clark, sponsor of Navy Wives Club No. 1. Among out of town guests attending was Mrs. F. D. Tremaine.

Mrs. Campbell presented Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Wadsworth with lovely corsages.

* * * *

WELCOMED back to our city are former residents Cmdr. and Mrs. William Calhoun Singletary and children, Lorne, William Jr., Thomas and Eunice. They are at home to their friends at 221½ Argonne Ave. They came here from Norfolk, Va., where the commander was commanding officer of the USS Coates. Cmdr. Singletary is attached to the staff of Commander, Mine Forces Pacific.

Mrs. Singletary is the daughter of former residents Capt. and Mrs. William L. Irvine, USN (MC) (ret), who now are in Coronado.

NAVY FOLKS Eddie and Shirli Shawgo and children enjoyed a family reunion party at the home of Mrs. Shawgo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Madigan and family, in Anaheim upon Eddie's return from the Far East aboard the USS L. K. Swenson.

* * * *

CAPT. and Mrs. George Schiff and son had as their recent house guests from Seattle, Wash., Capt. and Mrs. F. D. Lovejoy. Also visiting with them has been Cmdr. H. L. Carpenter.

OCT. 10 at noon the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 43, will have a welfare luncheon and card party, which will be open to the public at the Veterans Memorial Building. Hostess for the day will be Priscilla Harper.

* * * *

NAVY WIVES Club No. 123 will have a business meeting Monday at the Savannah Gardens Navy Club. The vice president, Mrs. Benjamin Sokolik, will preside with Mrs. Louise Nicolaus and Lorie Lopez as hostesses at the dessert hour. There will be a babysitter furnished and new members are urged to join the group.

* * * *

THE NAUTICAL Club had a board meeting and luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Roy Proudfoot, and plans were made for their Christmas charities.

Reminisces on European Trip

Mrs. Jessica Lewis has returned to her home at the Villa Riviera following a two and a half year sojourn in Europe. She is bubbling with enthusiastic reports on the friendliness of the people she met in the 23 countries visited and their generous hospitality.

While in Athens she was entertained by Dr. and Mme. George Sakalerious; he is the head of the philosophy and psycnology department of the University of Athens. In Israel she was a guest in the home of Moshe Shartte, and in Paris visited at the German, Israel and Cuban Embassies. The internationally known painter, Carida Ramirez, cultural attache to the Cuban Embassy in Paris, also entertained Mrs. Lewis. Other hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Side of Paris. While in Paris she was the houseguest of Consul James Carson and his family at the American Embassy.

While in Las Palmas, Canary Islands, she was interviewed on a half-hour broadcast for Radio Atlantico and during her stay there gave a recital of readings from her book of poetry. One of her hostesses was the artist Gala de Reschko. While in Santa Cruz she was feted by Senora Leopoldo Massieu and her family.

Mrs. Lewis spent considerable time visiting the museums, art galleries, attending the opera and concerts.

TOPIC: TEA AND MUSIC

Mrs. Lawrence Hunt, standing, greets three of the new members of the Long Beach Auxiliary to the Southern California Symphony Assn. who will be honored at a tea Tuesday in her home. From left, seated, are Mmes. C. E. Forbes, Raymond Hazlet (Dorothy Judy Klein) and J. Sherwood Moore.

New Members Tea for Symphony Auxiliary Slated

'Crazy Legs' Star of Bosses' Night

By ANNE GILCHRIST

For Queen Beach Chapter, National Secretaries Assn., autumn was launched on a gaily gregarious note with the group's annual bosses' night celebration last Tuesday at La Ronde Rue Restaurant.

Most exciting part of the football themed evening was appearance of none other than Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch as featured guest speaker. The nationally famous gridiron star and outstanding member of the Los Angeles Rams team was backed up by Rams' cheerleaders Lois Isbell, Malinda Lelliott, Linda Miller, Peggy Smith and Laurie Whiteneck and majorette Miss Karen Uker on the program including presentation of the film, "Highlights of the 1956 Rams Football Season."

* * * *

ANOTHER highlight of the evening was presentation of an award to Vervyl Sumrall (Star-Kist Foods, Inc.) who was named "Mrs. Business and Professional Woman of Long Beach" in a contest conducted by this city's BPW clubs in observance of National Business Women's Week, concluded last week; and presentation of the coveted title, Certified Professional Secretary" to Neva Blust.

Social program committee members responsible for the highly enjoyable evening were Betty Bainter, Lu Berger, Betty Fleenor, Norma Gilcrease, Betty Guley, Jeanne Hissner, Cal Holmes, Edna Ley, Lola Lyons, Glea Robinson, Sheila Ryan, Betty Willcoxen and Marge Hunter. Florence Hansen arranged the decorations.

Women Accountants

The necessary merits and eligibility standards for scholarship awards will be the subject of Marian Darlington, dean of women at Long Beach City College, when she appears as guest speaker at the Wednesday evening dinner meeting of Long Beach Women Accountants.

President Doris Deardon will conduct the 7 p.m. meeting in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel. She has announced that the club will welcome visitors, whether or not they are accountants. However, reservations are necessary and may be made with Estelle Cannon.

Season Opens

Delta Chapter, Lambda Sigma Pi Sorority, officially opened the new club year with its dinner meeting last week at the Hawaiian Restaurant. President Edna B. Osborne conducted; Mary Cook, social chairman, made dinner arrangements. Ways and means events to raise funds for philanthropy were planned as well as other fall into winter sorority activities.

Soroptimists

A whimsical, endearing talk, filled with the basic truths of sound philosophy, was given to Long Beach Soroptimist Club by Alfred Stolliker, bursar of Los Angeles Junior Business College at the women's service club luncheon at the Lafayette recently.

"I invested two dollars," said Stolliker, referring to his marriage license, "and reaped my greatest dividends" which, he explained, were his children. In his anecdotes of family life and its happiness he impressed members with the importance of the small and commonplace happenings of their lives and the wisdom of appreciating each day.

Club to Hear Roger Young

Long Beach Attorney Roger Young will be guest speaker at the 11:45 a.m. luncheon meeting of Long Beach Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Association at Assistance League Clubhouse. Chosen topic is "A Lawyer Is a Doctor's Best Friend."

ROGER YOUNG

The program also will feature vocal excerpts from "My Fair Lady" by Mrs. James Kimber, a member of the auxiliary and prominent in Singers' Workshop productions. Mrs. Elliston Farrell will preside.

Chapter Opens Year Tuesday

First meeting of the year for Los Cerritos Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open with a noon luncheon and program Tuesday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Russell M. Brougher will tell of her trip in the spring to the DAR Continental Congress in Washington, D. C.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. C. D. Kelty or Mrs. Irene Anderson.

John Bowlers on Trip East

Planning to combine business with pleasure, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Bowler Jr. left on Saturday for a five-weeks cross country trip.

First stop will be Las Vegas where they will meet Mr. and Mrs. Norm Durkin for two days at the Desert Inn. Other stops enroute to New York will be Denver, Cedar Rapids, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. While in New York they plan to see several shows during their week's stay, and from there will go on to Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City. They will return home via Fort Worth and Dallas.

Bowler, publisher of construction magazines, plans to confer with manufacturers of heavy construction equipment and publishers of other construction publications. He will study methods and activities in other regions in connection with the huge federal road building program in prospect for the next 10 years.

Alums to Meet

Sigma Kappa Alumnae of Long Beach will meet Saturday at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Vargas, 301 Lime Ave., at 12:30 p. m. Barbara Friendson and Aloha Gorsuch will assist the hostess.

New alumnae members to be welcomed will include Mmes. C. R. Behmyer, Paul Cargal, Raymond Martin, Vargas, Norman Moore and Misses Nancy Sundstet and Gorsuch.

Realtors Wives

Realtors Wives Club of Long Beach will have a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Howard Dumm, 1052 Andrews Dr. Mrs. Frances Meyer will talk on "Glamorizing Quickie Foods." She will prepare the foods for eye appeal and serve them for taste appraisal.

Art Music Little Theater

Art Circles Widen

By VERA WILLIAMS
I.-P.-T. Art Editor

Thirty-seven works—paintings, graphics and sculpture—ranging from the 12th Century to the present are seen in "Art From Long Beach Collections" at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Works from 13 art collections are included.

Dutch, German, French, Italian, Mexican and American artists' works show key examples high lighting famous schools and periods in art history. Italian primitives, 17th Century Baroque and 19th Century Academic are among the periods represented. Also seen are paintings by impressionists Cassatt, Monet, Pissarro, Renoir and Les Fauves, Vlamink, Matisse and Rouault. Others included are German expressionistic artists Ernest Kirchner and Max Beckmann; also a selection of contemporary American artists.

The works are loaned for the exhibition from the collections of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Conrad, the Cultural Arts Center Assn., Edward Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCullough, David E. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. James Kresl, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Messick, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Person, Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Rider, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Saltzman and The Studio. Included also are five prints which have been loaned anonymously.

The large exhibition represents only a portion of the number of art collectors in Long Beach. The Museum has acquired listings from many collectors, not all of which could be included in the exhibition.

Three other exhibitions: A one-man show of Ben Messick's paintings and graphics, Sepik River art and "Bronze Age to Brancusi," also are shown in the Museum. All may be seen through Oct. 29.

FRANCES ARMSTRONG, portrait artist, will be honored with a reception to which the public is invited from 2 to 5 p. m. today in Pacific Coast Club Galleria, 850 E. Ocean Blvd. The reception opens an exhibition of Mrs. Armstrong's paintings through October.

* * * *

WATERCOLORS by Rex Brandt, Phil Dike and Caesar Hernandez will be shown through October in Palos Verdes Public Library Gallery, under the auspices of the Community Arts Assn. and the public library and art gallery of Palos Verdes Estates.

The public is invited to a tea and reception for the artists from 3 to 5 p. m. today in the gallery.

* * * *

THE FIRST in the series of 15 Friday evening film programs will be seen at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., Oct. 11.

"Looking at Sculpture," "Figures in a Landscape," "She Shall Be Called Woman," "Corroboree" and "Namatjira, the Painter," are the first five art films to be shown in the one-hour program. First showing will be at 7:40 p. m. and the second at 9. Films are related in subject matter to the exhibitions at the Museum.

In order to reserve a seat at either of the showings, tickets may be obtained from the Museum one week in advance of the program. Limited space in the gallery necessitates issuing tickets, which are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Tickets will be honored up to five minutes before the start of the program. There will be no charge for admission.

Beginning this month, the Museum is open to the public from 7:30 to 10 p. m. on Fridays.

* * * *

EXODUS GALLERY, 235 6th St., San Pedro, presents its first one-man exhibition, paintings and drawings by Connor Everts. Everts has exhibited internationally and his work is familiar to local gallery-goers. He is represented in the permanent collection at the Long Beach Museum of Art. He has won prizes at the Los Angeles County Museum's annual exhibition of Los Angeles and vicinity artists; he won a cash award at the National Orange Show, one of his paintings was selected for purchase at the Long Beach Museum of Art's juried exhibition, and he won first award at the Palos Verdes juried prize exhibition.

Other exhibitions that have included Everts' work are Santa Barbara's Pacific Coast biennial; California State Fair; Seattle's Frye Museum West Coast painting exhibit; San Francisco Museum annuals in both drawing and painting, and an exhibit in Mexico City called "Americans in Mexico." His work is traveling in an exhibit called "5x5" for the Association of Western Museum Directors.

The show at Exodus Gallery will present the development of a painting, from first sketches to completed work.

A reception for the artist is slated for 2 until 5:30 p. m. in the Exodus Gallery. The public is invited. The exhibit will continue until Oct. 25.

* * * *

THE MUNICIPAL Art Commission of Los Angeles will honor the Southern California chapter of Artists Equity Assn. by sponsoring a month-long exhibit of its members' work at the Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Los Angeles. The park is at Vermont Ave. and Hollywood Blvd.

The exhibit will include 160 paintings, drawings, watercolors, sculptures and mosaics, representing varied schools and styles, by 100 members of the chapter.

Civic Music Group Slates Eger Players

A new experience in fine music will be offered by the Eger Players in a concert on Thursday at Wilson High Auditorium, under the auspices of the Civic Music Association. The only ensemble of its kind in the world, the Eger Players feature French horn with piano, violin and cello in a variety of combinations, playing solos, duets, trios and quartets.

Joseph Eger, leader of the ensemble and America's foremost French hornist, has appeared as soloist with major orchestras and ensembles throughout the world. It is largely through his unique artistry that the French horn has found its rightful place in the family of great solo instruments.

The instruments of the group have been chosen to permit great variety in repertoire. They afford a wide contrast in tone quality and still maintain a rare ensemble rapport. Audiences have displayed such curiosity and interest in the hitherto unrealized possibilities of the horn, that Mr. Eger often devotes some time during the concert in an informal question period, worked into a novel and informative demonstration.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

Now that the season for musical and cultural events is about to open in Long Beach, I think that a word about our privileges and obligations is in order.

I have entertained you (I hope) in my past articles with stories of my encounters with great personages—great music and great beauties of nature. They all go together; they are to be enjoyed by all who have interests beyond the mundane, the trite and the sordid.

Our city is especially blessed in climate, in seashore and in mountain nearness. It is blessed with commerce—the Navy, the oil and industry. We are a large family—some 300,000 souls. How shall we respond to all these blessings?

* * * *

A CITY represents the spirit of the people within it. Some cities are cruel with slums and the outlaws that are bred by them; some cities are black with the belchings of furnaces that give men bread but no inspiration; some cities are full of fear and the dark coverings of suspicions and hates; some cities are beautiful but dead in the dust of the past.

What shall we make of our city?

First, there must be a desire among our peoples for the best life affords, yes—the best—for to aim high is to attain high. What is the best life affords? Is it wealth, is it fame, is it power? These are but material gains and soon have their little day. The best life affords comes from the souls of men who have lofty ideals, noble purposes, love in their hearts for their fellowmen. Such men have given libraries, foundations for research and health, parks and reserves, paintings, sculpture and music. These things do not die, but go on, blessing mankind.

* * * *

CITIZENS of Long Beach, Inform yourself of cultural things. Make them a part of your life and soon any lesser fare will not satisfy you. Contribute what you can to a furtherance of good things for our city. Some can give ideas, some can give personal service, some can give money (some could and do, give lots of money). If the idea is good and the pressure is strong, accomplishment will follow.

To my mind it is a crying shame that a city the size of Long Beach has no adequate art gallery. Consider Laguna Beach and little Carmel with their beautiful art galleries.

* * * *

WHILE IN New York recently I spent an afternoon in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The treasures therein are fabulous, simply fabulous. And most of the treasures were marked "Gift of ——." Not only do thousands cross the threshold of this museum every month in quest of beauty, but every Saturday night (except in summer) programs of symphonic music are given to a capacity audience free of charge. New York is a big city; it was once small, but the desire for cultural things has been strong.

We are launched upon a new season of artistic endeavor; the Art Center is having Sunday afternoon concerts, free; the Long Beach Symphony is preparing for us some excellent concerts; the Los Angeles Philharmonic, with one of the country's finest orchestras, is coming to us here in Long Beach for concerts; the Civic Music Association has a splendid line-up of entertainment.

* * * *

PARTICIPATE in these events. Cultivate the best in yourself by exposing yourself to inspiration. And then, if we imbibe but a portion of the spiritual fare, we will become citizens of enthusiasm and worthy effort.

Theater Group Casts for 'Wizard of Oz'

Tryouts for the Long Beach Children's Theatre fall production, "The Wizard of Oz," will take place Thursday at 10 a. m. in Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St.

Any woman interested in acting is invited to read for the cast of 18 characters which include such well loved personalities as the Scarecrow, Tin Woodman, the Cowardly Lion, the Winkies and the Wizard himself.

For those who enjoy backstage activities of theater, volunteers are needed in costuming, make-up, properties and stage sets.

The colorful dramatization, a new script by Adele Thane, is based on L. Frank Baum's famous children's adventure. The play promises to be one of the gayest and most ambitious presentations offered by the local volunteer group.

"The Wizard of Oz" will be presented in a series of performances for school children on Nov. 23, 24, 30 and Dec. 1. Rehearsals take place three mornings a week at Colorado Lagoon clubhouse.

Mrs. Lewis Kean Jr., volunteer director, and Mrs. William F. Macrate, casting chairman, invite women interested in any phase of production to attend the casting.

John Baird to Speak at Musical Arts Dinner Meet

"Music Is What You Make It" John Baird will tell the Musical Arts Club at a dinner meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Assistance League Clubhouse.

Baird's life-long avocational interest in music has resulted in his being a member of the five-man board of Municipal Arts Commissioners of Los Angeles, vice president of the Opera Guild of Southern California and member of the advisory board of the Southern California Symphony Association.

A lecturer in universities, Baird is also known for his Sunday morning radio show, the Music Hour, and has appeared frequently on television.

Arthur Carah will preside at the meeting, and Marcia Hannah will introduce the speaker.

Shampoo Trick

Here's a hair washing trick used by Mrs. Floyd Williams, 1121 Claiborne Dr. Before shampooing rub vaseline on the forehead and temples just beneath the hairline to keep soapy water from running into the eyes. Children, especially, applaud!

ALLURING Dorene Porter plays the glamorous Rita Marlowe in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" ribald account of motion picture industry, opening Friday at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave. Pat Brown directs.

Emerald Isle First Forum

Earl Brink's "Ireland in Blossom Time," first all-color film lecture of the 1957-58 City College General Adult Division series, opens at 8 p.m. Monday in the Wilson auditorium. The program will be repeated at Jordan on Tuesday, Millikan on Wednesday, Poly on Thursday and in the Lakewood High School auditorium on Friday.

Tickets for the series of seven programs are now available at any General Adult Division center or at the auditorium box office each evening next week.

"Ireland in Blossom Time" explores every corner of the Irish Republic's 27,000 square mile area, including some seldom-visited places. The film will also present sequences on such famous Irish festivals as the An Tostal, the Dublin Spring Show, the International Horse Show and the Pageant of St. Patrick.

Atoms for Peace

By Aubrey B. Haines

LAST JULY 12 the first nuclear heat plant in America began feeding electricity over Southern California Edison's distribution lines in the Santa Susana Mountains.

This is the sodium reactor experiment, part of the Atomic Energy Commission's program to develop economically competitive civilian power from nuclear energy. After many experiments to test the operation, the reactor plant will be operated full scale this fall.

In 1945 over Hiroshima atomic force first proved it could be used to kill in war. Today, however, the atom is being used for peace.

One might not think that atomic science would find a place in the design of a better dishwasher, but it has.

A MANUFACTURER wondered what combination of detergent, water temperature, spray and rinse would give best results. Scientists found that dried, fried egg was hardest to wash off dishes and silverware. Then getting some radioactive phosphorus, they fed the isotope to a flock of hens. In about 30 days the phosphorus showed up as a tracer element in the yolk of the chicken eggs.

Someone fried the eggs on an ordinary stove and ate them, without scraping the skillet, the plate, or the fork very clean. The dirty dishes were then ready for the dishwasher test. By examining the dirty dishwasher, rinses and utensils, scientists could measure the amount of phosphorus isotope on each.

By repeated experiments the manufacturer found the combination that washed dishes best.

APPLIED to livestock and poultry raising, atomic science is a research tool as important as the microscope. Scientists believe that atomic energy can make a vast contribution to the practical study of animal disease.

One of the more fascinating projects now under way is a study how milk is formed in the body of the cow and other mammals.

Research is making progress on what food elements make up the lactose in milk. Some practical uses of atomic energy in poultry raising have been found.

Scientists used to assume that chickens could get the sulphur they needed in their systems only through eating plant food that contained it. But by using the isotope sulphur-35, it is found that animals can utilize inorganic sulphur. Tracer atoms of sulphur — put into ordinary plant foods — have been found in the feathers and amino acids that support life.

A principal problem atomic scientists have worked on recently is how to treat radiation sickness — the effect of nonfatal exposure in an atomic bomb explosion.

More popular interest, however, lies in use of atomic radiation in treating cancer. Here scientists can report many new discoveries and some progress. Radioactive gold injections are beneficial in treating cancer of the ovary. In this disease fluid develops which must be drained off every few days. Radio gold stops accumulation of fluid and is effective one-third of the time.

OTHER radioisotopes are useful in medicine as substitutes for radium. Radio cobalt is effective in many cases, but having a radiation half-life of five years, it must be removed from the body. A most novel application comes from inserting radioactive elements in a hollow nylon thread, not much thicker than surgical gut.

Extremely flexible, the thread can be stitched around a tumor for effective treatment. Another application comes from a surgical gun, built something like a toy water pistol. It shoots radioactive pellets into bladder tumors.

North American Aviation Photos

A radiation-counting test is given a thyroid-cancer patient following the administration of an "atomic cocktail" at Brookhaven National Lab.

Atomic by-products have contributed largely to agricultural research as well as to medicine and industry. Several years ago scientists at Brookhaven National Laboratory, New York, exposed some ordinary seed potatoes to atomic radiation.

The experiment was part of a broad research project in biology. These irradiated potatoes were planted with some untreated ones to control the experiment and show effects of the treatment. An unusually rainy spring that year, none of the potatoes came up.

CROSSING OFF their experiment, the scientists charged it to hard luck and decided to try again next year. But when they plowed up the ground for another experiment, they found that though the untreated potatoes had sprouted they had almost completely rotted away.

On the other hand, the irradiated potatoes had not sprouted but were good as new, with no indications of rot.

All this progress, coming about in the past decade, is without historical parallel. Thus concern for national self-preservation may give way to desire for universal well-being as the motive force of atomic progress.

Dear Abby

She Has REAL Problem!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I married what I thought was a "man" against the advice of many who said he was a "Mamma's boy."

"He was born in his mother's 44th year and always was attached to her. On our wedding night he cried so hard I had to let him go home to his mother. She sent him back the next day but he keeps running between me and his mother. I am 36 and this is my first marriage, if you want to call it that. We have been man and wife in name only for almost a month and I want to know what to do. DISAPPOINTED.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: This man is emotionally still in his mother's arms. It will take a good doctor to help him mature sufficiently to be a good husband. If he wants to be helped and you are patient you possibly could work it out together with professional help—otherwise an annulment is in order.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Who are you supposed to congratulate, the bride-to-be or the groom-to-be? I always get mixed up. STELLA.

DEAR STELLA: The groom-to-be is congratulated—and the bride-to-be gets "best wishes."

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I married for the second time. I am 61 and my wife says she is 58. My wife owns the building we live in and she is charging me $80 a month rent. I pay all the utilities and refurnished the place. None of my friends ever heard of a man paying rent to his wife. Have you? PAYING RENT.

DEAR PAYING: Your wife is a real business woman—and she is giving you the business. I have never heard of a man paying his wife rent, either.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a pair of albino rabbits but I would rather have a deodorized skunk. My father says I can't get the skunk unless I sell the rabbits because I need the money from the rabbits to buy the skunk. What should I do? C. C.

DEAR C. C.: I am fresh out of friends who have deodorized skunks (I did know one) but I suggest you call your humane society. Maybe you can make a deal with them.

* * * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MICKEY: Don't give her a ring—give her a compact with instructions on how to keep her powder dry!

IF YOU HAVE a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

We have to be a Janus this week to see the whole picture at Long Beach State.

First, a backward glance: Last night in the main dining room of the college cafeteria, 95 new sorority pledges were introduced to parents, college officials, fraternity men, and fellow sorority members in the traditional "Panhellenic Presents" which is the climax to the sorority rushing season.

Gowned in pastel shades, each pledge stepped though a floral arch, and, after her introduction, was claimed by a fraternity man as his partner for the dancing which followed.

Decorations were in the theme of a Japanese garden, and refreshments were served by mothers of the actives.

Paula Turner, assisted by Vic Medevic and Patti Kozak, was in charge of the Presents planning.

LAST THURSDAY noon the Board of Student Organizations, which coordinates the activities of some 60 student groups on campus, staged its annual Organization Day in the cafeteria patio. About 30 different organizations set up booths or arranged displays designed to make their activities better known to the many newcomers at LBSC.

Chris Turner was chairman in charge of this event.

NOW, LOOKING to the future: The big happening this week is the Leadership Conference which will be held next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Idylwild Arts Foundation.

Two bus loads of Staters, 80 in all, will depart Friday afternoon for their mountain conference site. The better part of the next two days will be spent in working out the answers to problems centering around the whole student activities program. Principal speaker will be Dr. Marshon DePoister of nearby Chapman College, who will discuss "Student Leadership."

Also on the agenda are volleyball, hiking, ping pong, dancing and eating—the last sure to be stimulated by the mountain environment.

Dick Holtz is chairman of the committee handling arrangements for this important yearly gathering.

NEXT FRIDAY night in the Soroptimist House from 8 until 10 p. m., Sigma Chi Nu, nurses' sorority, will be the host group at an Acquaintance Tea.

Planned as a means of making nurses at State better acquainted, the event will see president of the college, Dr. P. Victor Peterson, members of his staff, and head nurses from hospitals in the surrounding area as honored guests.

Mrs. Gladys Korber is in charge of the planning.

AND NEXT SUNDAY, members of the LBSC Alpha Phi Sorority will join with their sisters at USC and UCLA in a Founders' Day Tea in the Alpha Phi House at USC.

Founded in 1872, Alpha Phi is the oldest national sorority represented on the Long Beach State campus.

Introduction of each school's pledges and an exchange of chapter songs are on the program.

AFTER LOOKING both to the past and the future, one brief note on the present: Today, Tri-Delts and their dates gather at the home of Pati Braun in Belmont Shore for a bicycle journey to Anaheim Park.

Fifty persons are expected to be in the group which will start out at 11 a. m.; just how many riders will remain sane 40 miles and countless aching muscles later is an unanswered question at press time.

Creative Touch

Fire your imagination with a creative treatment of that old drab fireplace in your living room or family recreation room. Brick and stone are fitting for a hunting lodge, perhaps, but maybe you're more than a little tired of a lodge for a living room. If you cover that old fireplace facing with fireproof asbestos board, you're off to a good start.

Oswald Jacoby

How Would You Bid It?

Take a look at the South hand. It's a pretty good one. Nine sure tricks at no-trump and first round control of three suits. If you are the first bidder it is surely worth forcing a two bid.

However, you happen to be second hand and East has opened with a bid of one club. You still have the same good hand but how should you bid it?

In a recent New Orleans duplicate most South players chose to double or to bid two clubs.

Now take a look at the North hand. Not much of a hand but a nice seven card spade suit. Invariably after South doubled or cue bid in clubs North would bid spades indefinitely and the partnership wound up going down at some high spade contract.

The only pair to play the simple no-trump game were Sidney Lazard, one of our top young players, and June, his wife.

June has only been playing for two years but with Sidney's teaching she is well on her way to becoming a top woman player.

One of the points that Sidney has stressed and which all experts stress is that when your opponents open the bidding you don't ask your partner to bid unless you are ready for a major suit response.

Hence, June did make a strong bid but one that did not ask Sidney to take any action. She simply bid three no-trump.

Sidney looked over his seven spades wistfully but decided to pass. He assumed that his wife knew what she was doing and was correct. West chose to open a heart and when the suit was continued she made four odd.

PET PARADE

Putting On the Dog

By Eleanor Avery Price

WITH numerous dog shows and obedience trials on tap for this fall, dog owners are renewing their attention to the grooming of their pets, although owners of fine show dogs such as Mrs. L. Howard Kendall with chow, Champion Trojan of Poppyland, and Mrs. Helen Phariss with cocker, Shrdlu's Copy Boy, shown in accompanying picture, know that a few minutes' daily grooming every day of the year is much better than a sudden spurt of struggling with combs and clippers to get the dog looking his shining best.

In fact, since puppies are easier to handle than grown dogs, grooming should begin the day a puppy is acquired. The pet learns to enjoy attention and will accept being placed on a grooming table or bench. When he is older and perhaps too big to lift, he will jump onto the table of his own accord.

BRUSHING should always be a gentle procedure to inspire his confidence in you. It is even permissible to offer the pet an occasional tidbit while tending his appearance.

Smooth-haired breeds need little more than a soft brushing to remove loose hair and to give the coat a sheen. Brisk massage is also helpful in keeping the oil glands functioning properly.

Long-coated dogs need heavier brushing, and tangles and mats must be worked out gently if they have been allowed to appear. Watch also for burrs.

When grooming your dog, keep a look-out for fleas or their black specks. If these pests are seen, stand the dog on newspapers and apply a flea powder according to directions. Comb the coat gently and promptly burn the papers and the contents. If you prefer, use one of the concentrated liquid flea removers which is added to water. Immerse the dog to the neck only. If necessary, carefully sponge around ears and on face.

ENTRIES CLOSE at noon, Oct. 7, for the San Fernando Kennel Club dog show and obedience trial set for Oct. 20 at Recreation Park, San Fernando.

BIRD, FISH and ocelot fanciers interested in entering pets in the competitive shows of the California Pet Fair to be held in Municipal Auditorium, Long Beach, from Nov. 6-10, may write to California Pet Fair, P. O. Box 5061, Long Beach 5.

AN OPEN DISCUSSION on the activities of the American Kennel Club will spotlight the Orange Empire Dog Club two-day convention on Oct. 26-27, with John Neff of New York as guest speaker. Other guest panelists will discuss leash laws and other problems. Contact Nina Matzner, 1215 24th St., San Bernardino 9-1425, if you would like to attend either day.

Something for the Boys

Doggone Hollywood! It's a 'Raunchy' Town

By TED KREC

He Looks Good!

Hollywood, the place where widows mourn by ordering black olives in their Martinis, is responsible for one of the most distressing trends in men's clothing. I refer to the "casual look."

For the uninitiated, the "casual look" many times is just a fancy name for the sloppy look.

Bing Crosby and his outlandish garb and Howard Hughes with his sneakers are two of the leading offenders in this regard. With them, it was a form of trademark; unfortunately many of our younger men have, over the years, attempted to imitate this super-casual garb with the sole result being that they look terrible!

* * * *

AGAIN THIS casual nonsense has made the news — this time in Bob Kelley's sports column. One day last week Kelley wrote a piece about interviewing Tommy Wilson of the Rams. According to the article, Wilson was attired very nattily, but his companion, a 6-foot-7 end from Purdue named Lamar Lundy, was dressed in blue tennis shoes, Levis and a blue sport shirt. The two footballers had come to a radio station to record an interview and, according to Kelley, "our little group got some curious glances, most of them aimed at the giant Lundy."

Is it any wonder? Can you imagine a man being 6 feet, 7 inches tall to start with? Dress him in this ridiculous type of apparel and you'll see what I mean.

I don't know why it is, but whenever people come to Hollywood, they immediately affect a bizarre attire. A fellow in a supermarket was remarking about this just the other day.

"People come in here right after they've moved out from another section of the country," he said, "and they really look neat—hats, coats, ties, the full treatment. After a week or so, they've left off the ties. Then the coats are next. And pretty soon they're coming in looking like castaways."

* * * *

SEE WHAT I mean? If I still fail to make myself clear, go up to Hollywood some day and just stand on a street corner and look around. Don't pay any attention to the gals with their poodles dyed to match their outfits—just look at the men. I guarantee you'll see the longest parade of clowns since the circus hit town last time!

Unfortunately, I repeat, many of our younger set are adopting this nonsensical "casual" garb. You see them lined up in front of movies all the time—young fellows dressed in Levis worn so low on the hips that they defy gravity, T-shirts and clodhopper shoes. And nine times out of 10 their girl friends are dressed fetchingly in some cute little frock, too. If I'd ever dressed that way when I was squiring young ladies around, I would have been told that the "trash has been picked up already this week—and next time use the back door."

Just take a trip out through the corn country and you'll see scarecrows dressed better than many of our young men. "Raunchy" is the word most applicable to this Hollywood-style "casual look." And in case you're unfamiliar with the word, "raunchy" was coined by Ferry Command pilots during World War II to describe the look of a flier who carried his uniform in a briefcase.

Wise up, lads — even Brando has given up the "torn T-shirt" look.

St. Anthony's High School Mothers' Club will meet at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in Catholic Center. A talk and demonstration of hi-fi music will follow the business session.

School Menus

Good Food, Hot or Cold, for Students

The following menus will be served in Long Beach Elementary Schools in the week of Oct. 7-11.

MONDAY: Hot dog, garden peas, sliced peaches, cinnamon crunch cracker and milk.

TUESDAY: Chili beans, fresh carrots, fruit gelatin, cornbread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on potatoes, shredded beets with lemon butter, chocolate pudding with marshmallow garnish, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

THURSDAY: Hamburger on bun, cut green beans, autumn fruit cup, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, chopped spinach, circus salad, toasted French bread and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 25c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

Junior-Senior Menu

MONDAY: Spanish rice, cut green beans, autumn fruit cup, toasted cheese special and milk.

TUESDAY: Italian spaghetti, garden salad, cantaloupe slice, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hot meal loaf sandwich, mashed potatoes with gravy, spinach and milk.

THURSDAY: Home-style baked beans with barbecued wiener, coleslaw, applesauce, toasted French bread and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, garden peas, molded pineapple and cottage cheese salad, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Our Children

Kiddies Going Steady Is Just Passing Fad

By ANGELO PATRI

"I know what you think about 'going steady' for the adolescents and I have no trouble with my teenage girl, but what would you do when a 10-year-old girl announces that she is Tommy's steady and shows you a bead ring to prove it?"

First let me say what I would NOT do. I would not magnify the situation out of all proportion. Boys and girls should get acquainted with each other's way. Usually the younger ones do not "go steady." They are more likely to make faces at each other and scorn any association. The rare ones may for a time, play going steady. That is about all it amounts to. It is an imitation of their older brothers and sisters and more than likely to be forgotten in a day.

In any case it is better to smile and say, "Indeed. Tommy is a nice boy, a good friend to have," and go on from there. There will be a good many Tommies in a little girl's life if she follows the usual healthy pattern of her group and the more the merrier.

The little girl who has no brothers is more likely to have a boy playmate than not. This is instinctive, a drive to know about boys and quite as it should be.

It is not surprising that even the younger boys and girls who have still to feel any sex stir within them should imitate what they see and hear on all sides. The movies, the advertisements, the shop windows, wherever one looks sex is accented. It would be a stupid child who went untouched to some degree by the bombardment.

* * * *

THAT IS one good reason why any such statement by a 10-year-old girl should be passed over with a smile and a light word and the subject changed. She is unaware of the implications of her words and it is well not to accent them. She still is in the little girl stage where play is uppermost and imitation is strong.

Association with girls her own age is best at this time and while there should be no prohibition of play and friendship with boys of the same age group there should be no loud protest, no shaming, no pressure put on it unless, which is unlikely, the boy in question is an undesirable playmate because of his character.

Should a little girl seem to be unusually interested in boys some new and interesting activities, some more attractive and active girl companions should be brought into the picture and father should become more of a factor in the child's life.

Chi Omegas

Chi Omegas will have a dessert meeting at 12:30 p. m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Woelflin, 3919 Myrtle Ave. Mrs. Edward Bragg will preside.

Worry Clinic

Changing an Attitude Is Trick With Child

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-306: Norma B., aged 18 months, is a smart little girl.

"Dr. Crane, we can't get her to eat vegetables," her fond mother protested.

"She screws up her mouth and spits them out. But aren't they good for her?

"So what can we do to change her attitude?"

Newborn babies have no natural liking for meat or potatoes, spinach, cod liver oil, orange juice, or bread and butter.

Those are classified as neutral tastes and flavors.

There are some definitely negative or unpleasant items, like pepper, quinine and excessively hot or acid tastes.

* * * *

THE ONLY positive tastes are sugar and a mild salt solution.

So how can we "condition" a baby to change a neutral food like vegetables or even cod liver oil, into a positive delicacy?

Well, we must start with a positive and pleasant taste, then gradually fasten the new food to its figurative "coat tails."

In the last national election, many candidates rode into office on the marked popularity of President Eisenhower.

That is the same technique which we psychologists advise as regards a baby's food appetites.

At the outset, the new baby has no positive fondness for his mother.

But if she nurses the baby, or prepares his bottle, he does enjoy the warm, sweet milk. Incidentally, human milk is much sweeter than cow's milk, which is why we medics add sugar to the cow's milk if the baby uses the bottle.

The contentment and happy mood produced by a bottle of warm, sweet milk, give the baby a mellow outlook on life. He then wears rosy tinted glasses, as it were, and what does he see?

Well, his mother usually is linked with the milk, so she soon becomes a coat-tail rider. The baby thus spreads his enjoyment from the sweet milk to the inevitable accompaniment thereof, namely, Mama.

She has beome a glorified lump of sugar!

The baby also may develop a great fondness for a flannel cloth or woolly blanket that is wrapped around the bottle to keep it from sliding off the infant's chest.

That's why many babies in later years require some fuzzy piece of cloth to hold against their face as a prelude to going to sleep.

* * * *

AFTER MAMA, the infant includes Daddy as a pleasant object. Fjnally the baby sits at the table in his high chair.

Now comes the tricky job of making spinach a coat-tail rider. While baby is in a gleeful mood, slip him a tiny bit of the new food.

Praise him and get him as happy as possible, even though he may act puzzled and hesitate about that new taste quality.

And don't rush him. Wait till next day to feed him the second bite. If you repeat this process deftly, he soon will transfer his generalized happy mood to the new food. It thus becomes a coat-tail rider.

Finally, people can even become fond of bitter substances like beer or tobacco or hot things like tabasco sauce or whisky.

Conference Concludes for Food Editors

(Editor's Note: This is the last article by Miss Flanary on the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference which she has been attending in Chicago.)

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHICAGO — As a wonderful climax, and in keeping with clever and unique invitations, in various languages, which had previously been sent to our offices, the food editors started off Friday at an International Breakfast. It was in the Gold Coast Room at the Drake Hotel, sponsored by Aluminum Company of America.

We learned what you can do with Alcoa Wrap Aluminum! Each hour of the day seems to bring forth new ways and new ideas for its use. Throughout the coming months, we'll be bringing some of them to you.

* * * *

TICKETS ON the "Tuna Clipper Luxury," sailing from Terminal Island, Calif., admitted us to the Grand Ball Room at the Drake where we were guests of the Tuna Research Foundation.

Fish chowders are a great favorite on the tuna boats. Most of the recipes used by the chefs are of a southern European origin due to the fact the fishermen's backgrounds are primarily Portuguese, Italian and Yugoslavian. This fact is further reflected in the serving of red or white wine with clipper meals.

We'll share some of these clipper specialties wtih you when we return to Long Beach.

* * * *

MEN LIKE foods that are sweet, according to Mrs. Rose Marie Pangborn, a University of California food technologist, in her talk to the editors at the Sugar Information meeting.

These facts were brought to light as a result of a special program conducted by that university to determine the relationship between sugar and flavor in many foods. More than 30,000 people tasted samples of canned peaches which were prepared with varying amounts of sugar and acid.

Results showed that they preferred the peaches sweeter than was currently believed and they did so consistently from year to year. Several household surveys were conducted on a variety of canned fruits with the same results.

* * * *

ALAS AND ALACK, it's our last day at the 15th Annual Food Editors Conference. It's been a grand one —a full one (both the conference and the food editors), informative one, a happy occasion, and as you may well believe, the old modus operandi is functioning from force of habit entirely.

To bid us farewell and send the 150 newspaper food editors on our various ways, the Angostura-Wupperman Corp. planned a Pirate Party. The French Room at the Drake, was complete with "Spanish Main" flavor. Naturally, though, the "hidden treasure" of flavor in the canapes (and some of the liquid refreshments, too, we must admit) is Angostura bitters.

Douglas H. Bradley, their president, came from New York to make the occasion a memorable one.

Thus we bring to a close our wanderings through, in, about and around the city of the real cool breezes, Chicago.

In the Long Beach Area

Susan's Window Shopping

THE LEOPARD has lost his spots to these fabulous fake fur leopard pants, slim as they can be. Elegant for an "at home" costume coupled with wool jersey halter top in jade green or black. Sold separately, the pants are under $20, the halter, under $10.

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

To Observe Founding

The 87th anniversary of Kappa Kappa Gamma will be celebrated by the Long Beach Alumnae at the annual Founders' Day banquet Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. in the Hawaiian Restaurant.

With the theme of "Something Old—Something New" the Kappas will commemorate their founding at Monmouth College, Ill., in 1870. The changes involved during the progress of the sorority since its establishment will be depicted by members of the association.

Decorations, with Mrs. James L. Shively in charge, will feature the sorority's emblem, the golden Key, and its flower, the fleur-de-lis. Mrs. John D. Walker, association president, will be mistress of ceremonies. General chairman is Mrs. Allen N. Willett. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Hugh Gardner, 4329 Stanbridge Ave.

Parties Tell Duo Goodby

Several farewell parties have taken place recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Lee, 2331 Charlemagne Ave., who are moving this month to Bakersfield where Lee will be general superintendent of that city's transit system.

What ostensibly was a surprise birthday party honoring Lee last week became, in actuality, a farewell party for the couple. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wehrman, 131 E. Eagle St.

* * * *

MRS. LEE was complimented at a luncheon last week given by her sister, Mrs. Robert England, 339 W. 31st St. Included in the guests was Mrs. Margaret Clark, mother of Mrs. Lee and Mrs. England.

Others who have entertained for the departing couple were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miller.

AAUW Officer Schedules Tour

Mrs. Ray Winthrop Townsend has announced her plans for meetings during this third year of her four-year term of office as national vice president of American Association of University Women, South Pacific Region, which includes branches in this state, Nevada and Arizona.

On Oct. 11 Mrs. Townsend will attend the state regional conference at Chico to give a report on the AAUW Anniversary convention held recently in Boston. She will also conduct the administration workshop.

"Today's Crisis in Education — A Challenge to AAUW," will be the subject discussed by Mrs. Townsend when she meets with Los Gatos-Saratoga branch at Los Gatos on Oct. 19.

* * * *

PHOENIX BRANCH, Ariz., will be hostess for a luncheon on Nov. 2 with Mrs. Townsend as guest speaker. Her topic will be "AAUW-Present and Future Indicative." On her return trip from Phoenix she will visit northern branches in Arizona, including Wickenburg, Prescott and Flagstaff.

En route to Washington, D.C. to attend the meeting of the national executive board of directors, Nov. 21 through 24, Mrs. Townsend will be the speaker at a joint dinner meeting of three branches in Las Vegas, Nev.

Sorority Plans Fashion Benefit

National Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will receive proceeds from the third annual fashion show-luncheon being presented by Beta Sigma Chapter of Delta Chi Sigma sorority at noon, Oct. 12, at The Hawaiian.

Fashions from Long Beach shops will be modeled by chapter members, with Mrs. Wayne Smith of Beta Xi Chapter as coordinator and commentator. The Malahini dancers will entertain.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Glen Burns, 3512-A E. 1st St., and tickets will be available at the door.

Take Your Camera Along When You Fly

Airline personnel usually are very interested in their photo-taking passengers, often can help.

By the Shutterbug

SINCE fall and winter vacations have become so popular — and so many of us have made flying our regular mode of travel — we thought we'd go in for a little "plane talk" especially for you picture-takers.

First of all, cameras make ideal traveling companions on any flight. You can take your choice between a simple box camera or a more elaborate one — between a camera that will make snapshots or one that will shoot movies.

BEFORE YOU START shooting pictures from the air, it might be well to remember two basic points: 1. Always be sure neither your camera nor your arms come in contact with any part of the plane, or vibration will make your pictures turn our blurred and fuzzy. Your camera should be close to the window, but not touching it. 2. For the best results, use a filter to cut through atmospheric haze.

It's easiest to make good clear shots when the plane has reached an altitude of at least 2,000 feet, since the ground then doesn't move by so rapidly. The best seats for picture-takers are those in the back half of the cabin and on the side away from the direct rays of the sun. On an eastbound flight, try to sit on the left side; on a westbound trip, choose a seat on the right side.

YOU'LL FIND the effect of the plane's speed will be minimized if you shoot 'oblique" views — by holding your camera pointed ahead of the plane or to the rear, rather than the straight down or straight out the side. In other words, shoot when the plane is approaching or leaving the subject, and not when it is flying parallel to the subject.

Start your picture story well before take-off time. A busy airport is a fascinating place—filled with excited passengers, teeming luggage trucks and taxiing planes — bustling with activities.

In the air, watch for interesting terrain — a canyon, a mountain range, unusually contoured fields, a bridge or a harbor. Get part of the plane wings and engines in some of your shots—and be alert for striking cloud-and-sky effects.

Boat Talk

By Bob Ruskauff

ALL THREE of these are "firsts" at Alamitos Bay Yacht Club — family, club, community.

Saturday night, as the 31-year-old ABYC had its annual trophy presentation dinner at the Lafayette Starlight Room, a little of all three was strongly evident.

Trophies were in the hundreds — some elaborate, some little mementos, but all symbols of a thing which the strong, vital membership of the ABYC does almost every weekend — between-time, throughout the year.

THEY SAIL BOATS, they work on their boats, they built their own club and have work parties, in which all join to keep improving it and their facilities, at 5437 E. Ocean Blvd.

It was in May of 1926 that 14 charter members met at S. W. Holmer's Boat Shop and formed the club. Richard L. Russell Sr. was first commodore. ABYC was incorporated and built its first facilities the following year.

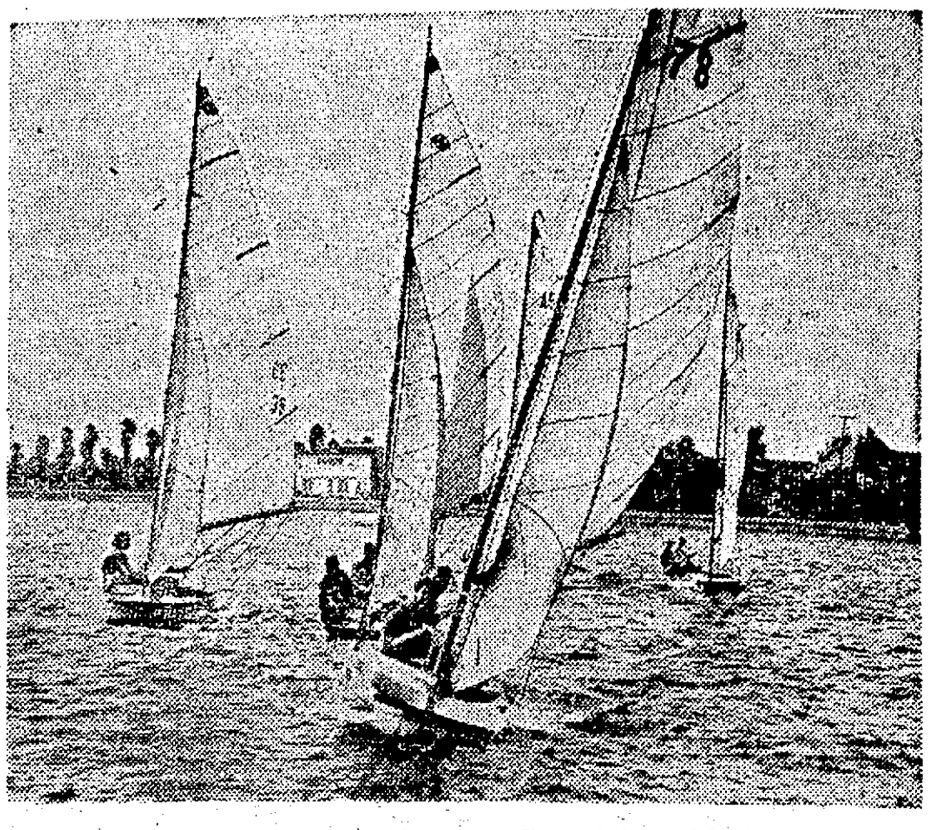

All was not always serene going through the early years, but today Alamitos Bay Yacht Club is not only "in" but, for admirable reasons, is known and regarded well throughout the world of yachting.

THERE ARE SOME 350 voting members but that isn't the crux of it. Only one member of a family has a voting membership. Hence (and it works this way almost to the decimal) this means that ABYC has a junior membership of 1,000 youngsters. At 21, junior members must convert to a senior status. This they invariably do, so if ever a club had a certain, future heritage, it would be ABYC.

Many firsts are rightfully claimed by the club and, as was pointed out by Ann Exley—wife of Commodore Sid and the mother of three smart-sailing lasses, Sue, Pat and Jane:

"The Southland has kicked over a lot of the staid traces in yachting. Southern Cali-

THE LEAD

The lead will tell you what sort of bottom your anchorage has when you do not have a chart. Fill the tip of the lead with tallow or soap, then allow the lead to hit bottom. When you haul it in, it will have bits of sand, seashells, etc. Very often the lead will come up with nothing adhering to it. This means that the bottom consists of rocks. Always try to have a chart of the water you cruise.

Balloon lands on grounds of Hotel Raymond near Pasadena in 1903. Those were the days when ballooning was an adventure.

Daring Young Man in a Flying Balloon

By Harry Karns

WHEN Maj. David Simons of the Air Force recently ascended to 102,000 feet to set a new altitude record for manned balloons, he wore an emergency pressure suit, rode in an aluminum gondola equipped with a dry-ice cooling system, and carried with him a pair of two-way radios and a couple of parachutes. His balloon was made of polyethylene and controlled by an electric valve.

This may be science. But it's not ballooning. Not in the old tradition—the tradition of Montgolfier, Wise, and the fabulous Prof. Thaddeus Lowe.

Lowe, who in his "declining" days built the famous Mt. Lowe railway and resort in the Sierra Madre Mountains behind Pasadena, was the one-man air force of the Union Army in the Civil War. In his time only hot air, a few patches, and a wicker basket stood between the balloonist and eternity.

Portrait of Thaddeus Lowe in elegant-type clothes he so often wore when up in clouds.

THAD LOWE originated in Jefferson Mills, N. H., where he kept the neighbors in a constant state of unrest by his tests of natural laws. He was particularly fascinated with the law of gravity.

"One thing about that Lowe boy," a townsman recalled later, "he was never underfoot."

Though he had no formal education, he was called "professor" by his 23rd year, and it was a title which his showman's soul easily tolerated.

The times were looking for him. America prior to the Civil War was searching for a means of rapid communication across the Atlantic. Cyrus Field's Atlantic cable had experienced a discouraging setback.

LOWE PROPOSED a balloon crossing. His eloquence and confidence impressed the noted physicist, Joseph Henry, head of the Smithsonian Institution. Henry discussed Lowe with the Smithsonian regents, who gave the young balloonist a provisional go-ahead. "Go inland and make some trial ascents."

His first big experiment took place at Cincinnati. He proposed to ascend while surface air currents were flowing westward and travel on an upper current which theoretically would be going east. He waited for days for the right conditions.

They developed at 4 o'clock on the morning of April 21, 1861.

Prof. Lowe was six feet tall and of powerful physique. He had a formidable black mustache. Wearing the silk hat and black coat in which he had attended a banquet in his honor the previous evening, he stepped into his basket, severed his balloon from the earth, and rose into the darkened sky.

MOST OF THE reporters automatically treated the project as a failure. Then the telegraph began clicking with a report from Lexington, Ky.: "Large balloon seen rapidly moving eastward."

At about 7,000 feet Prof. Lowe had hit his eastward current, which swept him along at breathtaking speed. For a time it looked as if he would make the Atlantic flight whether he was ready for it or not.

The Civil War had just started, and down in South Carolina folk had their eyes peeled for strangers who might be Yankees.

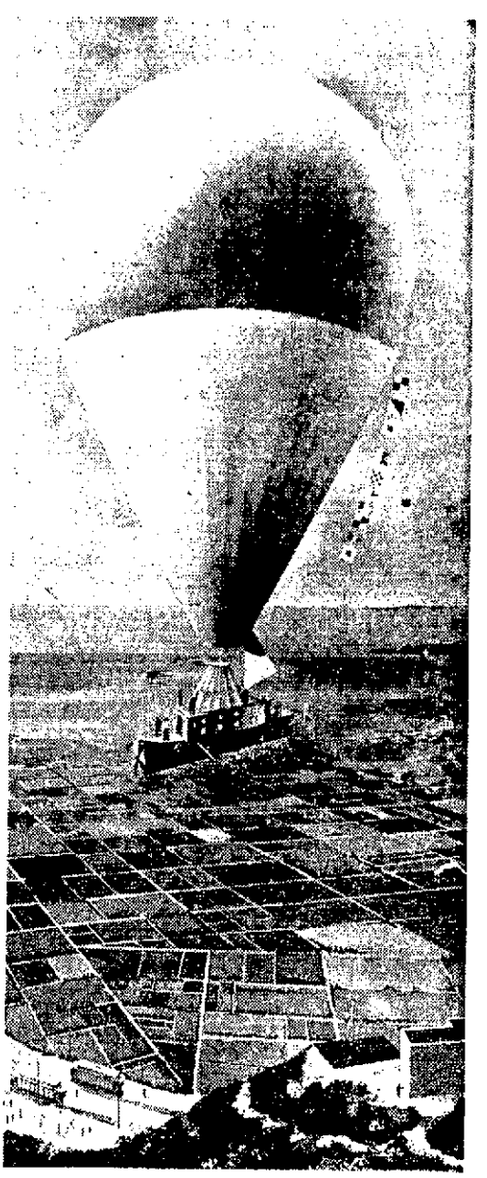

Just after lunch on April 21, a field hand noticed a distant black speck in the sky moving from the direction of the Allegheny Mountains. The speck grew into a balloon, and the balloon settled to earth. There in the gently swinging undergear stood a dark-clad man in a black silk hat. Satan or a Yankee, for sure.

Field workers armed with pitchforks and shotguns surrounded the stranger. Lowe stepped forward smiling. "I left Cincinnati this morning," he said.

"THAT'S FAST GOING, YANKEE. But it'll take you a hell of a lot longer to go back."

But it didn't take so long, at that. They escorted him to town, where his claim of being a civilian scientist was verified—and he talked himself up a railway

By Richard Cheney

IT PROBABLY will come as no surprise in this Tranquilizer Era that a man named Alan Hinton, with offices on Murray St. in downtown New York, is making a good living selling Happiness. His colorful 10-ton trucks, with skyline views of paradise on the side, ply the streets of the city imprinted with the promising, almost apocalyptic question, "Do you want Happiness?"

Hinton, a hard but cheerful worker, has no couch on the premises, nor has he ever put together a best-selling guide to serene and confident living. His line is real estate and he turns it out in a sizable factory on nearby Staten Island.

Hinton is vice president of Hinton & Co., which manufactures Happiness Homes (he usually eschews the word "cage" in his catalogues) for man's jolly feathered friends and companions—mostly parakeets, canaries, parrots and myna birds.

IN THE COMPETITIVE bird housing game even the parrots don't talk sales figures, but annual sales of all bird cages may run as high as $12 million. Hinton is probably one of the largest manufacturers of bird cages in the U. S. Since 1950, when he stopped selling another company's cages and started making and selling his own, the bird cage business has had a boom rivaling that for U. S. housing in recent years.

French's Pet Bird Institute of Rochester, N. Y., estimates that the U. S. parakeet population itself has increased tenfold since 1951. Today the nation has some 14 million parakeets—one for every fifth home, including the White House. Canaries are also undergoing something of a revival (there are four to five million in the country).

EVEN THOUGH business has fallen off slightly since the big parakeet year of 1954, Hinton still estimates he uses 200 tons of steel wire a year and 200 tons of steel sheet to make his homes. His plant goes full blast before every holiday that calls for the giving of gifts, including Mother's Day. As his friends say, no wonder Hinton's happy.

While Hinton's success is partly the result of the nation's soaring parakeet sales, it also stems from his colorful merchandising ideas. He holds patents on the split level home for pet birds as well as the Cape Cod (with garden), which has a colorful planter box around the outside. He has plans for a ranch type as well as a colonial home. He also does a big business in such items as edible rocking chairs for birds, shower baths, parakeet pinball games, bird toys, bird valentines (seed compressed into the shape of hearts), cuttle bone and the good old staple, bird seed.

BIRD SEED, in fact, was the original line of Hinton & Co., prior to the firm's entering the cage, or home, business. The company has been selling bird seed since 1900, when Hinton's father, Frank, who still goes to work every day, started it as a young Irish immigrant.

Another big factor in Hinton's success stemmed from his hiring an engineer named Max Haas, who fled Nazi Germany in 1938 and did important work in high frequency wiring for the U. S. during the war. Haas and three employes started Hinton's Staten Island factory in 1950, an enterprise now calling for as many as 100 employes during busy periods. While this factory has scores of machines, including welders, power presses and bending machines, bird cage manufacturing still calls for a lot of hand craftsmanship. Perhaps the most important job is the making of grooved wooden forms into which the wires that make up the sides and top of the cage are laid prior to welding. Haas estimates that the forms, or fixtures as he calls them, in the Staten Island plant are worth about $25,000.

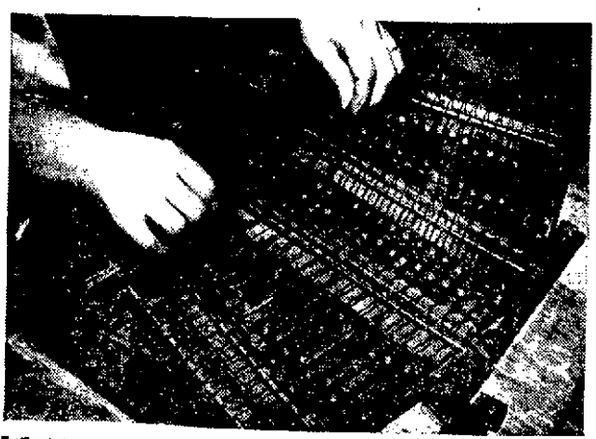

ALONG WITH WIRE, the company uses electrolytic tinplate, cold rolled steel sheets or chromium or nickel plated steel sheets for its cages.

A lot of the Happiness Bird Cage factory employes have their own birds. But perhaps the top parakeet man is Hinton himself. He has one bird, whose name is Lucky. It doesn't talk, it laughs.

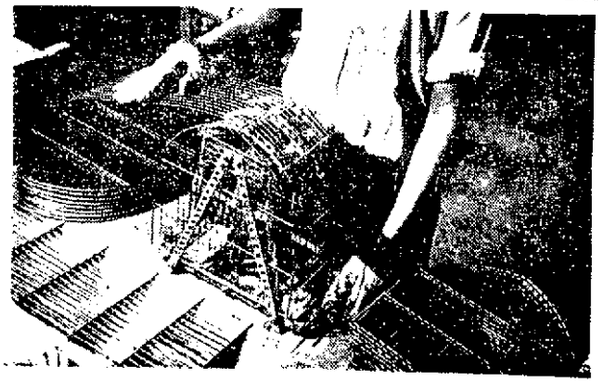

Hinton's friends have been trying to get him to teach the bird to say a few words. They feel it would be appropriate if the pet would reply, when asked why so happy, "Just lucky, I guess."

Homes for growing U. S. population of pet birds are spot welded at Hinton's plant.

Grooved wooden forms, like one above, are to a modern bird cage what a blueprint is to a new home. When a given cage is in production, it is used over and over in mass output.

Once they are formed, the parts are then assembled, ready for welding into a future home for a fortunate pet of some proud household.

Sample of Long Beach's present-day football talent is Dave Schilling, St. Anthony High back, who scored 13 touchdowns last year.

Lonzo McGlothern, a real flash and a comer, is probably Poly High School's best backfield ace. He'll bear watching again this year.

Football's 50 Years Young in Long Beach!

By Dick Zehms

A HALF CENTURY of American football is being played out this season in Long Beach—on eight fronts.

It wasn't always like this. In 1908, when player-coach Fred Trude converted the Long Beach High School team from rugby to the U. S. brand, there was only one team in town.

Those were the good old days . . . when surreys with fringe on the top bounced down Pine Ave . . . when dairy farms snuggled at the foot of Signal Hill . . . when the 20-mule teams were hauling borax to the harbor for export, providing cargo ships could get close enough to the shore to permit loading . . . and when touchdowns counted five points—before inflation set in.

THIS SLEEPY seaside village was united on one front—football. Long Beach High was the apple of the town's eye.

We've come a long way. In this 50th season, five public schools are hard at it. So are one parochial school, one city college and one state college.

It's an auspicious occasion 50 years later, if only because this 1957 season marks the formation of an all-Long Beach public school athletic conference named in honor of Harry J. Moore, "Mr. CIF," Harry, who retired last June as assistant superintendent of schools here, served for more than 40 years in the California Interscholastic Federation.

Poly, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan and the new Lakewood prep institution are banded together in a single athletic fold to settle a family feud (the first league game is scheduled Oct. 18). Long Beach is a city divided 50 years later. There are five separate loyalties among the public high school fans. Another segment lives and dies with the fortunes of St. Anthony's High in the Catholic League. Another supports Long Beach City College of the Metropolitan Conference, and still another backs Long Beach State College in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

LONG BEACH HIGH took to the American-style game like a polar bear to an ice cube. Trude's first efforts were successful. Long Beach enjoyed a 5-3-0 season in 1908, mainly through the inspired efforts of Trude, who was player, coach and manager, and cohorts Ed Peterson, captain, and Rupert Armstrong, Buell Funk, Pat Fulton, Floyd Frazier, Tommy Davis, Wilmot Long, Ross Middough, Carl Poor, Clarence Rees, Ivan Ringheim and Stubby Smith.

This was the foundation on which Long Beach High, later to become Polytechnic, built a remarkable record of football achievement. Until 1926, the Jackrabbits were the No. 1 athletic love of the city.

Then Woodrow Wilson High took to the gridiron, to be followed in 1928 by Long Beach Junior College. In 1933, Jordan High and St. Anthony's joined the flock. Next came Long Beach State College's 49ers two years ago, then Millikan last year and Lakewood this fall.

IN THE INTERVENING years other football teams blossomed and died here. The Southern California Military Academy and the Dewey Vocational School fielded teams for a short time in the prep league. In World War I the Keel Klub operated. And at the turn of 1930 the Long Beach Longshoremen, Policemen, Firemen and Lifeguards sent teams into action.

Chief historians of Long Beach football who have provided most of the facts in this story include James C. Heartwell, one-time sports writer turned banker; Rockwell Kemp, one-time SC grid star, coach and now athletic director at Jordan; Don Drury, City College publicist; Gene (Skip) Rowland, ex-Wilson and UCLA player now coaching Wilson's varsity, and Leo Haggerty, St. Anthony's High coach.

Elsewhere on this page you will find the "lifetime records" of the schools as compiled by the various historians. There is disagreement in a small measure here and there, since at the outset the various schools were using junior varsity and Class "B" players in their varsity lineups for want of manpower.

HOWEVER, IN THE MAIN the records are authentic—or as authoritative as newspaper clippings, yearbooks, and musty old records will permit.

As the pioneer, Poly High of course rules the roost in the matter of victories and championships. League titles are legion. The Jackrabbits, moreover, have won more Southern California Interscholastic crowns than any other school in the Southland—six—in 1919, 1923, 1929, 1930, 1934 and 1936.

Trim Ranch With a Gallery

unusual entrance; they also serve as insulation against noise from other parts of the house.

One bathroom is convenient to the center hall. The other, with a stall shower, is private for the master bedroom. A lavatory for the living areas could be installed in the corner of the informal living room marked "storage" on the floor plan.

A graceful, open stair leads from the dining room to the higher informal living room. A wrought iron railing gives a balconied effect to this room.

A STRIKING FEATURE of this house is the gallery. It has a "two-story" window exposure, offering a wide and high vista. The gallery floor is reached by going down two steps from the kitchen hall. An openwork railing separates the gallery from the informal living room.

There is a closet at one end of the gallery for storage purposes, and there is ample space for the hobbyist to move around below in the gallery. In this plan, a bench has been placed for potted plants. This area could serve as an indoor greenhouse. But it also could be used for other purposes. The "two-story" windows would provide abundant natural light for sketching and painting.

THE GALLERY has a cement floor, easy to keep clean. The gallery's uses could be as varied as the interests of the homeowner. Also, there is space for an optional door from the outside leading into the kitchen and down into the gallery.

The basement could be finished into still another living area. There is space, too, in the basement for an optional fireplace.

The kitchen, nearly square in shape, combines ease-of-work area and room for a family snack bar. The L-shaped counter area is convenient to the dining room.

THROUGHOUT THIS comfortable, spacious home, full advantage is taken of the views at both the front and the back. The dining room captures the rear view through a huge bow window. The living room, next to the master bedroom has a picture window nearly 10 feet wide. The master bedroom has corner windows—and the front bedrooms have full scale windows.

Should you wish to exploit the views from this trim house still further, build it on an elevated plot, or on top of a hill. You'll be living on top of the world!

fornians are adventurers. It wasn't done before, so we did it."

SMALLBOAT one-design racing was, in effect, born on Alamitos Bay. Today, literally thousands in perhaps 40 different classes, teem waters of the west. But, in 1930, there was none of it. Then one day:

An old Marion-type hull drifted into the bay. Clarence (Clay) Pasel, boat builder, took it and converted the craft into a heavily-canvassed, scow-type sailboat which he called the Patricia Skimmer. A class was started.

In 1931, against the advice of many who said, "those little (16½-foot) boats should never be allowed on the ocean," they were allowed to compete off the breakwater, in the Midwinter Regatta.

ROSE PASEL SAILED to victory in the class and the fast-sailing skimmers were a sensation. So was Rose, who became the first Midwinter's woman sailing champion and, later, of the Pacific Coast.

Thus the ABYC scored two firsts all at once.

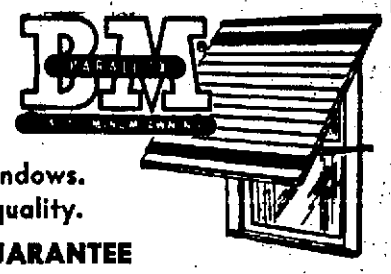

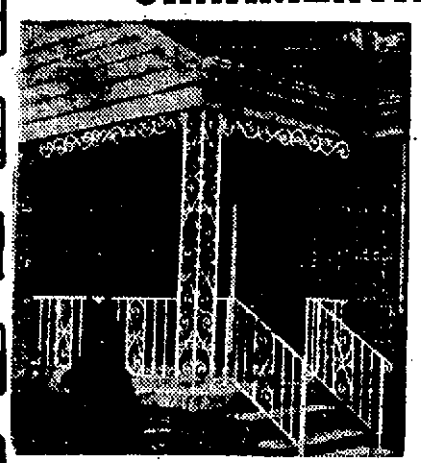

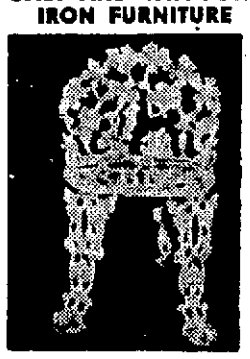

But the greatest thing, really, is the family angle. Again, as Ann Exley put it:

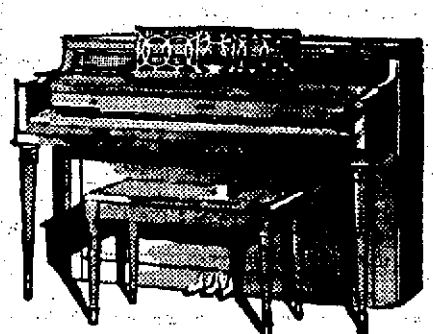

"This is a definite family contribution to combat juvenile delinquency. In yachting, particularly, youngsters do learn to take care of themselves and what sportsmanship means.

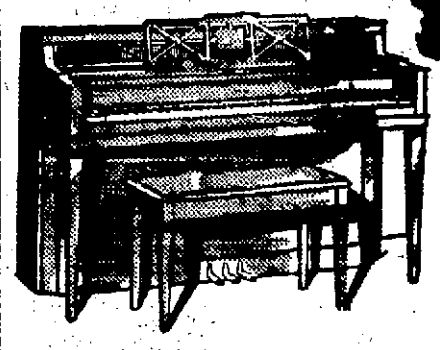

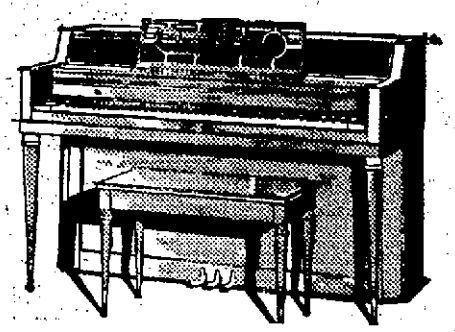

"Poor sports? Oh, at times, maybe. But the other kids soon make good sports out of them." And good citizens.

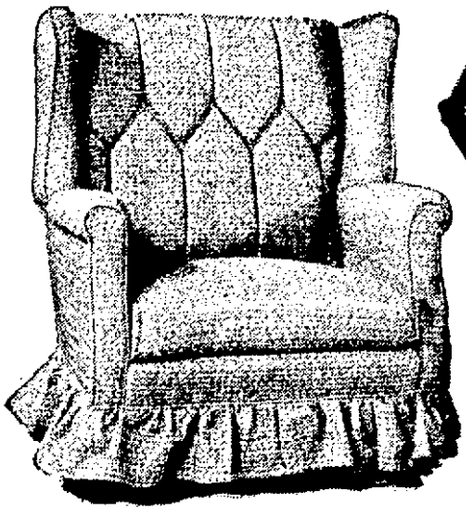

BOAT HOOKS: Today's feature in sailing, an ocean race off Newport for K-38 sloops, representing eight Southland yacht clubs, competing for the Al A. Adams and Son Trophy, one of the more coveted perpetual awards.

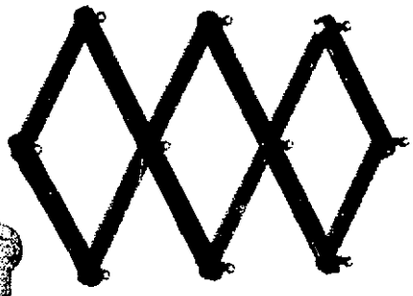

In speedboating, top boats of the nation point toward Mead Lake on the coming weekend.

Dio de la Raza

By Barbara V. Myers

"HOLIDAYS" a historian once wrote, "are the memorial stones raised along the path by which a nation rose to greatness." Although the discovery of this hemisphere on Oct. 12, 1492, by Christopher Columbus was the first "stone" so placed in our nation's path to greatness, it was not commemorated nationally until 400 years had passed.

In 1892, President Benjamin Harrison recommended a general holiday on which the "people should, as far as possible, cease from toil and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer."

Now the majority of states have set aside Oct. 12 as a holiday. Cities, streets and parks have been named in honor of the explorer and statues, such as the one presented to Columbus, Ohio, by the city of Genoa, in 1955, have been erected.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER similar honors have been given. In many countries Oct. 12 is celebrated under the name Dio de la Raza, or Day of the Race. The great South American country of Colombia, the cities of Cristobal and Colon at the Atlantic end of the Panama Canal, whose names together form the Castilian version of the name of the explorer, and the great cathedral in Havana, reputed to have held the bones of Columbus, are but a few of the places that carry his name.

Yet all these memorials are but relics compared to the spirit of the man which lives as part of the American heritage helping to mold the character of oncoming generations. For though Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa, Italy, his life reflects many values which have become synonymous with the American way.

HE DID NOT, for example, let the circumstance of humble parentage and lack of schooling keep him from dreaming great dreams, and setting out

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

Southland's weekly garden features tell how to grow them.

Water Key to Cymbidium Success

By Joe Littlefield

RECENTLY we visited a garden-minded friend, and were amazed to see an exceptionally healthy-looking collection of potted cymbidium plants. They are the type of orchids that grow outdoors in partial shade. The blossoms last from three to five weeks and longer.

He's won many flower show prizes with huge chrysanthemums; large, beautiful, showy roses, carnations and other attractive flowers. From them he turned to growing cymbidiums and is one of the pioneer growers, having grown them for the past 15 years.

We asked him what his answer is to the common lament, "Why won't my cymbidium plants bloom?" His answer was most interesting. Perhaps, in the following comments, you may find an answer as to why your cymbidiums are undependable bloomers.

FOR A NUMBER of years this friend was successful in growing and flowering cymbidiums. About five years ago he noticed a decided decline in the growth of his plants, the narrowing down of foliage, regression of bulbs to smaller size, and fewer flowers. In many cases, no flowers at all!

He started to check into this trouble from several different angles. He tried several composts, fertilizers and methods of watering the plants. When he watered the plants heavily, they grew progressively worse.

Cymbidiums thrive when watered with distilled or rain water. "Bathing" in summer also is big help.

So he got the idea that it was a watering problem. He tried distilled water. Many months later, results from the distilled water-treated group of plants proved the trouble was with the water!

The metropolitan water he used contained excessive amounts of sodium salts. It's

Viet Nam-born Chinese lad bids goodby to Eve Myers, former San Pedran, after a recent CAT repatriation flight.

Flight in the Far East

CIVIL AIR TRANSPORT, designated air carrier for Free China, recently made nine flights to Saigon, Viet Nam, from Taipei, Taiwan (Republic of Free China), to bring back Viet Nam-born Chinese students who chose to retain their Chinese citizenship.

The one passenger aboard one of the nine C-46 aircraft, with three crew members, was Eve Myers, former San Pedro resident.

The plane made the direct nonstop flight from Taipei to Saigon in seven hours and returned the next day with 51 Chinese students aboard, via Tourane (Viet Nam) and Hong Kong to Taipei, Taiwan.

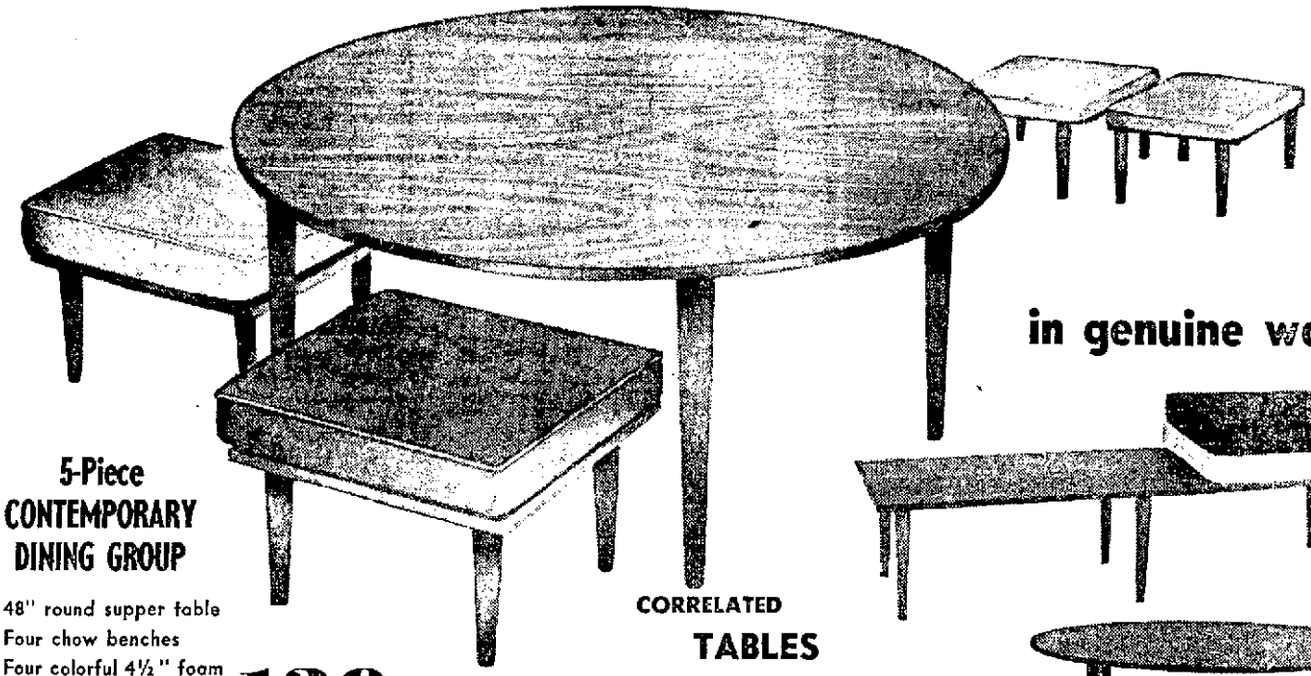

A TOTAL OF 447 Chinese boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 have been flown out of Saigon to date on the nine aircraft.

Miss Myers is employed in the public relations office of Civil Air Transport in Taipei and has lived on Taiwan (Formosa) for the past five years.

Civil Air Transport was founded by Gen. C. L. Chennault of Flying Tiger fame.

Redhaired, vivacious Jill St. John, 17, of Hollywood, attended UCLA. She makes film debut in "Summer Love."

Ingrid Goude, Sweden's entry in Long Beach's Miss Universe contest, has a big part in "Once Upon a Horse."

HOLLYWOOD

Up They Go!

HOLLYWOOD'S constant search for new screen personalities brings into sharp focus five lovelies recently placed under contract by Universal-International Studio. They include one redhead, two brunettes and two blondes, and their birthplaces range from Hollywood to Sandviken, Sweden. Beauty is not their only common attribute—they are all in search of film fame. Here is a peek at them, as they start their climb toward stardom.

Judy Meredith, 20, once with the Ice Follies, also makes her screen bow in the forthcoming "Summer Love."

Joanna Moore, a honey blonde from Georgia, already has appeared in two pictures. Future looks bright.

the sodium salts that are detrimental to those plants.

FROM THEN ON, he installed a deionizer. A deionizer simply removes all minerals, making it equivalent to rain water or distilled water.

We observed the results of his cymbidiums in pots which were watered with deionized water for a year. They showed tremendous progressive vigorous growth from the small bulbs and leaves to almost giant proportions.

This was the opposite of cymbidiums which he watered with metropolitan water. They showed regression, becoming smaller.

Now, if the compost soil that plants are growing in contains proper balance of minerals they won't need much supplemental feeding. This type of compost usually breaks down too soon, and requires more frequent repotting.

THE MORE advanced growers use a compost soil containing material such as fir bark and shredded redwood bark. This type of compost is very porous and requires regular feedings. Feed with a balanced fertilizer throughout the year. Remember, feeding is important and helpful if used in the right degree.

You must understand, so far, we've been discussing his pot culture cymbidiums. If you've had poor luck growing cymbidiums such as we described, you should use rain water in season, and distilled water the rest of the time for those plants. However, if the collection is large, definitely it would pay to install a deionizer.

Should you have cymbidiums growing in partial shade in open ground, and they are planted in a soil medium that is coarse and porous containing large quantities of bark fibers and wood shavings, the plants then have a higher tolerance to the sodium salts in metropolitan water.

IN THE OPEN outdoor bed, it is much easier to leach out the sodium salts that might build up in the plants' root zone area. Leaching means to periodically flood the soil to wash down any accumulation of the salts buildup.

Science's Loud Mouth

By Rennie Taylor
Associated Press Science Writer

PROBABLY the loudest mouth in existence is SAM, a mechanical contrivance at Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park.

It can shout loudly enough to be understood at least 1½ miles away, and it is the forerunner to a projected machine to make the voice carry at least four miles.

Some day SAM's successors may come in handy at the battlefront, to harrange the enemy or terrorize him. They might be useful to communicate with men underground or people overboard in a ship wreck, or individuals lost in the wilds.

BUT RIGHT NOW SAM's assignment is to make noise for scientific research. To prevent it from driving the neighbors crazy, it is set to talk into a 30-foot long tunnel constructed on a framework resembling a cattle chute. The tunnel itself is only one foot in diameter and is surrounded by 12 tons of sand.

SAM, which is short for Stanford Airstream Modulator, is the creation of Dr. Vincent Salmon, acoustics expert for the Stanford Research Institute.

Because of its versatility it can imitate, for research purposes at least, the sounds of many noisy gadgets. In this role it will help researchers to work on noise control problems in the laboratory. Otherwise they would have to work beside roaring jet engines, diesel trucks, freight trains and riveting machines.

ESSENTIALLY SAM is a super-loud speaker which operates on compressed air, like the horn on a diesel truck or diesel locomotive. Because the characteristics of the noise it produces can be changed in many ways, it may be able to show the way toward making sounds less offensive if not less intense, Dr. Salmon said.

GIBBERELLIN

The Greatest Plant Discovery Since the Days of LUTHER BURBANK

- Makes Geraniums Grow to Giants
- Jumps Rose Bushes 3 times normal height
- Sprouts Beans 8 inches in 24 hours
- Speeds Young Tree growth years in weeks

Not Treated — Gibberellin Treated

The greatest plant discovery since the days of Luther Burbank. Japanese and American biochemists working for 24 years have at last come up with a plant growth secret called GIBBERELLIN, a fantastic chemical that makes geraniums spring into GIANTS! Asters, petunias, poinsettias, dwarf dahlias leap to prize winning size, tomatoes rise to huge size in half the time of small tomatoes, celery that doubles stocks and leaf growth almost immediately, young trees acquire growth of years in weeks. Right now is the best season to use GIBBERELLIN. Whatever you have, a garden, a farm, flowers, plants or bushes you will find a ready need for GIBBERELLIN. The plain fact is until the advent of GIBBERELLIN, most plants, vegetables, and flowers rarely measured up to ordinary growth expected. But GIBBERELLIN brings miraculous plant growth results even in the hands of ten-year-olds!

ONLY 2.98 for a 15-gram package of powdered chemical. You pay only 3c per plant — since a 15-gram package treats 100 plants. You're paying more right now for so-called fertilizers which in most cases are worthless. You simply take the 15-gram powder package of GIBBERELLIN, drop it in a quart of water and you have a quart of GIBBERELLIN. Your cost is only $2.98—because you don't pay for free water.

You have seen it praised in Popular Mechanics, Science and Mech., The Farm Journal and your favorite Sunday garden sections and now it's available to you through ARMAND ENTERPRISES.

Send $2.98 in check or cash or money order (no C.O.D.) (plus 4% tax) . . . to Extreme heat breaks down the vitality of your plants just as it breaks down your own powers of resistance. In order to keep your plants healthy during the coming winter, be particular to continue your watering program generously until the time when we get rain. The average gardener, functioning according to the pattern of previous years, doesn't always remember that an additional contribution of moisture is necessary when the garden has suffered severe heat. And if that additional contribution of moisture is given regularly throughout the entire season, it will do a great deal to offset the injury done by the heat and will assist your plants (especially roses) through the winter months.

People ask what to do about worms that get on their fuchsias, chrysanthemums and other flowers. A spray combining malathion and dieldrin has been found highly satisfactory in destroying these pests without injuring the plants.

Mums for Color

Young chrysanthemums of many attractive varieties are available in nurseries throughout the state now. Because they are already blooming, or just about to bloom, they will add ready color to your garden if planted immediately. This lovely perennial is very popular, largely because the flowers are excellent for indoor decoration.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Gem in a Hillside Setting

Heavy shake roof helps provide a pattern as house is seen from the roadway above.

Master bedroom of Myers' home has roomy proportions, is a quiet daytime retreat.

Den, dining room (beyond shoji screen) and living room of Earl Myers' home are under single central beam. Unifying agent is lofty and dramatic ceiling.

By Eileen Ball

OCCUPYING a scenic hillside all its own is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myers. Located at 2 Georgeff Road, Rolling Hills, the house embodies an architectural philosophy that combines beauty with function, living with leisure, privacy with hospitality.

The Myers home is rambling, but the architect, James Friend, AIA, simplified what might otherwise have been judged a complicated plan by means of a continuous ceiling. Flowing planes are centered with an enormous structural beam that spans from one room to another. However, architectural features in no way interfere with or dominate the family residing there or the furnishings which they have installed. Plainly stated, this dwelling place that is spectacular in many ways, is primarily comfortable and compatible with its occupants.

THE ORIENTATION of the many rooms was determined with the pool and patio as focal points. Thus, the living room, kitchen, den and master bedroom all relate directly to this spacious outdoors area that, as a result, is an integral part of the structure.

A large, circular, guest landing leads down in a sloping sweep to the door. The house, located at a level lower than the road, makes the most of its far-flung cedar shake roof to dramatize its appearance from above.

The front door opens to a gallery-entry that extends across the front of the house, as does the living room it borders. The floor is polished, cocoa-pink-flecked terrazzo; and between three ceiling-height colonnades of Arizona fieldstone are set wide stationary panels of clear glass that separate the indoor planting from the shrubbery growing outside the house. Thus, all along this highly effective area, greenery grows in a profusion that brings the outdoors right into the house.

SEPARATING THE terrazzo entry from the living room are shoulder-height storage compartments of natural Philippine mahogany. At the far end of the long entry, one sees into the dining room alcove where an attractive, turquoise-blue, wrought iron-and-glass breakfast set stands. Against the background of greenery, this rearrangement seems to be a secluded garden rather than actually inside the house.

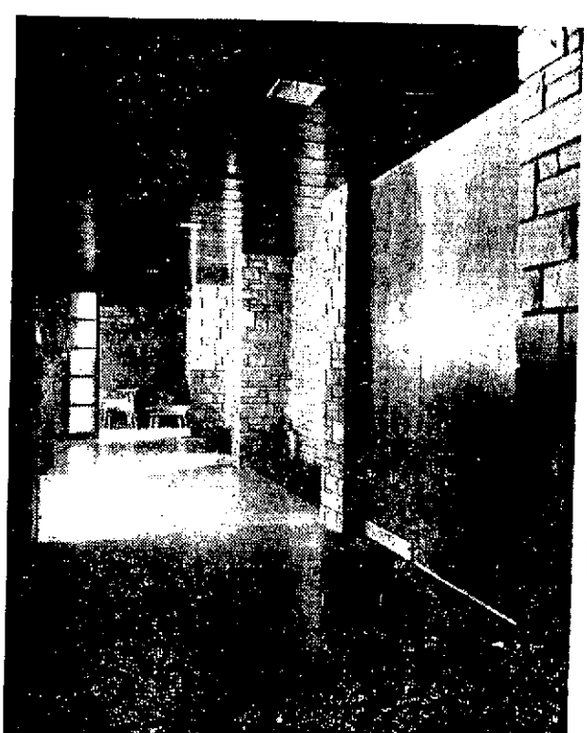

The level ceiling of the entry is surfaced in mahogany. In the living room adjacent, the ceiling is loftily pitched up to the central supporting beam which, in its enormity, is importantly scaled for the living room and for the den and dining areas which merge with it. Walls of the living room are paneled in natural mahogany. However, the back wall of the long, comfortably furnished room is entirely of glass, sections of which slide open to a fabulous view.

A massive sliding shoji screen of plastic parchment set in ebony framing may be pulled across the opening between the living room and the dining area. Open or closed, the eye is permitted to carry over the ceiling-height partition into the dining area—with the ceiling beam conducting this line of vision.

At the opposite end of the living room, a huge fireplace of the Arizona fieldstone features an oversized firebox and widely extended hearth. The carpet—custom-woven to the exact dimensions of the room—is a soft wool chenille. Casement draperies for the vast glass expanse are a matching soft cocoa tone.

The den, a smaller area located next to the living room in a manner that it enjoys the masonry back of the fireplace, is furnished with a saffron leather sofa, lounge chair and

HOW TO Build a Bench from Plywood

1. SIMPLIFIED DESIGN takes top and apron from one sheet of plywood, 2x8 feet long. To make the bench, just follow dimensions, cut the pieces, assemble.

2. EXPLODED VIEW shows how pieces fit together. Ends of 2x4 frame braces are notched to fit notches cut in center and end blocks. Blocks must be large enough to accommodate flanges that hold tapered metal legs. Predrilled apron pieces and edging strips are screwed and nailed to blocks and top.

3. THESE 14 pieces are all you need to build the bench. Frame (1) includes 2x4 braces, 2x10 center block and two 2x6 end blocks. Top (2) and apron (3) are cut from one piece of ¾-inch plywood, 2 feet wide by 8 feet long. Facing strips (4) that trim the edges of the bench are of ¾-inch hardwood stock.

4. PLYWOOD apron does two big jobs—it hides frame pieces and welds bench into solid unit. Edging around bench top is nailed on last. To prepare bench surface for finish you've selected, fill all nail and screw holes with a wood filler and sand to silky smoothness. To prevent warping, it's a good idea to coat both top and bottom of the bench with a clear resin sealer. Steel-wool between finish coats.

5. METAL LEGS for bench are simple to attach. They come in kit complete with flanges, mounting screws and plastic tips to protect your floors. Buy the 14-inch length for best seating height. Or, if you prefer, there are wooden legs available you can stain or paint to harmonize with finish of the bench. Here, again, it's easier to get flanges fastened straight if you prebore the screw holes.

Twin living rooms and a gallery are features of this seven-room house that has been designed for maximum living but without requiring an airport-sized site. The gallery, with "2-story" windows, adjoins the informal living room and can be used for many purposes; i.e., for a potting shed or greenhouse, for sketching and painting, for indoor play area. It has an easily kept concrete floor and a storage closet at one end.

Trim Ranch with Twin

By John O. B. Wallace

AN ADEQUATE living area is the goal of any home. When you have a home with two living rooms, you know it's been designed for maximum living. And if this has been accomplished without an airport-sized plot, you have a design achievement.

This, happily, is the case with the House of the Week, HW-72. It has unusual features to recommend it to the home buyer looking for something special but at a price within his means. You can build this luxury house and still stay out of the luxury price range because it has a total of only 2,118 square feet.

The overall dimensions are 70 feet by 38 feet, 4 inches. The main level of the house has 1,572 square feet. The informal living room area has 546 square feet.

THIS HANDSOME ranch house was designed by Architect Alan Wood Fraser. Here are some of its features:

Three bedrooms. The master bedroom is 16 feet by 13 feet.

Two baths. They're back-to-back for ease of plumbing installations.

The two living rooms! One is 20 feet by 15 feet. The other, for informal living, is on a higher level and is well over 400 square feet in area. Its actual dimensions are 21 feet by 21 feet.

The dining room. It is below the informal living room and has a large bowed-out window.

A roomy kitchen. It has a snack bar ideally suited as a breakfast nook for the modern family.

A two-car garage. It's on a lower level, at one end of the house.

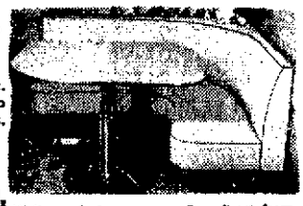

AN INTERIOR GALLERY! This is a unique contribution to the features of this home and can be put to many exciting uses.

A flagstoned entrance patio. This is a practical feature and also adds a mark of distinction to the exterior design.

This house lends itself to any locale and any climate. It is a year-round beauty for any American, anywhere.

The exterior design has been meticulously executed. The size, style and arrangement of all windows add unusual charm to the styling of this house; fullest use is made of all natural light sources.

FLAGSTONES, used on the entrance patio, also have been selected as exterior surfacing material for the front of the bedroom wing. Horizontal wood siding, asphalt shingles and a decorative overhang on the roof add contrast.

A flagstone wall extends from the corner of the bedroom wing to make an enclosure for the entrance patio.

Inside, there is a center hall. An angled lattice wall is a modish touch between the front door and the living room. The latticed wall also forms a vestibule which enlarges the apparent space of the living room but at the same time maintains the center hall plan.

EACH OF THE three bedrooms has corner windows, good wall areas and spacious wardrobe closets. Double closets in the master bedroom form an

TV set. Here, too, the ceiling plane carries over in a continuous statement of plan. Further contributing to the feeling of singleness, the glass wall of the living room extends into the den where a panel slides open to the patio.

In the dining room, an Italian provincial dining set is the focal point of interest. Here, privacy or openness is a matter of choice and responds to the dictates of occasion by the use of the hidden shoji.

The kitchen is proportionally large and has been made outstanding by the use of pink marble-pattern plastic for its extensive countertops. Centering the room is a huge cooking island that is located under a large and handsome polished copper hood. All cabinets are of natural mahogany, —the ceiling is pale pink, the floor is pink vinyl. At one end of the kitchen and built in along its angled wall is a long sofa-bench, upholstered in foam rubber covered in pink leather.

OFF THE KITCHEN are maid's quarters. A bath is available to bathers as well as a complete dressing room, a pantry and a service area.

The master bedroom, opening to the pool and patio from the bedroom wing, is paneled in Oriental ash that has been rubbed with a soft cocoa-rose stain. There, the carpet is the same as that used throughout the dining room, den and living areas. Furnishings are Italian provincial, including two separate double beds spread in quilted, cocoa antique satin to match the draperies.

Adjacent to the master bedroom is an enormous dressing room and bath. The dressing room is carried out in tones of cocoa and pink, with pink Norwegian rose marble surfacing the countertops. Adjacent is an ivory-and-pink bath.

The Dusty Road to Ballarat

—Drawing by Clyde Winslow.

The grey burro walked sedately along, led by the prospector with overalls tucked in his boot tops.

By O. G. Boyd

AN OLD WOODEN SIGN along the rocky desert road read: BALLARAT 21 MILES. In a cloud of dust loaded down with various tools of the prospector, the gray burro walked sedately along. Leading the ancient animal, with faded overalls tucked into the tops of his hob-nailed boots, and his old black Stetson perched jauntily on the side of his head, was the grizzled figure of Chaparral Charley.

The road led into a small canyon whose sides, composed of a black lava flow, narrowed to a U at the bottom. A few mesquite trees and greasewood bushes bunched together to form a small oasis were the only green things in sight.

"Git a move on, Cadwallader," said Chaparral to the old burro, "ef that little ol' spring is dried up I'm a goin' to bust right out cryin' ".

THE OLD BURRO sensed the nearness of water, too, for his long rabbit ears flopped forward as he broke into a trot. The pots and pans that adorned his flanks rattled and banged like a steam pipe on a winter morning.

"Doggone you, Cadwallader," said Charley, waving a futile fist in the air, "I'm sure goin' to take it out of your hide ef you mess up that water ef there is any," he added doubtfully. When he arrived a few minutes later the burro was standing with his forefeet in the small seepage.

"Git out of there you ol' hog," Chaparral said, exasperated. "Been tryin' to larn you some manners for 20 years and all for nothin'." Charley eyed the muddy mess distastefully but stretched out full length on the ground and took a few eager gulps.

HE TOOK THE PACK and pack saddle off the animal's back and poured some rolled barley into his gold pan. While the burro was eating he adjusted a set of hobbles to the burro's four legs.

"Nary a bit of use jes' hobblin' two of 'em," he complained bitterly, warily eyeing the burro's dainty hoofs, "dern ol' critter kin run jes' as fast with two like he didn't have none on."

Cadwallader had finished his meal now and was rolling luxuriously in the desert dust. When he got up there was a

AL MOFFET

That Service Is Mercurial

A FELLOW sat down the other day in a booth at the big Chicken Pie Shop, 737 Pine Ave., ordered a chicken pie dinner and asked the waitress if she would serve him as quickly as possible because he had to catch a plane for San Diego.

Exactly 60 seconds later, the waitress brought him a big chicken pie with loads of chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, fresh biscuits with butter and honey, a cup of steaming coffee and for dessert a homemade apple cobbler.

"Wow!" exclaimed the patron, a middle-aged business man. "I'd heard that the service was fast here—but I sure didn't think it was this fast!"

Sixty-second service is by no means a rare occurrence at the Chicken Pie Shop. It happens quite frequently when a patron asks his waitress to put on an extra burst of speed. The average guest gets his food within two or three minutes, and even when the place is mobbed it doesn't take longer than five minutes for the waitress to arrive with her tray of good things to eat.

INCIDENTALLY, that businessman exclaimed "Wow!" again when he got his check. The price for all that fine food was only 90 cents. The shop's chicken noodle and chicken giblets dinners are also only 90 cents. The cube steak dinner is 99 cents and for $1.25 you can enjoy a ham dinner.

Owner of the shop is Al Moffet, a friendly man with a particular talent for pleasing people. Assisted by his brother Hank and a large staff, Al sells over 8,000 chicken pies a week. All the pies (featuring a light crust and big chunks of chicken) are made on the premises. Hank also runs the shop's wonderful take-home department and delicatessen which feature imported delicacies, tricky salads and sliced cold meats.

The shop is open daily and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

ticket out of Confederacy!

Lowe went straight to Washington, staged a balloon demonstration over the capital, and secured an appointment from President Lincoln as Chief Aeronaut of the Union Army. He was 29.

Riding equipment which today's Air Force wouldn't send up in target practice, he flew 3,000 missions over battlefields. For the first time in U. S. military history ground fire was directed by a "spotter" from a station in the air.

LOWE RELAYED his intelligence from basket to earth either by telegraph or by means of a pasteboard tube sent down on a thin wire line. During the famous Battle of Fair Oaks, where his reports saved the Union from a disastrous defeat, he sent a message to an assistant by way of the tube:

"Did you see that? They shot my hat off. And I'm just a civilian!"

On his next trip aloft he wore another tall black hat—with a bull's-eye target painted on it in white.

The Official Records of the War of Rebellion are sprinkled liberally with reports of the Professor's operations. More than once he made the difference between defeat and victory. In his report on the operations of the Army of the Potomac, Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan wrote: "To Professor Lowe, the intelligent and enterprising aeronaut, who had the management of the balloons, I was greatly indebted."

THE FACT IS, American military aviation is indebted to the intrepid Professor for its beginnings. He was the pioneer of U. S. military aerial reconnaissance.

Following the Civil War, Lowe contributed significant inventions to the gas and refrigeration industries and settled in Southern California. Here he was a civic and business leader until after the turn of the century. One of his last projects—never brought to fruition—was the designing of a balloon with a huge gondola for carrying tourists to the mountain tops.

cup-like depression in the sand. The sharp eyes of the old desert rat caught the glimmer from a piece of rock that protruded from one side of the imprint. He picked it up and examined it critically.

"THAT'S CERTAINLY a good lookin' piece of rock, Cadwallader," said Charley, a look of amazement coming over his face. "Do you know what it is?" he shouted, holding the rock in the air, his hand shaking, "that's high-grade from the ol' Goldfield Con. an' it's richer 'an all gitout. Know it anywhere. Never seen any ore like it. Might pay to do a little more diggin'."

It certainly did pay to do a little more diggin', for in a short time he unearthed about fifty pounds of the ore, together with some bleached bones which he handled gingerly. There was a look of awe on his face as he viewed his find.

"It's a dern poor burro that don't do nobody no good," said Chaparral, a smile on his wrinkled face. "Looks like we got ourselves a pretty good little stake, Cadwallader. Might be seventy-five ounces of gold in that little heap of ore. Give a lot to know how it got here. Some poor miner packed it here on his back, I guess. Weren't no water. Guess he jes' didn't make the grade, that's all.

"TAKES ME BACK to the time when Goldfield was boomin'," mused Charley. "Sure was a poor man's camp. I've seen the boys comin' off shift with their overalls tied at the bottom. They had so much high-grade in 'em they could hardly walk. Funniest lookin' bunch of cripples you ever did see. They staggered down the street to an assayer who bought it off 'em for half what it was worth."

"Did I git any of it, you asks, Cadwallader? Sure did. Didn't do me no good, howsomever. Easy come, easy go, as they says. Weren't called stealin' in them days. Jes' high gradin' ".

"Know what we're goin' to do now, Cadwallader?" said Charley, and his face glowed in anticipation. "We're goin' to turn smack aroun' and head back to Barstow. When we gits there I'm goin' to hire you a corral and you're goin' to have all the alfalfa hay and oats you kin eat. An' once a day you're goin' to have a load of the finest swill I kin find in the back of Gung Duk's eatin' place. Might keep you from knockin' over garbage pails all over town and gittin' inter a peck of trouble."

"YOU THINK I ORTER bury this feller's bones, you say, Cadwallader? That's jes' what I figured on doin'. Goin' to write him an epituge too. Guess that's all I kin do for him.

He dug a shallow grave and covered the bones. Taking a piece of paper and an empty tobacco can for a receptacle, he wrote laborously with work worn fingers:

"Here lyes a miner
Safe in the fold.
I buried his bones
And took all his gold."

Appetizers for After the Game

Finger foods with football names meet with terrific response from guests at after-game party. Above, pigskin parades, touchdown canapes and more.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

KICKOFF your fall entertaining with an after-the-game party that's sure to score with the food-and-fun fans.

Let guests help themselves to tasty finger foods from a large appetizer tray. As hostess, you can decline the penalty of missing out on the party fun by planning ahead and keeping the refreshments simple. So many appetizers are merchandised in glass jars these days, that by little more than a flip-of-the-lid you can be all set for your guests. Stuffed green olives pearl onions, pickles, cheese curls, salted nuts, cheese and meat spreads, cocktail franks, and pimientos are examples. All of these foods are available in glass containers that let you see in advance just what you are getting.

To serve with hot or cold beverages, here are several quick-tricks that will have guests in a huddle around the serving center. Arrange the appetizers on a large tray or Lazy Susan with bowls of crackers, potato chips, salted nuts and corn curls near by. If you're entertaining a crowd, you'll probably want to make several appetizer trays.

Pigskin Parade

Use lid flipper to remove pry-off cap from a jar of cocktail franks. Drain and rinse franks. Cut a deep slit along one side of franks. Insert small strips of cheddar cheese in the slits. For variety, stuff some of the cocktail franks with small dill pickle slices, cut crosswise, and others with slices of stuffed green olives. Place stuffed franks on broiler rack in broiler pan and broil about five to six inches from source of broiler heat until franks are heated through, about 3 to 4 minutes. Serve piping hot on cocktail picks.

Winning Teams

Cut Swiss cheese into ¾-inch cubes. Top each cube with a stuffed green olive or a cocktail onion skewered with colored plastic toothpicks.

Cheddar Bowl

2 5-oz. jars sharp pasteurized process cheese spread
1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce
½ tsp. dry mustard
dash Tabasco sauce
2 tblsps. catsup
2 tsps. minced onion

Have cheese at room temperature. Combine all ingredients and blend until mixture is fluffy. Heap into a bowl and serve as an appetizer "dunk" or spread with crackers and potato chips.

Touchdown Canapes

Select a variety of assorted jars of meat sandwich spreads, such as beef with barbecue flavor added, or a liver with bacon combination, for canape toppings. To make canapes, cut rounds or any fancy shapes desired from slices of day-old bread. Toast lightly on one side only in broiler. Brush untoasted side of bread lightly with melted butter. Spread generously with meat spread and garnish prettily with slices of stuffed green olives, strips of pimiento, sieved hard cooked eggs, tiny pickle slices, or parsley. Keep canapes refrigerated until serving time.

Complete appetizer tray with stuffed green olives and small sweet pickles.

Hot Potato Salad With Bacon

½ lb. bacon, diced
5 potatoes, cooked in jackets (3½ cups)
1 onion, diced
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 beaten egg

Cook bacon. Combine potatoes, bacon, and onion. Add remaining ingredients to bacon drippings; heat thoroughly. Pour over mixture and mix well.

SERVE WITH: Tomato Juice—Hot Potato Salad—Buttered Asparagus—Glazed Pineapple Rings—Poppy-Seed Rolls—Jelly Roll and Vanilla Sauce

STEAKS

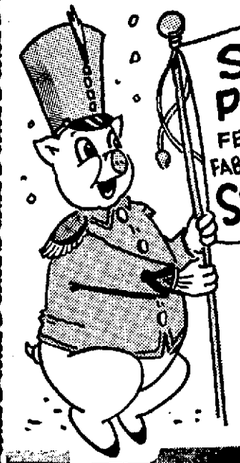

Beef Tenderloin, also known as Filet Mignon, is a boneless, very tender little steak that is cut from the beef tenderloin, and is really not expensive when you consider it a solid piece of meat. A one inch thick steak weighs 4 to 6 ounces. They are thick, but for the person who wants his steak well done, it would be a good idea to butterfly it. Because it is always tender and cooks quickly, it is excellent company fare.

BROILING CHART for 1-inch Steak:
RARE: 6 minutes on each side
MEDIUM: 7 minutes on each side
WELL DONE: 8 minutes on each side

MENU
Broiled Tenderloin Steaks — Au-Gratin or Baked Potatoes
Buttered Peas — Green Salad — French Bread — Apple Pie
Coffee — Milk

to make them come true. Indeed, his career might well be labeled "poor boy makes good."

Settling at Lisbon, Portugal, the center of the greatest seafaring nation of the day, he read scholarly books on geography and learned as much about navigation as he could.

His marriage to the daughter of a famous Portuguese navigator gave him access to the best maps and charts of the day, and also raised his social rank to the place where he was able to meet important officials.

NOR DID HE LET discouragement, poverty or ridicule overcome his faith in his dream. Though by 1483 he presented to Portugal's King John II his theory that Asia could be reached by sailing west, it was not until 1492 that a sudden long cry of "land ho" from the masthead of the Santa Maria proved him not a fool.

In between were long years of vainly seeking support, not only in Spain and Portugal, but through his brother in England and France. Though he often must have been disheartened, he never gave up. Finally, on April 17, 1492, he succeeded in persuading King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain to subsidize the expedition.

Then followed the grim weeks on the "sea of darkness" with a starving, terrified crew on the verge of mutiny. A weaker spirit would have turned back many times, but Columbus looked only west to sail on.

AND SAIL ON he did, not only once but four times to discover what he thought to be the western islands of India, but which we know was Central America, the northern mainland of South America, and a multitude of islands including the Bahamas, Trinidad, Jamaica, Haiti, Porto Rico and Cuba.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you tell about the name SKINNER.—Mrs. S. K., Downey; M. S., Huntington Beach.

S.K. AND M.S.: The English surname SKINNER has a dual occupational source. Originally spelled Skynnere, it is diversified in meaning, either a dealer in hides and furs or a man who prepared skins for sale. The first seller's shop in "Ye Olde England" was given the descriptive name of "Skinnery." The Skinners attained prominence in Hereford, Essex and Devonshire. One member of this family was honored by being made Lord Mayor of London in 1596. The coat-of-arms of the Skinners of Hereford, descended from Stephen Skinner who died in 1557, has a gold chevron between three silver griffin heads on a black shield. The first of this family in our country is believed to be John Skinner of Windsor, Conn., who married there about 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would greatly appreciate the brief genealogy of the name SEAL.—The Seal Family, Long Beach.

LINGUISTIC evidence shows that this surname originated as "At the Sele." Sele was the English spelling of the French "Salle" meaning "Hall." "At the Hall" described the manor house location of the family. In English records of 1347 a John Atte Sele was listed. By the 16th century the name was altered, for example, Richard Seale of Warwick, 1574. The Seal family coat-of-arms, granted in 1599, had three black wolf heads and a blue bar on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the brief genealogy and coat-of-arms of NUTTALL.—Mrs. A.W. and G.W., Long Beach.

A.W. AND G.W.: NUTTALL was the name of an English manor house many centuries ago. This early surname was acquired by the family who dwelled there. The oldest spelling was Nut-Hall from "Knot-Hall," or Hall on the Hillock. A Hall was a large, imposing manor house owned by a nobleman or a member of the landed gentry. Agatha de Nuthal lived in Nottinghamshire in 1272. The family coat-of-arms has a black shacklebolt on a silver shield.

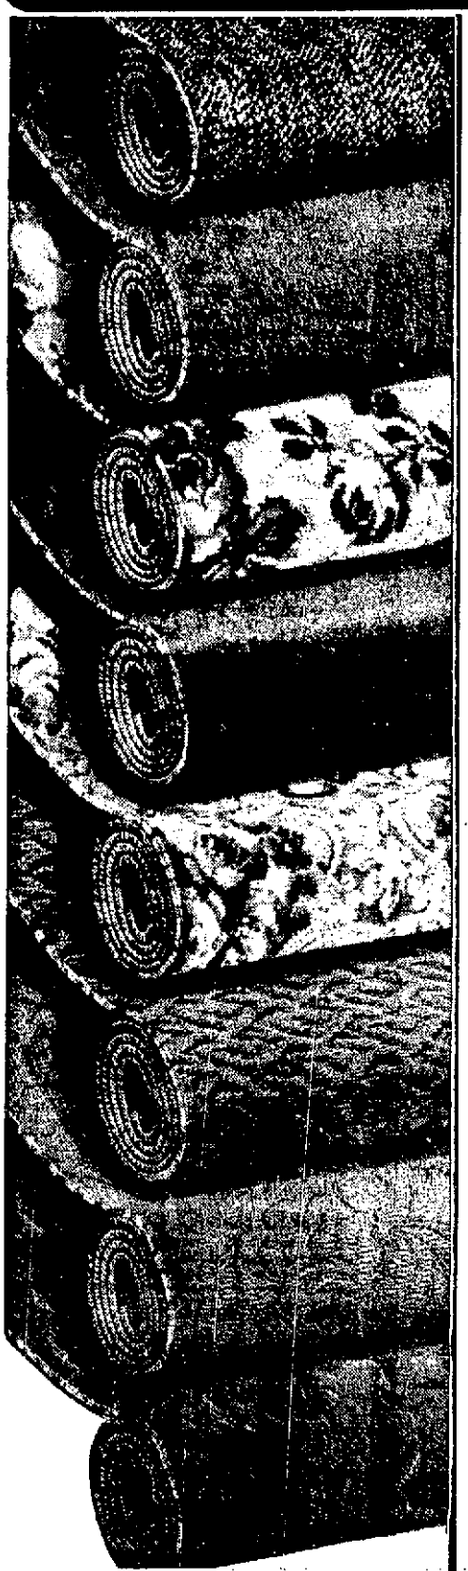

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like to know what you have in your genealogy research files pertinent to the name WENZEL or WENZELL as I use it. —W.V.W., Long Beach.

W.V.W.: WENZELL, from the German surname Wenzel, was given, many generations ago as a complimentary name for a clear-thinking, sharp-witted, wide-awake ancestor who was baptized Wenceslaus meaning "the wise one." This name was rare for it is a description of the mental prowess of the progenitor, rather than his physical attributes. In southern Germany Wenceslaus was shortened to the nickname Wenz-el. The name was used in memory of King Wenceslaus of Bohemia, a 14th century ruler famed for his benevolence.

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Money Lessons Are Important to Children

Children can learn the value of money with tiny bank.

By Alan Farrant

AS SOON as your child wants something he does not possess, the time has arrived to start teaching him the value of money. No definite age can be set as the starting point for such training, because it varies with the individual.

But such training is all-important! See to it he quickly learns the way to get money is —work! If the child grows up without an appreciation of the connection between work and money, he may always try for easy and quick returns.

Do not make the mistake of paying the child for every bit of help he gives around the house. Homemaking is for every member of the family, and he should realize this. But he can be paid for extra jobs, such as a special trip to the store, or raking up an unusual amount of leaves.

WHEN CHILDREN are 10 years or more old, they can be expected to find jobs away from home. Parents should check closely into the work, for it may be a job too strenuous, or of too long duration. But if it is necessary to make the child quit, be sure he understands why—otherwise he'll quickly be discouraged about working for a wage.

All phases of money-importance must be taught.

Sometimes a youngster will borrow from a member of the family, then fail to pay it back. Wrong! Others go shopping and fail to give back the change. Wrong again! And as for taking coins from mother's purse: again, wrong!

AS SOON as the child has saved up a little money—from earning it, or from his weekly allowance—he wants to spend it. He should be made aware that he can spend, save, or share. But the spending urge will be the strongest. He must be helped, by showing that if he saves he can soon get something better.

And as for sharing, it should be pointed out if he buys something as a gift for a friend, then both he and the friend are happy. It is advisable, however, to let most of the money be spent when the child wants, and for what he decides to buy.

Problems of saving are numerous. Where will he keep the money? How will he know where it is? How will he figure out how much he spent? How much is left?

THE EASIEST WAY is to have the child keep written records, extremely simple ones. Even before he can write and solve adding and subtracting, records he can understand can be thought up. It must be explained carefully, slowly. For very young children it is expedient to use only a coin of one value. Always give him nickels, never dimes. This makes it much easier for him to understand.

Small amounts are kept in a "piggy bank," or small box, larger ones in a bank. But if in a bank, let the new depositor fully realize the bank takes care of the money only. Unless this point is stressed, the child will be confused. He will think he has spent the money, getting only the bank deposit book.

Parents putting in a little effort on this training will find it time well spent. For as the child grows older his responsibilities toward money will be superior to the untrained child. His value of the dollar will be such that the tendency to spend foolishly will be held to a minimum.

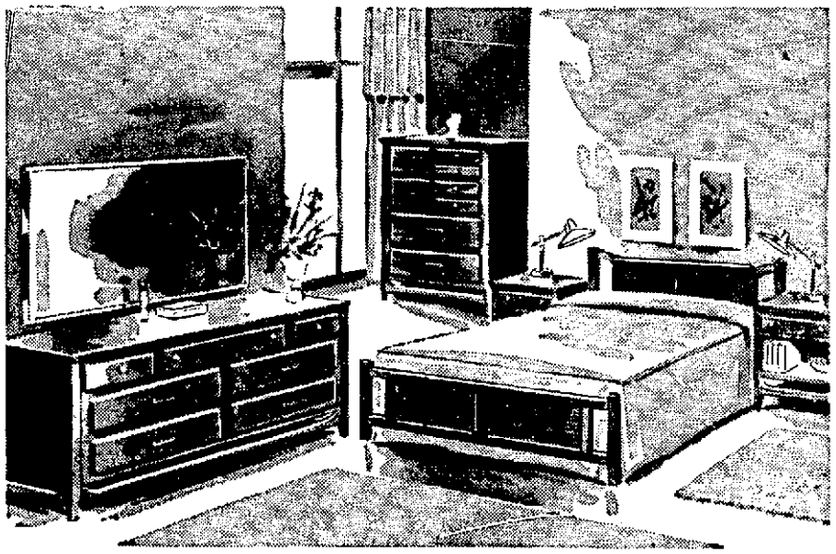

And what more could you ask?

St. Anthony's is the only other Long Beach prep school to win the VIF crown, although Wilson, Jordan and Millikan have made a run or two at it on occasion. The Saints turned the trick in 1948.

State College, of course, is too young to be a power in the collegiate field at this infant stage of three years, while City College's Vikings hit the jackpot with a Junior Rose Bowl triumph over Boise, Idaho, in 1950 and claimed a national championship.

WHEN THE NAMES of all-time greats are bandied about there is bound to be a difference of opinion according to Long Beach loyalties, but foremost on the list must be Morley Drury, the "Noblest Trojan of Them All," from Poly; Norman (Moose' Standlee, Wilson fullback product who went on to Rose Bowll fame with Stanford and professional glory with the Chicago Bears and San Francisco 49ers; Norman (Red) Franklin, ex-Polyite who won All-American recognition at Oregon State; Johnny Olszewski, the great fullback at St. Anthony's and later a star with California's Golden Bears, and Bob Davenport, the dynamic Jordanite who whirled, smashed, drove and dove from his fullback slot for UCLA.

Bob Parke is dean of grid skippers in Long Beach.

Dozens of others belong on the same list.

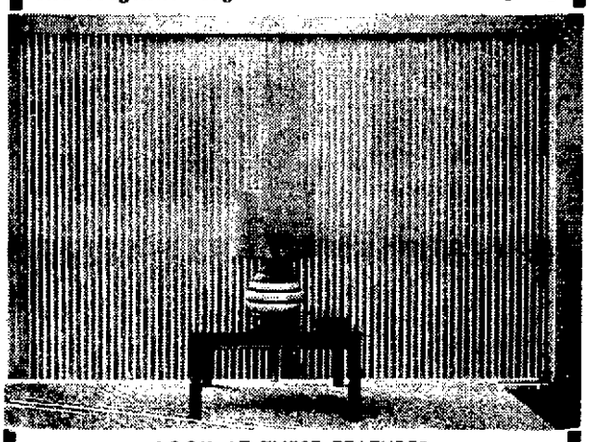

IN THIS 50TH YEAR of high school football here, Bob Parke, once a dashing halfback at Poly, stands out as the dean of the grid skippers. This is his seventh successive year at the Panther helm. The neophytes are Dave Levy, serving his first season at Poly, and Chuck Toy, who will be introducing Lakewood's first team to the public.

Dave is the 14th coach in Poly's 50-year history. Parke is the fifth at Jordan, Leo Haggerty the eighth at St. Anthony's, Rowland the seventh at Wilson, Tom Kincade the second at Millikan and Toy the first at Lakewood.

Mike DeLotto has handled State College in all three seasons of its short life, while Jim Stangeland at City College becomes the tenth to command the Vikings

Time was when these gents would have commanded the entire Long Beach scene—had they bossed Long Beach High in 1908. It's a different picture today. They must share the spotlight and the newspaper space as the city grows.

Drumbeats Under an Eerie Moon

From "The Merchant of Venice"

"TWISTED TALES FROM SHAKESPEARE" by Richard Armour, illustrated by Campbell Grant (McCraw-Hill, $2.95): With the same irreverent satire that characterized "It All Started With Columbus" and his other previous best sellers, Mr. Armour strikes a rich vein of tomfoolery in this new one, "in which Shakespeare's best-known plays are presented in a new light, the old light having blown a fuse, together with introductions, questions, appendices, and other critical apparatus intended to contribute to a clearer misunderstanding of the subject."

Comments Mr. Armour in his introduction: "Much of his good taste Shakespeare inherited from his father who once held the position of ale-taster for the town of Stratford. Young Will made the local team and met the Bidford Sippers in a spirited contest, winning his liter. According to Legend, the chief source of information about Shakespeare's youth, - it took him two days to get home from Bidford, which was only a short walk but a long ways on hands and knees."

Of "Macbeth" he observes: "There are some beautiful passages. One of them is the hallway in Macbeth's castle, where Lady Macbeth loved to fingerpaint on the wall in other people's blood."

Of "A Midsummer Night's Dream": "One question, never satisfactorily answered by scholars, is this: Did Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' result from something he ate?"

Of "Romeo and Juliet": "If the part of Juliet has sometimes overshadowed that of Romeo, it is because Romeo spends so much time under the balcony."

Of "The Merchant of Venice": "The earliest recorded performance . . . was before King James I on February 10, 1605. He ordered a second performance two days later, hoping against hope that he would get the point this time."

Of "Hamlet": "Hamlet is unquestionably Shakespeare's Magnum Opus, of enormous interest to scholars and critics who would otherwise have been forced to seek honest employment."

Of "Othello": "That Othello is a late work is further indicated by the fact that, Shakespeare having run out of gravediggers, gatekeepers, and ghosts, there is no comic relief. In fact only the final curtain brings any relief whatever."

Shakespeare never took a greater spoofing, but even Shakespeare would have loved it.

"THE HEALING POWER OF FAITH" by Will Oursler (Hawthorn, $4.95): Author of a dozen books and countless magazine articles, Mr. Oursler declares that no work he ever attempted affected him as profoundly as gathering material for and writing this rather long account of healing by faith when all other means fail. The job took him more than two years during which he delved into an enormous mass of material, extending back, he feels, to the dawn of time itself, and to every race and creed on earth. An additional feature of the book is the first published listing of American churches of all faiths having a special interest in spiritual healing.

"THE ACTRESS," by Bessie Breuer (Harper's, $4.95): Of special interest in California, this novel tells of a young film starlet who tries to make a life for herself away from the cameras. When Hollywood is unable to give her what she wants, she tries to start a new career in the motion picture colony in Rome. Miss Breuer, playwright, novelist, short-story writer, talent scout, draws on her wide knowledge of humankind and the theater for this engrossing book.

"THE MOON BY NIGHT" by Joy Packer (Lippincott, $3.95), chosen by the Literary Guild as its September selection.

This is part of the story of "The Moon by Night" by Joy Packer (Lippincott, $3.95), chosen by the Literary Guild as its September selection.

Alice Lang had wanted to go to Africa for many years, and when she began to correspond with a man in Africa whom she had never seen, the desire grew. Finally, she arranged, by mail, to marry the man, Andrew Miller, warden of a wild animal sanctuary. But the marriage was set in the nebulous future, since Alice, a nurse, was required to remain with her bedridden mother.

When her mother died, Alice set off on the journey, and at the end of the trip she was disappointed, for Andrew did not meet her. He sent his younger brother, Rusty, to meet her and bring her to her future home. A number of adventures involving witchcraft, wild animals and native customs befell Rusty and Alice before they finally reached the isolated place where Andrew waited. And before the trip was over Rusty and Alice were in love. Then she found herself accused of her mother's murder.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"If we go to France, should we buy French francs even though the franc has been devalued now?"

AT THIS writing, yes. The franc slid for tourists to 420 to the U. S. $1. And the open market slid at the same time. If you can get better than 420 in New York or San Francisco, buy. France allows you to bring in all the francs you want.

"Can you suggest a place to have shoes made while we are in Spain?"

I haven't bought any shoes in Spain for several years. But if you ask the concierge at the Palace Hotel, he has a couple of good places. I've heard one problem with Spanish shoes is they make them too tight.

This certainly happened to me. I had them make me some boots. Took them off in the plane going over to Rome and walked into Customs in my socks. Couldn't get them on again until they had been stretched for a couple of days.

I have an idea this is a Spanish custom. Mexican boots usually come out small. And Texas bootmakers say when they are making boots for Mexicans, they always make them a size small. Mexico prefers them that way.

"What is the evening entertainment in the Caribbean?"

YOU HEAR the calypso and drink the rum punch. That's generally. Depends on where you are. There are plenty of night clubs in Havana. A few in Kingston, Jamaica. Two in Fort-de-France, Martinique.

Nothing that I found in Curacao. Dirty Dick's Swizzle Stick in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. Steel oil drum music.

A couple of real wild ones in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. Lots of beating on four-foot drums. Lots of brass, warm, tropic breeze and usually a rich odor of fish and strong perfume.

If you want to just stay home and turn on some calypso music, this is the standard "1, 2, 3 rum punch."

One part lime juice. Two parts cane sugar syrup. Three parts dark rum. Shake it up, pour it over ice and grind a little fresh nutmeg on top. Sweet, fragrant and powerful.

"With three months in Europe, renting a house in Southern Italy, shall we buy or rent a car?"

BETTER WAIT until you get there before you make a decision. Three months is right on the edge of the break-even point. Under three months it is usually cheaper to rent. Over three months, usually better to buy and sell back.

I'd wait if I were you and see what prices you can get (maybe on used cars). And how much assurance that you can sell back. In the meantime, take a CIAT bus.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Atoms for Peace

By Aubrey B. Haines

LAST JULY 12 the first nuclear heat plant in America began feeding electricity over Southern California Edison's distribution lines in the Santa Susana Mountains.

This is the sodium reactor experiment, part of the Atomic Energy Commission's program to develop economically competitive civilian power from nuclear energy. After many experiments to test the operation, the reactor plant will be operated full scale this fall.

In 1945 over Hiroshima atomic force first proved it could be used to kill in war. Today, however, the atom is being used for peace.

One might not think that atomic science would find a place in the design of a better dishwasher, but it has.

A MANUFACTURER wondered what combination of detergent, water temperature, spray and rinse would give best results. Scientists found that dried, fried egg was hardest to wash off dishes and silverware. Then getting some radioactive phosphorus, they fed the isotope to a flock of hens. In about 30 days the phosphorus showed up as a tracer element in the yolk of the chicken eggs.

Someone fried the eggs on an ordinary stove and ate them, without scraping the skillet, the plate, or the fork very clean. The dirty dishes were then ready for the dishwasher test. By examining the dirty dishwasher, rinses and utensils, scientists could measure the amount of phosphorus isotope on each.

By repeated experiments the manufacturer found the combination that washed dishes best.

APPLIED to livestock and poultry raising, atomic science is a research tool as important as the microscope. Scientists believe that atomic energy can make a vast contribution to the practical study of animal disease.

One of the more fascinating projects now under way is a study how milk is formed in the body of the cow and other mammals.

Research is making progress on what food elements make up the lactose in milk. Some practical uses of atomic energy in poultry raising have been found.

Scientists used to assume that chickens could get the sulphur they needed in their systems only through eating plant food that contained it. But by using the isotope sulphur-35, it is found that animals can utilize inorganic sulphur. Tracer atoms of sulphur — put into ordinary plant foods — have been found in the feathers and amino acids that support life.

A principal problem atomic scientists have worked on recently is how to treat radiation sickness — the effect of nonfatal exposure in an atomic bomb explosion.

More popular interest, however, lies in use of atomic radiation in treating cancer. Here scientists can report many new discoveries and some progress. Radioactive gold injections are beneficial in treating cancer of the ovary. In this disease fluid develops which must be drained off every few days. Radio gold stops accumulation of fluid and is effective one-third of the time.

OTHER radioisotopes are useful in medicine as substitutes for radium. Radio cobalt is effective in many cases, but having a radiation half-life of five years, it must be removed from the body. A most novel application comes from inserting radioactive elements in a hollow nylon thread, not much thicker than surgical gut.

Extremely flexible, the thread can be stitched around a tumor for effective treatment. Another application comes from a surgical gun, built something like a toy water pistol. It shoots radioactive pellets into bladder tumors.

Atomic by-products have contributed largely to agricultural research as well as to medicine and industry. Several years ago scientists at Brookhaven National Laboratory, New York, exposed some ordinary seed potatoes to atomic radiation.

The experiment was part of a broad research project in biology. These irradiated potatoes were planted with some untreated ones to control the experiment and show effects of the treatment. An unusually rainy spring that year, none of the potatoes came up.

CROSSING OFF their experiment, the scientists charged it to hard luck and decided to try again next year. But when they plowed up the ground for another experiment, they found that though the untreated potatoes had sprouted they had almost completely rotted away.

On the other hand, the irradiated potatoes had not sprouted but were good as new, with no indications of rot.

All this progress, coming about in the past decade, is without historical parallel. Thus concern for national self-preservation may give way to desire for universal well-being as the motive force of atomic progress.

PET PARADE

Putting On the Dog

By Eleanor Avery Price

WITH numerous dog shows and obedience trials on tap for this fall, dog owners are renewing their attention to the grooming of their pets, although owners of fine show dogs such as Mrs. L. Howard Kendall with chow, Champion Trojan of Poppyland, and Mrs. Helen Phariss with cocker, Shrdlu's Copy Boy, shown in accompanying picture, know that a few minutes' daily grooming every day of the year is much better than a sudden spurt of struggling with combs and clippers to get the dog looking his shining best.

In fact, since puppies are easier to handle than grown dogs, grooming should begin the day a puppy is acquired. The pet learns to enjoy attention and will accept being placed on a grooming table or bench. When he is older and perhaps too big to lift, he will jump onto the table of his own accord.

BRUSHING should always be a gentle procedure to inspire his confidence in you. It is even permissible to offer the pet an occasional tidbit while tending his appearance.

Smooth-haired breeds need little more than a soft brushing to remove loose hair and to give the coat a sheen. Brisk massage is also helpful in keeping the oil glands functioning properly.

Long-coated dogs need heavier brushing, and tangles and mats must be worked out gently if they have been allowed to appear. Watch also for burrs.

When grooming your dog, keep a look-out for fleas or their black specks. If these pests are seen, stand the dog on newspapers and apply a flea powder according to directions. Comb the coat gently and promptly burn the papers and the contents. If you prefer, use one of the concentrated liquid flea removers which is added to water. Immerse the dog to the neck only. If necessary, carefully sponge around ears and on face.

ENTRIES CLOSE at noon, Oct. 7, for the San Fernando Kennel Club dog show and obedience trial set for Oct. 20 at Recreation Park, San Fernando.

BIRD, FISH and ocelot fanciers interested in entering pets in the competitive shows of the California Pet Fair to be held in Municipal Auditorium, Long Beach, from Nov. 6-10, may write to California Pet Fair, P. O. Box 5061, Long Beach 5.

AN OPEN DISCUSSION on the activities of the American Kennel Club will spotlight the Orange Empire Dog Club two-day convention on Oct. 26-27, with John Neff of New York as guest speaker. Other guest panelists will discuss leash laws and other problems. Contact Nina Matzner, 1215 24th St., San Bernardino 9-1425, if you would like to attend either day.

Take Your Camera Along When You Fly

Airline personnel usually are very interested in their photo-taking passengers, often can help.

By the Shutterbug

SINCE fall and winter vacations have become so popular — and so many of us have made flying our regular mode of travel — we thought we'd go in for a little "plane talk" especially for you picture-takers.

First of all, cameras make ideal traveling companions on any flight. You can take your choice between a simple box camera or a more elaborate one — between a camera that will make snapshots or one that will shoot movies.

BEFORE YOU START shooting pictures from the air, it might be well to remember two basic points: 1. Always be sure neither your camera nor your arms come in contact with any part of the plane, or vibration will make your pictures turn our blurred and fuzzy. Your camera should be close to the window, but not touching it. 2. For the best results, use a filter to cut through atmospheric haze.

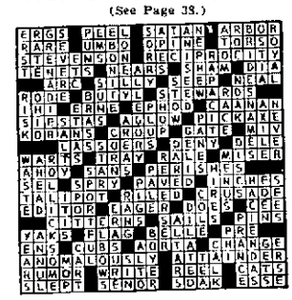

It's easiest to make good clear shots when the plane has reached an altitude of at least 2,000 feet, since the ground then doesn't move by so rapidly. The best seats for picture-takers are those in the back half of the cabin and on the side away from the direct rays of the sun. On an eastbound flight, try to sit on the left side; on a westbound trip, choose a seat on the right side.

YOU'LL FIND the effect of the plane's speed will be minimized if you shoot "oblique" views — by holding your camera pointed ahead of the plane or to the rear, rather than the straight down or straight out the side. In other words, shoot when the plane is approaching or leaving the subject, and not when it is flying parallel to the subject.

Start your picture story well before take off time. A busy airport is a fascinating place—filled with excited passengers, teeming luggage trucks and taxiing planes — bustling with activities.

In the air, watch for interesting terrain — a canyon, a mountain range, unusually contoured fields, a bridge or a harbor. Get part of the plane wings and engines in some of your shots—and be alert for striking cloud-and-sky effects.

Boat Talk

By Bob Ruskauff

ALL THREE of these are "firsts" at Alamitos Bay Yacht Club — family, club, community.

Saturday night, as the 31-year-old ABYC had its annual trophy presentation dinner at the Lafayette Starlight Room, a little of all three was strongly evident.

Trophies were in the hundreds — some elaborate, some little mementos, but all symbols of a thing which the strong, vital membership of the ABYC does almost every weekend — between-time, throughout the year.

THEY SAIL BOATS, they work on their boats, they built their own club and have work parties, in which all join to keep improving it and their facilities, at 5437 E. Ocean Blvd.

It was in May of 1926 that 14 charter members met at S. W. Holmer's Boat Shop and formed the club. Richard L. Russell Sr. was first commodore. ABYC was incorporated and built its first facilities the following year.

All was not always serene going through the early years, but today Alamitos Bay Yacht Club is not only "in" but, for admirable reasons, is known and regarded well throughout the world of yachting.

THERE ARE SOME 350 voting members but that isn't the crux of it. Only one member of a family has a voting membership. Hence (and it works this way almost to the decimal) this means that ABYC has a junior membership of 1,000 youngsters. At 21, junior members must convert to a senior status. This they invariably do, so if ever a club had a certain, future heritage, it would be ABYC.

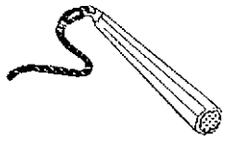

Many firsts are rightfully claimed by the club and, as was pointed out by Ann Exley—wife of Commodore Sid and the mother of three smart-sailing lasses, Sue, Pat and Jane:

"The Southland has kicked over a lot of the staid traces in yachting. Southern Cali-

BOATING Brief

THE LEAD

The lead will tell you what sort of bottom your anchorage has when you do not have a chart. Fill the tip of the lead with tallow or soap, then allow the lead to hit bottom. When you haul it in, it will have bits of sand, seashells, etc. Very often the lead will come up with nothing adhering to it. This means that the bottom consists of rocks. Always try to have a chart of the water you cruise.

Skimmers on Alamitos Bay (circa 1938) inspired one-design small boat racing.

fornians are adventurers. It wasn't done before, so we did it."

SMALLBOAT one-design racing was, in effect, born on Alamitos Bay. Today, literally thousands in perhaps 40 different classes, teem waters of the west. But, in 1930, there was none of it. Then one day:

An old Marion-type hull drifted into the bay. Clarence (Clay) Pasel, boat builder, took it and converted the craft into a heavily-canvassed, scow-type sailboat which he called the Patricia Skimmer. A class was started.

In 1931, against the advice of many who said, "those little (16½-foot) boats should never be allowed on the ocean," they were allowed to compete off the breakwater, in the Mid-winter Regatta.

ROSE PASEL SAILED to victory in the class and the fast-sailing skimmers were a sensation. So was Rose, who became the first Midwinter's woman sailing champion and, later, of the Pacific Coast.

Thus the ABYC scored two firsts all at once.

But the greatest thing, really, is the family angle. Again, as Ann Exley put it:

"This is a definite family contribution to combat juvenile delinquency. In yachting, particularly, youngsters do learn to take care of themselves and what sportsmanship means.

"Poor sports? Oh, at times, maybe. But the other kids soon make good sports out of them." And good citizens.

BOAT HOOKS: Today's feature in sailing, an ocean race off Newport for K-38 sloops, representing eight Southland yacht clubs, competing for the Al A. Adams and Son Trophy, one of the more coveted perpetual awards.

In speedboating, top boats of the nation point toward Mead Lake on the coming weekend.

unusual entrance; they also serve as insulation against noise from other parts of the house.

One bathroom is convenient to the center hall. The other, with a stall shower, is private for the master bedroom. A lavatory for the living areas could be installed in the corner of the informal living room marked "storage" on the floor plan.

A graceful, open stair leads from the dining room to the higher informal living room. A wrought iron railing gives a balconied effect to this room.

A STRIKING FEATURE of this house is the gallery. It has a "two-story" window exposure, offering a wide and high vista. The gallery floor is reached by going down two steps from the kitchen hall. An openwork railing separates the gallery from the informal living room.

There is a closet at one end of the gallery for storage purposes, and there is ample space for the hobbyist to move around below in the gallery. In this plan, a bench has been placed for potted plants. This area could serve as an indoor greenhouse. But it also could be used for other purposes. The "two-story" windows would provide abundant natural light for sketching and painting.

THE GALLERY has a cement floor, easy to keep clean. The gallery's uses could be as varied as the interests of the homeowner. Also, there is space for an optional door from the outside leading into the kitchen and down into the gallery.

The basement could be finished into still another living area. There is space, too, in the basement for an optional fireplace.

The kitchen, nearly square in shape, combines ease-of-work area and room for a family snack bar. The L-shaped counter area is convenient to the dining room.

THROUGHOUT THIS comfortable, spacious home, full advantage is taken of the views at both the front and the back. The dining room captures the rear view through a huge bow window. The living room next to the master bedroom has a picture window nearly 10 feet wide. The master bedroom has corner windows—and the front bedrooms have full scale windows.

Should you wish to exploit the views from this trim house still further, build it on an elevated plot, or on top of a hill. You'll be living on top of the world!

Water Key to Cymbidium Success

By Joe Littlefield

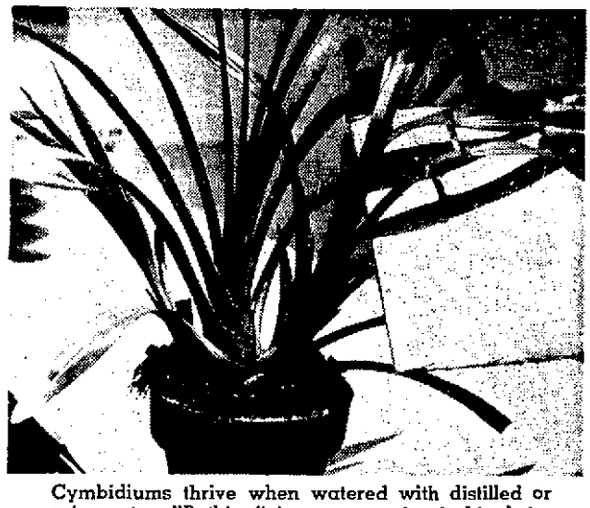

RECENTLY we visited a garden-minded friend, and were amazed to see an exceptionally healthy-looking collection of potted cymbidium plants. They are the type of orchids that grow outdoors in partial shade. The blossoms last from three to five weeks and longer.

He's won many flower show prizes with huge chrysanthemums; large, beautiful, showy roses, carnations and other attractive flowers. From them he turned to growing cymbidiums and is one of the pioneer growers, having grown them for the past 15 years.

We asked him what his answer is to the common lament, "Why won't my cymbidium plants bloom?" His answer was most interesting. Perhaps, in the following comments, you may find an answer as to why your cymbidiums are undependable bloomers.

FOR A NUMBER of years this friend was successful in growing and flowering cymbidiums. About five years ago he noticed a decided decline in the growth of his plants, the narrowing down of foliage, regression of bulbs to smaller size, and fewer flowers. In many cases, no flowers at all!

He started to check into this trouble from several different angles. He tried several composts, fertilizers and methods of watering the plants. When he watered the plants heavily, they grew progressively worse.

Cymbidiums thrive when watered with distilled or rain water. "Bathing" in summer also is big help.

So he got the idea that it was a watering problem. He tried distilled water. Many months later, results from the distilled water-treated group of plants proved the trouble was with the water!

The metropolitan water he used contained excessive amounts of sodium salts. It's the sodium salts that are detrimental to those plants.

FROM THEN ON, he installed a deionizer. A deionizer simply removes all minerals, making it equivalent to rain water or distilled water.

We observed the results of his cymbidiums in pots which were watered with deionized water for a year. They showed tremendous progressive vigorous growth from the small bulbs and leaves to almost giant proportions.

This was the opposite of cymbidiums which he watered with metropolitan water. They showed regression, becoming smaller.

Now, if the compost soil that plants are growing in contains proper balance of minerals they won't need much supplemental feeding. This type of compost usually breaks down too soon, and requires more frequent repotting.

THE MORE advanced growers use a compost soil containing material such as fir bark and shredded redwood bark. This type of compost is very porous and requires regular feedings. Feed with a balanced fertilizer throughout the year. Remember, feeding is important and helpful if used in the right degree.

You must understand, so far, we've been discussing his pot culture cymbidiums. If you've had poor luck growing cymbidiums such as we described, you should use rain water in season, and distilled water the rest of the time for those plants. However, if the collection is large, definitely it would pay to install a deionizer.

Should you have cymbidiums growing in partial shade in open ground, and they are planted in a soil medium that is coarse and porous containing large quantities of bark fibers and wood shavings, the plants then have a higher tolerance to the sodium salts in metropolitan water.

IN THE OPEN outdoor bed, it is much easier to leach out the sodium salts that might build up in the plants' root zone area. Leaching means to periodically flood the soil to wash down any accumulation of the salts buildup.

WHICH NORTHRUP KING LAWN SEED WILL GROW THE LAWN YOU WANT?

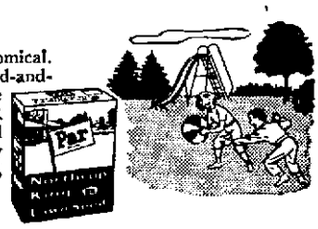

FINEST LAWN
. . . a showplace! Thick velvety turf, lush and resilient. For this, choose Northrup King GOLF Brand . . . a blend of finest perennial grasses including Kentucky Bluegrass.

SUPERIOR LAWN
. . . attractive and permanent. Will stand up well, need only reasonable care. To grow it, pick Northrup King FORE Brand. Its good perennial grasses include bluegrass, and hardy fescues for quick growth.

GOOD LAWN
. . . quick and economical. Can survive rough kid-and-dog usage. Choose Northrup King PAR Brand. Its rugged grasses will quickly produce a sturdy turf, with minimum care.

NORTHRUP, KING & CO. NK

Los Angeles, Calif.

By Dorothy Jonson

Extreme heat breaks down the vitality of your plants just as it breaks down your own powers of resistance. In order to keep your plants healthy during the coming winter, be particular to continue your watering program generously until the time when we get rain. The average gardener, functioning according to the pattern of previous years, doesn't always remember that an additional contribution of moisture is necessary when the garden has suffered severe heat. And if that additional contribution of moisture is given regularly throughout the entire season, it will do a great deal to offset the injury done by the heat and will assist your plants (especially roses) through the winter months.

People ask what to do about worms that get on their fuchsias, chrysanthemums and other flowers. A spray combining malathion and dieldrin has been found highly satisfactory in destroying these pests without injuring the plants.

Mums for Color

Young chrysanthemums of many attractive varieties are available in nurseries throughout the state now. Because they are already blooming, or just about to bloom, they will add ready color to your garden if planted immediately. This lovely perennial is very popular, largely because the flowers are excellent for indoor decoration.

GIBBERELLIN

The Greatest Plant Discovery Since the Days of LUTHER BURBANK

- Makes Geraniums Grow to Giants
- Jumps Rose Bushes 3 times normal height
- Sprouts Beans 8 inches in 24 hours
- Speeds Young Tree growth years in weeks

Not Treated — Gibberellin Treated

The greatest plant discovery since the days of Luther Burbank. Japanese and American biochemists working for 24 years have at last come up with a plant growth secret called GIBBERELLIN, a fantastic chemical that makes geraniums spring into GIANTS! Asters, petunias, poinsettias, dwarf-dahlias leap to prize winning size, tomatoes rise to huge size in half the time of small tomatoes, celery that doubles stocks and leaf growth almost immediately, young trees acquire growth of years in weeks. Right now is the best season to use GIBBERELLIN. Whatever you have, a garden, a farm, flowers, plants or bushes you will find a ready need for GIBBERELLIN. The plain fact is until the advent of GIBBERELLIN, most plants, vegetables, and flowers rarely measured up to ordinary growth expected. But GIBBERELLIN brings miraculous plant growth results even in the hands of ten-year-olds!

ONLY 2.98 for a 15-gram package of powdered chemical. You pay only 3c per plant — since a 15-gram package treats 100 plants. You're paying more right now for so-called fertilizers which in most cases are worthless. You simply take the 15-gram powder package of GIBBERELLIN, drop it in a quart of water and you have a quart of GIBBERELLIN. Your cost is only $2.98—because you don't pay for free water.

You have seen it praised in Popular Mechanics, Science and Mech., The Farm Journal and your favorite Sunday garden sections and now it's available to you through ARMAND ENTERPRISES.

Send $2.98 in check or cash or money order (no C.O.D.) (plus 4% tax) . . . to

HOW TO Build a Bench from Plywood

1. SIMPLIFIED DESIGN takes top and apron from one sheet of plywood, 2x8 feet long. To make the bench, just follow dimensions, cut the pieces, assemble.

2. EXPLODED VIEW shows how pieces fit together. Ends of 2x4 frame braces are notched to fit notches cut in center and end blocks. Blocks must be large enough to accommodate flanges that hold tapered metal legs. Predrilled apron pieces and edging strips are screwed and nailed to blocks and top.

3. THESE 14 pieces are all you need to build the bench. Frame (1) includes 2x4 braces, 2x10 center block and two 2x6 end blocks. Top (2) and apron (3) are cut from one piece of ¾-inch plywood, 2 feet wide by 8 feet long. Facing strips (4) that trim the edges of the bench are of ¾-inch hardwood stock.

4. PLYWOOD apron does two big jobs—it hides frame pieces and welds bench into solid unit. Edging around bench top is nailed on last. To prepare bench surface for finish you've selected, fill all nail and screw holes with a wood filler and sand to silky smoothness. To prevent warping, it's a good idea to coat both top and bottom of the bench with a clear resin sealer. Steel-wool between finish coats.

5. METAL LEGS for bench are simple to attach. They come in kit complete with flanges, mounting screws and plastic tips to protect your floors. Buy the 14-inch length for best seating height. Or, if you prefer, there are wooden legs available you can stain or paint to harmonize with finish of the bench. Here, again, it's easier to get flanges fastened straight if you prebore the screw holes.

AL MOFFET

That Service Is Mercurial

A FELLOW sat down the other day in a booth at the big Chicken Pie Shop, 737 Pine Ave., ordered a chicken pie dinner and asked the waitress if she would serve him as quickly as possible because he had to catch a plane for San Diego.

Exactly 60 seconds later, the waitress brought him a big chicken pie with loads of chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, fresh biscuits with butter and honey, a cup of steaming coffee and for dessert a homemade apple cobbler.

"Wow!" exclaimed the patron, a middle-aged business man. "I'd heard that the service was fast here—but I sure didn't think it was this fast!"

Sixty-second service is by no means a rare occurrence at the Chicken Pie Shop. It happens quite frequently when a patron asks his waitress to put on an extra burst of speed. The average guest gets his food within two or three minutes, and even when the place is mobbed it doesn't take longer than five minutes for the waitress to arrive with her tray of good things to eat.

INCIDENTALLY, that businessman exclaimed "Wow!" again when he got his check. The price for all that fine food was only 90 cents. The shop's chicken noodle and chicken giblets dinners are also only 90 cents. The cube steak dinner is 99 cents and for $1.25 you can enjoy a ham dinner.

Owner of the shop is Al Moffet, a friendly man with a particular talent for pleasing people. Assisted by his brother Hank and a large staff, Al sells over 8,000 chicken pies a week. All the pies (featuring a light crust and big chunks of chicken) are made on the premises. Hank also runs the shop's wonderful take-home department and delicatessen which feature imported delicacies, tricky salads and sliced cold meats.

The shop is open daily and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

I'll always remember . . .

My newspaperboy days

by BRIG. GEN. DAVID SARNOFF

This being National Newspaper Week, my thoughts return to the time when I was a newspaperboy on the bustling streets of New York. I was 9 and had been in America two days. My mother, four younger children and I had come from Europe to join my father, an earlier arrival. So on a hot July day in 1900, almost before we had unpacked our meager belongings, I began peddling papers to help our struggling family.

I remember gazing up with awe, a bundle of papers under my arm, at The World's Pulitzer Building, highest in the city. And I still remember some of the headlines I called in my broken English: "King Humbert of Italy Assassinated" . . . "U.S. Marines in Peking" . . . "Galveston Hurricane and Tidal Wave Take 6,000 Lives."

When school started I got up at 4 a.m. to deliver my papers. After the last class, I went out with a fresh bundle. Then, in five years, I proudly opened my own newsstand. By this time I had decided I wanted to be a reporter. One day when I was 15 I screwed up my courage and went to the Herald office.

In the marble and glass entrance I stopped the first man who looked like an editor. "I want a job," I blurted. "What kind of a job?" he asked. "Any kind." He studied me a minute. "Fine. Come in tomorrow. Your pay will be five dollars a week."

The next day I got a surprise. The "editor" turned out to be manager of the Postal Telegraph on the first floor. My work was delivering telegrams. But the pay looked big, so I turned my newspaperboy job over to a young brother and took it.

Well, I wasn't a reporter. But I was still in the world of communications, a world which became my life. You may say I stumbled into my career by accident. But I never would have had that "accident" had I not first had the good fortune to be a newspaperboy. ■

On Parade

Today — and with the first issue of every month — PARADE uses this column to present a special service to readers. It's a checklist of what we consider tops in current and forthcoming books, records, movies, TV shows — or anything else we think should be brought to your attention. Here's what we place "At the Head of the Parade" in October:

• Television: Today don't miss Bob Hope's first "special" of the season (NBC). Recommended for October 13: Mickey Rooney doing Pinocchio (NBC); for October 18: the opening session of the new Frank Sinatra show (ABC); for October 20: "The Life of Winston Churchill," first of the new 26-week documentary series, The Twentieth Century (CBS).

• Movies: Raintree County, three-hour epic with Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor, Eva Marie Saint, based on Ross Lockridge's prize-winning novel . . . Until They Sail, a moving love story set in wartime New Zealand, with Jean Simmons, Paul Newman, Joan Fontaine . . . Sayonara, with Marlon Brando, adapted from James Michener's novel.

• Books: Operation Sea Lion, by Peter Fleming (Simon & Schuster, $5), a fascinating chronicle of Hitler's plan to invade Britain in 1940 . . . Bat Masterson, by Richard O'Connor (Doubleday, $3.75), authentic biography of the great Wild West Sheriff who wound up a New York newspaperman.

• Records: Satchmo (Decca LP, $19.50), four-record "musical autobiography" of the great Louis Armstrong . . . The Five Beethoven Concertos (RCA Victor LP, $15.98), with Arthur Rubinstein at the piano and Josef Krips leading the Symphony of the Air.

Just don't overdo it

Go easy on "easy terms" when you buy a car, because the longer you pay, the more you pay. It's wiser to pay down as much as you comfortably can, then pay the balance as soon as you can. On the GMAC Plan you get terms arranged to suit your needs—at reasonable cost. It's the way over 2,000,000 families bought their cars last year. How To Help Your Baby Enjoy Eating

Does your baby wiggle with joy when he spies food coming his way? To help your little one welcome mealtimes from the very beginning, try these tips: Serve meals promptly when baby is hungry. Let him decide how much he wants to eat. Be sure baby is comfortable when he's eating. Meals served in mother's or daddy's arms suit a little baby best.

● Heinz makes it easy to please your little beginner. In our exclusive baby-food kitchens, located in the nation's garden spots, Heinz specialists carefully select the pick of each crop and pack it at flavor peak. That's how Heinz Baby Foods—over 80 kinds altogether—get their famous better color, perfect texture and finer flavor.

● When the doctor says baby may start Strained Foods, offer a variety of good flavors and textures. But stay with one baby likes, for a week or more, before you try switching to another.

● Expecting someone new in your family? Congratulations! We'd be delighted to send you, free, an authoritative new book for expectant parents, "The ABC's of Prenatal Care." This reassuring book answers hundreds of questions, and gives good practical help. Another book you'll be needing: Heinz "Feeding Guide for a Healthy Happy Baby." It includes sample menus, feeding ideas, pages for baby's records, etc. Write Heinz Baby Foods, Box 28, D-23, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

● Big breakfast news: Heinz Strained Cereal-Egg Yolks-and-Bacon, a hearty breakfast in one jar. It satisfies baby's big early-morning appetite easily, at your busiest time of day! This new Heinz Exclusive combines enriched farina, wheat germ, nutritious eggs and tasty bacon. Comes in a Junior-food version, too.

● Can baby play safely in your kitchen? Check these points: Are pot handles turned in, where curious hands can't reach them? Are sharp knives kept high? Are low cupboards bare of baby hazards? Remember: cleaning fluids, moth balls, sprays and many common household items are poisonous.

● Friends from the start: this baby and her Daddy, and her Heinz Strained Orange Juice she enjoyed from the very first swallow! Heinz Orange Juice is made from fat tree-ripened oranges—finely strained and flash-pasteurized. No other orange juice—fresh, canned or frozen—contains less peel oil or seed protein. That's why babies love Heinz Orange Juice—and can digest it so easily.

● Your newborn has no chin? Don't worry, that's no sign he has a weak character! It's nature's plan; little babies have little chins so they can nurse more easily. A big jaw would be a handicap to sucking (and that's your newborn's greatest satisfaction, as well as his only way of eating—till he meets a spoon). But baby's jaw develops fast. When he has teeth—upstairs and down—he'll have a chin (or two!).

When you're 70, sometimes youngsters can get you down.

Add 'em up—1,452 years!

by MIKE SULLIVAN

A man in Georgetown, Ky., raised eyebrows thereabouts by taking out a five-year subscription to a local newspaper. Reason: He was 106 years old.

In a Kenosha, Wis., home for the aged, a 70-year-old man resented a remark by a 65-year-old companion, hit him with a glass jar, knocked him over a table, then announced: "I'm not taking that kind of talk from younger boys!"

Retirement? Not for an up-and-coming citizen of Chamberlain, S.D. At 95, he was reappointed to another four-year term as a U.S. Commissioner.

For the 73rd consecutive year, a man in Mechanic Falls, Me., trained a horse this season for the Oxford County Fair. The trainer is 91.

When young love cooled for an 83-year-old woman in Muskegon, Mich., she divorced her 76-year-old husband. Reason: He had deserted her in 1928.

A horse and buggy driven by a 72-year-old man in Freeman, S.D., was hit by a model-A Ford. The horse broke its leg, had to be shot — but its driver was unscratched.

The owner of an antique shop in Bryn Mawr, Pa., wasn't so lucky. Still bicycling to work at 78, he was hit by a car, injured slightly.

In Julesburg, Colo., a motorist of 72 got his first traffic ticket — a warning that his ancient jalopy had straddled a parking line. He was so tickled with the ticket that he had it framed.

On her 100th birthday, a Philadelphia woman was asked the secret of her longevity. Her frank reply: "I don't know how I ever got this way."

A 100-year-old woman in West Hartford, Conn., however, had a formula: "Take as good care of yourself as you do of your automobile."

And a younger lady of 97 in Springfield, Mass., offered this debatable recipe for growing old gracefully: "Hard work never killed anybody."

When a new bank was opened in Goodrich, Mich., an 85-year-old man celebrated the occasion with a bang. He set off a firecracker he'd been saving since 1908.

In Sheboygan, Mich., a youngster of 76 made rhubarb pies from plants which, he estimated, were 49 years older than he was.

In Seymour, Ind., a 93-year-old man decided his house needed repainting so he painted it.

Another 93-year-old in Coalgate, Okla., admitted age was creeping up. Hospitalized with a broken hip, he said every limb had been broken "one to three times — but I've never been hospitalized before!" ■

PRINCESS CHARLOTTE, Prince Rainier's mother, poses beside a sports car.

The odd hobby of the

Princess of Monaco

MARCHAIS, FRANCE.

A recent visitor to this village in northern France learned two interesting facts: 1) It is one of the four homes of Princess Charlotte Grimaldi, 60-year-old mother of Prince Rainier of Monaco and mother-in-law of Grace Kelly; 2) The Princess has a most unusual and dangerous charity.

The charity involves calling at French jails for likely parole candidates. When the Princess finds a prisoner she thinks she can rehabilitate, she asks the authorities to release him in her custody. She then puts the parolee to work in one of her villas, assuming all responsibility.

Until recently the Princess' private parole and rehabilitation system worked well. (She has four ex-prisoners working on her estate here.) A few weeks ago, however, it struck a snag. Princess Charlotte brought suit to evict René Girier, 38-year-old safecracker once known as the Raffles of France. She told the court she no longer could supervise Girier's daily activities and no longer would be responsible for him.

The news shocked townspeople here, because the Princess and René Girier had been most friendly since they first met in Laon jail in 1955. At that time the scholarly-looking Girier was serving 20 years for armed robbery. The Princess said she could rehabilitate him into a useful citizen. Soon she set him up in her beautiful villa 35 miles from Rheims, announcing that she had made him her private chauffeur.

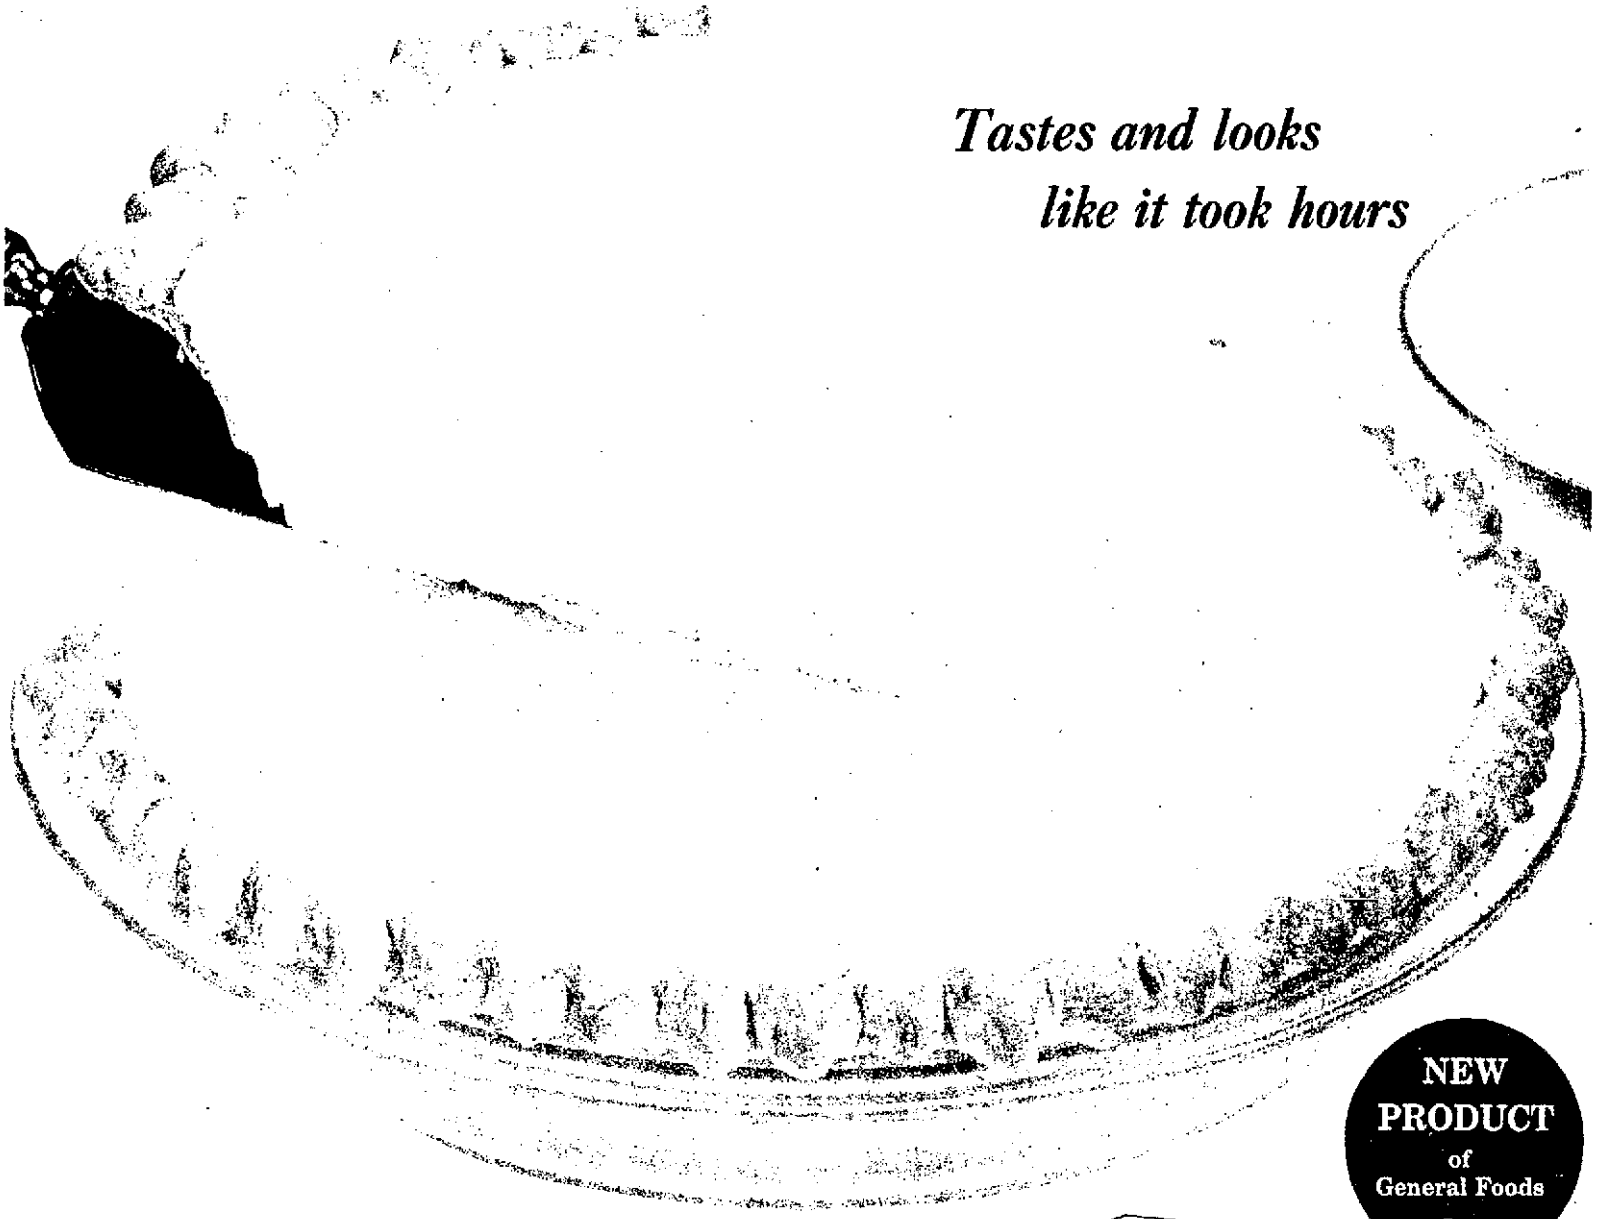

When her son married Grace Kelly in Monaco, the Princess had Girier drive her to the wedding. Presently, when he smashed up the car and his license was revoked, she hired another chauffeur to drive him. To help her parolee further, she placed him as manager of a book shop in Rheims.

But this past summer something happened between the charitable Princess and the ex-thief. Whatever the reason, the Princess has washed her hands of Girier. He in turn is sad and disillusioned. "Once she throws me out of her house," he sighs, "I am without a responsible domicile. Then they come and put me in jail."

Will all this dissuade Princess Charlotte from further efforts at personal prisoner rehabilitation? Locally, you can get a bet either way. ■

Medicine's next

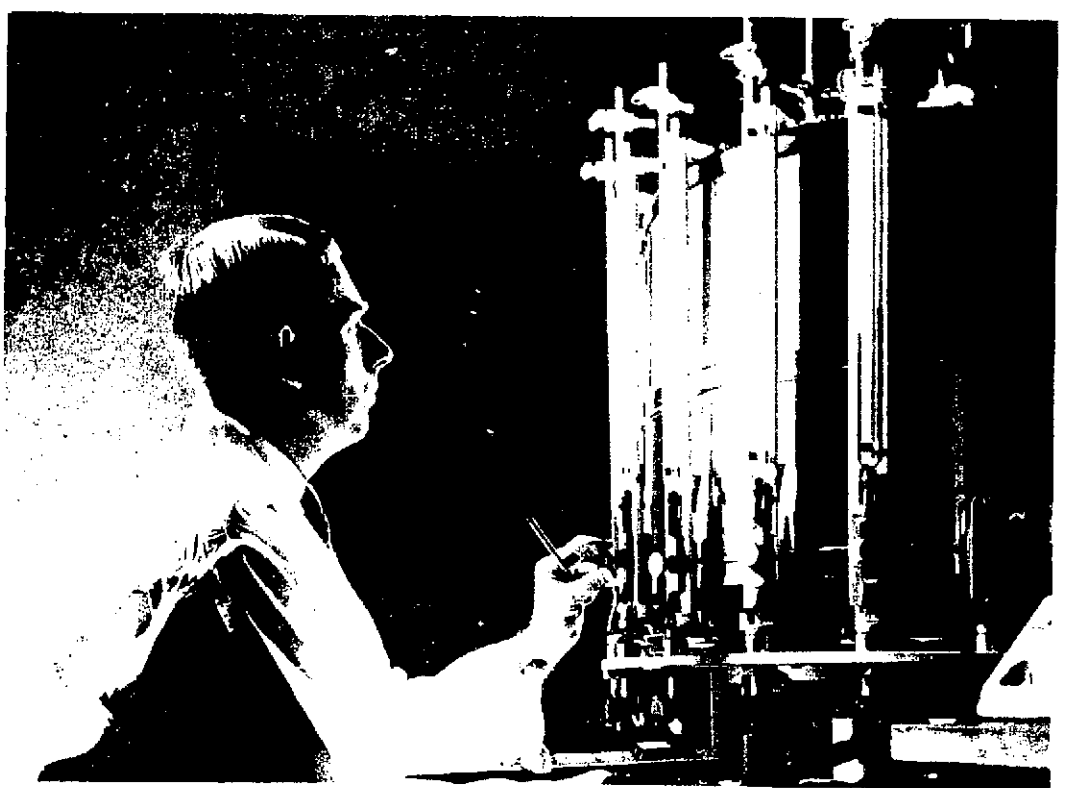

In just 10 years, medicine has chalked up amazing victories with cortisone, tranquilizers, broad-range antibiotics, drugs to combat TB, the Salk anti-polio vaccine and other new discoveries. All have alleviated pain. All have shortened hospital stays. Indeed, more than 1,200,000 Americans owe their lives to the achievements of "medicine's golden decade."

But what of the next 10 years? Do they hold as much promise? PARADE asked medical research experts throughout the U. S. Their answer: The decade ahead holds more hope than ever against heart disease, cancer, mental illness and other disorders.

On these pages is a timetable of medical breakthroughs — the great forward strides you will be reading about tomorrow. Each breakthrough will mean better care, soon or in the predictable future, for you or someone you know.

The timetable is based on many calculations: pres-

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

SYMBOL OF HOPE in medicine is the researcher — better equipped and financed today than ever before.

PENICILLIN REACTIONS — 1957

About 650,000 Americans are sensitive to penicillin; the number grows yearly. When such persons receive the drug, painful hives and itching result. But just this week a new drug, the only one of its kind, was announced. It prevents the allergic reaction by removing penicillin from the system. In early tests, the drug has produced near-miracle results in hours in some cases. It probably will be available for use by doctors by November.

BLOOD CLOTS — 1958

In a half dozen or more ailments, blood clots cause pain and inflammation and even may endanger life itself. The clots form in blood vessels of legs, arms, the face and other parts of the body. Present anticoagulant drugs do not dissolve blood clots; they simply act to prevent further clots from forming. Now a new drug, not yet made public, promises to be the first medication that actually can dissolve clots once they are formed. Doctors probably will begin using it on phlebitis and other blood-clot-inflammatory disorders.

LUNG VIRUSES — 1959

Virus research is the fastest-moving field of medicine. Viruses thought to be involved in virus pneumonia and certain forms of bronchitis have been isolated in the laboratory. These findings, too, are yet to be announced; but scientists definitely are excited about them. In addition, viruses thought to be responsible for some cases of croup in children have been isolated. The strong implication: Vaccines are on the way to give protection — especially to children — against two or three major disorders.

MEASLES VACCINE — 1960

This is another of the predictable victories in the virus field. Work is proceeding to develop a vaccine against victories

ent studies: accumulated knowledge; the fact that medical research now can call on more scientists (about 50,000 of them) and more money (about $300,000,000 a year) than ever before in history.

At best, prediction is a hazardous and tricky business. The timetable may be off a year or more in one or another category. But you can be sure of this: Sooner or later, you will benefit from the great advances outlined here.

1957 Penicillin reactions

1958 Blood clots

1959 Some virus infections

1960 Measles vaccine

1961 "Behavior" drugs

1962 Hardening of the arteries

1963 Diabetes

1964 Alcoholism

1965 Sterility

1966 Schizophrenia

1967 Certain cancers

1968 Whole organ transplants

measles (non-German type). The virus has been isolated. Best bet: By 1960 we will have a vaccine that will protect against a type of measles which now affects more than 600,000 Americans annually, can lead to serious bacterial complications and occasionally proves fatal

MENTAL "BEHAVIOR" DRUGS — 1961

Today we have tranquilizers to "quiet down" the emotionally disturbed patient, other drugs to lift the spirits of the depressed. The next step: drugs to alter your behavior by helping you adapt to everyday stress. Says one expert: "In all probability, we will have drugs which will induce — very subtly — healthy, social reactions to problem situations. Thus, the individual's natural abilities to adapt will be bolstered."

HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES — 1962

Today, doctors suspect that somehow fatty acids in the system are involved in arteriosclerosis, the nation's No. 1 killer. By 1962, you can expect a breakthrough in this controversial field of research. Until now, doctors have been unable to study the chemistry of the body completely. They have been hobbled because only 70 per cent of the body fluids involved could be identified. But beginning this year, researchers will be able to study the "hidden" 30 per cent. New, revolutionary laboratory equipment makes the intensified search possible. In five years the way may be open to prevention of the disease and better care for those who already have it.

DIABETES — 1963

This year the first anti-diabetes drug taken by mouth was made available. It represented the first basic advance against diabetes in more than a generation. Today, more researchers than ever are seeking clues to the cause of diabetes, which still is unknown. Good bet: Researchers will make a fundamental breakthrough. Perhaps they will not hit upon the cause, but you can look for a real advance, possibly on the preventive side.

ALCOHOLISM — 1964

Scientists know that, to the problem drinker, alcohol is a narcotic. He must have it or he suffers "withdrawal symptoms" not unlike those experienced by a heroin or morphine addict. Recently doctors have become enthusiastic about a new finding in alcoholism. Apparently, a certain enzyme (a substance that speeds chemical actions in the body) is overproduced in the bodies of alcoholics. The researchers hope to find a way to neutralize the enzyme, or somehow reduce its production chemically. Says one expert: "If I had to bet on it, I'd put my money on alcoholism as yielding to discovery in the near future."

STERILITY — 1965

Today more than 5,000,000 American couples want children, yet remain childless. Now doctors have isolated a certain hormone which will stimulate ovulation in the female and sperm production in the male. However, a way must be found to make the hormone synthetically if it is to be manufactured for mass use. The prospect is that this hormone probably will be synthesized by 1965.

SCHIZOPHRENIA — 1966

This is the most serious of all mental disorders: it fills about 50 per cent of today's mental-hospital beds. Recent studies, though, indicate that there is something in the blood of a schizophrenic which makes him prone to the disorder. With this lead, experts expect to solve the mystery of the disease. Never has there been so much optimism concerning a breakthrough against "split personality" as there is at this moment.

CANCER — 1967

Cancer, of course, is not a single disease, but perhaps a dozen disorders which appear in different forms. In this field, there is extreme caution. A widespread feeling: Cancer chemotherapy — that is, use of chemicals to kill the disease organisms — will pay off in 10 years. Most hopeful area: leukemia.

Also likely by 1967: a much better understanding of the role of viruses in cancer. For example, one scientific team has just showed that viruses can be involved in mouth cancers.

WHOLE ORGAN TRANSPLANTS — 1968

For the past three years, kidneys have been transplanted from one identical twin to another. A few lives have been prolonged by transplants of the thyroid gland from dead infants to adults. The big stumbling block is that non-identical twins and other unrelated persons resist transplants. But doctors hope to break the enigma of the resistance factor and thus make possible life-saving transplants for all who need them.

Research will probe still other medical mysteries: the relation of the central nervous system to heart and other diseases; whether some people are naturally immune to cancer and how the immunity works; ways to reduce the death rate among newborn infants and the number of "birth failures" — crippled newborn; the cause of high blood pressure; the basic nature of the aging process, whereby, for example, some people are physically "old" at 35, others comparatively young at 65. Look for vast strides in these and other fields in the years ahead.

That is the timetable. Of course, skeptics will look down their noses. But in 1947, you could have predicted cortisone, Salk vaccine and a good many more "medical miracles" that skeptics would have termed preposterous. And you would have been right! ■

Rules of the roost

They may not work—but the man keeps trying

by DICK EMMONS

Around our house, a dim, cavelike structure hollowed out of a large, overhanging mortgage, we live by a set of fairly strict regulations. One of these is a general order to leave the funny papers strictly alone on Sunday afternoon, because Daddy is under them.

Another, known formally as the Emmons Code of Ethical Behavior, is that every man aboard is expected to perform his or her assigned duties without shirking.

I had this one written into the bylaws a while back when my attention was drawn to a serious case of buck-passing, or, more exactly, bike-passing. This breach involved Ann, our 8-year-old, who suddenly developed the habit-forming habit of leaving her bike outdoors for someone else to put in the garage. Nine times out of nine, I was the someone.

"Now we're getting somewhere," I applauded after our family council had voted three to two in favor of assigning duties so that one person would be held responsible for things left undone. (The two negative votes came from Davie and Dickie, the 4-year-old twins, who opposed the motion because it said nothing about oatmeal cookies.)

A List — and a List

My wife, Helen, and I immediately sat down to prepare lists of the things we felt we should be solely accountable for. Her list, which seemed suitable enough to me, included such things as general housework, cooking and supervision over the children during the daylight hours. For myself, I set down specific rather than vague duties:

"Beating all rugs less than four by six feet in size; churning the butter; maintaining the pump and cistern, if we should get one; watching for leaks in the back-porch roof; seeing to it that any snow which drifts down the chimney does not pile up on the hearth."

For some reason this flabbergasted my normally affectionate bride. "I don't suppose you would consider tearing off the calendar pages once a month?" she asked tartly. "Possibly you could wedge that in between vigils on the back porch."

I smiled understandingly. Then, being basically a generous sort, I agreed to perform certain other household tasks, including cleaning up my basement workshop at regular intervals.

With this performance pact in effect, our ship of state sailed smoothly for several days. As there seemed to be very little butter to churn, or snow on the hearth, I employed my leisure time fashioning a pair of bookcases for my den. Concentrating on producing a professional-looking job, I momentarily overlooked the assigned task of tidying up after an evening's work.

Careful There, Dear

My wife, coming downstairs uninvited as I was putting the third coat of varnish on, accidently tripped over a length of board and came up, distraught, her hair full of wood shavings.

"It occurs to me that keeping the basement neat and free from obstructions was the one practical duty you agreed to perform!" she rasped.

Trapped, I searched frantically for a way out — and found it. "I would have cleaned up," I stammered, "but I was so eager to finish these things for you!"

"For me? I thought you said you were making bookcases for your den?"

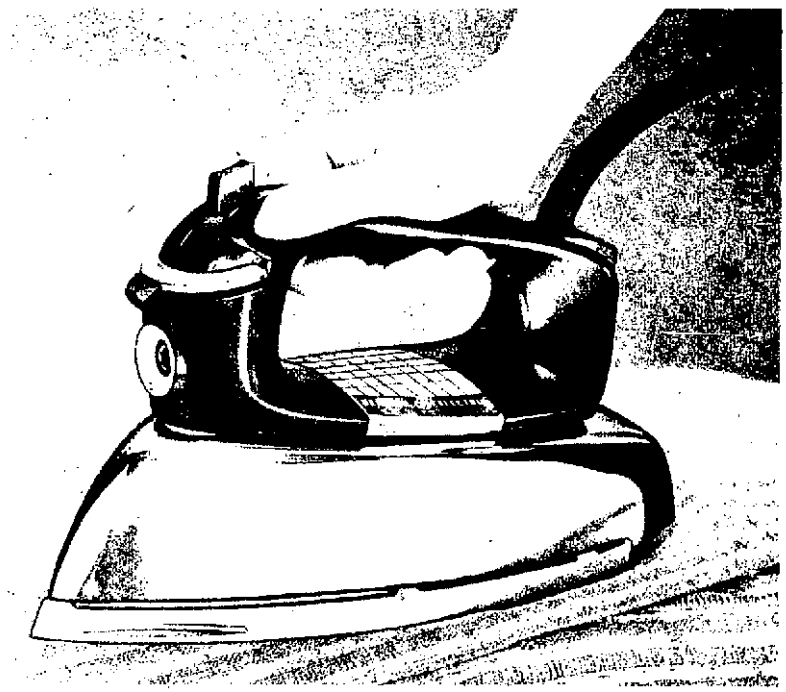

I chuckled hastily. "A mere cover up. A subterfuge. Actually, they are shelves for your preserves closet."

"In that case, forget what I just said," she murmured, slipping her arms around my neck.

All of which proves that rules are made to be broken and bookcases are made to hold currant jelly. ■

These embassy daughters lead story-book lives

Washington's 'fairy princesses'

by FRED BLUMENTHAL Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

This is the capital of a democracy, but no princess, real or fabled, ever lived such a life as a select group of local girls—the daughters of foreign ambassadors to the U.S.

Their fathers, often wealthy to begin with, get plush expense allowances. As a result, these girls live in magnificent mansions, with spiraling marble staircases, soaring ballrooms, spacious dining rooms glistening in crystal and gold. They have dazzling wardrobes, the pick of shops in Paris, New York and Washington. They help direct staffs of servants, are floated around town in chauffeur-driven limousines.

Invitations clutter their morning mail in this party-loving capital. Dates? They have their pick of poised young diplomats or dashing military and naval officers.

Yet, surprisingly, most of the girls are determined to lead useful, satisfying lives. Below and on following pages, PARADE picks six examples to show you what a democracy's "fairy princesses" are really like.

CHILE'S Josephine Puga, 23, is a newcomer to Washington; her parents arrived here only this spring. An expert pianist (having studied classical music since she was 6), she's also a painter of near-professional quality. Her favorite colors are black and white. ("Mother," she says, "tells me I dress like a widow.") Each morning Josephine goes to market to do the embassy's food buying — up to $100 worth a day. She's now studying social work here, hopes to enter that field when she goes back to her native country.

Their interests range from politics to parties and from Ike to Elvis Presley

SWEDEN'S Monica Boheman, 24, was born in Paris and baptized in Turkey, lived in Poland, England, France and Greece before whisking into Washington six years ago. She speaks fluent English, French and Spanish, just as fluently plays the guitar. (She loves American folk songs.) One of her biggest thrills so far: meeting President Eisenhower.

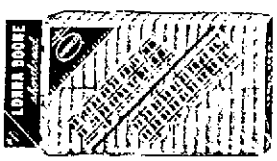

URUGUAY'S Susana Rodriguez Nery, 19, is the stepdaughter of Dr. José Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States. She lives in a palatial home in the heart of Washington (two blocks from the White House), follows politics on the Potomac with a professional's eye. She's a great admirer of President Eisenhower (she collects Ike campaign buttons), Ernest Hemingway, hi-fi music, cha-cha dancing, and — "I'm not ashamed of it" — Elvis Presley. Born in Uruguay, she's lived here 11 years, is taking liberal arts and interior decoration at Marymount College.

BELGIUM'S Patricia McMahon, 16 (see cover), actually is an American. (Her father was the late Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut). She became a Washington "princess" when her mother married Ambassador Baron Silvercruys. Patty attends a fashionable girls' school here, edits the school newspaper. A lover of embassy parties, she also has a serious side: She wants to tour the Belgian Congo soon, be a lawyer when she grows up.

SPAIN'S Mercedes Areilza, 19, is a graceful, brown-eyed blonde who has proved a great help to her father as a part-time social secretary. One reason: She can type out invitations in English, Spanish, German and French. Away from the typewriter, she enjoys reading (mostly the classics), painting. Mercedes has one burning ambition — to join the Spanish diplomatic corps — but she admits it's unlikely she'll follow in her father's footsteps. "No women are allowed to be diplomats in Spain," she explains. "I guess that's because we talk too much."

NORWAY'S Solveig Morgenstierne, 19 and strawberry blonde, is a recent graduate of a Washington secretarial school, now works in the office of Rep. D.S. Saund (Calif.). Shy and introspective, Solveig has spent several vacations swimming and painting at her family's summer cabin in the Norwegian mountains. More recently, however, she spent some time teaching Norwegian to an American naval officer. Born in the United States, she expects eventually to take out American citizenship.

You can save a lot of calories by sweetening with Sucaryl

and you can't taste the difference

WEIGHT WATCHERS' CRANBERRY BAKED APPLES

6 medium red cooking apples
2 cups cranberries
2 tablespoons Sucaryl solution
½ cup water

Set oven at 450°F. Core apples and pare one-third of the way down. Place in a shallow baking dish. Combine the remaining ingredients in a small saucepan and cook until berries pop. Fill center of each apple with a tablespoon of the cooked cranberries; pour remainder over apples. Cover with aluminum foil and bake for 20 minutes. Remove foil and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Sucaryl makes it easier for you to watch your weight . . . by giving you wholly natural sweetness without bitter aftertaste, without one single calorie.

You use Sucaryl practically anywhere you would sugar . . . in coffee, tea or any other drink . . . on fruits and cereals. Cook with it, bake with it; any Sucaryl-sweetened dish tastes just like its sugar-sweetened twin. Sucaryl, of course, is for anyone sensibly counting calories, and for those who cannot take sugar. Your drugstore has Sucaryl in tablets or solution. Low-salt diets call for Sucaryl Calcium. Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill. and Montreal, Can. Abbott

Non-Caloric Sweetener—No Bitter Aftertaste

by EDWARD D. FALES, JR.

It's fall — and a young boy's fancy turns to thoughts of hunting. But unless you do something to prevent it, death may go into the woods with him. A recent report by the National Rifle Association discloses that nearly half of all fall hunting accidents involve boys under 20.

What can you do? The answer is simple. Just make sure your son has a "diploma"—certifying he knows how to handle a gun safely –granted by the NRA or some other qualified instructor.

The NRA course is free. It takes only four hours. And it works. In California, trained teen-agers have proved 19 times safer than non-trained hunters. Of 17,000 youths who took the course, only three had accidents.

To take the course, your boy will need a .22 rifle, 15 bullets and a few cents for targets. The NRA-trained instructor will teach him:

- To shoot accurately.
- Never to climb a fence while carrying a gun. (See box at right.)
- Never to plug a gun barrel with a cork to keep it clean (since a boy may fire the gun without taking out the cork, causing the barrel to explode in his face).
- Never to take a "sound shot" (a blind shot at game, figuring the location by the sound it's making).

Where to Go

How does a boy (or an adult, if he so desires) get to take the course? More than a dozen states now are cooperating with the NRA in giving the courses; ask any warden or license-issuer and he'll direct you. If you live in a state not part of the program, write to the NRA at 1600 Rhode Island Ave., Washington, D.C., for courses in your area.

Your son's life — or yours — may depend on it. Reported one California youth: "Over and over it had been drilled into me by the NRA to hold my fire till I was positive I was aiming at game. Well, one day I spotted a ring-necked pheasant. I could clearly see the red wattles on its neck. It bobbed, moved a little, bobbed again.

"But I held my fire till I got a closer look. Suddenly the pheasant rose straight up six feet, pushed aside some boughs and walked toward me. It was another hunter. Those red wattles were the collar of his red shirt. If I hadn't taken that course, he'd be a dead man today."

Keep your son alive

What every boy should know about guns

Before any boy—or adult—goes hunting with a gun, he should know the answers to these three questions:

1) How do you climb over a fence while hunting?

2) If you pull the trigger and the gun fails to fire, what do you do?

3) What 10 things are the main causes of gun accidents?

Answers

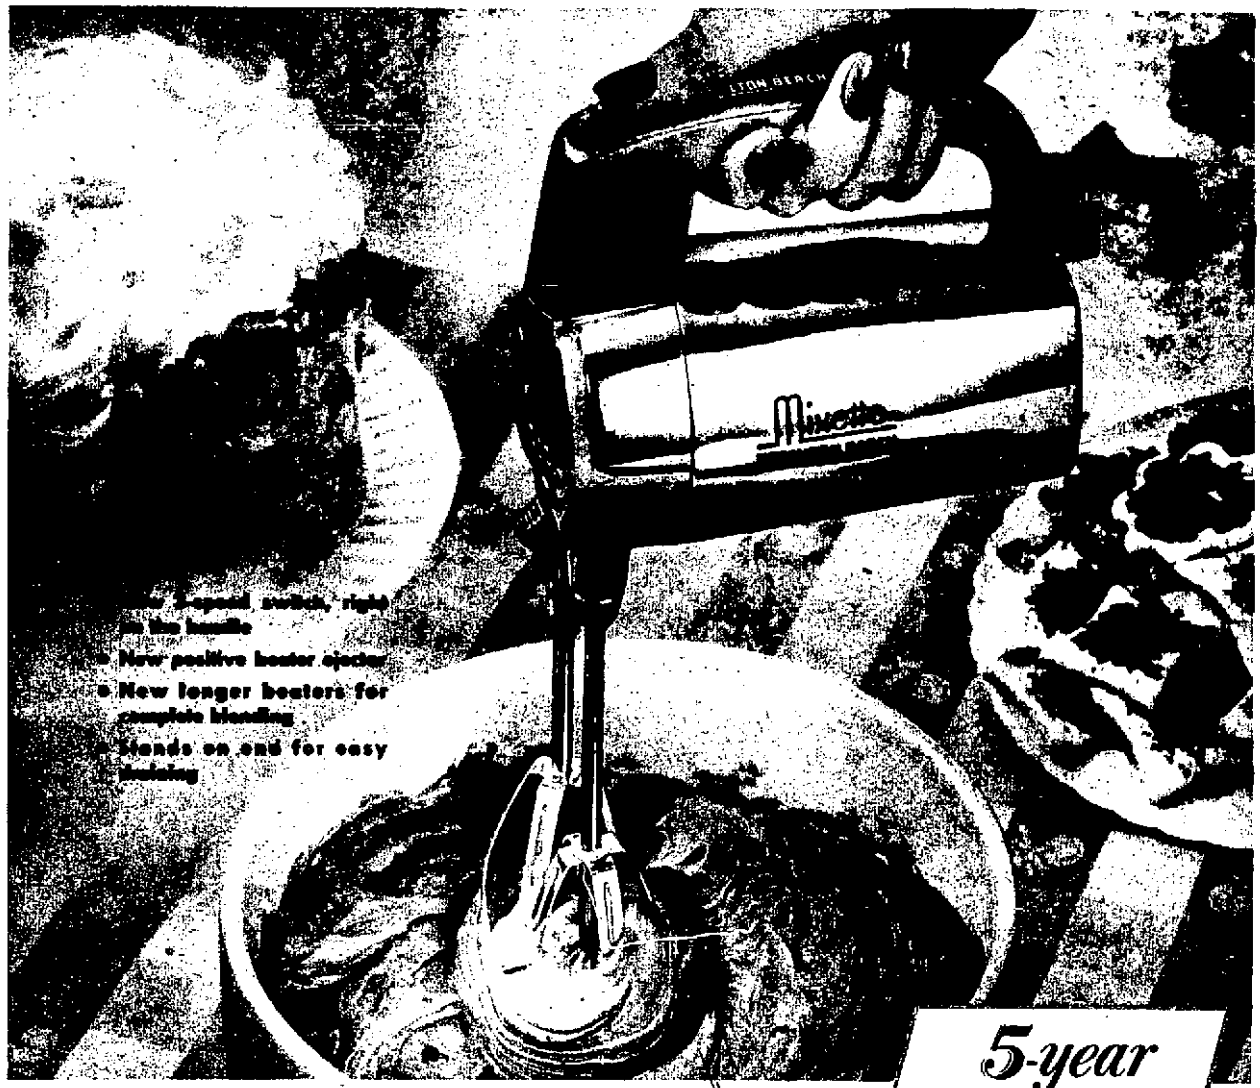

1) First, unload the gun. Second, lay it down. Third, point the muzzle away from you and your companions. (Never assume a gun is empty.) Fourth, climb over the fence and pick up the gun. Fifth, open the gun and see if there's any dirt in barrel. Sixth, reload.

2) Point your gun in a safe direction and wait three minutes. If a "slow primer" is smoldering like a bad firecracker, this allows time for it to burn out. Otherwise, it may give you a bad burn.

3) The 10 are: stumbling; catching the thumb under the telescope and letting the hammer slip; excitement; putting the wrong-size ammunition in the gun; drinking; using old ammunition; "sound shooting"; shooting at game that's running between hunters; leaving ammunition around home to be picked up by children; wearing white clothing that's mistaken for a deer's "flag." ■

Fire in the house—could you escape?

THE AIR near the floor may be cool — but don't breathe it.

Nobody knows when fire will strike. Take this test—memorize it. It may save your home, even your life

by HERMAN PERL
President, Fire Detective, Inc.

Today is the beginning of Fire Prevention Week, and a good time for all Americans to ponder the appalling losses due to fire each year — and ways each one of us can prevent them. The first six months of 1957 alone saw $627,967,000 go up in smoke as the result of fire damage. A good deal of it was due to sheer carelessness.

A main trouble is complacency. You may think you know all about fire prevention and what to do in emergencies — but do you? Surveys and records of organizations such as the National Fire Protection Association and the National Board of Underwriters show that most Americans are "fire illiterates."

Today's quiz poses 10 basic statements on fire and fire escape procedure. Answer each as "right" or "wrong," then check your score below — and read the explanations on the opposite page.

QUESTIONS

1 Home fires can be virtually eliminated by proper safety precautions. RIGHT WRONG

2 Of the fires that strike an estimated 800 American homes daily, more than half break out during the day, while families are using household appliances, smoking and cooking. RIGHT WRONG

3 When a fire breaks out in your house, it keeps spreading gradually until it is extinguished. RIGHT WRONG

4 If a fire strikes your home, your first consideration should be to gather your family and get away from the flames. RIGHT WRONG

5 The heat from a fire always rises. RIGHT WRONG

6 Open doors increase your chances of escaping from a fire in your home. RIGHT WRONG

7 If you're trapped and forced to go through a smoke-, gas- or heat-filled area to escape, the air nearest the floor is always safest. RIGHT WRONG

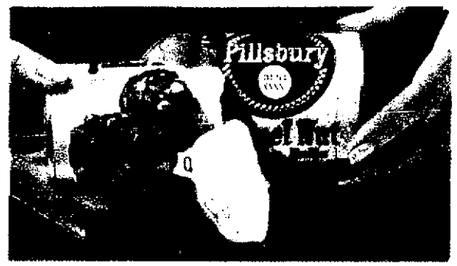

8 If you awake to discover a fire in your home, you should try to save only your most valuable papers, jewelry, clothing, etc. RIGHT WRONG

9 If you find yourself on an upper floor, and hallways and stairways are blocked by superheated air or flames, the best way out of the house is to leap from the window. RIGHT WRONG

10 Since you cannot predict the course of a fire, your best protection is your ability to improvise escape routes quickly. RIGHT WRONG

SCORING: All these 10 statements are wrong. Take 10 points for each one you marked properly. A perfect score means you're a fire specialist, but if you got over 70 you're still far above average. A mark of 60 is passing; below that, you're a fire hazard in your own home.

WHY CORRECT ANSWERS ARE IMPORTANT TO YOU

1 Experts say that from 50 to 90 per cent of fires are preventable; but fires are also caused by electrical storms, faulty wiring, overheated furnaces. These can't be foreseen, but you should be prepared for them.

2 About 60 per cent of home fires occur at night.

3 There's nothing gradual about the spread of a fire. Experience shows the critical point usually is reached four to seven minutes after a fire starts. After that, temperatures and burning action are likely to become unbearable to human life.

4 Your first consideration should be to escape not just the flames but the house. Most fire victims are not burned to death; they're gassed. Burning furniture, clothing, etc., give off poisonous fumes, which mix with superheated air and rise through the house. Study shows that 74 per cent of home-fire victims die upstairs from downstairs fires — asphyxiated by toxic gases.

5 Fire-heated air does rise, up stairways and hollow walls — then starts "building down" from the ceiling of the top floor. Poisonous air layers then grow thicker in a downward direction — saturating halls and stairways.

6 A closed door is a good, temporary defense against superheated, gas-laden air. If you suspect fire, feel the door for heat. If it's hot, it's a warning you couldn't get through the hall alive. Instead of opening the door, block it with furniture or a wet mattress to keep out heat, smoke and gases.

7 The air nearest the floor is coolest — but also probably the deadliest to breathe. A crouched position is best. To breathe, take short, shallow breaths through your nose.

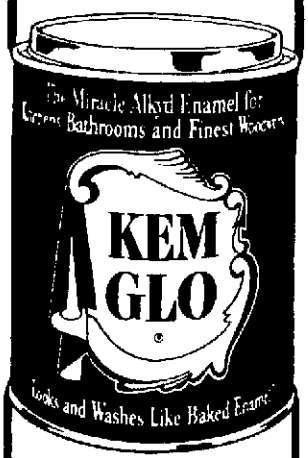

8 Forget your treasures; you may barely have time to get your family and yourself out of the house. Rescue should be your only thought. Arouse your family and call out precise instructions. If the fire has not advanced too far, gather all occupants and leave quietly, closing doors behind you. Call the fire department from a neighbor's house.

9 Jump only as a last resort. If your bedroom isn't equipped with a rope ladder (as it should be), use a bed sheet as a rope, making sure it's securely tied inside the window. Remember, if you're hurt while escaping, you can't help others.

10 Nothing could be worse. Your best protection is a carefully prepared, well-rehearsed escape plan. It's a good idea to go through the house with the entire family, visit each room and discuss what people there would have to do in case of fire. ■

'The stars won't be hurt'

by LLOYD SHEARER Parade West Coast correspondent

HOLLYWOOD. For the past two months, the year's biggest story here (and in many other parts of America) has been the trial between the state of California and the so-called scandal magazines. What does it all mean? Will the publicity seriously hurt Hollywood — or, conceivably, help it?

For some of the most authoritative answers available, I recently went to Jerry Giesler, probably the top criminal lawyer west of the Rockies and certainly the best-known lawyer in this town. It was Giesler who uncovered the unique dirt-gathering methods used here by the scandal magazines, and who later supplied the California attorney general with much information used in the trial.

Beyond that, Giesler, in his own words, "grew up with Hollywood." Born Harold Lee Giesler in Wilton, Iowa, 66 years ago, he came to Los Angeles in the early 1900s, got a job as truck driver and attended law school at night. Later, as a partner of noted criminal lawyer Earl Rogers, he learned the bag of courtroom tricks he has used effectively ever since.

In 40 years, Giesler has earned more than $3 million defending an arm-long list of Hollywood greats — from Rudolph Valentino and Charles Chaplin to Shelley Winters and Marilyn Monroe. He also has handled dozens of cases free.

Tall, paunchy, soft-voiced, with a profound knowledge of what makes people tick, Giesler is uniquely qualified to discuss the scandal trial. Herewith, in question-and-answer form, he does so.

Q What effect has the trial had on the people within the motion-picture industry?
A My personal opinion is that it hasn't, and won't, have very much effect on the industry. Temporarily, it will cause some attempts to be made to protect Hollywood. But the attempts won't go very far.

Q Do you think the public believes all that scandal dished up about Hollywood stars in the scandal magazines?
A Most people with common sense realize that it's trash. They may like to know what's going on, but they also consider the source of information. I don't think any star is going to lose much of a following because he or she was written up in a scandal magazine. In many cases they may even gain a following.

Q Do you know any method of controlling the off-screen behavior of a movie star?
A The only way I know is to lock these movie stars in corrals. They get in trouble because they have too much free time. They make maybe one or two pictures a year. That's not enough work to keep a man out of trouble.

Also, they play intimate love scenes on the screen. It's hard to stop just because a director says, "Cut."

Q Do you think the motion-picture industry is rotten from the top down?
A No — though in some instances it's rotten at the top. What you must realize is that anyone connected with this industry is constantly under the spotlight. An executive in a lumber company may be guilty of the very same transgressions, but who cares? If someone is connected with Hollywood, he's automatically good for headlines.

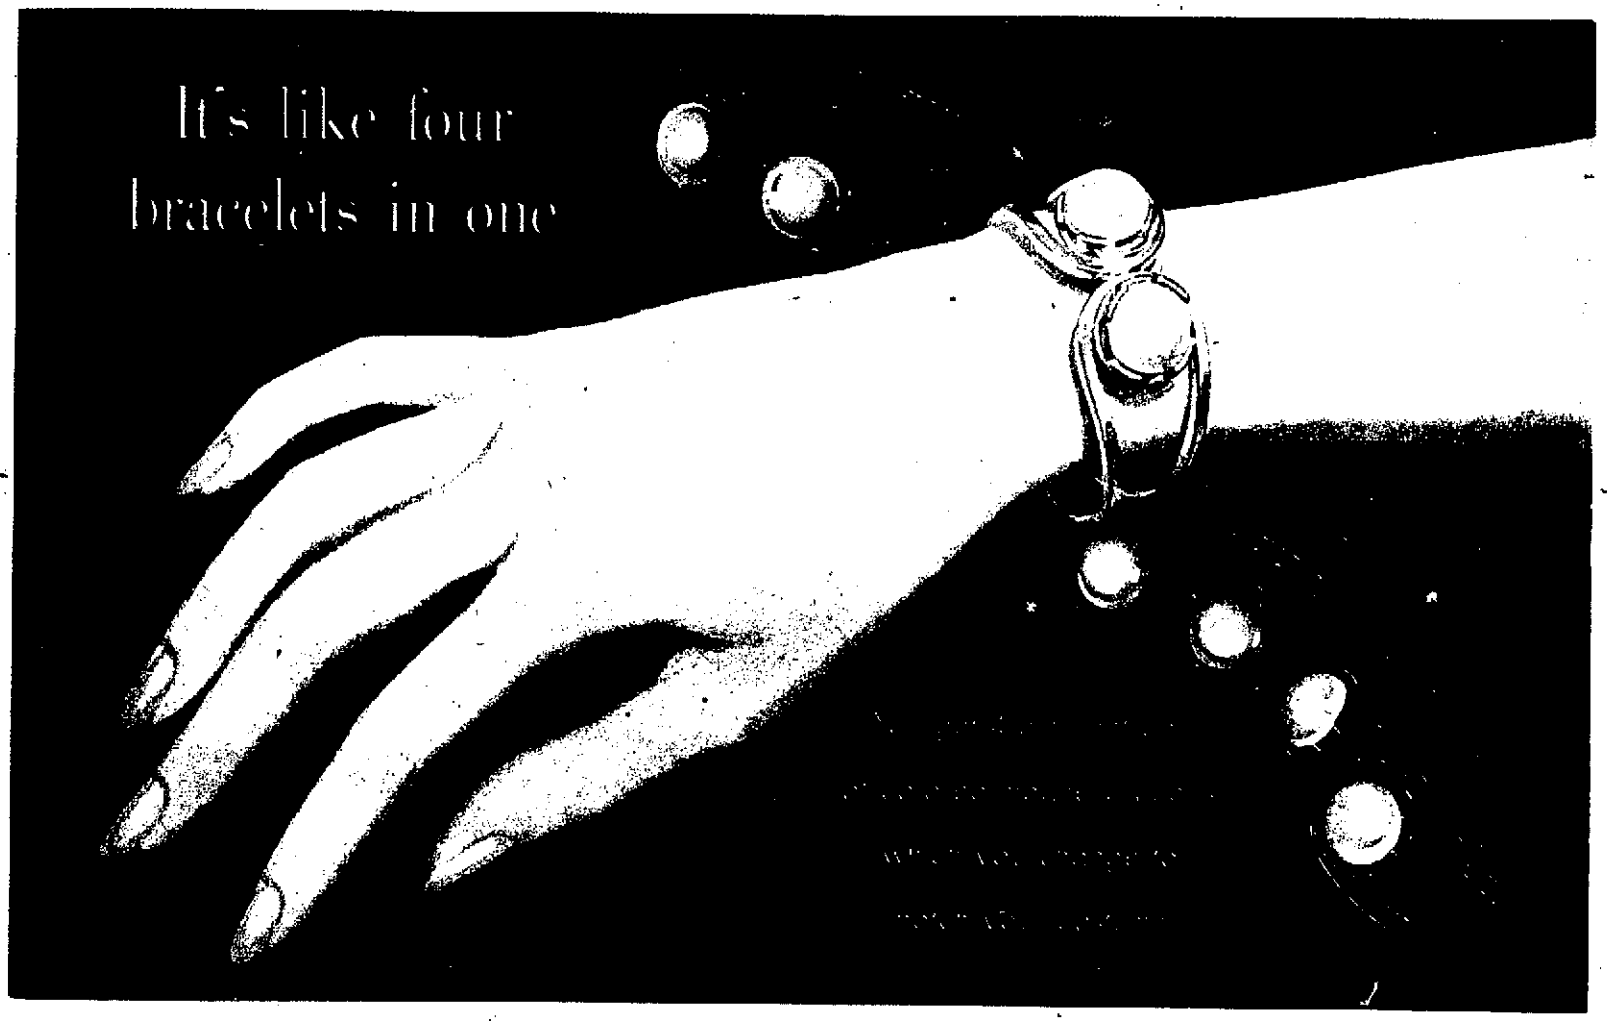

For example, the papers recently told about Jack Warner losing $200,000 on

MARILYN MONROE retained Giesler when she went to court (above) to divorce Joe DiMaggio. Among Giesler's other clients: Errol Flynn, Bette Davis, Sonja Henie, Edward G. Robinson.

'The public is much more tolerant nowadays'

the French Riviera and Darryl Zanuck gambling at Monte Carlo. Executives in any other company would not set that sort of pattern. The stockholders would scream that it was poor public relations. But movie people can get away with it.

Q Isn't there a morals clause in every film contract that says the studio can kick the player out if by his actions he arouses public disfavor?

A Yes — but I don't know of any star dismissed by a studio under that clause. There are several reasons. Lots of times when a star gets in trouble, he becomes a bigger box-office attraction after the scandal. Again, many stars are responsible for enormous profits. Kick out two or three and you may well cut your profit margin by 50 per cent or more.

Q Is it true that the studios themselves are responsible for the rise of scandal magazines by refusing to tell the truth about their stars?

A Well, they've been scared to death of the truth all along. In the past they've been able to control some of the scandal by being very close to the district attorney's office. But this D.A. we've got in Los Angeles now, William McKesson - - they have no connection or influence with him.

The best policy, of course, is to tell the truth. If something happens to a star, release the news quickly. It's then read and forgotten. Once you make it a secret, however, you cloak it with glamor. It becomes a big thing. The studios have seen that, and I think they're revising their policies.

Q You were the first man to uncarth Confidential's operation in Hollywood. Can you disclose how you found out that the Hollywood Research Bureau was acting as a clearing house for Confidential?

A It's strange how you get information when people know you're looking for some. Bob Mitchum retained me to sue the magazine because he felt he was libeled in one of the stories. Mitchum is a very truthful man. I investigated all the aspects and felt we had a strong case.

Just about then I had a call from a girl. She told me all about Marjorie and Fred Meade, who ran the Hollywood Research Bureau. I decided to check out her story. Marjorie Meade was the niece of the publisher of Confidential. Well, we sued.

I went East to take publisher Harrison's deposition. Confidential has a very tricky setup. They sell out each issue to one major distributor who then sells the magazines to distributors in other states. That way, Harrison has become a millionaire who can afford high-priced legal brains to keep his magazine out of court in most states.

Q Do you know of any way the scandal magazines can legally be put out of business?

A Possibly the best way would be for the Post Office Department to deny them mailing privileges, or for Congress to pass a law prohibiting the interstate passage of salacious material of that particular type.

GEORGE MURPHY is on the council now trying to guard Hollywood against scandal.

Q One scandal magazine claims it is read by 16,000,000 people, that the public wants this sort of material and that the magazine is filling a need. Do you believe that?

A No. People will read that sort of trash, because everyone wants to know what the other fellow is doing. Curiosity about people is part of human nature. But they'd just as soon buy any other magazine.

Q Is it true that the film industry wouldn't give you any help in cleaning up these scandal magazines?

A They wouldn't give me any practical help. I talked to various representatives, and they wrote letters and paid a lot of lip-service. But I never got any real help. Now the Motion Picture Industry Council is making a big effort to protect the industry. They've got a lot of fine men on the Council, like George Murphy. But I don't think they've got any power.

The only way you can prevent scandal is to control the private lives of human beings. That's impossible. Maybe you can tell the stars to be more careful in the future. But murder doesn't deter murder. And scandal doesn't deter scandal. Sometimes it actually breeds more.

Q In this recent trial Clark Gable, Corinne Calvet, Maureen O'Hara, Dorothy Dandridge and other stars were discussed. What effect do you think this will have on their careers?

A I don't know, but I certainly don't think they will be hurt at the box office. The public nowadays is much more tolerant, much more willing to forgive. The public also doesn't believe very much of this trash; so in many cases it turns out to be publicity for a star.

Are attorney Giesler's views typical of the movie colony? In general, yes.

When the scandal trial first got underway, panic reigned in Hollywood. Fearing subpoenas, stars took off in droves. Once the magazines were discredited, however, by admitting in court the kind of tipsters they employed, the panic quickly subsided.

Hollywood currently feels that the public no longer expects its screen heroes to be paragons of virtue who regularly pay off the mortgage, teach Sunday School and retire by 10 each night. The hero-worshiping era is finished, and Hollywood is reconciled to that fact — even happy about it.

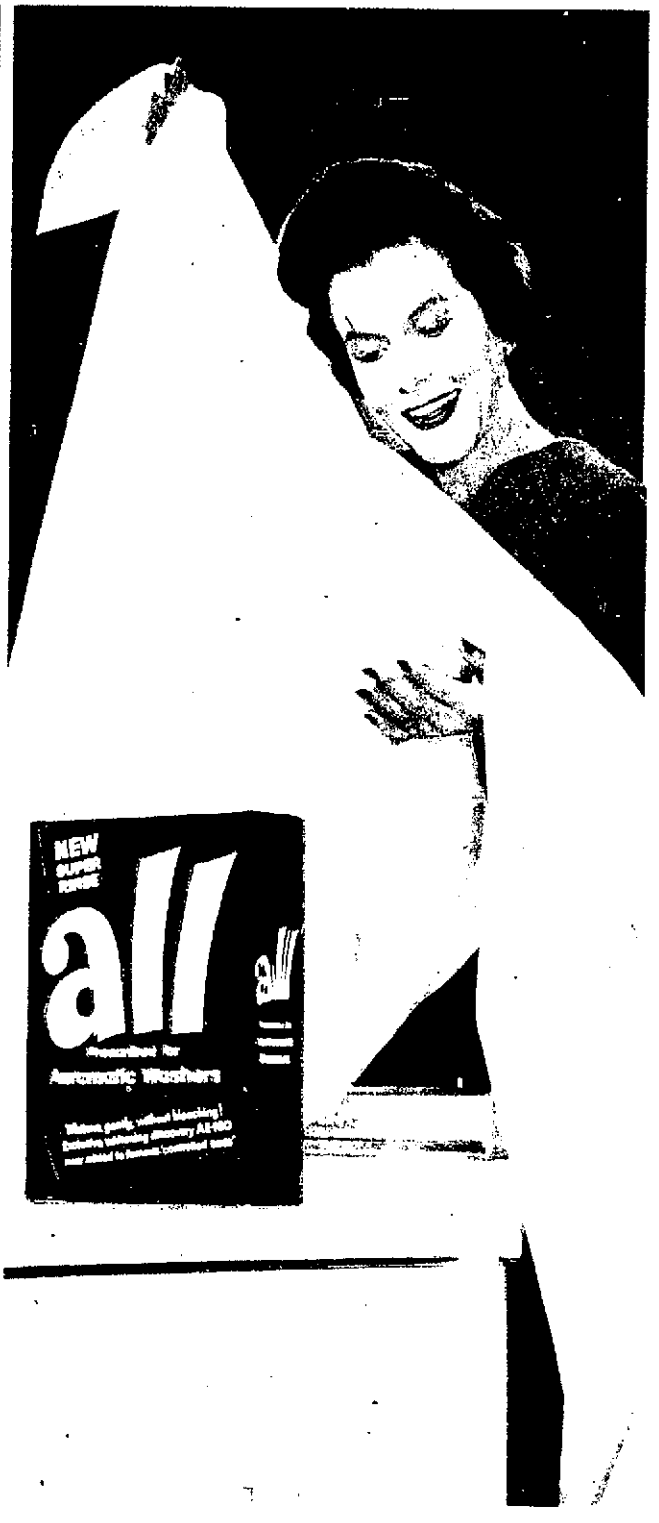

And some people here feel the scandal magazine trial gave Hollywood a well-needed shot in the arm. As one studio executive explained to me: "All this publicity makes us once again an industry peopled by colorful, exciting, uninhibited personalities. If our detractors say decency doesn't play a large part in our private lives, I always point to Jimmy Stewart. So long as we have Jimmy Stewart on our side, they can't knock us too much. Besides, in this business, it's better to be knocked than to be ignored." ■

Your automatic can now wash "yellowed" linens white again... without bleaching in new all with whitening discovery!

Before using all: Fine damask table linen was too yellowed by age or suds scum to use with pride. She heard how new all now washes yellowed whites white again without bleaching—and decided to try it.

After using all: Lovely, fresh-white again after only 3 washings in new all with exclusive whitening discovery, AE-160. New all can wash yellowed cottons, linens—even nylons—back to fresh-white, gently, without bleaching!

Anything washable in an automatic washer will wash whiter and cleaner with new all. In severe cases, where stains are deep set or dyes transfer, use a household bleach to help the whitening action of all.

Servicemen and automatic washer makers prescribe all with "controlled suds" for best washing results, best washer care. Clothes wash cleaner because more dirt rinses out.

Big families: New all costs less to use, even with AE-160, because all is condensed. One tablespoon outwashes three of thick-sudsing products. Use Super-Rinse all by the tablespoon instead of by the cupful... and save on every load of clothes you wash!

New Super-Rinse all with AE-160 is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers to do a better washing job in your automatic. Full purchase price refunded unless you agree.

SNATCHING a toy from baby Bill, Teba the ocelot leaps lithely from his playpen. He'll get it back later.

Love me, love my ocelot

EL TORO, CALIF.

You've seen that traditional pair, a boy and his dog — but have you ever seen a baby and his ocelot? You can here. The baby is Bill Hobbs, 8-month-old son of a Marine staff sergeant. The ocelot is Teba, 16 months old and as nice a pet as a crawling-age youngster could want. In the wild, ocelots range from Arkansas south to Paraguay, grow up to 4' long and are considered fierce. But a young one can be truly gentle — witness these pictures. The Hobbses usually keep Teba on a leash, but let her off when Dad is home. Then she plays with Bill like an affectionate house cat, grabbing his toys, racing with him, guarding him from possible harm — and occasionally licking him with her rasplike tongue to remind him that, after all, she's older than he is.

PACING her human playmate, Teba stalks as Bill crawls. ▶

Fluffy steamed pudding

Making a steamed pudding used to be quite a chore and chances were it would turn out soggy, not fluffy. So you'll love this new, quick, sure success way to make a light-as-air pudding, using cake mix.

To make the Pudding: Prepare 1 package cake mix (lemon flake, apple-chip, yellow or spice) as directed on package. Then, either: 1) Fill 10 or 12 well-greased custard cups 2/3 full. Cover tightly with foil. Steam 1/2 hour. Turn out at once; serve hot with Cherry Sauce (see . . .) or 2) Measure 2 cups of the batter into a greased five-cup mold; cover tightly; steam 1 1/2 hours. Loosen carefully; turn out on serving plate. Serve with Cherry Sauce. With remaining batter, make and bake one cake layer or six cup cakes; frost and serve for dessert the next day.

CHERRY SAUCE

1 can (1 lb.) red tart pitted cherries (packed in water)
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
Red food coloring
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Drain cherries. Measure liquid; add enough water to make 1 1/4 cups. Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan; gradually stir in cherry liquid. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil; boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in a few drops red food coloring. Add cherries, lemon juice, almond extract; mix well. Makes about 2 1/2 cups sauce.

A DRUM'S rat-a-tat-tat leads Union and Confederate Army "troops" side-by-side when the Skirmishers meet.

The Blue and the Gray march—for fun

MANASSAS JUNCTION, VA.

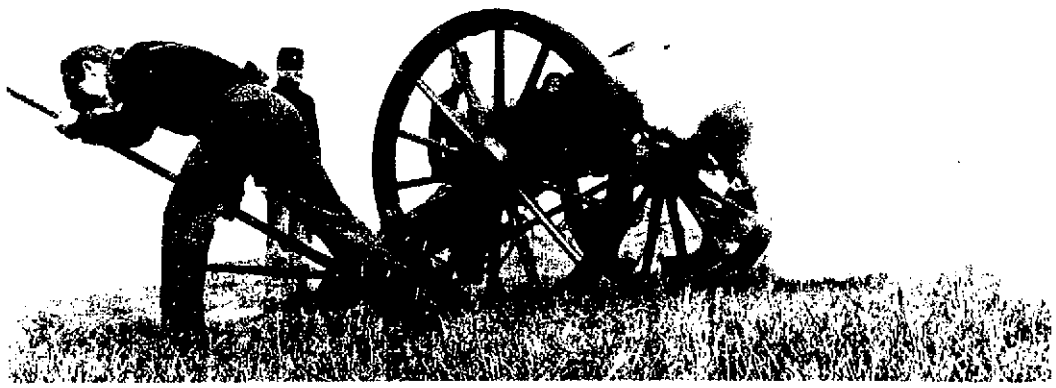

Tourists, visiting the Manassas National Battlefield Park near here one recent Sunday, stopped in their tracks aghast. A line of Union Army soldiers, resplendent in blue Civil War uniforms, swept across a grassy hill — the same hill where, 96 years before, the Confederate Army turned back Federal troops in the first battle of Bull Run. Then, a moment later, the air shrilled with Rebel yells. A band of Confederate soldiers scrambled up the hill after the Yankees. A bewildered tourist turned to a park guide, asked an explanation.

"They're members of the North-South Skirmish," said the guide, "a bunch of fellows who put on Civil War uniforms and shoot muskets and cannons." The guide chuckled. "If Grant and Lee were here today, they'd soon have their arms around each other in the spirit of things."

The Skirmishers came into being in 1950 when John Rawls of Washington, D. C., a historian and a Southerner, challenged Ernest Peterkin, a Naval Office employe and a Northerner, to a shooting match with muskets. They got up teams, named them the First Virginia Greys and the Washington Blue Rifles. Today there are 400 members with teams as far west as Michigan. Members must wear Civil War uniforms, fire only 1861-65 guns. The teams hold matches twice a year (one will be next week end in Quantico, Va.), often get together for picnics with wives and children in period costumes.

But as for actual warfare between the Blue and Gray teams? "That's long over," says Rawls. "Our purpose is friendship." ■

COUNTER REVOLUTION

Millions of wise motorists buy auto insurance over the counter at Sears or at an Allstate Insurance Center

And they often save more than 20%

It is no accident that Allstate Insurance can be bought at Sears. Allstate was founded by Sears—on the same low-overhead, big-volume, quality-for-less principle that made Sears famous for better values.

Better value with no fuss and feathers characterizes everything about Allstate.

For instance, we cut red tape in paying claims. Our adjusters all over the United States and Canada often write checks right on the spot.*

Our policies are printed in large type and plain language. You know exactly what you're buying.

You don't need glasses to read the large type in an Allstate policy.

Our streamlined operation results in lower rates to you. How much you save depends on the state where you live and how you use your car. Savings of 22% are common, and some folks save as much as 38% compared with rates charged by most other companies.

With insurance rates rising, why not compare values? Visit a Sears store or Allstate Insurance Center. Or an Allstate Agent will be glad to call at your home. Just look up "Allstate" in your phone book.

One final thought: When you telephone us the first words you hear are "Allstate—may we help you?" That's how we feel about our customers (nearly 4,000,000 of them) all the time . . . not just when we sell a policy.

The Families Nobody Wants—Part II

How the DiNofas

"NON-RESIDENT" CALIFORNIANS, the six DiNofas look determined as they pose for PARADE. Refused food and rent money by welfare, they had been sleeping in car.

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

Until they moved to California a year ago, Dominic and Jane DiNofa considered relief payments something remote — something other, poorer Americans turned to in desperation. Back home in Providence, R.I., DiNofa, a roofer, had worked steadily for 14 years. On his $74 a week, the family lived modestly in a rented house and owned a seven-year-old car.

Jane DiNofa, however, was an asthma victim; Rhode Island winters meant misery and medical bills. As her attacks grew worse, the family made a difficult decision to give up what they had and go west to a drier climate.

They set out in June, by car. It was a happy trip; the four children babbled excitedly about the cities they would see, and the movie stars. Dominic and Jane talked about how soon a man with a trade could be established in a job and "really settled down."

Six months later, DiNofa was jobless, hopeless and in need of relief. The man who never had thought of public welfare went to the Los Angeles Bureau of Public Assistance to ask for a small grubstake. What he received, instead, was the run-around. It was the same senseless, callous, costly run-around needy Americans on the move receive all over the U.S.

The Bureau quoted him the law: To qualify for relief in California, a person must live three years in the state, including a year in the county where he applies. DiNofa had been in California little more than six months. Legally, he was a non-resident.

In almost any other state, he would have met similar treatment. As PARADE learned in an extensive, months-long survey, every state but New York bases its relief program on a fear of supporting penniless "foreigners" from other parts of the country. It makes no difference that booming industry needs — even recruits — workers from other states. The laws are the same laws used in England 300 years ago to keep the poor tied to the land.

In most states, had DiNofa needed medical or psychiatric help (California is a notable exception), his request would have been measured by the same antique yardstick. In became 'stateless'

fact, except for his Rhode Island background, he might have forfeited his legal rights entirely. In all states, a person can lose residence as well as gain it. In some, he can lose it in minutes simply by showing "intent to leave." Thus many Americans – by one estimate 250,000 yearly – wind up "stateless," without legal residence anywhere.

DiNofa, however, still was a Rhode Island resident. Los Angeles would have been delighted to pay rail fare and meals "back home" for six DiNofas – a $260 plus item. DiNofa refused – for the first time in years, Jane's asthma was improving – and turned to the Travelers Aid Society. Today, with Travelers Aid help, DiNofa has a $66-a-week job. For the Bureau of Public Assistance he has only bitterness.

By his estimate, $40 or $50 – "$75 at the outside" – would have bridged the gap between a job layoff and an unemployment compensation check. Before the layoff, DiNofa had been convinced he was settled – he had enough confidence to pay off his union initiation fee in full even though it wasn't due. Thus when the bomb fell, the family was almost broke.

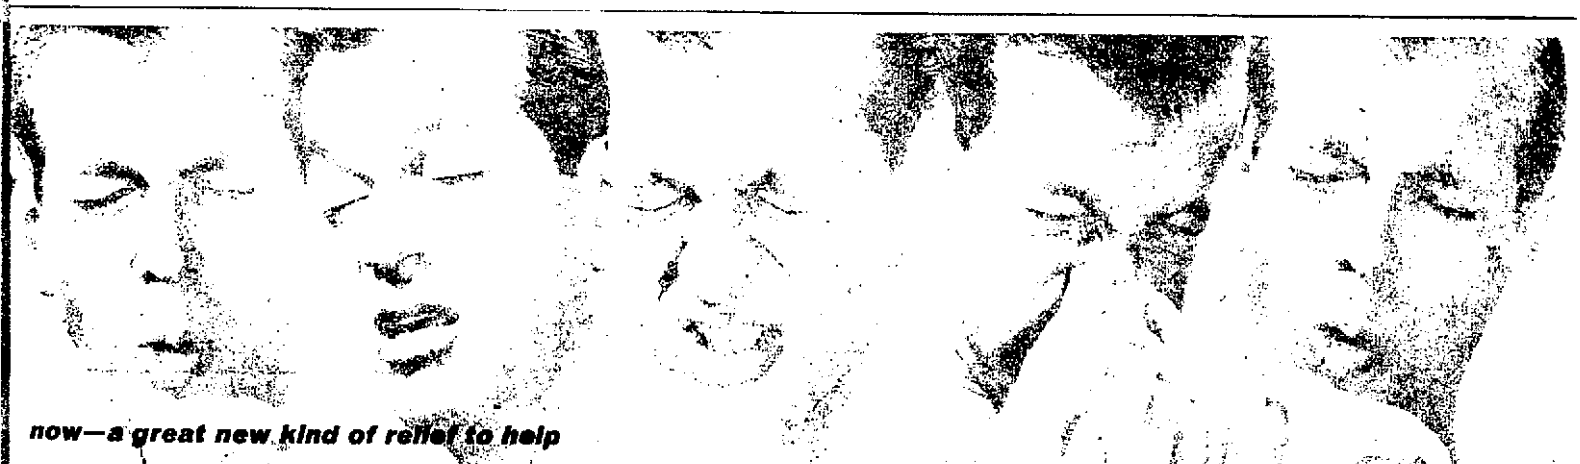

They moved first to a cheap rooming house; then, as their money trickled away, they spent two nights in the car. Finally all their food was gone. Still DiNofa insisted he could find a job. But when the children had been without food 24 hours and wept from hunger, he asked for help.

Yet all his heartache and near-starvation were unnecessary, welfare officials – public and private – agree. Laws assuming that all out-of-state residents are lazy and angling for a handout cost more than they save, these officials say. Insisting that each state care only for its own means days of tedious checking and mountains of paper work.

To back up this point, welfare workers point to New York. The state swept its antique settlement laws off the books in 1946, and since has used need as its only yardstick. In New York, all you have to do to get general relief or categorical assistance (aid to the blind, disabled, aged or dependent children) is be there. (Hawaii and Puerto Rico have a similar approach.) Yet last year, relief granted those who had been in the state less than a year made up less than 2 per cent of the relief outlay.

Actually, New York authorities believe the state spends less on relief than comparable states. The reason: closer investigation of applicants, so that money is doled out wisely and where needed. And who handles this counseling? The welfare workers who, in other states, would be too busy checking "legal residence."

Five views of residence laws

continued

LAURIN HYDE, National Travelers Aid Assn.: "Freedom of movement we take for granted — until we collide with residence laws. It is high time that 20th-century America toss into the discard a 17th-century Elizabethan law which denies the spirit of the times."

HENRY L. McCARTHY, New York City Welfare Commissioner: "You can't have your cake and eat it, too. You can't tell people you need more workers but won't take care of them if economic, social or health disaster occurs. I'm against such outmoded barriers."

America's stateless families can be helped

And studies in other states also have shown that well over 90 per cent of "non-resident" relief applicants are hard-working people interested in jobs, not handouts. But laws that have lasted 300 years die hard.

Recently Wisconsin passed a one-year residence law. During the battle in the legislature, the Wisconsin Welfare Council pointed out that only 1½ per cent of applicants had been in Wisconsin less than a year. Nonetheless, advocates of the bill insisted the state was playing Santa Claus to "lots of out-of-state people . . . coming . . . because of our liberal laws."

Generally, no one seems more emphatic in denouncing these laws than those who must wrestle with them day after day. A spokesman for the Los Angeles Bureau of Public Assistance, commenting on DiNofa's case, adds: "Remember, we're bound by the law."

"Personally, I think residence laws are antiquated and out of place in a modern society," says Oregon's attractive welfare director, Geraldine Derby. In Florida, California and Arizona— three states with strict and strictly enforced laws - PARADE heard the laws described by public-welfare officials as "unjust," "archaic," "senseless."

A Try That Failed

Most welfare workers blame the state legislatures; but in a few states, the welfare officials have refused to press for abolition or amendment of the laws. In March, 1956, Congressman Aime J. Forand of Rhode Island introduced a bill which would have simplified welfare programs nationally. (The Federal Government helps support aid to the blind, disabled, dependent, and aged; the states pass out the money and decide who shall be eligible. The states pay for general assistance, or poor relief.)

Forand proposed that each state submit a single, comprehensive plan for welfare of all types. The Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare would have power to approve or disapprove these plans before authorizing funds - except that no plan could be approved which included residence requirements.

The bill died in committee. Welfare officials, public and private, split; some were adamantly opposed to Federal intervention, others felt that the "stateless" were the concern of the whole nation, not any single state. A similar bill, introduced by Forand, in May, 1957, probably will meet the same fate.

Some of those who favor Federal supervision claim residence laws are unconstitutional. They conflict, this argument goes, with the provision forbidding a state from WASHING UP, Dominic and Jane DiNofa reflect on months of hardship. DiNofa now has steady job, and family has left hotel above for better quarters.

RAYMOND HILLIARD, Cook County, Ill., Welfare Commissioner: "The public is told high residence requirements will keep out indigents and cut expenditures. Bunk! People seek betterment regardless."

FEN HILDRETH, Arizona Commissioner of Welfare: "We presume that the higher the requirements, the less will have to be spent on welfare. It's not a good approach, but a lower requirement would mean a lot more people trying to get help."

W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON, Illinois state senator: "I want to blockade the apparently open avenue to this state of people who come here to take advantage of our liberal laws. I think residence laws are needed, and, what's more, should be strengthened."

—if you will come to their rescue

"abridging the privileges and immunities" of U.S. citizens. The Federal Government, however, does not favor this view. Charles I. Schottland, commissioner of Health, Education and Welfare, told PARADE:

"One of the fundamental concepts of the Social Security Act is that conditions will vary widely from state to state . . . We feel that it would be desirable for some states to relax or eliminate their residence requirements . . . however, this is quite different from requiring their elimination as a condition of receiving Federal funds . . ."

One proposal which has received support is for the Federal Government to handle all "stateless" persons and those whose legal residence anywhere is less than a year. Above that minimum, it would be up to the states. Other remedies also have been suggested:

- A uniform residence law for all programs in all states, eliminating the problem of the "stateless" and who's responsible for each applicant.
- An interstate agreement dealing with all welfare cases and the physically and mentally ill, under which states would agree to help each other's residents on the spot.

But abolition of all residence laws, not compromise, is the main goal of many welfare workers. In this fight, the National Travelers Aid Association has led the way. Its local societies know the agonies and despair involved better than anyone else.

Says the group in its statement of principles: "The right of free movement can be preserved only through removal of length of residence requirements." Among its supporters has been the American Red Cross, which is particularly concerned that servicemen's dependents often are ruled "non-residents." (Other victims include unwed mothers, stung when they leave home to avoid shame.)

The list of opponents to residence laws also includes, among others, these organizations: the AFL-CIO, the National Council on Alcoholism, the YWCA, the National Association for Mental Health. Yet no action, these agencies agree — not even a compromise step like an interstate agreement — can be taken until you and the rest of America campaign to give less lucky Americans a fair shake.

Of course, you haven't seen hungry children, pain-racked oldsters, dangerous psychotics frustrated and confounded by 300-year-old laws — as these agencies and PARADE reporters have. The problem is remote, as it was for the DiNofas until a few months ago. You never expect to need relief or free medical care. Maybe you never expect to move.

She Never Left Home

But you can stay home and still become entangled with residence laws, as Mrs. Emma Paust did. Mrs. Paust was born in New Jersey and never has left the state. Recently, she needed state psychiatric care — and was refused. The grounds for refusal went like this:

Years ago, Mrs. Paust married. Shortly afterwards, she and her husband separated and he moved to California. They never were divorced. Under New Jersey's residence law, a woman takes the legal residence of her husband. Thus Mrs. Paust was a "non-resident" of a state she never had left, and a "resident" of a state she never had seen!

In the bewildering world of the residence law, such travesties are not uncommon. To save a few pennies on paper, thousands of lives can be shattered. Today the web catches Emma Paust and the DiNofas; tomorrow it could be you or someone you know. It can be — unless you do something about it. ■

Machamer

Hal March, witty emcee of The $64,000 Question (CBS-TV, Tuesday nights), found wit aplenty in these cartoons by Jefferson Machamer. The Nebraska-born artist now lives in Santa Monica, Calif., where he founded his own art school. He is married to actress Pauline Moore, has three children and a "solid-gold granddaughter, 2." His hobby: sharpening lawn-mowers at 50¢ each. ■

AMAZING OFFER TO READERS OF THIS NEWSPAPER

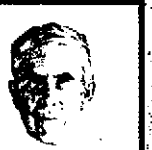

THE COLLECTED WORKS OF

Zane Grey

IN ONE MAGNIFICENT MATCHED LIBRARY SERIES

The New "Golden West De Luxe Edition"

Bound in handsome buckram and cloth, in glowing shades of red, tan, blue. Stamped in genuine gold. Luxurious volumes you will be proud to display!

ZANE GREY

Most beloved Western story teller of all time. The blood of Indian chiefs flowed through his veins, and he actually lived the rugged life made famous in his exciting books.

Now Ready! Your First Volume

THE DUDE RANGER

One of the Latest Zane Grey Masterpieces

SUPPOSE YOU were an Eastern "tenderfoot"... and suddenly your uncle died and left you a huge cattle ranch in Arizona! And suppose one of the first things you learned was that the cattle had been mysteriously disappearing!

Ernest Selby decided to find out for himself. He traveled to Arizona and applied for a job as a cowboy at his own ranch—under another name. But as soon as he did, he found himself up to his ears in trouble! The cowboys accused him of having arranged a fake stagecoach robbery. The ranch boss's flirtatious daughter, Anne, made him fall in love with her—then laughed at him! And Dude, the handsome cowboy who considered Anne his property, started a violent feud with Ernest that HAD TO end in sure death for ONE of them!

You'll thrill to every page of this sweeping action-crammed epic of a lone Easterner's fight for Western justice against overwhelming odds!

All the Glory of the Old West—Its Sweeping Action, Color and Romance—Recaptured in Beautiful Volumes Your Family Will Be Proud to Own

HERE is an amazing opportunity! Now you can bring into your home The Collected Works of ZANE GREY — in beautiful matched volumes, "Golden West De Luxe Editions."

WHO can read Zane Grey's tales and not be swept away by their colorful action, their breath-taking thrills, their blood-tingling excitement? here are fearless men and the women they fought for; ruthless desperadoes and trigger-quick outlaws. Here is the roar of blazing guns—and the awe-inspiring silence of prairie and canyon.

How proud you will be to display these volumes in this luxurious edition — each book gorgeously bound in beautiful buckram and sturdy cloth! Yet, because of a tremendous first printing, these handsome volumes come to you for less than the price of ordinary books!

Just picture them in your home — and imagine the world of pleasure they will open up to your family! The partial list that follows gives you only an inkling of the thrills that await you:

1. THE DUDE RANGER. See description above.
2. RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE. Brave days of old Utah—drenched with blood of men who gambled their lives for adventure, gold!
3. WILDFIRE. The tempestuous story of a great wild stallion, a fiery girl—and the man who was strong enough to tame them both!
4. ARIZONA AMES. His blazing six-shooter spread terror among the toughest badmen!
5. SHADOW ON THE TRAIL. Quick-shooting Wade Holden fights with rawhide-tough rustlers.
6. ROGUE RIVER FEUD. Violence and death on Rogue River, where men stopped at nothing to win the high stakes of the rich salmon runs.
7. DESERT GOLD. Spine-tingling adventures of men and women crazed by the lure of riches.
8. WEST OF THE PECOS. Into this land of the lawless came a hard-riding, straight-shooting young man—who turned out to be a girl!
9. THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS. Mighty epic of warfare on the border, throbbing with rip-roaring excitement!
10. CALL OF THE CANYON. Smashing drama of death and danger—racing to a climax that leaves you breathless!
11. 30,000 ON THE HOOF. Pioneer Huett battles screaming Indians and lawless rustlers in gun-bristling Arizona.
12. WILD HORSE MESA. Panquitch, the phantom stallion, was a symbol of adventure. A resolute party sets out to capture him, and runs head-on into a storm of intrigue.

The other great volumes, of which space does not permit description, include: 13. THE VANISHING AMERICAN; 14. FIGHTING CARAVANS; 15. THE HASH KNIFE OUTFIT; 16. THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER; 17. TWIN SOMBREROS; 18. THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT; 19. WESTERN UNION; 20. UNDER THE TONTO RIM; 21. ROBBERS' ROOST; 22. SHEPHERD OF GUADALOUPE; 23. THUNDER MOUNTAIN; 24. TO THE LAST MAN; 25. THE MAN OF THE FOREST. Every one is complete—not a thrilling word is cut!

LANCE

WARREN TUFTS

SHE MIGHT'VE BEEN A WHITE GAL ONCE'T BUT SHE'S ALL BLACKFOOT NOW! SHE DON'T TRUST WHITES AND SHE DON'T LIKE YOUR SHOTGUN TREATY WITH HER FOLKS! SHE AIMS T'BUST IT BY GIT-TIN' YEW!

MEN, THIS GIRL IS A KILLER! SHE WILL BE OUR PRISONER UNDER 24-HOUR GUARD. I GIVE FAIR WARNING: I'LL BREAK THE BACK OF ANY MAN TRYING TO BEFRIEND HER!

BREAK CAMP! WE MOVE ON THE GALLOP IN TEN MINUTES!

WE'LL FIGURE OUT WHAT TO DO WITH HER AFTER WE CLEAR BLACKFOOT COUNTRY...

SHE'LL PASS! LET'S MOVE OUT!

YESSIR, BOY, THIS JIST PROVES THERE AIN'T MUCH POINT TO LIFE! MILLIONS O' MILES FROM NOWHERE...HAIN'T SEEN A GIRL IN WEEKS AND WEEKS AND WEEKS...AN', THEN HERE COMES THIS BEE-YOO-TI-FUL CREATURE! —AN' IT TURNS OUT SHE'S GOT A LEANIN' FOR KILLIN' PEOPLE! OH, ME!

YESSIR, BOY, IT MAKES Y'WONDER: IS IT WORTH A BROKE BACK TO BEFRIEND HER?? —CUZ I COULD BEFRIEND HER REAL GOOD, I COULD..

HEY, YOU LISTENIN' TO ME, BOY? WASSAMATTER, YOU SICK OR SOMETHIN'?

POGO

SO YOU HEARS UNSEEN VOICES?

YEP...I HEARS DISEMBODIED TONES.

LIKE WHAT, FOR A NINSTANCE?

LIKE UNTO THE VOICE OF dd A ANGEL 99

HEAR 'EM? FROM ABOVE, SORTA.

WELL, I HEARS 'EM... SAME AS YOU -- BUT WHAT YOU GOTTA DO IS DON'T GET PANICKY, DICKEY. -- DON'T CUT AN' RUN, SON! DON'T SHOW THE WHITE FEATHER, FATHER!

YOU MEAN IT AIN'T SERIOUS? HEARIN' UNSEEN VOICES?

OH, HEARIN' UNSEEN VOICES AIN'T LIKE A DISEASE... IT'S PROB'LY ALL IN THE MIND... JUST DON'T GO SCAT, CAT... DON'T DROP DEAD, FRED.. DON'T GO MAD, DAD... DON'T TAKE IT ON THE LAM, SAM.

HOW COULD IT BE C'ES' IN MY MIND? YOU SAYS YOU HEARN 'EM TOO!

SO DO I!

THE VOICE OF THE UNSEEN VOICE, AGAIN!

IT GOT A CERTAIN ERIE QUALITY... LIKE A R.R. TRAIN OR A BIG LAKE GARBAGE BOAT.

OH, WHIST, MY LUMP, MY LOVE IS TRUMP.

GOR BLIMEY.

AS NEAR AS I CAN FIGGER, FRIEND, YOUR HEAD GOT HOLES IN IT... LITTLE WEAK PLACES WHERE YOUR THOUGHTS LEAK OUT.

FACT?

YEP..AN' WHEN YOUR TERRIFIC BRAIN POWER BUILDS UP THE PRESSURE TO A POINT WHERE OTHERELSE YOU'D EX-PLODE YOUR HEAD OFF, WHY THESE LI'L SAFETY VALVES OPENS AND OUT SQUEAKS YOUR THOUGHTS.

DOGGONE!

10-6 THE HALL SYNDICATE, INC.

I IS A SORT OF FASCINATIN' STUDY, AIN'T I?

OH FEARLESS FRED, THE FOOTPAD DREAD, PUT POTATOES ON PATER'S HEAD.

IT'S A PITY SOME OF THESE THOUGHTS OF YOURS AIN'T BEIN' RECORDED INSTEAD OF FREE-BOOTED TO THE FOUR WINDS, SO TO SPEAK.

I KNOW... SOME OF 'EM, LIKE THAT LAST ONE, I NEVER HEARD MYSELF AFORE.

A VALUABLE GARDEN OF TREASURE IS BEIN' ALLOWED TO GO TO SEED.

WHAT A LOGS.. LISTEN TO HOW BRIGHT I IS.

OH PRITHEE, DIDST THOU GLADLY GLOW? THE GLIMMER OF THE GLEAMING SNOW? OH BLOWLY BLUE THE IC IGLOO AHA AND... ...

A PITY.

"HERE MUST I STAY, AND HERE MY LIFE MUST END." SHAKESPEARE... SAM WILL STAY... AS TO ENDING HIS LIFE, SAM GLADLY WILL LET OTHERS GO FIRST...

WE HEARD IT ALL FROM TH' BACK ROOM... HE'S A SMART PUNK, EH?

THAT BUCKO FIGGERS TO MAKE YUH TROUBLE, WOLF!

AR-R-R... I'VE GOT THE LAW... WHAT CAN HE DO? I'VE HANDLED PLENTY TOUGHER ONES THAN HIM BEFORE THIS!

INCLUDIN' HIS OLD MAN... AND HIS GRAN'PAPPY AFORE HIM, SOME SAY... EH, BOSS?

I SAW YOU COME FROM LAWYER WOLF GNAF'S OFFICE... SIT DOWN, SAM, MY BOY...

MR. PULPWOOD, YOU'RE A NEWSPAPERMAN... YOU CAN HELP ME...

WELL, MAYBE... GLAD TO DO WHAT I CAN... GET SOME BAD NEWS, DID YOU?

GNAF CLAIMS MY FATHER, JOHN SUNDOWN, SIGNED EVERYTHING TO HIM, BEFORE HE WAS KILLED...

I HEARD SO... LIKE AS NOT TRUE... NEEDN'T RECORD IT HEREABOUTS TO MAKE IT LEGAL...

I BELIEVE GNAF THEN HAD MY DAD KILLED, OR DID IT HIMSELF...

IF YOU CAN HELP ME PROVE THAT... BY THE NEWSPAPER FILES FOR 1930... BY WITNESSES...

WHOA! I WAS SENT OUT HERE AS A YOUNG MAN TO DIE, BUT FROM T. B... NOT FROM GUNSHOT WOUNDS...

OLD NEWSPAPERS MIGHT HELP... HE WOULDN'T HAVE LEFT ANY WITNESSES... AND IF NOW HE GETS THE IDEA...

...THAT YOU'RE TRYING TO HELP ME...? YES! I SEE YOUR POINT...

SON, I LIKE YOU... HATE TO SEE A GOOD MAN GET KILLED... BUT IF YOU STAY HERE ANOTHER WEEK I WOULDN'T BET TEN CENTS YOU'LL BE ALIVE THAT LONG...

I'LL BE ALIVE!

HE'S ALL BAD, SAM... HE'S A DANGEROUS MAN TO TANGLE WITH!

SO AM I!

WITHOUT THE WOLF, CARIBOU HERDS OF THE BLEAK ALASKAN MOUNTAIN RANGES MIGHT EVENTUALLY DISAPPEAR

LICHENS AND MOSS ARE SCARCE ON THE WINDSWEPT SLOPES, AND EACH SEASON MORE CARIBOU ARE BORN THAN THE LAND WILL SUPPORT

BUT THE WAITING WOLF PACK PICKS OFF THE WEAKER STRAGGLERS, LEAVING THE REMAINING HERD STRONG AND HEALTHY

ALSO, THE LEFTOVERS OF THE WOLF'S FEAST ARE EAGERLY DEVOURED BY THE GRIZZLY BEAR, FOX AND LYNX

SO ACTUALLY ALL THESE ANIMALS DEPEND ON THE WOLF...

FOR WITHOUT THIS EFFICIENT PREDATOR THERE WOULD HARDLY BE ENOUGH FOOD IN THIS HOSTILE LAND TO SUSTAIN OTHER ANIMAL LIFE

TRAIL WAYS

IN MANY INSTANCES DIFFERENT FORMS OF WILDLIFE ARE SO DEPENDENT UPON EACH OTHER THAT SHOULD ONE TYPE BE ELIMINATED, OTHERS WOULD SUFFER AND PERHAPS ALSO DISAPPEAR

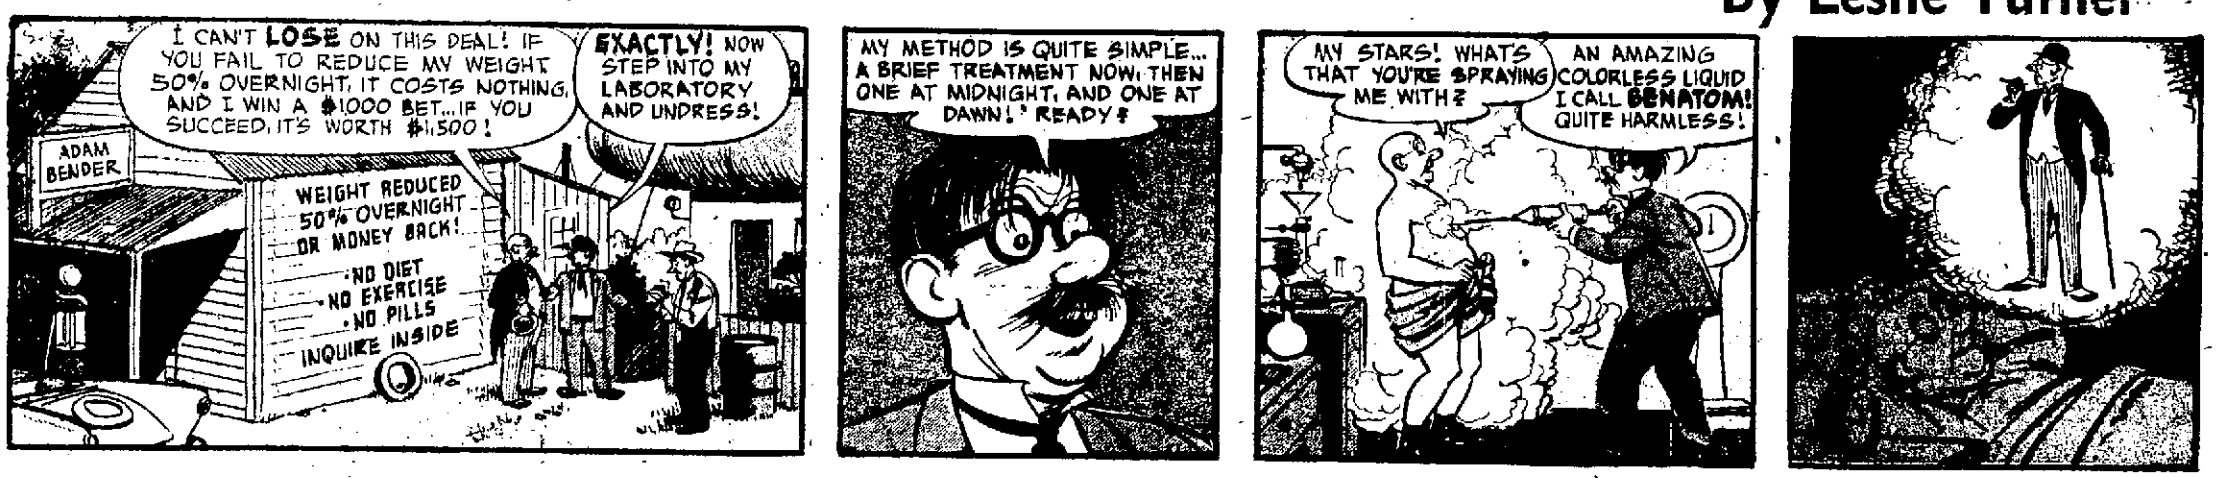

EVEN NOW DEER IN MANY AREAS HAVE BECOME SO NUMEROUS THAT WINTER FINDS THEM WITH THEIR FOOD SUPPLY EXHAUSTED

FORMERLY THESE ANIMALS WERE HELD IN CHECK BY THE WOLF AND MOUNTAIN LION, BUT WITH THESE PREDATORS REMOVED, THE DEER NOW OFTEN OVERPOPULATE AND SO DIE OF STARVATION

Dulles Meets Gromyko in 'Helpful' Talk

U.S., Russ Stands on Disarmament, Mideast Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko announced after a long conference Saturday that they had held "helpful" talks on major East-West issues including the Middle East and disarmament.

Dulles, it was further reported, brought up to Gromyko what he called the need for reunification of Germany but the Russian minister declined to talk about that problem on the ground that it was not a proper subject for him to discuss.

* * * *

A COMMUNIQUE jointly agreed on by Dulles and Gromyko at their unprecedented 3-hour, 45-minute conference in the study of Dulles' home said that four major topics were discussed. They were listed as the Middle East disarmament, the situation in Europe, and U.S.-Soviet contacts.

Gromyko on emerging from Dulles' house and after a friendly farewell handshake from the secretary of state said that he thought the conversation "was useful" in clarifying the relative positions of the Washington and Moscow governments on the problems discussed.

Gromyko had come to Washington by train from New York earlier in the day.

Not Likely Anyone Has Seen 'Moon'

Has anyone actually seen earth's new moon?

No, say scientists at Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. At least no one in the United States.

Their reasons: At dusk or dawn, the Russian satellite's orbit does not place it over the U. S. It can't be seen at night, for it has no light. And it can't be seen in daylight because of the sun's brilliance.

MYSTERIOUS SOVIET RADIO SIGNAL HEARD

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio Corp. of America experts Saturday reported picking up a mysterious radio signal on one of the same frequencies as the satellite transmissions — but apparently coming from a ground station believed near Moscow.

"What its purpose is we don't know, but can only guess," said the spokesman.

"Our experts think it may be some kind of a signal put out by the Russians to check on the satellite's signal. How that would be done we don't know, either."

Russ 'Moon' No Surprise to U.S., Says L.B. Expert

Russia's launching of the first man-made satellite comes as no surprise to U. S. scientists, a Long Beach City College physicist disclosed here Saturday.

Consequently, the physicist, Dr. Myron S. Allen, doesn't expect a U. S. crash program to get another moon into space. "We had the tipoff a year ago last August when they (the Soviet Union) announced they would make the shot this year," Dr. Allen said.

DR. MYRON S. ALLEN
'Had the Tipoff'

"At the same time, we were advised by a spokesman for the national committee of the International Geophysical Year that it was unlikely we would launch a satellite this year," he added.

Dr. Allen was commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Research Company 11-4, in Compton, until last July 1. He now is on sabbatical leave from City College and will continue scientific visitations as he did while researching the Navy's administration of the Project Vanguard satellite program.

* * * *

DR. ALLEN EXPLAINED that control of propulsion seems to be responsible for this nation's delay in getting an artificial moon spacebound.

It's a matter of precise control, Dr. Allen said. Although there has been pro and con expression on the adequacy of the first stage of the three-stage satellite rocket, that first stage (the one which will blast the moon 40 miles high) apparently lacks the complications which the second has.

Apparently faulty timing—defects wrought by the thousands of feet per second acceleration of the rocket—may be the bottleneck for second-stage success.

Now the third stage, says Dr. Allen, "is completely under control according to assurances given us even though that stage is one of phenomenally delicate orientation. That is, the third-stage propulsion on solid fuel must orient the rocket on a path parallel to the earth's surface and it must be a path accurate within five degrees, plus or minus."

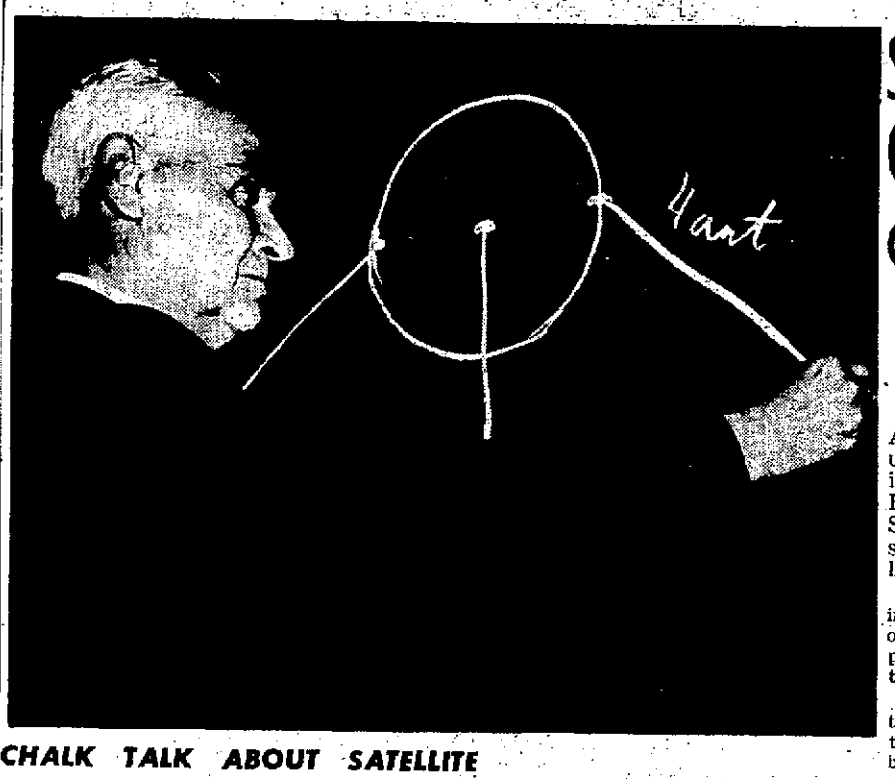

Forbidden to speculate on the time of a United States satellite launching, Dr. Allen did point out that the United States system for tracking is in good shape and very precise. It will track the American satellite, oscillating over a band 40 degrees above and below the equator.

* * * *

"THERE'S NO QUESTION but that the satellite launching Friday is an international development," said Dr. Allen. "Both American and Russian rocket work is based heavily on research done by Germans, some of whom are in our camp and some with the Russians."

Dr. Allen said the Soviet Union is committed to share the satellite findings with other nations with whom they are par-

CHALK TALK ABOUT SATELLITE

Symington Asks for Investigation; Army Chiefs Irked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A demand was heard Saturday for a congressional investigation of why Red Russia beat the United States into the realm of space with an earth satellite.

It was voiced by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), long-time critic of Eisenhower Administration policy in the military and scientific fields.

The Soviet feat also stirred the hot embers of rivalry between the armed services. Rumblings were heard from backers of the Army that if that branch of the service had charge of the satellite program, it could have beaten the Russians to the punch. The Navy has principal responsibility for the baby moon undertaking.

Meanwhile the White House insisted there was no race and that the Soviet satellite launching came as no surprise. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who gave out this word, did not elaborate on his "no surprise" remark.

* * * *

HE SAID THE EVENT is "of course of great scientific interest" and should contribute much to the world's knowledge.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force and a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, gave his views in a telephone interview from Missouri.

"This is a very serious matter that cannot be laughed off," he said.

Relating the satellite launching to Russia's claims of great progress in the military missiles field, Symington said:

"Unless our defense policies

U.S. May Tell Data on Faubus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said Saturday the administration is considering whether to make public certain information that played a part in President Eisenhower's decision to send federal troops into Little Rock, Ark.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the Justice Department is studying the question of releasing the information from its files on the school integration dispute in the Arkansas city.

Hagerty said the data was given to Eisenhower before he decided to use federal troops to enforce court orders requiring integration of Little Rock's Central High School.

* * * *

SENS. MANSFIELD (D-Mont) and Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland have urged the disclosure of information the government has kept secret concerning events at Little Rock. McKeldin was one of four Southern governors who earlier this week made a fruitless effort to mediate the federal-state dispute.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus was "sitting tight and saying nothing" Saturday in the belief that time was on his side in the deadlocked dispute over withdrawal of federal troops from integrated Central High School.

The Arkansas governor, who had previously been seizing every opportunity to present his views to the press and public, went incommunicado Saturday. Telephones at the governor's mansion and at his state capitol office were not answered.

Sources close to Faubus said he adopted the tactic of silent waiting because he is convinced that the pressure of public opinion will compel the White House to make the next move to break the stalemate.

EMPLOYERS NEXT

Solons Plan Quiz on Anti-Unionism

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate labor rackets committee will investigate "improper or illegal efforts" of certain employers to keep unions out of their plants, Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Saturday.

He said the committee's next public hearings, beginning Oct. 21, will concern "certain anti-union activities of employers who had retained Nathan W. Shefferman . . . and the role Shefferman and his staff played."

Kennedy outlined a tentative schedule which would keep the committee busy most of the fall. It apparently left no time for any extended return engagement of Teamsters' Union President-elect James R. Hoffa, swept into office at his union's convention Friday despite corruption charges fired by the committee and a blunt warning by the AFL-CIO to drop him or risk expulsion.

Kennedy said that after two or three weeks of hearings on Shefferman, the committee would investigate alleged violence by Teamsters' Union officials in Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn. and neighboring states.

After that, he said, the committee is expected to investigate the garbage-hauling business in New York, reported for years to be racket-ridden. Kennedy said the investigation would involve the Teamsters but would center on "associations" which conduct the multi-million-dollar business.

Finally, he said, the committee may take testimony from experts on suggested legislation to correct abuses it has discovered.

Hoffa Seeks Unity, Plans Peace Move

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James R. Hoffa worked Saturday to get rival Teamsters' Union factions to close ranks and gird for a coming battle to avoid expulsion from the AFL-CIO.

Dave Beck, retiring union president, proposed a 10-million-dollar Teamsters' battle fund to be ready for use against rival unions in the event the Teamsters are ousted from the parent labor body on corruption charges.

But Hoffa, now in full command of the 1½-million-member union, said he was opposed to Beck's plan and intended to work hard to keep the Teamsters inside the AFL-CIO family.

Hoffa was overwhelmingly elected by a 3-1 margin as Beck's successor by Teamster convention delegates Friday and actually is to take over from Beck on Oct. 15.

Plainly irked at Beck's proposal, Hoffa said he would never "fire the first shot in a civil war in the American labor movement."

Lebanon Arrests 7 as Bombing Suspects

BEIRUT (AP) — Lebanon's security department announced Saturday the arrest of seven pesons charged with bombing newspaper plants and other institutions.

Warsaw Rioters Still Defy Police

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP)—Communist riot police charged angry crowds in Constitution Square again Saturday night with tear gas and noise bombs in new disorders after two nights of student freedom uprisings.

The student targets for beatings and bombings Thursday and Friday nights because they protested suppression of their paper Po Prostu, stayed off the streets Saturday night.

But their anger at government and party heads had spilled over into the general population. Crowds gathered in Constitution Square, scene of violent attacks on the students Friday night.

The riot squads moved into the square from their stations. The crowds picked up stones and bricks from wartime rubble areas and hurled them at the steel-helmeted police.

* * * *

THE POLICE THEN charged with noise bombs and tear-gas grenades. The crowd gave way, then reformed in defiant groups of about 50, each on one side of the square.

Other groups clustered in the courtyards of undamaged homes in neighboring streets.

The police threw a cordon around the square.

But even while the gas clouds billowed, traffic kept moving. Yachts sailed under bleak gray skies on the Vistula River. Parents accompanied students to a university ceremony, a half mile across town from the Warsaw Polytechnic School, center of the student resistance.

Just how the Constitution Square disturbance started was not immediately clear.

A Western witness said the Constitution Square rioting began when a crowd of boys, 12 to 15 years old, threw stones

5 Injured, 2 Seriously, in 4-Car Crash

SANTA FE SPRINGS — A four-car collision at the intersection of Telegraph Rd. and Painter Ave. Saturday injured five persons, two of them seriously.

Taken to Carobil Hospital with major injuries were Inocencio P. Espinoza, 32, and Mrs. Gloria Alice Gambina, 25, both of South Whittier, drivers of two of the vehicles.

Also treated at the hospital were three children of Mrs. Gambina, Ted, 8; Steven, 7, and Christine, 3.

The drivers of the two other vehicles were identified as Joseph J. Dongara, 33, of La Habra, and Rose T. Tao, 35, of Whittier.

USS Nautilus Ties Up in French Port

LE HAVRE, France (AP)—The U. S. atomic submarine Nautilus, fresh from NATO maneuvers in the North Atlantic, tied up at this port Saturday for a five-day stay.

French and U.S. Navy security patrols closed off the docks to all but authorized personnel. The crew will take some liberty in Paris.

Girard's Buddy Says Told to Lie,

MAEBASHI, Japan (UP)—SP3C William S. Girard's Army buddy testified in court Saturday that Girard twice ordered him to lie about what happened when the Illinois soldier killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

SP3C Victor N. Nickel said it was because of Girard's orders that he first told a false story which he later retracted.

* * * *

NICKEL, of Inkster, Mich., was with Girard on Hill 655 at the Camp Weir firing range Jan. 30. Girard fired a used cartridge case into the back of Mrs. Sakai from the grenade launcher on his M-1 rifle while she was gathering used shells to sell as scrap.

Nickel originally said that Girard fired only one shot from the hip in an effort to frighten the woman and that no one scattered empty shells to lure her near. He later reversed himself, saying Girard fired two shots from the shoulder and that he himself scattered shells at Girard's request.

The prosecution asked Nickel if Girard ever told him what to say.

"I was told by Girard to say that I heard no shot and threw no brass," Nickel said.

* * * *

"IF ANYBODY asks you," he quoted Girard, "We didn't hear no shots and we threw no brass."

Later, Nickel said, Girard told him, "If anyone ever asks any questions about this" (rifle position), how I held the weapon, I held it at my hip and fired one shot."

Nickel also testified that Girard fired cartridges three times at Japanese shell pickers before killing Mrs. Sakai.

11 Killed as Quake, Storm Hit Islands

TUNIS (AP) — A quake and windstorm hit the Kernennah Islands in succession Saturday and official sources reported 11 persons were killed in the village of Kratten.

Officials said 130 of the villagers were injured in the quake, which struck shortly after midnight. The storm that followed destroyed 150 homes.

TARHEELS WIN

Navy's Loss Saturday's Big Upset

Most of the top football teams in the nation came through with expected victories Saturday but Navy jeopardized its lofty position and threw the race for eastern laurels into a scramble by losing to North Carolina, 13-7, in the day's biggest upset.

Top-ranked Oklahoma, running into unexpectedly rugged opposition from Iowa State, nevertheless rolled to its 42nd consecutive victory, 40-14.

In the World Series, the New York Yankees take a 2-1 edge over Milwaukee into this morning's fourth game as the result of a 12-3 triumph Saturday.

Minnesota, Michigan State, Iowa and Oregon State—all ranked in the top 10—ran into trouble but managed to keep their slates unblemished. Minnesota eked out a 21-17 win over Purdue; Michigan State downed California in the nationally televised game, 19-0; Iowa pulled the game out of the fire in the last four minutes to beat Washington State, 20-13; and Oregon State overcame Northwestern, 22-13.

What Good Is a Satellite?

Here are the Answers Minus Technicalities

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK (AP)—A primer on the first explorations of space:

Earth satellite: A man-made object fired into space so it circles the earth—just as our natural moon does.

Why it stays up: Ordinarily anything that goes up has to come down, through pull of gravity. But the baby moon is sent whizzing at a speed which counter-balances gravity pull, and so keeps it swinging in a circle or ellipse. This speed has to be about 18,000 miles an hour. It's like swinging a ball on the end of a string around your head.

How it's hung in the sky: A multi-stage rocket fires off from the ground, curving as it rises. At the top of its flight, the last stage of the rocket and the attached moon are parallel to the earth's surface. The last rocket kicks the moon forward at the necessary speed.

Why it ultimately comes down: Even way out in space, there's still some air. Billions of collisions with individual molecules of air finally take effect, slowing the moon down.

Final fate: The baby moon falls lower, into the earth's thicker atmosphere. Air friction heats it up, burns it up. The same thing happens to shooting stars you see at night. Tiny meteorites heat and glow as they plunge through the earth's atmosphere. Like meteorites, the satellite too will become traces of dust falling gently to earth.

Why send them up: The hazards in and make-up of space must be learned before we ever attempt human trips out there, or to the moon.

Equally important, baby moons are the best way to solve puzzles about the sun, space and earth.

How satellites report back: By radios, in code received and translated on the ground.

Length of life: Days to many years, depending on orbit and speed.

How they're found after launching: By radio signals beamed earthward. Or by special teams of observers, each watching a tiny bit of the sky along the expected path. A number of such "fixes" give the orbit.

Visibility: You could catch a glimpse, with binoculars, if scientists plot time-tables and sky areas for your locality.

L.A.C. Says:

A Way of Life

Added to the curriculum of our high schools this year will be "The Four Way Test." It will be presented as a "Design for Better Living." In his foreword, Superintendent Douglas Newcomb says: "Professions and occupations in the industrial world have adopted standards in recent years that serve as guides to moral conduct and ethical practice. The Four Way Test is one of those standards that is in operation throughout the world—students in our schools can benefit from the utilization of guides, such as The Four Way Test, that help in building integrity into daily dealing."

The Four Way Test is a simple set of principles which can be applied to most of the decisions in our daily lives. They are as follows:

Is it the truth?

It is fair to all concerned?

Will it build good will and better friendships?

Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

In the presentation to be used by the teachers we find inspiring thoughts such as "Developing ethical values is one of the most difficult but most rewarding tasks of education. The material in the guide has been prepared as one more tool to aid the teacher in building desirable attitudes and pattern of behavior in the lives of young people. It is based upon the premise that knowledge of the rules of the game, of the right and desirable ways of doing things, is not enough. There must also be a desire to apply this knowledge in a given direction.

"It is emphasized that mere moraliging will not secure the optimum acceptance of the Four Way Test. If ethical codes are to be at all effective in our lives, these codes must not only be learned, we must also be shown how and where they apply. When we memorize material to whatever point of perfection, we have the job but half done. If this material is to be of any use to us, we must see for ourselves how we can use it."

The attitude of our school administration as shown by the above quotation's should call for the greatest interest and cooperation of parents and students. It is a way of living that can be adapted to the field of sports as well as to the business and professions into which the young people will later enter. It can be applied to the family life and to the political activities of our community. But it calls for individual responsibility of each person who believes in such principles as those found in the Four Way Test.—L. A. C.

L.B. Woman Killed in Traffic Accident

A 69-year-old Long Beach woman was injured fatally in a car crash here Saturday.

She was Mrs. May L. Junier, 2366 Fashion Ave., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Joe Henry.

The Junier auto and one driven by Samuel Williams, 1637 Cowles Ave., collided at Adriatic Ave. and 25th St. Williams was cited for not having a driver's license.

TWO PERSONS were injured in other traffic accidents Saturday.

A two-car collision at Atlantic Ave. and San Antonio Way hospitalized Ross W. Husted, 18, of 607 Brookhurst Ave., Fullerton. Seaside Hospital attendants said he suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. The other driver, Carmenia Ramos, 17916 S. Jersey St., Artesia, was uninjured.

Aural Leon Heinselman, 24, of 1114½ Via Wanda, suffered possible head and back injuries when his car collided with one driven by Victor E. Bray of Idaho Falls, Idaho, at Atlantic Ave. and 53rd St. Heinselman was treated at Community Hospital. Bray was uninjured.

Epoch-Making Satellite Fascinates the World

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's epoch-making earth satellite sped 'round and 'round a fascinated world Saturday, sending what may be messages in secret code back to its creators in the Soviet Union.

As it circled the globe every 96.2 minutes, 560 miles out in space, the Western world's scientists knew it was there because they could pick up its radio signals.

But they experienced great difficulty in spotting it visually. Although there were some scattered reports that it had been seen, these were disputed, and there was some feeling that it might never be spotted except by Russians.

THE SATELLITE'S course around the globe from north to south brings it over the United States seven times every 24 hours as the earth spins beneath it.

Two American scientists said the Soviet-launched sphere was sending back coded messages that they were unable to decipher.

A Cambridge, Mass. astronomer said it was obvious the Russians had chosen to launch the satellite at such an angle to the sun as to prevent visual observations in the free world.

There were a number of reports of sightings from different parts of the United States but officials at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge said the baby moon is not yet visible to observers in this country.

A Japanese scientist said he saw the satellite by telescope as it passed over Niigata, 160 miles north northwest of Tokyo. He said it was "barely visible" though much brighter than he had expected.

CAMBRIDGE scientists said the satellite can be seen only in the north and south polar regions at present because of its relation to the earth and sun. They said it might become visible in other parts of the world if it changes direction in two or three weeks.

How long it will continue to whirl through the heavens in its north-south orbit was a subject of the greatest speculation. Estimates ranged from a few days to a million years.

A Soviet scientist attending a meeting in Washington said the batteries operating the satellite's automatic 'radio transmitter would last over two weeks.

This scientist, Prof. A. A. Blagonravov, said the life span of the satellite is "uncertain."

Real Moon Next Goal of Russians

MOSCOW (U.P.)—Soviet scientists who carried man into the age of space flight have set their goal as the moon "in a few years."

Radio Moscow, in a domestic broadcast beamed also to the western world, hailed the launching of the Soviet satellite as a "triumph of the Soviet regime," but concentrated on feats yet to come in the conquering of outer space.

Prof. Kirill Stanyukovich, a Soviet expert on jet propulsion and member of the Interdepartmental Commission on Interplanetary Communications, was quoted as saying that the launching of the sphere into an orbit 560 miles above the earth was but the first step in the campaign to reach the moon.

"It can be said with confidence that in a few years flights to the moon with instruments will become as much a reality as the launching of the first artificial satellite," he said.

* * * *

HIS REMARKS were echoed in Paris by Russian-born space scientist Alexander Ananov who said that "in the very near future" missiles will be made that can reach the moon. Ananov said it actually was harder to hurl the satellite into its 18,000-m.p.h. trajectory in space than to fire a rocket to the moon.

And he predicted that the Russians, with their edge over the United States, would be firing rockets carrying animals to the moon by the time the United States makes its first moon-missile tests.

Prof. Stanyukovich hailed Oct. 4 as the day when "man created an artificial body able to rotate around the earth at great height, when man created an artificial earth satellite.

"These men were Soviet scientists, engineers and technicians," he said. "This is a great triumph not only of Soviet science but also of the Soviet regime."

'OUTER SPACE OWNER' ANGRY

Russia 'Trespassing' on 'Celestia' Domain

CHICAGO (U.P.) — James T. Mangan, who claims to own outer space, Saturday charged the Russians were "trespassing" in his domain with its satellite and "ignoring" his rights.

"I refuse to issue any license to Russia for use of outer space," said Mangan, an industrial design expert.

"Neither Russia, the United States nor Great Britain has any claim to space except through my nation, Celestia," he added.

Mangan proclaimed the formation of "Celestia" on Dec. 20, 1948, and on Jan. 4, 1949, he filed a formal charter of Celestia with the Cook County (Chicago) recorder of deeds. The charter, after much headscratching and an opinion by the county state's attorney, was officially recorded Jan. 18, 1949.

Mangan, however, said he had issued the U.S. Defense Department a license to shoot its planned satellite into outer space.

"I regret that the United States was not the first to put up a satellite," Mangan said, "because we have the money, initiative and are supposed to be the first with the best."

Mangan, who lives in suburban Evergreen Park, said he has no avenue of filing a protest against the Russian trespass of his kingdom.

"My only legal power," he said, "is the power of protest."

"The Russians have not insured what they are going through. Like a country building a road, they must acquire legal right to property before taking action."

Mangan felt the achievement of the Russians was "wonderful propaganda" for the Communists. "It must give the Russian propagandists a lot of comfort," he said.

Mangan hoped the Russian satellite could be "used for peaceful purposes. But he added, "you can't trust the Russian people."

Mangan, who is fond of outer space because, "there's more of it than there is anything else, lists himself as acting secretary of state of Celestia, with the "capital" his Evergreen Park home.

'Moon' No Surprise, Says Allen

ticipating in this International Geophysical Year.

Because the launching "was not a surprise" to us, Dr. Allen does not expect a crash program on our part to get a moon into space but he does think the development will give added impetus to our programs.

* * * *

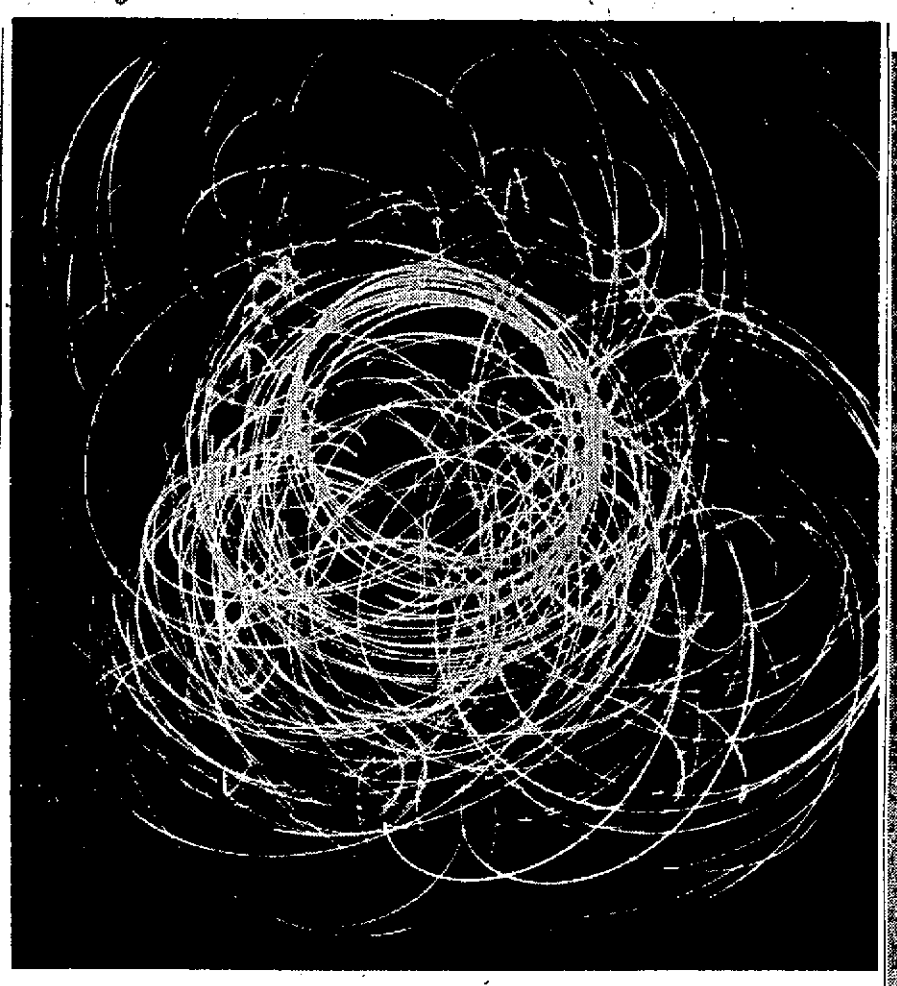

PERSONALLY, for Dr. Allen, the historic step to outer space crystallized the need for a project in creative thinking which he is about to start.

"If we confine our thinking to the boundaries we've used heretofore it can mean only destruction," he said. "Our forthcoming National Research on Creativity program will interest itself in brainstorming new boundaries. We will interview many types of creative people in an attempt to learn how they think when in difficulty or on the threshhold of their creativity. Instead of considering the end product of this creativty we want to know what went into the creation."

* * * *

DR. ALLEN HAS been boning for this new dimension of investigation. He recently was a guest of Alex Osborne, originator of the brainstorm technique of roundtable, off-the-top-of-the-head idea tossing; a guest of the General Electric Creative Engineering program, and a guest participant in the University of Utah's program for identification of creative scientific talent.

Dr. Allen said creativity is not necessarily an adjunct of high intelligence. Persons of average intelligence may have a high level of creativity.

WHAT'S THIS?

Is this the track of the Russian moon or an aerial view of the Santa Ana Freeway at night? A man putting up a clothesline? Salvador Dali's impression of Jayne Mansfield? For an explanation, turn to Page A-15.

Polish Mob Fights Police

at the police. The police charged them without clubs while about 2,000 persons watched from the edge.

* * * *

THEN MORE STONES began to fly. Demonstrators pulled crates off passing trucks and threw bottles, at one time forcing the police to retreat. They fashioned clubs from timbers torn from food stalls and kiosks. With the tear gas loosed, the crowds fell back up Marshalkowshka Street into the wooded square surrounding the skyscraper Palace of Culture.

Reinforced militia used clubs and more tear gas to disperse them.

At least 10 policemen and 15 civilians have been injured in the three nights of rioting. Some hospitals refused to divulge any information about casualties.

The students kept to their boarding-houses on Narutowicza Square, adjoining the school, after renewed warnings that all 6,000 might be expelled and new students enrolled if they kept up their resistaance.

* * * *

THE DECISION to stay indoors was made after a 5-man delegation representing all Warsaw University departments and graduate schools, conferred with Stefan Zolkiewski, minister for higher education.

But a student spokesman said the students stuck by their demands, including an end to the ban on Po Prostu. The Communist Party Central Committee made it clear Saturday morning there will be no retreat on the ban.

A banner still hung from the main student boarding house where police attacked the students three times Thursday night and again Friday night. The banner carried a two-word message: "Wolnosc Slowa." In English that means "Free Speech."

Report Ike, Mamie Plan London Visit

LONDON (Sunday) (AP) — The Empire News said today plans are being discussed for a state visit to London by President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The Independent Sunday newspaper reported Queen Elizabeth II will issue the formal invitation in Washington.

Her tour of the United States begins Oct. 16.

The article said American officials have been to London and Balmoral Castle in Scotland, where the Queen has been on holiday, to discuss her trip to America and a return visit of the Eisenhowers.

It did not speculate when the visit would take place.

'Moon' Measures Meteor Crashes

MOSCOW (U.P.)—One of Russia's top scientists disclosed Saturday night that the Soviet earth satellite carries instruments that can measure collisons with pinpoint-size meteors. He said the satellite may stay aloft "a few days or a few weeks."

Yuri Dmitrievich Boulanger, deputy chairman of the International Geophysical Year said the satellite and its successors will help scientists study the effect of meteors and cosmic rays on "the future interplanetary ship."

Hunt Set for Slayer of Policeman

CHESTER, Mont. (AP) — A hitchhiker killed a veteran Northern Montana undersheriff Saturday, setting off the area's largest manhunt of modern times.

Veteran Undersheriff Otto Fossen apparently was beaten to the draw by the unknown assailant. He had radioed his office that he intended to question the bespectacled hitchhiker.

More than 100 men, armed with a variety of weapons including modern big-game hunting rifles, searched house-to-house. Half a dozen planes circled the area and the 35 miles of open country north of the Canadian border.

The grim canvass in this town of 1,400 persons required two hours. It turned up no trace of the unshaven man who beat the 65-year-old Fossen to the draw and pumped five bullets

VITAMINS and Your EMOTIONS

Are you needlessly leading a life of quiet desperation . . . have you lost the ability to love and enjoy? Don't be bored, emotionally fatigued, depressed or listless . . . don't let your world be ruined by unwanted thoughts, fears, anxieties, vague aches and pains . . . for which there is no organic or functional cause . . .

For 32 years W. C. Kalash, B.Sc., has dedicated his life to nutritional betterment.

Regain your natural ability to enjoy life, to love, by rebuilding your biochemical health with K-54.

In continuing tests K-54 proved to be effective in combating emotional fatigue, nervous tensions, depression, anxiety, vague aches and pains resulting from nutritional deficiencies aggravated by overwork, constant worry and frustration.

Today, nutritionally deficient men and women from every walk of life (bankers, teachers, accountants, lawyers, salesmen, directors, housewives) all found that K-54 helps to build nutritional reserves so that they better withstand the physical and psychological effect of high-pressure living.

. . . If you are emotionally fatigued, depressed, anxious (not organically or functionally caused) . . . Get K-54 . . . build nutritional reserves for a new lease on life. Get full free information about K-54 and university research.

Symington Demands Probe of U.S. Lag on Satellite

U. S. and foreign scientists look skyward as they gather around an optical calibrating apparatus used to check the orbit of the Russian earth satellite Saturday at the Minitrack Test Facility at Blossom Point, Md. Left to right: Edmund Habib, U. S. Naval Research Laboratory; Carlos Castros, Ecuador; A. M. Kasatkin, U.S.S.R.; Lloyd V. Berkener, U.S.; H. K. Afshar, Iran, and A. A. Blagonravov, U.S.S.R.—(AP Wirephoto.)

are promptly changed, the Soviets will move from superiority to supremacy. If that ever happens, our position will become impossible."

Symington said he would ask Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee to call in top defense officials and scientists for questioning.

* * * *

IN CALHOUN, Ga., Russell said launching of the Russian satellite proves beyond doubt that the Soviets have what he called the "ultimate weapon—a long range missile capable of delivering atomic and hydrogen explosives across continents and oceans."

He said in a prepared speech the satellite could have been launched only from a "perfected missile of great strength and long range."

However, Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said he placed "no significance in the fact that the Russians are first with the earth satellite." In a telephone interview from Massachusetts, Saltonstall said "it's apparently one of the fine developments of the geophysical year in which all the scientists from all the nations are taking part."

* * * *

AT KANSAS CITY, Symington said he had sent the following telegram to Russell:

"Recently announced launching of an earth satellite by the Soviets is but more proof of growing Communist superiority in the all-important missile field. If this now known superiority over the United States develops into supremacy, the position of the free world will be critical.

"At the same time we continue to learn of the missile accomplishments of the possible enemy, for fiscal reasons this government, in turn, continues to cut back and slow down its own missile program.

"I have been warning about this growing danger for a long time because the future of the United States may well be at stake.

"Therefore I respectfully but earnestly request that, as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, you arrange for complete hearings in this matter before that committee. Only in this way can the American people learn the truth. Putting it mildly, they have not been getting that truth. Under our form of government, however, they have a right to know."

SEN. WILEY (R-Wis), one of the few senators here in the capital, took a less alarming view of the latest Soviet surprise. "It's nothing to worry us," said Wiley, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. "It's something to tell us to keep on our toes."

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said the Soviet breakthrough "is a devastating blow to the prestige of United States as the leader in the scientific and technical world."

It corraborated the claim that the Soviets have an effective missile propulsion system," Jackson said by telephone from Washington State.

Although the satellite may not have immediate military application, Jackson said, the long-range outlook might be grim.

Jackson, who heads a military applications subgroup of the Congressional Atomic Committee, said the new Soviet success comes just after the defense department had cut back this nation's missile program.

* * * *

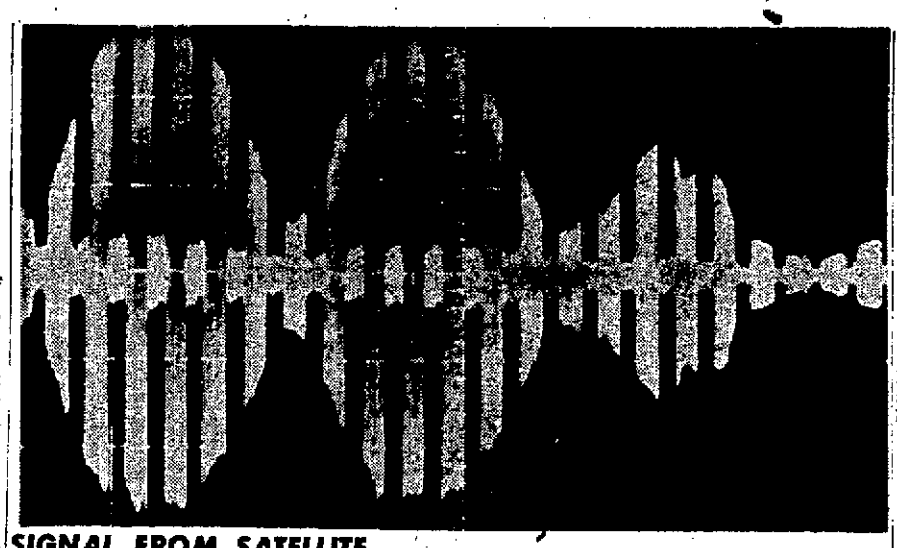

"WE SHOULD RESTORE these cuts and step up our B52 production immediately," he said.

The B52 is the heavy, long-range jet bomber capable of delivering nuclear attacks in all parts of the world.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said the Russian satellite success "calls for an immediate revision of national psychology and diplomatic approach."

In a statement released by his office here, he said:

"The time has clearly come to be less concerned with the depth of pile on the new broadloom rug or the height of the tail fin on the new car and to be more prepared to shed blood, sweat and tears if this country and the free world are to survive."

SIGNAL FROM SATELLITE

A camera Saturday recorded this picture of the Russian satellite's radio signal, as it was caught by an oscilloscope at a Portland, Ore., electronics firm. The vertical grid lines mark off a second each. The horizontal grid lines show intensity of the signal. Variations in intensity, technicians believe, were caused by rotation of the satellite as it whirled through space. (AP Photo.)

Soviet Missile-Firing A-Space Ship Seen

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—A former Korean underground liaison officer said Saturday Russia will have a stationary atomic space ship that could fire guided missiles on any part of the earth ready in 1958.

The comment was made by Kilsoo Haan, San Jose, Calif., who served as liaison officer in Washington, D. C., for the Sino-Korean Peoples League during World War II.

In an interview in the Deseret News - Telegram, Haan said members of the Korean underground reported as early as September of 1954 that the Russians probably would complete an atomic spaceship by 1958.

HAAN ADDED that his organization told the Atomic Energy Commission of Russia's work on a space satellite in 1954, nearly a year before the Soviet Union announced the project.

The newspaper also quoted the native Korean, now a naturalized U. S. citizen, as saying he forwarded a resume of a secret meeting September of 1956 between Soviet First Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan and the standing committee of the Chinese People's Congress at which Mikoyan concluded that war between the East and West was "inevitable."

Ike Keeps Informed on 'Moon'

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP) — President Eisenhower kept abreast of pregress on the Russian-launched first world satellite Saturday while relaxing at his farm.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, who have remained at the White House, relayed the latest information on the man-made moon. Hagerty said in Washington that they gave the Chief Executive information both from news dispatches and 'from our own people."

THE PRESIDENT got his first word on the Soviet satellite launching Friday night a few hours after making a hastily scheduled flight to his farm for the week end. Hagerty telephoned him shortly after receiving word on the Moscow announcement.

Early Saturday the President went out to the golf course with neighbor-friend George E. Allen in brisk autumn air.

The President appeared in fine spirits. He joked with Allen and club pro Dick Sleicher as he fired a dozen practice shots before teeing off.

Eisenhower and Allen played twice around for their 18 holes in slightly more than two hours and then drove back to the presidential farm.

Pensioners to Hear New Law Described

Old-age pensioners will be given an explanation of a new state law regarding pensions in a rally at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. The meeting is being sponsored by the California Institute of Social Welfare and is open to the public.

Scientists Work Overtime to Plot Satellite's Orbit

WASHINGTON (UP) — Scientists worked overtime here Saturday in an effort to plot the exact course of the Russian space satellite.

Officials of Project Vanguard the American satellite due to be launched next year — hoped to determine the spacemoon's orbit, altitude, speed, and size.

Walter H. McDonald, Vanguard information officer at the Naval Research Laboratory, said the data might enable scientists to tell also the weight of the satellite — a point which has been in question.

* * * *

THE RUSSIANS said the satellite weighs 184 pounds, compared with about 21 and one-half pounds for the American satellite. To launch a 184-pound satellite would take a tremendous rocket.

Headquarters for the American effort to track the satellite is the Vanguard office in a corner of the big Naval Research Laboratory here. It was a scene of confusion. The office receives reports by a complex teletype system from stations in North and South America which track a satellite with a system known as Minitrack.

These Minitrack stations were set up with the thought they would follow an American satellite beaming radio signals at 108 megacycles. The Russians crossed up the plans by sending their signals at 20 and 40 megacycles.

McDonald said laboratory technicians worked through the night to modify equipment so it can track the Russian satellite. He said "adapted" antennas were en route to the nearest Minitrack station at Blossom Point, Md. where they were to be installed at once.

McDonald said similar modifications were being made at Minitrack stations at San Diego, Calif. and Fort Stewart, Ga.

He said when the changes were completed the scientists should be able to plot "refined orbits" charting the future course of the satellite.

* * * *

McDONALD SAID the office also was being swamped with phone calls and wires from all parts of the country from ham radio operators who reported picking up the satellite's signals.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Bodies of 2 Pilots Taken From Jet

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The bodies of two Air Force jet pilots arrived here Saturday after they were removed from the ruins of their plane in rugged country near Nevada City.

The fliers, Capt. P. C. Omann, of North Highlands, a Sacramento suburb, and Lt. J. C. Sutton, of Craig Air Force Base, were killed when their plane crashed Feb. 23.

Rescue crews reached the ruins Friday night.

Gifts Sent to 'Blue Boy'

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (UP)— Americans sent thousands of cards, letters and gifts Saturday to "Little Boy Blue," an 8-year-old child left alone in a losing fight against death.

Huge bags of mail arrived from points as distant as Philadelphia, Montreal and California for the youngster who wanted only " four or six cards, funny cards," for his birthday.

The boy, identified only as Francis X, is dying of muscular dystrophy at Lakeville State Sanatorium near here. Hospital officials made a plea for a few cards for the child when it appeared that he'd have a lonely ninth birthday next Tuesday. Francis had received no mail or visitors in his four months at the sanatorium.

His mother is dead, his father in prison for a slaying.

Russ Gets 7 Years for Book

SREMSKA MITROVICA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Hilovan Djilas, former vice president of Yugoslavia, was sentenced Saturday to seven additional years in prison for writing hostile propaganda against communism and the Yugoslav government abroad.

He was brought into court here—after a one-day trial Friday—from the penitentiary where he is serving a prison sentence of three years for a similar offense. The court decided to connect his previous sentence and today's into a new sentence of nine years. The maximum sentence could have been 20 years.

The charge against him Friday arose from publication of a book in the United States called "The New Class." He told the court he stands by every word of what he wrote. In the book, Djilas said communism, like capitalism, creates an elite class.

Djilas, 46, was once considered in Yugoslavia to be a top ranking leader second only to Tito.

Siamese Twins Separted

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Siamese twin girls, joined at the base of the spine, were successfully separated Saturday in a rare operation performed at Children's Hospital here.

Pamela and Patricia Shartz, born nine days ago at Mercy Hospital in Rockville Center, L. I., were reported in "good condition" following the major operation by 10 physicians.

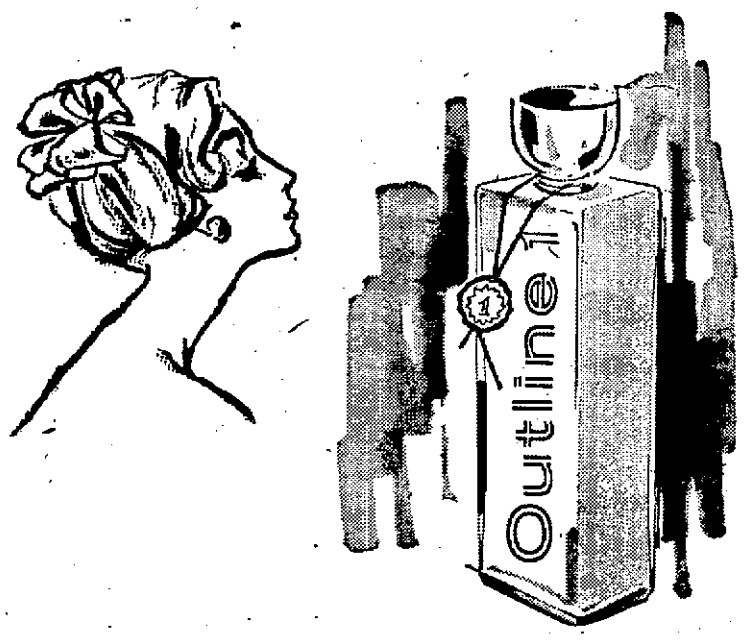

A complication developed when the infants were separated. The heart of one stopped beating and surgeons had to open her chest and massage her heart back to normal. The heart beat was re-established in six minutes.

The girls, whose parents live in New York, were placed in separate incubators following the two and a half hour operation. One of the twins was born with a heart condition. The hospital spokesman said her heart apparently stopped beating when it was separated from the better blood supply of her twin.

Good for Home Only

MOSCOW (AP)—Fourteen American youths who went to Red China over U. S. State Department objections arrived here by plane Saturday and were informed their passports are good only for return home.

Edward Killham, a U. S. consular officer, told the group at Vnukovo Airport that as soon as they leave Soviet bloc territory they must report to a U. S. embassy to have their passports stamped.

Deny Russ Chief in Threat

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet delegation to the United Nations denied Saturday that Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev ever told Western diplomats: "We will bury you."

The delegation said those words, quoted by U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge here Monday, "are idle inventions of those who are given the assignment to hamper by all possible means the improvement of Soviet-American relations."

The delegation issued a statement declaring the Soviet Union "is in favor of peaceful coexistence between all states, irrespective of their social systems. This is true in regard to the United States as well."

* * * *

LODGE QUOTED Khrushchev before the General Assembly's steering committee as it considered putting on the session's agenda a Soviet proposal for a general declaration of peaceful coexistence. The item later was included.

The U. S. delegate said Krushchev had "made it plain that he did not want to coexist peacefully with the United States" through "his own remark of Nov. 17, 1956: 'We will bury you'."

On Nov. 18, 1956, Western newsmen reported Krushchev shouted those words at diplomats of NATO countries and Israel at a Polish embassy reception in Moscow that night—not Nov. 17. The reports said he taunted the diplomats as they left the room in protest to his abusive language on the subjects of Egypt and Hungary. He also was quoted as saying: "Whether you like it or not, history is on our side."

* * * *

SATURDAY'S Soviet statement said:

"By the whole practice of its relations with other states the Soviet Union has proved its willingness to base relations with other countries on the principles of peaceful coexistence."

Referring to the date Lodge mentioned, the statement said that at a Kremlin reception for visiting Poles Nov. 17, Krushchev said the Soviet Union would "pursue consistently the policy of peaceful coexistence."

At the Polish embassy reception Nov. 18, it is asserted, Krushchev told "representatives of capitalist countries" that "it is necessary for us to coexist."

SAC Selects Targets for Bombing Test

OMAHA (AP) — Atlanta, St. Louis and Kansas City were announced Saturday as targets for the mythical nuclear bombing of the Strategic Air Command's annual bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition starting the night of Oct. 30-31.

The six-day test of precision flying will be undertaken by 86 top combat crews from 43 SAC bombardment wings and four crews from the Bomber Command of the British Royal Air Force.

Although British crews have competed in previous contests, the RAF fliers for the first time will compete in two of their own medium bombers, the four-jet Vulcan, only delta-wing bomber now in operational use, and the four-jet Valiant.

* * * *

SAC CREWS will fly the six-jet medium B47 and the reconnaissance version, RB47 as well as the B36 and B52 heavy bombers.

Flying alone at 10-minute intervals, the string of bombers will take 7½ hours to pass over each of the three cities selected for the test.

Results of the simulated nuclear bombing will be calculated by radar and competitors will be judged on accuracy in bombing, navigation, reconnaissance and the ability of the crews to keep their planes ready to fly.

Posters of Students to Boost Chest

Students in the seventh and eighth grades at the nine parochial schools in the Greater Long Beach area are eligible to compete in a poster-making contest during October to show services provided by the Community Chest.

The students themselves will select the top 10 per cent of the posters made in their own schools, for submission in community-wide competition.

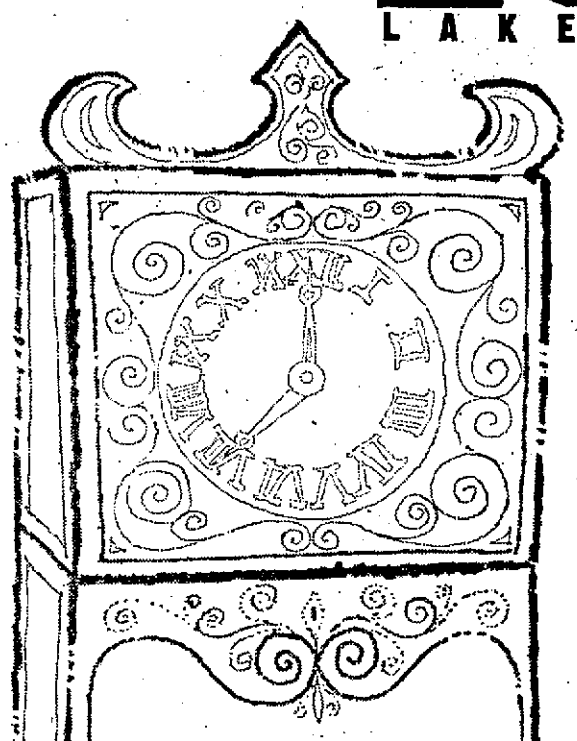

Final judging of the posters will be by Isabel Conner, public school art supervisor; James Crafts, Long Beach State College art department, and Mrs. Leo Malco, local artist.

In charge of the project is Mrs. Leo Tondreault of the Catholic Welfare Bureau board of directors.

FAUBUS' FEARS CHALLENGED

Arkansas Experiment United Negroes, Whites in College

By BOB HOUSER

Challenges to Arkansas Gov. Faubus' motives in the Little Rock integration crisis are contained in a six-year Ford Foundation study to be published next year, a local educator revealed Saturday.

David L. Wolfe, assistant professor of sociology at Long Beach State College and one of three educators who last March completed a six months evaluation of the Foundation experiment in Arkansas, charged Faubus once sanctioned integration "for a price."

The price, Wolfe explained, was almost $4 million provided to finance the Arkansas Experiment in Teacher Education, 1952-57. A condition, which Faubus accepted, was that Negro colleges be included in the 15-college experiment and that fifth-year college students be integrated, Wolfe said.

* * * *

"NEGROES AND WHITES worked together beautifully in two fifth-year centers," Wolfe said, "and Negro and white educators worked side by side on the experiment's executive committee."

Wolfe said evidence gathered through intensive, deep-probing interviews among college presidents, deans, teachers, newspaper editors and public officials as recently as last March completely contradicted Faubus' presentiments of violence with integration this September.

The Arkansas experiment was sponsored by the Ford Fund for the Advancement of Education, a division of the Ford Foundation. Studies were conducted from Sept. 1, 1956 to March 10, 1957 by Wolfe, Dr. Keith Goldhammer, assistant professor of education, University of Oregon, and Richard Colvard, assistant professor of sociology, University of Texas.

Terms of the experiment were that 15 progressive Arkansas colleges (seven state institutions and eight private) would abandon their regular academic programs in favor of those prescribed in the experiment: that teacher trainees would spend four years in a college program devoted exclusively to general education and would spend a fifth year in specialized teacher instruction. Two Negro colleges took part.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH FAUBUS' first term as governor began in 1955, he countenanced the experiment's required high-level integration when the alternative was loss of the $4 million grant, Wolfe said.

"Although Gov. Faubus cited probable violence as his reason for using National Guard troops to bar Negroes from Little Rock's Central High School, all our evidence showed the absolute contrary. As of last March there was no need to usher Negro children into any school," Wolfe declared.

Wolfe appraised Faubus as a man who overplayed his people's fierce local pride and unwillingness to accept outside interference in state affairs.

"The climate of opinion is one of terrific defensiveness toward the outsider," Wolfe said. "Arkansas newspapers deplore the hillbilly label, the Ozark joke stereotypes but contend the only way to get rid of the loathed labels is to stand on their own feet and show everybody they're capable of social reforms on their own part.

"So Gov. Faubus played his theme with pretty solid backing of his constituents. But he pulled out too many stops, not figuring on the uprising by a violent and vocal minority which exploded in his face at Central High School."

* * * *

BUT IN VIEW OF the "We'll do it ourselves" feeling in the state, Wolfe believes, the presence of federal troops can only intensify the emotional distress there.

"While I think the President did the only thing he could do to put teeth into the law of the land—even though I feel he did it too late—I now think immediate withdrawal of those troops is necessary, for two reasons: (1) to accommodate the state's intense defensiveness against outside interference and (2) to avoid triggering similar episodes in other cities across the South.

"I think that with this withdrawal it would be ideal if the NAACP would pull out of the crisis also for at least two months. This is a crisis of emotions. What we need now is a reduction of emotions.

"Understanding this resentment of outside pressures, I think President Eisenhower might have solved the problem at the outset with a personal appearance in Little Rock. With his great personal popularity, and speaking directly to citizens there in person, I feel even the violent minority would have fallen away in awe. It would have appeared to be a settlement on a community basis rather than dictation from afar."

Even though Faubus was guilty of political opportunism in catering to the states rights climate of opinion, he needs a face saver now, Wolfe believes, and should be given one.

He also asserts the problem would not have developed in Little Rock had the issue been placed in the hands of the students themselves. He ascribes the manifestations of juvenile violence and near violence to adolescent imitation of the small mob of adults at the scene.

Quemoy Fired On 2nd Day by Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (U.P.)—Communist Chinese coast artillery shelled the Nationalist offshore island of Quemoy for the second straight day Saturday.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Reds fired 30 shells which fell short of the island and landed in the sea. There were no casualties, it said.

Friday, Red batteries in the Amoy area of the mainland fired 21 shells at Quemoy. Nationalist artillery returned the fire.

How High Court Changes

Time Alters Decisions, Not Powers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—At a corner of the Supreme Court grounds, almost obscured by a fast growing hedge, is a sign that reads: "No roller skating."

Yet sometimes in the evening youngsters skate there anyway.

As the justices return to work Monday for another session, those skating youngsters seem almost symbolic of what has happened nationally.

Despite certain decisions by the court—particularly in the field of segregation — some state and local officials carry on as if they never heard a word it said.

Some say they will defy the decisions, at least as long as they can.

Some, while accepting the court's authority, loudly insist that it is wrong.

It's hard to evaluate criticism of any kind. After a close play at a ball game some time, did you ever try to figure out what percentage of the fans is booing? But anyone can see that the court's historic decisions have brought catcalls from all parts of the grandstand, and specially from the southern sections.

* * * *

CERTAINLY THE DECISION of May 17, 1954 — that segregation is unconstitutional in public schools — brought fierce criticisms and violent reactions.

But other verdicts have drawn fire, too.

Critics have pointed out that as a result of court actions:

1. A rapist, some second team Communists, and two Army wives who killed their husbands have been turned loose or granted new trials.

2. The Justice Department would have to give defendants pertinent evidence in the secret FBI files, a decision later modified by Congress.

3. Congress will have to be more specific in its questioning if it expects to see many balky witnesses convicted of contempt.

4. The President may hand an American soldier over to a foreign government for trial even though he was on duty when he allegedly violated the law.

The list could be extended. But, for flavor, let's sample some comments.

"The Supreme Court must be curbed," said James F. Byrnes, once a justice himself. "Power intoxicates men. It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them."

"The House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security," Rep. Donald Jackson (R-Calif) said in a House speech, "have been rendered as innocuous as two kittens in a cage full of rabid dogs."

And Sen. Norris Cotton (R-NH) said:

"The court has gone a long way to protect the wolf from Little Red Riding Hood."

* * * *

THERE HAVE BEEN cheers as well as boos. Take this burst of approval from a former dean of law, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore):

"In the inevitable march of history, we have reached the point where the Supreme Court has proclaimed the right of equality of justice under the 14th and 15th Amendments."

Repeatedly the Constitution has meant something to one Supreme Court at one moment in history and something else to another court.

Charles Evans Hughes, who served two hitches on the high court, said:

"The Constitution is what the judges say it is."

A few notes will show the court has changed with the years.

1790—Court held first meeting. Had six members. Only three bothered to show up. No need for a full house. Didn't hear one case in its first two years. Court in such low esteem Washington had trouble filling vacancies.

1801—John Marshall of Virginia named Chief Justice.

During Marshall's 34 years these points were nailed down:

1. The federal government is supreme over the states, although the exact boundaries remain in dispute, as recent events in Little Rock showed.

2. The last word on what is and isn't constitutional belongs to the Supreme Court.

* * * *

1856—The Dred Scott case, involving the rights, if any, of a slave taken to free territoy.

Many northerners, including a country lawyer named Abraham Lincoln, were concerned because the court held that no Congress could declare any U. S. territory free soil. Slavery, therefore, could spread anywhere.

1861-65—Civil war. In effect, it reversed the Dred Scott decision.

1895—By a 5-4 vote, court ruled income tax unconstitutional.

1896—Plessy vs. Ferguson. Court ruled, 7-1, that no one's constitutional rights were violated if separate but equal facilities were provided for both white and colored races.

1902—Oliver Wendell Holmes named to court, to serve with wisdom and wit for 30 years. Conservative by heritage and training, he dissented in cases where the court held the government could not go into such fields as minimum wages, child labor, protection for railroad workers.

Holmes' view, as once expressed to Justice Harlan F. Stone:

"About 75 years ago I learnt that I was not God. And so, when the people . . . want to do something I can't find anything in the Constitution expressly forbidding them to do, I say, whether I like it or not, 'dammit, let 'em do it!'"

1913—16th amendment adopted, permitting income taxes.

* * * *

1924 — BOB LAFOLLETTE for President on Progressive ticket. Progressive platform denounced court for nullifying acts of Congress by declaring them unconstitutional. It called for a constitutional amendment that would permit Congress to have the final word.

1933 — Great industrial and economic contraction. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House. Stage set for dramatic showdown, with FDR and Congress racing down an economic highway that would run smack into a court roadblock.

1937—Collision came off, as expected. Within three years, court nullified 12 acts of Congress, including some of the New Deal's most important legislation.

Roosevelt came out for a comprehensive judicial reform, but most attention centered on that part wherein the number of justices would be increased.

Congress rejected his so-called court-packing plan, but though Roosevelt lost the battle, he won the war. For Justice Owen D. Roberts, who had been voting with the conservatives, switched sides, and the ultra-conservative Justice Willis Van Devanter retired.

* * * *

1940—Court ruled it's okay for a state to expel children from public schools for refusing to salute the flag.

1943—Court changed its mind about flag saluting. Said state statute compelling youngsters to salute the flag is unconstitutional.

1952—President Truman ordered steel mills seized. Court said no. Stuck with a clearcut opinion delivered 70 years earlier: "No man . . . is so high that he is above the law. All the officers of the government, from the highest to the lowest, are creatures of the law, and are bound to obey it."

1953 — Eisenhower became President. Four of the present justices were appointed by him: Chief Justice Earl Warren (1954), Associate Justices John Marshall Harlan, William J. Brennan Jr. (1956) and Charles E. Whittaker (1957).

Two, Harold H. Burton (1945) and Tom C. Clark (1949), were named by Truman.

Three go back to Roosevelt: William O. Douglas (1939), Felix Frankfurter (1939), and Hugo L. Black (1937).

1954 — Court decided, 9-0, that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

1956-57—Court handed down series of decisions on civil rights. These narrow considerably what a city, state or federal government can do with individual liberties—and this holds true whether he's a convicted rapist or a convicted Communist.

Justice Frankfurter once said: "It is a fair summary of history to say that the safeguards of liberty have been forged in controversies involving not very nice people."

* * * *

ALL RIGHT, you may say. So the court has changed frequently. So these changes have brought protests from those who disagreed. Where do we go from here?

Only one prediction seems safe: The court doesn't appear likely to switch directions soon on civil rights. And on the hottest issue of all, segregated public schools, the court spoke unanimously three years ago, and hasn't budged a syllable since.

To those who say that if the court won't change its way, the court should be changed, one problem always remains:

If the court isn't to have the last word on what is constitutional, who is to have it? Should it be with the states? With Congress? With the President?

Even the harshest critics can't agree on an answer.

Which suggests the struggle is likely to go on much as before, with the court keeping the job of trying to draw the precise line between state and federal government, between Congress and President, between civil rights of a citizen and security rights of a nation.

How the court and its reputation to make out in all this, no one can say.

But it would seem wise never to underestimate the power of the court.

It has had rough times before, and it has survived.

TO PLEDGE OR NOT TO PLEDGE

Pledge to the Flag in schoolroom is traditional, but not compulsory. This is one of the issues on which the Supreme Court has reversed itself. The court held in 1940 that a state could bar youngsters from a public school for refusing to share in ceremony. In 1943, the court changed its mind.

Supreme Court Set for Knotty Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opens a new term Monday facing more cases in the controversial fields of communism and racial integration.

One of the school cases awaiting attention concerns the refusal of the University of Florida to admit a Negro, Virgil D. Hawkins, to its law school. Hawkins has been trying to get in since 1949. He has been to the high court three other times.

On March 12, 1956, the court ordered him admitted promptly under earlier rulings integrating state university graduate schools, but the Florida Supreme Court said his admission might "do great public mischief."

Other school cases concern integration orders for Charlottesville and Newport News, Va.

The court has agreed to hear arguments on an appeal of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from a $100,000 contempt fine in Alabama.

The court has scheduled arguments on the complaint of 23 writers and actors that they have been blacklisted by the movie industry for invoking the Fifth Amendment; the dismissal of a Philadelphia schoolteacher after he refused to answer questions about past Communist affiliation, and contempt findings against two top Communist conspirators who jumped bail in 1951.

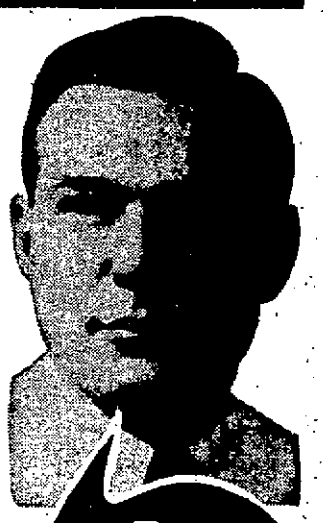

I'LL SAVE YOU MONEY AND GIVE YOU ALL THE CREDIT YOU NEED AT THE SAME TIME

You cannot afford to take chances with your health, at any time by putting off needed dentistry

Long Beach, Oct. 6th, 1957 — You can save on all dental plates and at the same time know that your work will be the very best Dr. Beauchamp and his large staff can render. "While it's true my tremendous volume is due largely to my low price policy," Dr. Beauchamp says, "I also attribute a great deal of this volume to my pay later credit plan that makes it easy for everyone to get all their dental work attended to when they need it. Regardless of how little you pay," Dr. Beauchamp continued, "I'll always give you the best work it is within my ability to render. I point with pride to the fact that most of my patients come to me recommended by others previously served in my offices, so I can honestly say, 'You don't have to fear my low prices.'"

DR. BEAUCHAMP says:

FIRST Small Credit PAYMENT AFTER NOV. 21st

Start your first small credit payment after NOV. 21st THIS PLAN ENABLES YOU TO HAVE THE NEW DENTAL PLATES you need AT ONCE and PAY DR. BEAUCHAMP LATER.

Take as Long as 2 Years To Pay

HERE'S GOOD NEWS FOR NEW CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS

If you are one of the many thousands of new residents or visitors that are now making California their home this credit offer from Dr. Beauchamp applies to you.

"We will either start all of your new work immediately," Dr. Beauchamp says, "or complete any work that you may have had started by your dentist back home on my easiest credit terms."

"You don't have to be an established resident to have credit in my California offices," Dr. Beauchamp continued, "you can have all of your work completed at once and pay me later."

Join the many people that each day are visiting the dental offices from Oregon, Washington, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Minnesota, etc., in fact every State of the Union! I assure you that we shall give you every consideration and try in every way to make your visit pleasant.

SAVE MONEY BY HAVING YOUR TEETH RESET IN NEW MODERN MATERIAL

Your plates are fitted to your mouth when they are new and when your tissues change, your dentures should be reset in new material. It has always been my policy to charge only a nominal fee to reset your teeth. My special reset plan saves you money. Come in and let us explain this to you.

"CLOSING OF BITE" DANGEROUS TO PLATE WEARERS

Dr. Beauchamp wishes to point out the dental plate policy in all of his offices includes adjustments of your dentures at any time, checking your bite and the fit so as not to impair your health by improper fitting dentures. After dental plates have been worn for several years, Dr. Beauchamp said, your gum tissues change, causing loose plates and an incorrect bite. Often your bite changes through the constant wear and grinding of teeth thus impairing your hearing. This dentists call "closing the bite." If you are faced with any dental problem see your dentist. Visit any of my offices and have this attended to immediately, I'll be happy to serve you. No appointment needed.

1 DAY PLATE SERVICE

When no extractions are necessary, your impressions may be taken and your dental plates delivered to you the SAME DAY—provided you come to the office before 10 A.M. any day except Saturday. This service is SPECIALLY intended for out-of-town patients and those anxious to save valuable time.

DR. BEAUCHAMP WELCOMES YOUR CREDIT ACCOUNT

I gladly invite pensioners, retired persons and others with limited, fixed incomes to avail themselves of this long term credit offer.

Save money on my low prices!

My large practice enables me to offer you savings on all dental plates. The larger my volume the less it costs me to operate my offices, enabling me to pass the savings on to you.

BOON OR BOOBYTRAP?

'Right-to-Work' Law a State Issue

By JOHN H. AVERILL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Right-to-work . . . a guarantee of a basic freedom or a disguise for union busting?

That question promises to be one of the dominant themes of California's 1958 political campaigns.

A right-to-work law, for years a smouldering issue on the state's political scene, is shaping up as the most explosive controversy in next year's Knight-Knowland race for the Republican guebernatorial nomination.

A law of this type outlaws the union shop—or, in other words, prohibits labor-management contracts that require an employe to join a union as a condition of keeping his job.

* * * *

RIGHT-TO-WORK advocates, largely spearheaded by business, farm and employer groups, describe it as a means of guaranteeing job freedom to the workingman.

Opponents, primarily labor groups, describe it as a misnamed device to bust unions.

"Right-to-work," says an AFL-CIO pamphlet, "is a misleading slogan. It is intended to be. It implies the guarantee of a job. . . The real purpose of right-to-work legislation is to outlaw collective bargaining and compel a return to the open shop."

Supporters, on the other hand, argue that union-shop contracts deprive workers of their basic American right of free choice and that the issue is squarely one of compulsory or voluntary unionism.

They point to abuses brought out by the Senate's McClellan committee investigation of the huge Teamsters' Union as examples of what a right-to-work law would curb.

The 1947 Taft-Hartley Act set off the real drive for right-to-work legislation. It gave the states the green light to enact their own laws banning union shops.

At present, 18 states, the majority of them in the south, and three California counties and one city have right-to-work laws.

But the idea hasn't fared so well on the state level in California. In 1944, California voters defeated an initiative measure to outlaw the union shop by some half-million votes — 1,893,589 to 1,304,418. Several right-to-work bills also have been introduced in the legislature, but none was approved.

* * * *

PROSPECTS FOR a state right-to-work law are far from dead, however.

Sen. William F. Knowland breathed new life into that possibility a few weeks ago when he picked right-to-work as a key issue in his campaign to unseat his fellow Republican, Goodwin J. Knight, as California's governor.

Knowland, deliberately risking labor opposition in an ostensible appeal to GOP conservative elements, announced if he were governor he would sign a right-to-work bill if it were fair and equitable.

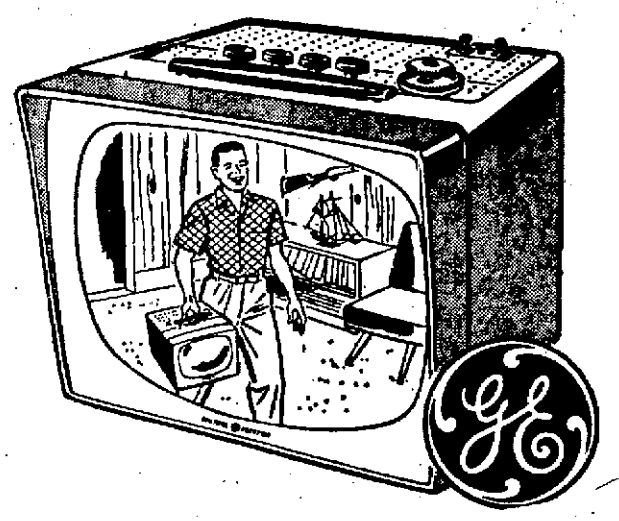

Knight, elected governor with strong backing from the AFL's state federation of labor, fired back that if California got a right-to-work law "there would be a tremendous upheaval and a tremendous depression."

Pageantry, Carnival Spirit to Climax Fisherman's Fiesta

300,000 Expected at Rites, Parade Set in San Pedro

SAN PEDRO—Religious pageantry and the gala carnival spirit of shore liberty today will capture this sea port with the climax of the 11th annual Fisherman's Fiesta.

Throngs estimated at 300,000 will join the mixed nationalities of the fishing fleet in the celebration.

Hightlight events include 1 p.m. parade of 50 garlanded and decorated fishing boats and floats over a winding course through the inner channel, blessing of the fleet in high mass and colorful and elaborate dockside ceremonies.

* * * *

SPECIAL GUESTS at today's parade of the fishing fleet and religious ceremonies include U. S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel of Anaheim, State Sen. Richard Richards, Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, Supervisor Burton Chace and John Gibson, president of the Los Angeles City Council.

The festivities begin at 11 a.m. when Bishop Timothy Manning presides at solemn high mass at Mary Star of the Sea Church.

Following the mass, a procession headed by an armed forces color guard and white plumed Knights of Columbus will be a golden statue of the Blessed Virgin, patron saint of fishermen, down to Fishermen's Wharf for dock ceremonies beginning at 12:30 p.m.

* * * *

AT 1 P.M. blue-robed daughters of fishermen will cast garlands of roses into harbor waters in memory of those who have perished at sea. Then follows the impressive blessing of the fleet ceremony during which Bishop Manning will invoke the blessing of the Almighty on the boats and their crews.

The fiesta then reverts to gaiety with Fiesta Skipperette Frances McHale, 16, of San Pedro, aboard the lead boat Western Monarch, signaling the start of the Parade of the Fishing Fleet.

Theme of this year's parade is "Legends of the Sea."

The lead boat, skippered by John Zankich, will be decorated as "The Birth of Venus." Also aboard will be Juanita Gomez, 18, of Wilmington, and Lynn Husted, 19, of San Pedro.

FRANCES McHALE . . . Skipperette at Helm

OTHER BOATS registered for the parade and their themes include Santa Teresa, "The Flying Dutchman"; Santa Rita, "Outward Bound"; St. Anillo II, "The Vikings"; Russo Brothers, "Aleta and the Swan"; City of Pacific Grove, "Boy on a Dolphin"; Sea Pride, "Wynken, Blynken and Nod"; New San Antonio, "Sea Monster."

Decorated boats in the sponsored division include Comet, "Davy Jones Locker," Van Camp; Ronnie M., "Sinbad the Sailor," Starkist Tuna; Jo-Ann, "Viking of the Sea," California Fish Canners Assoc.; Corsair, "The Old Man and the Sea," City Department of Parks and Recreation; St. George II, "Bali Hai," Falstaff.

Other boats signed up for the parade include Gigi, Bella Marie, St. Christina II, Liberator, Robert M., Sea Scout, Sea Maid, American Venture, Endeavor, Maria, America and Navy Recruiting.

Hurry, Hurry

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (U.P.) — Donald R. Scurlock, 29, was arrested for speeding as he hurried to city court to pay two parking tickets.

Palomar Man Discovers New Comet

NEW YORK (AP)—Discovery of a new twin-tailed comet was reported Saturday by the Hayden Planetarium. It said the comet "should not be confused with the newly-launched Russian satellite."

The planetarium said the comet was discovered Friday by Howard S. Gates of the Palomar Observatory in California, who notified the Harvard College Observatory, clearinghouse for comet data.

The new comet will appear in the northeast sky early today and should be visible to the naked eye, the planetarium said.

It said the comet was expected to "rise approximately three hours before sunrise and to be visible in the constellation Leo between the bright stars Regulus and Denebola until dawn."

The comet was described as having a two-part tail, one of them short and the other long.

It probably will be named for its discoverer.

Russians Say No to Test Plea

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Russia, like the United States and Britain, has rejected Japan's request for a suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

The Foreign Office announced Saturday that Moscow replied Thursday to a Japanese plea of Sept. 2.

The reply, it said, was that the Russians could not suspend the tests for security reasons "so long as the Western nations do not show an attitude affirmative to suspension . . . and so long as the United States and Britain continue their tests."

The two big Western powers, however, have offered to halt the blasts in the framework of a general disarmament agreement.

The Moscow radio expanded on the reply in an English-language broadcast Saturday night. It said Japan was told the Soviet government has been insisting in disarmament talks for several years on an agreement to stop the tests at once.

U.S. Bidder Tops All for Welsh Pony

HEREFORD, England (AP)—An American buyer paid a British record price of 250 guineas ($735) for a Welsh mountain pony at the Hereford sales Saturday. The buyer's name was not disclosed.

Other Americans, attracted by the rising popularity of the sturdy little ponies in the United States bid briskly against local breeders. V. D. Rider of Charlottesville, Va., paid 225 guineas ($661) for a 2-year-old filly.

California breeder J. E. Van Divier of San Jose said he too is taking home a string of the ponies and hopes to start a Welsh pony stud in California.

PULLED OUT WITH ROPE

Save Boy in 150-Ft. Hole

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (U.P.)—Ten-year-old Richard Nasuti fell 150 feet into a drill hole of the Gilberton Coal Co. Saturday but was rescued by a rope lowered to him by an ambulance crew.

The boy was admitted to Locust Mountain State Hospital in serious condition. He suffered shoulder bruises and skinned ankles in the abrupt fall into the hole, which was one foot in diameter. X-rays were ordered to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Richard disappeared into the hole while he and two companions were jumping over it, reminiscent of the Benny Hooper case on Long Island, N. Y.

* * * *

THE PLAYMATES, William Pancerella and Robert Kuchinsky, both 10, said Richard slipped at the edge of the opening and fell in.

The companions ran 100 yards to a coal company crew operating a shovel and shouted the alarm. A telephone call was made to the company office, which, in turn, summoned the Frackville Community Ambulance Corps.

A rescue team of five men rushed four miles to the scene in an ambulance and fire engine.

The rescuers found Richard conscious in the hole. They took a length of rope and tied a loop in it, lowering it to the boy and instructing him to put it around his wrist. Richard complied and he was lifted from the deep, dank pit.

The hole was made by an electric drill to determine the depths of coal veins in advance of the power shovel.

Stealing Books Is Costly Habit

LONDON (AP) — They keep hauling Edgar Russell Austing into court for stealing expensive books to give to his friends. On his most recent court appearance, the 55-year-old Austing paid a 20 pound fine ($56). His attorney told the court:

"I have defended this client so many times on this same charge that I have almost been receiving an annuity from him."

WHO WAS THIS COLUMBUS?

Chinese, Arabs Boast Discovery

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

If you can believe the legends, America must have been the most discovered New World on record by the time Christopher Columbus set foot on it.

Obscure and curious histories tell how the men of half a dozen primitive nations found this remarkable land beyond the sea.

There were Norse, Irish, Welsh — even Chinese and Arabs.

Despite what is set down here, of course, there are those who will insist on celebrating Columbus Day next Saturday.

Even so, let's take a look at some of the fascinating accounts of what happened before 1492:

"He was blown about by the storm and he saw lands he did not expect to see and he found there self-sown fields of wheat and grapevines. . ."

The writer, a 14th century scribe, was telling the story of Leif Ericson and how, tossed by storm, he found a new land across the western sea and named it "Vinland."

* * * *

THE SAGA of Iceland and Greenland tell of Norse explorations and attempts to colonize Vinland and how they were foiled by the savage native Skrellings — "dark men and ugly, with unkempt hair on their heads."

There was Leif's brother, the tragic Thorvald, slain by Skrellings and buried on a Vinland cape "with a cross at my head and a cross at my feet and you shall call the cape Crossness." And it was done.

There was the heroic Thorfin Karlsefni, whose son, Snorri, was born in Vinland, but whose colony gave up after three stubborn years because "they would always live in terror and turmoil of those already living there."

And, there was the ambitious Freydis, Leif's half-sister, and her hen-pecked husband, Thorvard, who murdered half their trading company out of greed for ships and goods and "from that time on, no one thought anything but evil of them."

The sagas end there but Vinland goes on.

* * * *

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH notes that an Eric Gnupson, "bishop of Greenland and Vinland in Partibus Infidelium," vanished on a mission to "Partibus Infidellum," in 1121.

Oriental legend has claimed a Fifth Century discovery of the Land of Fusang, variously placed in California or Mexico. It was notable for the Fusang tree, whose bamboo-like shoots and red fruit were food and whose bark kept the civilized inhabitants of Fusang in clothing and writing paper.

There were Irish monks of an obscure Culdee order hiding on the fringes of Vinland when the Norse came, if you will believe a yarn spun around a collection of cave-like stone structures found in New England.

The Culdees, primitive Christians fleeing the pagan Vikings, established their community more than 500 years before Columbus, or so the story goes.

And don't the Norse sagas make casual reference to "Irland-it-Mikla" or Great Ireland, scarcely a Blarney stone's throw from Vinland, where "people wore white clothes, uttered loud cries, and carried poles with banners on them?" A St. Patrick's Day parade, for sure.

* * * *

EVEN BEFORE the Culdees, another Irishman, St. Brendan of Clonfert, was examining "the most wonderful things" on an island across the western sea. The year was 565.

Belief in St. Brendan's fabulous isle was so strong in the Middle Ages that, even years after Columbus, no map of the western world was complete without it. It was likely to pop up most anywhere from pole to pole.

The Welsh of song and story also discovered America. And, unwittingly, they led the American frontier on one of its merriest chases.

The story began in 1170 with the death of Owen Gwynedd, hero-prince of North Wales. Owen, it is said, left behind four sons and a principality for them to fight over.

One turned down the throne. Two had a go at civil war. The fourth, Madoc, packed his gear and sailed into the setting sun. The fact that Owen never had, or never admitted to, a son named Madoc has never bothered the theorists.

Anyhow, as the Welsh bards sing, Madoc "came to an unknown country where the natives differed from those he had ever seen (and) all things were strange and new."

The prince set up a colony, imported more settlers from Wales and, say the songs, "they followed the manners of the land they came to."

That was indeed an unfortunate thing to say.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, tribes of light-skinned, fair-haired Welsh Indians began sprouting like spring crocuses all over North America. They were the flying saucers of their day, always around the next bend in the river or just beyond the next foothill.

The last bend in the river was rounded and the last foothill scaled before the will-o'-the-wisp Welsh Indians found their place in the realm of dragons, mermaids and the Cardiff Giant.

* * * *

EIGHT ARABS sailed west from Lisbon in the 12th Century and, say the Arab geographers, they came upon a land where the natives had red skin and straight black hair. Indians, for sure.

A globe of the world, made in 1492, locates a western isle called "Antillia," and explains it was discovered in 743 by the Archbishop of Oporto who built there seven cities. The Spaniard Coronado was looking for them when he explored the American Southwest.

And, in 1488, the French navigator Cousin of Dieppe made a landing at the mouth of a wide river, identified hopefully as the Amazon.

Lectures on Africa Scheduled

Four public lectures, including a new series on "Awakening Africa," were announced for this week by City College General Adult Division.

Dr. Giles T. Brown will speak on "The Skyline Kingdom of Ethiopia" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Room 202 of Poly High School, in the first of four weekly color-slide illustrated lectures.

Dr. Brown, chairman of the social science department at Orange Coast College, completed a 30,000-mile tour of Africa last year.

Additional lectures scheduled for this week:

MONDAY

Psychology—Dr. Arthur L. Bietz, "Alcoholism—A Disease or a Way of Life?", 7:30 p.m., City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave.

WEDNESDAY

South America in Transition—Dr. Harvey B. Franklin, "Epoch of the Conquistadores," 2 p.m., Dewey auditorium, 8th and Locust Ave.

Land and People of Mexico—Herbert Williams, "Historic and Modern Mexico," 7:30 p.m., Room 422, City College music building, Clark Ave. and Harvey Way.

Murderous Routine Confronts Elizabeth

By WALTER T. RIDDER, R. E. LEE AND W. W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

Queen Elizabeth soon will arrive in Washington to find a murderous schedule awaiting her. There is not one free moment.

Her Majesty's counselors and the British embassy here wouldn't have dared arrange such a busy agenda, but the Queen ordered it.

One hour of her two days in Washington had been left open in the preliminary list of arrangements presented to Buckingham Palace. The Queen spotted it and ordered her advisors to fill up that hour, preferably with a visit to a hospital.

And so the Embassy made arrangements for her to visit Washington Children's Hospital during the brief hour before she is scheduled to have lunch with Vice President Nixon. It may cause her to be a trifle late.

The Queen is supposed to have told her intimates that she will be happy to go without rest during her five days in the United States and catch up on her sleep with it is all over.

* * * *

ARRANGEMENTS for Vice President Nixon's visit to Western Europe have hit a snag. At British request, he has to figure out a way to arrive in England without its looking as though he is paying a return visit to the Queen.

* * * *

PERCIVAL BRUNDAGE, director of the Bureau of the Budget, has a curious economic theory which is held, as far as we have been able to ascertain, only by himself.

A cut in taxes, Mr. Brundage has been heard to explain, would not be inflationary because the worker would find less money deducted from his pay check. The higher take-home pay would so exhiliarate the worker, Mr, Brundage has declared, that he would not ask for wage increases. Ergo, a tax cut is not inflationary.

We are told that labor union officials do not subscribe 100 per cent to Mr. Brundage's rationale.

* * * *

BOB KING, long the assistant to Vice President Nixon here in Wasihngton, is quitting to take on a perilous job. He is slated to become executive director of the operating committee for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games to be held at Squaw Valley, Calif.

If Bob thinks that his job soothing the troubled brows of American politicians has been rough, he should just wait until he hits the temperaments of international sports figures. He might as well be warned in advance that his greatest problem will be something he cannot do much about.

Almost invariably at the time the winter games are about to commence, the sun shines, the mercury soars, and spectators and contestants dolefully watch the speeing rivulets of what had once been snow and ice. Good luck, Bob, in your new job—and good weather!

Nevada U President Quits Post

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Dr. Minard W. Stout, 49-year-old University of Nevada president whose administration weathered five stormy years and a full-scale legislative investigation, Saturday submitted his resignation to the board of regents.

Stout, who came to the school at the beginning of the 1952 academic year from the University of Minnesota where he was director of the university training school, had been under attack periodically since the spring of 1953 when a biology professor was fired after a three-day public dismissal hearing.

The state legislature, irked by continued reports of faculty unrest on the campus, appropriated $25,000 for a "top-to-bottom" survey of the school.

French Tell Clash in Libya Area

ALGIERS (AP) — French authorities announced Saturday a Foreign Legion platoon clashed Thursday with a group of rebels who crossed into the Sahara region from neighboring Libya.

This was the second official French indication that the nationalist rebels are spreading their three-year-old fight into the desert, using Libya as their base.

But Libyan authorities challenged the French version. They declared a strong French unit crossed into Libya and attacked a military post there.

* * * *

THE AREA where the clash took place was pinpointed by the French as about 15 miles south of Ghat in the Tassili region. The frontier between Algeria and Libya is not clearly indicated there.

Last month, the area was the scene of an attack against two French trucks.

The French version of Thursday's clash said the Legion platoon was attacked by a group of khaki-clad rebels. Aided by planes from the Port-Charlet base, the Legionnaires pushed the attackers away, killing one man and seizing a number of weapons.

In Tripoli, Libyan Foreign Minister Wahbi Bouri charged Saturday that the French attacked the border village of Ibsin.

* * * *

HE TOLD newsmen the Ghat garrison was compelled to resist aggression and consequently two Libyan soldiers were wounded, a civilian was killed and damage was caused to the village.

The French force withdrew and, although its casualties were unknown, one French plane was hit, Bouri said.

The Libyan government has protested to the French ambassador, he added, and it has been decided to reinforce the Ghat garrison.

Princess on Holiday With Handsome Noble

LONDON (Sunday) (AP) — Princess Alexandra, 20-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, today was linked romantically with a handsome, jazz-loving British nobleman.

The Sunday Dispatch reported the pretty, dark-haired Princess is on holiday in Scotland with Lord O'Neill, 24, whose family owns a castle and a large estate in Northern Ireland.

They are staying at the Scottish home of Mrs. David Butler, socialite and friend of the royal family. The Princess's lady-in-waiting, Lady Moyra Hamilton, has been told she is "not needed in Scotland at present"—a sure sign that the holiday is an especially private one, the Dispatch said.

Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, will be 21 on Christmas Day.

O'Neill is a friend of the Princess's brother, the Duke of Kent.

Crime Spree Ends for Two Teen Couples

ANOKA, Minn. (UP)—Four runaway teenagers, who raced through at least eight midwestern and southern states on a crime spree last week, were captured by police here early Saturday.

The youths, two boys and two girls, admitted 16 burglaries and told police they stole three cars since leaving their homes a week ago at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Police said three of them are 16 years old and the fourth is 15.

They were picked up when police found them loitering about town late Friday night. Police said their car was loaded with goods they had stolen.

* * *

POLICE SAID the two boys left Benton Harbor a week ago Saturday and took a bus to Madison, Wis., where they stole a car. They drove it back to Benton Harbor, repainted it Sunday and, accompanied by the two girls, set out again Monday.

They drove through Kentucky, Arkansas and Tennessee, leaving a trail of burglaries. In Illinois, they abandoned the car picked up at Madison and stole another.

They then moved into Iowa, where they abandoned the second stolen auto and stole a third. They said they also committed several more burglaries.

President Congratulates L.B. Woman 100 Years Old

Congratulations from President Eisenhower were presented Mrs. Jeanetta French, 100 years old, at a reception Saturday afternoon in her honor in First Baptist Church, 10th St. and Pine Ave.

From the White House came a card that read: "Please accept my sincere congratulations upon your birthday. May good health be yours through many more happy years.

(Signed)
"DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER"

The reception was given by Mrs. French's class, the Women's Bible Class. She cut a tiered cake. Mrs. French, long a member of First Baptist Church, for many years sang in its choir. Her husband, the late Frank D. French, was a trustee when the original church was built at 4th St. and Locust Ave.

MRS. FRENCH
Honored at Church

Mrs. French, 2455 E. 4th St., was born in Geneva, Wis., lived in Lafayette, Ind., and in Riverside and Colton before coming to Long Beach in 1903. She has three sons, two grandsons and four great-granddaughters.

Swiss Maneuvers Canceled by Flu

BERN, Switzerland (UP) — The government has canceled all military maneuvers scheduled to start during the next three weeks because of the influenza epidemic sweeping Switzerland.

The government said there already were so many cases of flu among the troops that the training program was seriously hampered.

State Nets Big Oil Profit Here

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

HOW A RUMOR can run wild was nicely demonstrated in the flurry of reports around here Friday and Saturday that the Long Beach Naval Shipyard had been slated for closing in a few days.

There was nothing to the story, but it was not hard to trace its origin.

It apparently stemmed from testimony presented at the interim subsidence committee hearings here, where things were said about the subsidence threat to the shipyard.

It was stated plainly that the shipyard will be ultimately closed if the state and city do not do something to attempt, at least, stopping subsidence.

This is not new. It has been said publicly many times here, and has been again and again in the news.

But this time, somebody must have heard just a scrap of the report, misunderstood, and started a false rumor. It spread like wildfire. At the yard, morale took quite a beating before it was learned that absolutely nothing new had happened. This newspaper's telephones jangled.

A long distance call to Washington finally disposed of the rumor. But meanwhile, a lot of nerves had been pretty shaken.

I DO NOT want to belabor the tolerant readers of this dept. with stories about the singing water closet at our house, but it seems necessary to put out a final bulletin.

It has stopped singing?

Yes, sir, and I did it with my own hands, thereby re-establishing my standing at home as a handyman and worthy husband and father.

FROM MANY readers I received suggestions, some serious and some intended to get me into more trouble.

Among them, I found a letter from L. A. Meyer, 5932 Lorelei Ave., Lakewood, who sure knows his water closets.

The secret imparted by Mr. Meyers: A thin coat of vaseline on the plunger that shuts off the water coming into the closet.

My thanks to all who have shown such interest in this problem, and particularly to those who sent in instructions and offers of tools. And to those others who reported that they too, have had bathroom fixtures that groan, moan and sing: Have courage, and get out the vaseline.

IT'S NOT OFTEN a man can claim credit for public reforms in a city not his own, but Bruce Galbreath of Long Beach has just turned in such an accomplishment.

Galbreath, as was reported in this dept. recently, visited Honolulu and was driven to furious anger when he saw the condition in which pets are kept in quarantine there. He was not only sore about that, but he thought the 120-day quarantine requirement was excessive.

So he sat down and wrote a hot letter to the editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, expressing himself frankly and colorfully.

Saturday he got a letter from the police chief or some other Honolulu official, who said that after Galbreath's letter appeared, the city allocated $20,000 to clean up the quarantine situation. Galbreath is going to keep after them about that 120-day business, now that he has achieved a bit of success.

THE SUBSIDENCE hearings here, which I covered, went along generally without much humorous relief. It was pretty serious business.

But one incident occurred that helped a little.

Rev. Russell Brougher, the Civic League prexy, was testifying before the committee and was indicating from a distance, some things on a map on an easel.

Now it happened that map had been put there by Engineer William L Horner, one of the city's consultants in connection with previous testimony.

Horner, not realizing that Brougher was using his map, walked up and calmly took it down, even as Brougher's finger was pointing at it.

The good preacher had a bad moment, but the engineer, discovering what was going on, promptly replaced the map on the easel. And all the oil men, and politicians, and legislators, and city officials, and newsmen, and interested citizens got one big laugh out of a long, tough hearing.

Radar Traps 1,700 Here in September

Operation Radar of the Long Beach Police Dept. netted over 1,700 speeders during September, according to figures released Saturday by the department.

Injury accidents for the month were reduced by almost 75 per cent while noninjury accidents increased slightly, a police spokesman said.

Since the radar car was put into service in July, more than 4,300 citations for speeding have been issued by the radar unit.

* * * *

THE SEPTEMBER speeding tally for the city is slightly higher than the average for the cities of comparable size, the police official said.

Present plans call for addition of a second radar car in the near future.

Chest Business Units Ready to Start Drives

Three more business units of the United Neighbors Community Chest campaign will open their drives this week.

A team of 80 volunteers will meet for a breakfast rally Monday morning in the Lakewood Country Club. Following the rally they will begin their drive to raise $32,308 from among business firms and their employes. Chairman of the group is L. H. Brewer.

Monday afternoon the financial division headed by Max Nichol will meet to receive assignments. The division will operate in six work groups, with a goal of $60,283.

Oil division workers Tuesday evening will receive final instructions prior to opening their drive toward a goal of $101,500. Division chairman is Maurice Hubbell.

Two Named Directors of Youth Band

Don Goodman and Lynn Hunsaker have been appointed assistant directors of Long Beach Youth Band, director Gordon Carmen announced Saturday.

Fred Kuntz has been named concertmaster.

Boys and girls from 13 to 19 years old are eligible for band membership if they have had one year's experience on a musical instrument, Carmen said.

Chief sampler of the cooking accomplishments of Bob Utterback (left) and Ray Huey is Robert Utterback Sr., Boy Scout troop leader. Thanks to Community Chest support, more than 18,000 boys in the Long Beach area now enjoy the advantages of scouting. Chest funds are used to finance 31 of these youth, health or welfare organizations.

STATE CONVENTION SET

School Leaders to Parley Here

Administrators and trustees of the school systems which serve 3,000,000 youth of California will come to Long Beach this week to "find better ways to improve the instructional program of the state and, in turn, develop more effective citizens."

The vanguard of 1,500 professional heads of California's school systems began arriving Saturday for the convention of the California Association of School Administrators. Another 1,100 members of the California School Boards Assn. will join with the administrators Thursday and continue their annual conference through Sunday.

* * * *

ROY E. SIMPSON, superintendent of public instruction for California, will be principal speaker at the opening general session.

Dr. Nolan D. Pulliam of Stockton, president of the California Association of School Administrators, and Hilton Bell of Visalia, convention committee chairman, arrived here Saturday to make final convention plans.

The administrative policies commission and resolution committee will meet Monday at 9 a.m. in Wilton Hotel. Monday at 7 p.m. the board of directors and past presidents will meet in the Wilton. The first general session will be Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. in Municipal Auditorium.

* * * *

GENERAL SESSIONS will be interspersed with section meetings in which subjects ranging from "Trends in Selecting Textbooks" to "Merit Rating of Teachers" will be discussed.

Douglas A. Newcomb, local superintendent, will be on the dinner panel for new superintendents Tuesday at 6 p.m. and will preside at the "Human Relations in School Administration" section meeting Tuesday at 8 a.m. Other local educators who will be panelists include Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson, immediate past president of the California School Boards Assn., and Helen G. Myers, Marjorie T. Fullwood, Arthur A. Knoll, George E. Dotson, Robert E. Swenson, Henry D. Cooke, Mrs. Nelle O'Brien, J. Holley Ashcraft, William B. Melchior and Harry B. Frishman of the Long Beach Unified School District staff.

The Long Beach Junior High School All-City Orchestra will play at the general session Tuesday morning and the Long Beach City College String Trio will play at the ladies' tea on Thursday afternoon.

Officers Get New Duties

Two command changes were announced by Long Beach Navy officials Saturday.

Capt. Earl T. Hydeman, USN, has succeeded Capt. Louis D. McGregor Jr., USN, as commander of Destroyer Squadron 9. Capt. McGregor's new assignment is with Bureau of Navy Personnel in Washington, D. C.

Capt. Hydeman, who previously commanded the USS Kawishiwi, will reside with his family at 6010 Appian Way.

Cmdr. John J. Phillips, USN, becomes commanding officer of the destroyer USS DeHaven, relieving Cmdr. Floyd M. Symons, USN, who has been ordered to Recruit Training Command of San Diego's Naval Training Center.

Cmdr. Phillips formerly was ordnance officer for 9th Naval District.

145 Million Yielded by Local Wells

By GEORGE WEEKS

City of Long Beach has paid to the state a total of $145,106,179.93 in oil and gas revenues under terms of the 1956 compromise legislation.

The whopping figure was disclosed by City Auditor John R. Mansell in a report which also covered royalty payments to city from Long Beach Oil Development Co. and Richfield Oil Corp., operating contractors in the tideland field.

Latest payment by the city to the state was made last week, representing one month's equal sharing of net tideland oil revenues and the value of all dry gas produced. It amounted to $1,317,273.40.

LBOD oil production accounted for $819,631.85 of the monthly remittance, with $395,745.77 from Richfield production and $101,895.78 from gas.

* * * *

THE SPLIT in revenues became effective Jan. 31, 1956, as specified in the compromise legislation and a subsequent court decree. Only deductions from the state's share have been 25 per cent of subsidence costs incurred by the city.

Of the $145,106,179.93 total, LBOD produced $112,797,797.34 and Richfield $32,308,382.59.

Mansell's report also quoted additional figures emphasizing the high productivity of the city-owned parcels and the relatively high percentage of return to the city under the operating contracts.

* * * *

SINCE FIRST PRODUCTION by LBOD in 1939 the gross value of oil and gas sales has reached $400,334,429.56.

The city has received $230,961,866.52, or 57.69 per cent.

During the 12 months ended June 30, 1957, the net revenue payment was $20,151,033.81, or 68.27 per cent. Not included in this amount is $943,477.19 payable to the state for dry gas revenue, in which the city does not now share.

Total barrels of oil shipped by LBOD are 191,610,357.60. There are 713 wells currently producing.

* * * *

NET REVENUE to the city from the Richfield contract has risen to $58,701,849.30, or 71.45 per cent of the $82,157,202.43 gross total.

During the last fiscal year the city received $8,731,009.32, a cash return of 81.16 per cent without counting $526,488.55 accruing to the state in dry gas value.

Richfield has shipped 35,409,472.69 barrels during the 10 years of its contract. The area in which it operates has 151 producing wells.

Mansell pointed out that the revenue figures for both companies do not include material and equipment purchased by the contractors but owned by the city. Its estimated original cost is $28,000,000.

Radio Free Europe Hosts, I, P-T Exec

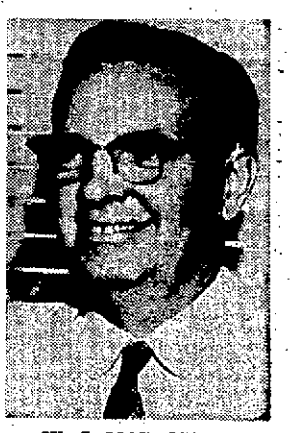

W. J. Morrissey, Independent, Press-Telegram circulation director, will be one of 60 American civic, business and newspaper executives to leave New York Friday on a 10-day inspection tour of the Radio Free Europe broadcasting center in Munich, Germany.

The tour, sponsored by the Crusade for Freedom, will include side trips to the Iron Curtain.

THE GROUP WILL FLY to West Berlin, where its members will be briefed by the U.S. mission on the current Soviet situation.

They will spend one day examining a segment of the Iron Curtain, heavily reinforced since last fall's Hungarian revolt.

On their return trip to New York, group members will stop in Paris where they will be addressed by Supreme Allied Commander Lauris Norstad.

Former residents of Pilger, Neb., will hold a picnic beginning at noon Oct. 13 in Griffith Park, Los Angeles. Picknickers will assemble near the park's bus stop.

SPANS TO END ISOLATION

T. Island May Link to Land

By LEE CRAIG

Long awaited improvement of access to Terminal Island and its many industries may be near to reality if current plans of harbor, state and federal authorities bear fruit.

Now under consideration are plans which ultimately will provide:

1. Access to Terminal Island from San Pedro—other than the present slow, outmoded ferry—by means of either a $20,500,000 tunnel or a modern, $25,000,000 high-level bridge.

2. Improved entry from the north by replacing the Bascule and Commodore Heim bridges with a quarter-mile-wide causeway.

3. Replacement of the narrow, hazardous pontoon bridge on the east, across the Long Beach harbor entrance channel to the island, with the Commodore Heim structure.

* * * *

CONSTRUCTION of a tube beneath the Los Angeles channel has been sought for more than 30 years, spearheaded by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of San Pedro.

Local leaders now apparently favor a bridge, which would be four lanes compared with two for the tunnel, and would cost less to operate and maintain.

Favored site for the bridge—either cantilever or suspension type—is across the Boschke Slough area from Harbor Blvd. and Amar St. in San Pedro to Seaside Ave. and Ferry St. on Terminal Island.

This location would link the nearby Harbor Freeway with Long Beach Freeway across Terminal Island at the Ocean Blvd. Bridge, now under construction.

* * * *

MAIN HITCH is how the cross-channel bridge would be financed. Assemblyman Thomas has said the project should be financed with assistance by state gasoline tax funds. He plans to introduce legislation at next year's Assembly session to accomplish this.

Construction of a causeway across the Cerritos Channel at the present site of the Bascule and Heim structures has also been considered for many years, although unofficially.

The idea was first broached officially by Rear Adm. Robert L. Campbell, Terminal Island Naval Base commander, on a suggestion by Charles L. Vickers, Long Beach assistant port manager, and Rear Adm. (ret.) J. R. McKinney.

Adm. Campbell's letter asking consideration of the proposal has been received favorably by both Long Beach and Los Angeles harbor officials. A third copy of the letter went to the Army Corps of Engineers which, presumably, would also favor the project.

* * * *

WORKING FOR the scheme is the effect of subsidence on the two bridges. The Bascule Bridge is now being raised for the last time. It will become permanently inoperable in another 8 to 10 years, depending on the subsidence rate.

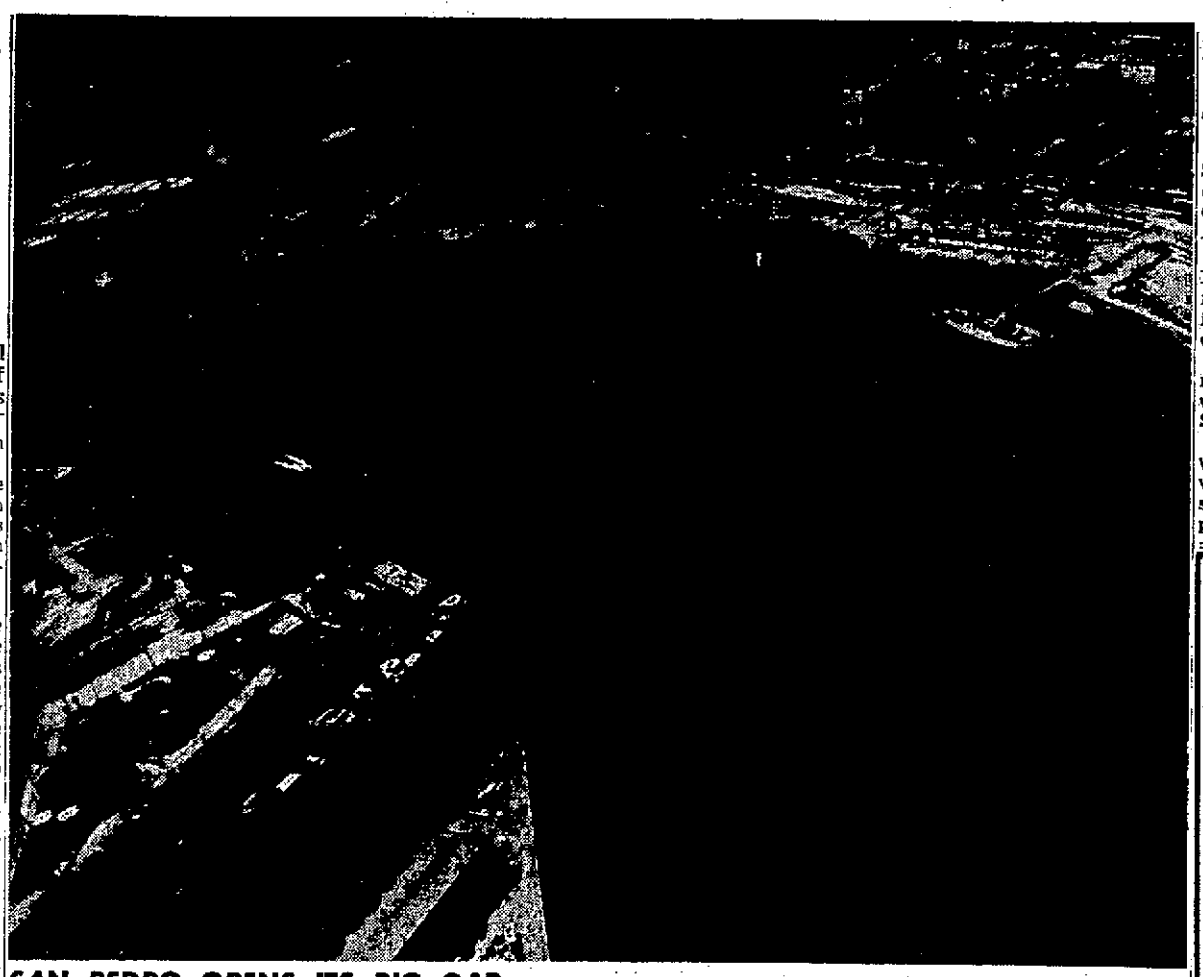

The Heim bridge, under tremendous pressure through horizontal subsidence, will soon need costly major repairs.

Few ocean-going vessels now use the Cerritos Channel between the two harbors because of the danger of striking either of the bridges. Only small craft would be affected by closure of the channel.

Construction of the causeway would be far from an overnight job. Officials feel that a start should be made soon to insure completion of the causeway before shutdown of the Bascule Bridge.

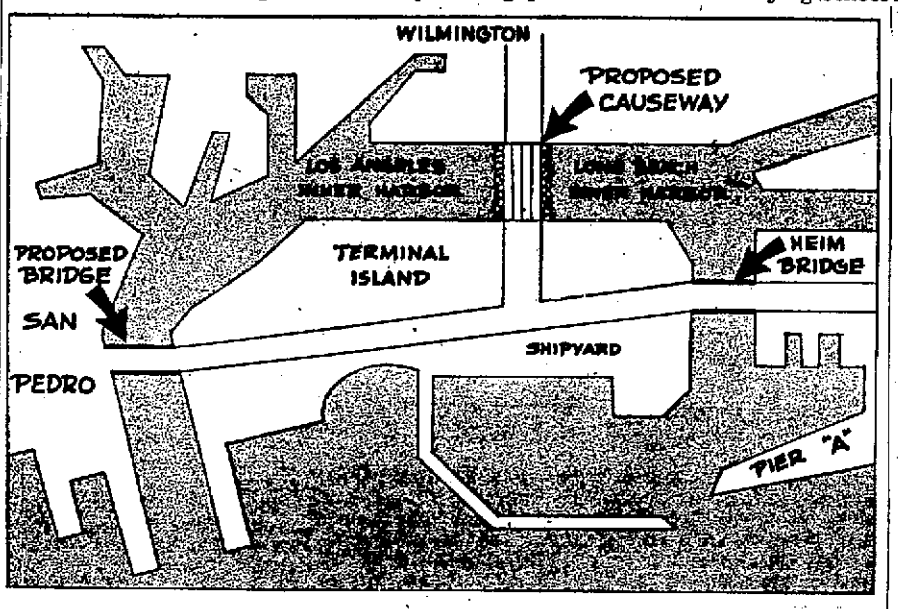

Next step to further the project, local authorities feel, would be a joint meeting among Long Beach and Los Angeles harbor officials and Navy and Army Engineer representatives.

Such a meeting may soon be held.

SAN PEDRO OPENS ITS BIG GAP

A ferry-boat chuffing across the one thousand yards that separate Terminal Island (lower left) from San Pedro points up isolation of the island in terms of modern transportation. Harbor planners envision a high bridge or tube to span the gap for commuters employed in big industries and Navy installations on the island. Plans also call for a rock-solid causeway to link island with the mainland. (Staff photo by Don Webster from Aircraft Associates Flying School Plane.)

HOW TO MAKE A PENINSULA

Terminal Island would be converted into a peninsula of sorts if long range planning results in action. A causeway one-fourth mile wide would replace the Heim bridge at its present location, providing a rock-solid link between the mainland and island. The bridge would be moved to the east end of the island to replace the present pontoon bridge. The ferry between San Pedro and the island would be replaced by either a high bridge or tube.

Prize Movie to Be Shown

"The Great Adventure," a Cannes Festival award-winning film produced by Arne Sucksdorff, will be shown at Los Altos Branch Library, 5614 Britton Dr., at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Charles Thompson of the Art Department of Long Beach State College will introduce the film. The public is invited.

SALESGIRLS SELL WARES IN UNDERWEAR

KEOKUK, Iowa (U.P.)—The "ridiculous day" sale in downtown Keokuk, complete with girls wearing red flannels, was in full swing for the second day Saturday.

Businessmen hauled their wares to sidewalk tables, slashed prices and attracted customers with pajama and underwear-clad girls.

Hawkers bellowed "Don't go elsewhere to get cheated," and "Don't go next door, they haven't got anything anyway."

Height of Peaks 'No Inducement'

DARJEELING, India (A.P.)—It isn't the height of the mountain that intrigues mountain climbers any more. Guido Magnone, leader of a French mountain climbers group here surveying the 25,300-foot Mt. Janu for a climbing expedition, had this to say:

"Now that all the highest mountains (in the Himalayas) except Dhaulagiri have been climbed, the challenge is for the lower, more difficult peaks."

Way 'Out of World,' Return Sought by L.B. Area Man

By HERB SHANNON

PALOS VERDES ESTATES—Looking for the way out of this world? The one with the return-trip ticket?

Keep an eye on Alfred M. Mayo, 40, of 2901 Via La Selva, who is rated as one of the nation's leading authorities on space travel.

Not that Mayo is one of that select group which claims to have hitch-hiked on flying saucers. Nor does he write fiction, science or otherwise.

As chief equipment and safety research engineer for the El Segundo divisibn of Douglas Aircraft Co., Mayo is daily engaged in removing roadblocks in the path of interplanetary flight.

* * * *

AND AS president of the Space Medical Society of the Aero-Medical Assn., he spends most of his spare time on a kind of spaceman's holiday, assisting research toward the day when man will blast off on the first excursion to Mars or the moon.

The Aero-Medical Assn. is a national organization of physicans, engineers and technicians both in and out of government service which works closely with the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field in research on the human problems of space flight.

Since April, Mayo has been president of the Space Medical Society, one of the groups within the parent organization. His election is unique in that he is the first man without a medical degree to hold the office since the association was formed in 1952.

* * * *

"THERE SEEMS to be a need for engineering knowledge in every field," the modest engineer explains.

How close are we to actual space flight?

"It's just a matter of money,"

ALFRED MAYO . . . The Rub: Way Back

Mayo maintains. "We would be on the verge now if there were sufficient public interest, reflected by investment of cold cash."

Mayo believes that inhabited space craft will fly up to 80,000 miles an hour and will take from several months to several years to complete round trips to nearby planets.

* * * *

"SPACE TRAVEL will be limited not so much by distance as by time," he said. "It won't do much good to send a man to a distant planet if he dies of old age en route."

The space ship itself will be compartmented like a submarine, with automatic air locks and probably an outer layer of thin "buffer skin" to resist instant destruction by contact with a meteor particle, Mayo continued.

Other problems, such as those posed by solar radiations, will soon be solved by advancing technical knowledge, Mayo believes. But the chief obstacle which must be overcome, in his opinion is the question of how to bring a space craft safely back to earth again.

* * * *

NOW THAT science is all but ready to shoot for the moon, Mayo thinks it is about time more brains and resources are aimed at providing a return voyage.

As he puts it:

"Who wants to be the first space man if you can't come back to brag about it?"

9 Students Hurt as Log Tower Falls

BALDWIN, Kan. (UP)—A 25-foot-high pyramid of logs collapsed under the weight of 45 Baker University fraternity members Saturday, injuring nine students.

The students were posing for a picture after building the pyramid for their annual steak fry.

"One corner gave way and the side dropped about four feet throwing practically everybody to the ground," said Perry Miller, president of Zeta Chi, a local fraternity.

The logs had been raised around a large tree in pyramid fashon, with a base about 20x20 feet.

Harvest Haste Plea of Pravda

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda has appealed once more for Soviet grain harvesters to get in the crop. Warning that winter weather is moving in fast, it called for the mobilization of more workers to complete the threshing and storage of grain.

The Communist Party newspaper said there has been a serious lag in the processing of grain this year.

BOY MEETS BOSS

Boys Camp Extends Program to Winter

The three-month summer program of the R. M. Pyles Boys Camp is being expanded to cover the entire year.

Starting this fall, the youngsters who populate the High Sierra camp during the vacation will receive year-round help and services from the camp director, Bob McAdams, and his assistant, Benny Wharton.

Under the plan, McAdams and Wharton will inaugurate a winter job placement service for their summer charges, helping the school boys find part time work.

* * * *

THEY ALSO PLAN to offer home counselling to the youngsters as problems arise. In addition, recreational activities will be scheduled.

The boys will go on outings to Disneyland and to football games. McAdams and Wharton will help them join Boy Scout troops and boys clubs and find other wholesome leisure time activities.

* * * *

THE CAMP PROGRAM started and has continued under sponsorship of men and women in California's petroleum industry. Its purpose is to send boys who otherwise couldn't go to two weeks in the camp in the wilds north of Porterville.

Several thousand youths have enjoyed the program in the nine years since its start. Deserving youngsters are referred by school, welfare and juvenile authorities.

Originated by local oil man R. M. Pyles, the program now has two other Long Beach men, Freed Fairfield and John Hancock, on the board.

Haiti Spurns U.S. Demand, Denies Guilt

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UP) — Haiti's ruling military junta has snubbed United States demands for guarantees against mistreatment of its citizens, it was learned Saturday.

It also was learned that the junta declines to admit any wrong-doing in the case of Shibley Talmas, U.S. citizen who died in army custody Sunday. The United States charges he was beaten to death in prison, despite formal assurances he would not be mistreated.

The threat of civil war has hung over Haiti since the presidential elections two weeks ago. The junta has declared Dr. Francois Duvalier the winner, while Duvalier's chief opponent, Louis De Joie, has accused the junta of election fraud. De Joie is in hiding.

HE'S GOT THE TOUCH

Blinded by an accident, Jack Polston, 32, of 326 E. 22nd St., Costa Mesa, continues to work as an electrician. Here he completes installation of circuit breaker panel on tract home. His co-workers agree that his handicap hasn't hurt his efficiency.—(Staff Photo.)

ASKS NO SYMPATHY

Blind Craftsman Stays on the Job

By BRYAN HODGSON

COSTA MESA—Before he was blinded in an accident, Jack Polston was a skilled electrian.

That was two years ago.

Today, he's working as an electrician again, more than holding his own in the highly-technical job.

But the 32-year-old Costa Mesan, who lives at 326 E. 22nd St., has no patience with people who think it's "just wonderful" that he can do the job despite his handicap.

"Sure I'm blind," he said this week. "But that's not important. What is important is whether or not I'm a good electrician."

* * * *

POLSTON BELIEVES too many people — including many blind persons— think that blindness means helplessness, and that a blind person who becomes self-supporting is a man of rare courage.

"Everybody sympathizes with us," he said. "But very few people are willing to give a chance to prove that we can handle many jobs as well as any sighted person.

"I applied for a civil service electrician's job several months ago. They told me I couldn't do the job. But I am doing the job. So who was right?"

* * * *

DESPITE HIS DISCLAIMER of courage, many people might find something to admire in Polston's reaction to the problems which have beset him and wife, DeeDee.

When he was nine years old, a BB-gun accident destroyed the sight of his right eye. He became an electrician in 1942, and in December, 1955, the grinding wheel shattered as he worked in the back yard of his home. A fragment entered his left eye and blinded him instantly. Recently his wife discovered that she may lose her sight because of an hereditary disease.

"It was just one of those things," Polston said, "After I got out of the hospital, I spent 17 months at a state-supported orientation school for the blind in Oakland—there is a lot you need to learn."

When he left the school, Polston had very little luck convincing anyone that he could do a useful job until he contacted W. A. Ferguson, business manager of Local 441, International Brotherhod of Electrical Workers.

"I shook my head at first when Jack asked for a job," Ferguson said. "But he convinced me it was worth a try. We finally found a contractor who was willing to give him a chance.

"I'd like to emphasize that there was no charity involved—contractors are in business to make money, and if Jack's work hadn't been acceptable it would have ended right there."

HOW DOES POLSTON manage to perform the intricate wiring and installations jobs required in his job?

"Well, it was my job before I was blinded," he said. "So it was just a matter of learning to do it with my eyes closed, so to speak.

"Don't get me wrong—there are quite a few things I can't do.

"I had to hire a high school girl to drive me to work and home again. I can't read the serial numbers on parts boxes so the other guys usually put them where they're to be installed. And it takes me a little while to learn the layout of the houses I work in.

"As for wiring—well, it's always done the same way. I haven't had any trouble yet."

POLSTON'S FOREMAN, Russell Baker, of 1810 S. Parton St., Santa Ana, agrees.

"At first I thought we'd have to carry him," he said. "But it didn't happen. There are a few minor things he can't do, but outside of that he does as much work—and as well—as any other man."

Polston was reluctant to receive any publicity.

"Most of the stories you read about blind people are pretty maudlin," he said. "But maybe this will help other blind persons who run into a stone wall when they look for work.

"We don't need sympathy and we don't need charity.

"All we need is a chance."

NEW LEADER

Hosmer Sees Water Need as Greatest

California has a greater influence in world affairs than most independent nations, Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) said Saturday night.

But if the state is to continue in this substantial role, it must solve its water problems, the congressman said. He addressed an assembly of the Past Presidents' Assn. of Native Sons of Golden West in Lafayette Hotel.

"Vice President Richard Nixon, Chief Justice Earl Warren and a large and able delegation in Congress make this state powerful in both national and international decisions," Hosmer said.

* * * *

"OUR AIRCRAFT and electronic industries and our agriculture have worldwide influence," he continued. "Our movie industry is a major factor in shaping world opinions."

Further growth to maintain the state's position can come only if new water sources are obtained, the speaker said.

Henri C. Storti, San Francisco, was installed as governor general of the organization.

Appointed Director

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — University of Wisconsin regents Saturday approved the appointment of Prof. Arthur D. Cole of the California Institute of Technology as director of the university's Washburn Observatory. He will replace Prof. Albert E. Whitford, director of the University of California's Lick Observatory.

Missing Coed Threatens to Take Her Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Police said Saturday that Marcia Horan, missing 21-year-old coed, has written from New York to a Chicago friend, saying she intends to take her own life.

Chief of Detectives Patrick Deeley asked New York police to seek the Horan girl, missing from her Chicago home since Sept. 4, at 53 W. 73rd St., New York—the return address on the letter received here.

Miss Horan, a student at Loyola University, Chicago, disappeared after withdrawing most of the funds in her $300 bank account.

PE Proposals for Subdivision Up for Study by City Planners

A proposed 99-lot subdivision north of Appian Way and south of the Marine Stadium—part of the package deal whereby the city expects to obtain land for marina expansion — is scheduled for consideration next Thursday by the City Planning Commission.

Planning Director Werner Ruchti said the tract map, filed in his office by E. Van Dusen, manager of the real estate division of Pacific Electric Railway Co., is being reviewed by technicians, pending action by the commission.

Under an agreement already executed between the city and PE, land for the marina will be conveyed by the railroad only in the event the subdivision is approved.

* * * *

THE PROPOSED housing strip extends from a line 200 feet east of Nieto Ave. to Padua Dr. near J. H. Davies Bridge. It is zoned R-2 so each lot may be occupied by two dwellings or a duplex. Most of the lots measure 50x150 feet.

Residents in the marina area have repeatedly opposed the subdivision, contending the land should be developed as a public park.

* * * *

PE ASKED THE CITY to grant six variances from the subdivision code. These are;

1. That a 20-foot easement for the widening of Appian Way, plus a 10-foot strip for an acceleration lane, be accepted in lieu of any requirement for a service road or alley.

2. That a proposed private street 40-feet wide be permitted since it will serve only two interior lots. (Under usual circumstances, subdivision streets must be at least 54 feet wide.)

3. That a proposed extension of La Verne Ave. to serve six lots be approved at a 50-foot width.

4. That a 40-foot frontage be permitted for one lot.

5. That length of blocks exceeding 1,325 feet between intersecting streets be permitted because, in the negotiations, the city expressed a desire to have only one mid-block access to the stadium.

6. That block widths providing for only one tier of lots be permitted because of the physical characteristics of the land.

Ruchti pointed out that, while the Planning Commission initially considers all subdivisions, final authority rests with the City Council in applications where there are variances from the code.

If You Can Count to 4 You Can Win

If you can count to four you can be a success, believes Jim Jones, 5460 The Toledo, writer and lecturer on practical psychology, founder and president of a Compton food supplement company.

JIM JONES

He has incorporated his theories into a book "If You Can Count to Four . . ." (Whitehorn Publishing Co., 2011 American Ave.)

Jones will autograph copies of his book from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday at Buffums'.

The four points to success, Jones thinks, are: 1—Identify (Make up your mind definitely what you want); 2—Pretend (Act as if you already have what you want, or are the person you want to be); 3—No Thank You (Turn a deaf ear to discouragement); 4—How (Get your subconscious to work for you.)

Thompson Loper Diotte
Funeral Service

Little things . . . relatively unimportant in themselves . . . combine to make the important difference in our service . . . for example . . .

THE FAMILY ROOM IN OUR CHAPEL HAS A PRIVATE ENTRANCE

If the family wishes complete privacy at a Thompson & Diotte service, it is so easy to obtain. Our limousine takes them directly to the private family-room entrance, and picks them up there when the service is over. L. B. Presents Clear, Strong Case

LONG BEACH on occasion has lacked luster in its performances before legislative committees probing this city's tidelands, oil, and subsidence problems. The trouble has not been the absence of a good case, but failure to organize and present it in an effective way. Fortunately, there was no such shortcoming this week when Long Beach testified at the Assembly interim committee hearings here.

The city's representatives and consultants deserve praise for a clear, strong, well-documented presentation of the causes, effects, and most likely remedy of land sinkage in Long Beach's tidelands.

THEY TOLD THE COMMITTEE that oil extraction is causing subsidence and that repressurization is the remedy proposed by the experts who have studied the problem. Committee members developed the point that it has never been proven that repressurization (injection of water to restore pressures destroyed by oil withdrawal) can prevent sinkage. The city had an answer to that.

The answer is that the very best evidence developed by scientists in this field points to repressurization as the solution. The only way to find out for sure, however, is to try it out. If we don't try something, all we'll know is that we didn't try. We'll continue to sink.

We have nothing to lose by repressurization. While the effect on subsidence has yet to be demonstrated, it has already been established that repressurization increases oil production. The increased production in Long Beach's case could be counted on to offset the expense of the project.

ON EVERY FRONT, local people made a sound case. We include the Navy's representatives, who described the danger of subsidence at the shipyard, and the value of the shipyard to national defense and the economy of California. Adm. Robert Campbell, commander of the Naval Base, stated flatly that subsidence must be stopped if the yard, a vital link in West Coast defense, is to continue to operate. Such testimony must have impressed upon the committee the crucial nature of the decision they are to make.

Further hearings are scheduled for a later date. We trust that the committee will remain open-minded, and that Long Beach will meet the occasion with the same poise and organization displayed this week.

President Digs in for a Long War

AT LAST THURSDAY'S press conference, President Eisenhower dug in for a long war.

He said emphatically that federal troops will remain in Little Rock until Gov. Faubus changes his mind on school integration and gives satisfactory and unequivocal assurance that law and order will be maintained.

There is no present indication that Arkansas' governor intends to surrender by meeting these conditions. Rather, he is scurrying about the state, taking bows at county fairs and lapping up the glory.

THE ROAD TO CONCILIATION was unblocked when four Southern governors intervened to promote a workable understanding between the President and Gov. Faubus.

Their efforts, which "excited the admiration" of the President, came to naught when Gov. Faubus failed to carry through with what appeared to be an agreement in principle.

This impasse left the President with no choice but to continue the use of federal troops to enforce the order of a federal court.

Any other course would have meant the abdication of constitutional authority by the President and subsequent defiance of the federal courts whenever it pleased someone to defy them.

IT CAN BE ARGUED, as many are doing, that it was a blunder to send federal forces to Little Rock.

It has been stated, principally by David Lawrence, that the 14th amendment to the Constitution was never properly ratified and is therefore of no force and effect.

It can be said, as the ardent integrationists are saying, that the President was too slow to exercise leadership in the integration crisis.

Whatever the merit of these varying contentions may be, they come after the fact.

Elements of the 101st Airborne Devision are in Little Rock and, barring a complete backdown by Gov. Faubus, the President proposes to keep them there.

They are there, the President has reasserted, not for the specific purpose of enforcing integration, but to uphold the directive of a federal court.

To dwell upon what might have been, to re-examine errors in procedure or to debate the validity of the 14th amendment are at this time mere exercises in futility.

The President's position is such that he cannot now turn back and still uphold the Constitution as the supreme law of the land.

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT so far as the Little Rock crisis is concerned, critics of the President are forgetting that he is sworn to uphold the Constitution, and that the Supreme Court is the final interpreter of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court has decided, by unanimous vote, that segregation in the public schools is unlawful. It has given a mandate that desegregation must proceed "with all deliberate speed."

President Eisenhower did not make that decision, the Supreme Court made it.

It is bootless to ask, as David Lawrence is doing, if the governors and state legislatures are mere puppets, and whether "our several states have suddenly become 'satellites' which can function only with the consent of a federal dictatorship."

This question has long since been resolved. The Supreme Court has ruled that desegregation falls under federal authority.

Now, in effect, Gov. Faubus is in defiance of that authority. And, as the President has said, "to permit unchecked defiance of a court order would be to invite chaos and anarchy."

House A-Energy Group Playing Hookey, Gadding in Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Drew Pearson column today is written by his assistant, Jack Anderson. Mr. Pearson will be back writing from Washington Monday.)

WASHINGTON — The congressional atomic watchdog committee, supposedly in Vienna to attend an international atomic energy meeting, is playing hookey and gadding about Europe instead.

PEARSON

The congressmen requisitioned a special Air Force plane to fly them to the meeting, which is organizing a new international atomic energy agency.

Russia and America are now struggling in Vienna for control of the agency. The outcome will determine not only which country dominates the world-wide atoms-for-peace program but whether American manufacturers will gain the lead in the atomic field.

Yet some of the congressional watchdogs took off for Copenhagen shortly after the conference opened. They are spending the week end sightseeing, then are splitting into two separate junkets — one heading for Moscow, the other for the Mediterranean.

Even Congressman Sterling Cole, the New York Republican who is American candidate to be director general of the new agency, deserted the Vienna meeting, leaving lesser delegates to promote his candidacy. He and Mrs. Cole are scheduled to take the junket to Russia at the same time that Russia's atomic experts are working hard in Vienna.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE'S travel plans have been guarded as jealously as the atomic secrets in the committee safe. However, this column has seen the plans marked strictly "For Committee Use Only."

Most committee members boarded a special Air Force plane for Berlin Sept. 22 and got in a week of sightseeing before the Vienna meeting opened Oct. 1. They spent three days rummaging around Berlin, then were flown to London. In fairness, they spent part of their time inspecting England's atomic energy facilities before departing for Vienna.

REP. COLE
Among Those Absent

Aboard the special plane Gore (D-Tenn), Sen. John were Sen. and Mrs. Albert Pastore (D-RI), Rep. and Mrs. James Van Zandt (R-Pa) and Rep. Mel Price (D-Ill). Outnumbering the congressmen were the escort officers, assigned to make their trip pleaant.

Doing escort duty were Lt. Col. Jerry Jorgenson and Maj. Walter Weddle, both Air Force; Adm. and Mrs. Paul Foster and Bryan La Plante, Atomic Energy Commission; plus Tom Huff, State Department. Also going along for the ride were committee staff members George Norris Jr., Dave Toll and Bruce Burris.

Though there was plenty of room on the plane, some congressmen preferred to travel by slower, pleasanter ship at additional expense to the taxpayers. They were Chairman Carl Durham (D-NC), Rep. and Mrs. Chet Holifield (D-Calif), Rep. and Mrs. John Dempsey (D-NM), with staff director James Ramey. Congressman Cole and his wife caught a later Air Force plane to Vienna.

DAVID LAWRENCE

No Law Expressly Authorizes Use of Troops to Enforce Court Order

WASHINGTON.—Many lawyers are writing to this correspondent from all parts of the country asking when President Eisenhower and the commanding general of the U.S. Army at Little Rock are going to uphold "the supreme law of the land" and cease violating a specific statute passed by Congress which forbids the use of federal troops to enforce court orders.

LAWRENCE

The law in question—known as the "posse comitatus act"—was originally passed in 1878 but was restated and recodified by Congress on Aug. 10, 1956, and now reads as follows:

"Whoever, except in cases and circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both. This section does not apply to Alaska."

As one lawyer, now retired from a legal branch of the armed services, writes:

"Obviously the only reason for this statute and its predecessor is to insure the people against the use of troops to enforce a court order; otherwise, the law has no meaning whatsoever."

There is, of course, no act of Congress which has "expressly authorized" the use of federal troops to enforce a court order. The three sections of federal law which were cited by President Eisenhower in his proclamation ordering federal troops into Arkansas have been restricted by the above-quoted "posse comitatus act."

There is, moreover, no provision in the Constitution by which the use of troops to enforce court orders is "expressly authorized." The Constitution says the President "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed," but it does not say he can use any means he pleases. The statutes specify the means whereby marshals and the thousands of citizens who may be deputized to act as assistant marshals can enforce the laws of the United States. This is what is known as a "posse comitatus" engaged in "civil process."

"This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the Supreme law of the land."

* * * *

NOTHING is said to the effect that decisions of the Supreme Court or orders or mandates of the courts interpreting the Constitution are "the supreme law of the land."

The late Charles Warren, himself an assistant attorney general and regarded as the nation's most noted historian in the field of the judiciary, says in his monumental "History of the Supreme Court of the United States," Page 748, Volume II:

"However the court may interpret the provisions of the Constitution, it is still the Constitution which is the law and not the decision of the court."

Local Republicans Get Set for Bitter Primary Strife

LONG BEACH area Republicans have come to the inevitable realization that they'll have to start choosing up sides in what promises to be a bitter gubernatorial nomination battle.

And inasmuch as both Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Sen. W. F. Knowland have indicated they will crossfile, the strained relations between their camps may well reach into Democratic ranks before the big fight ends next June.

EPLEY

Knight and Knowland have both scored heavy ballot victories in this area in past elections, when they weren't running against each other. And so, for that matter, has Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, the likely Democratic opponent of whichever Republican romps off with the GOP nomination.

Crossfilings, of course, open the possibility of a double nomination in the gubernatorial battle, but nobody at this time suggests that could happen.

Sen. Knowland, however, thinks that the fight between himself and Gov. Knight might well kick up the registration of the Republicans, with Democrats coming over to help settle what promises to be one of the hottest intra-party struggles in decades.

* * * *

THE EFFECT of the early announcements on politics here, as well as the rest of the state, will be to stir up the whole political situation far ahead of the customary schedule. Not only will the Knight and Knowland campaigns get on the road, immediately, but other contests will begin to develop early. Democrats won't sit around watching, but will begin beating the bushes for workers and money to support Brown and other Democratic candidates.

Already, a movement has started here to line up a list of names of Republicans who will back Knowland. Knight supporters have been busy in one way or another since Knight announced some time ago that he would be a candidate for re-election.

Obviously, the campaigns will cost a great deal more money as well as more than the usual time and effort on the part of workers. Some party leaders are already bemoaning the fact that the long drawn-out campaign will bleed out the pocket-books of contributors.

* * * *

GOV. KNIGHT'S remark that the governorship fight won't be a panty-waist affair was undoubtedly a realistic prediction.

There has been some fancy talk of keeping the ballot battle on a "high level" of sweetness and light, so everybody could join hands and support the winner after the primary.

But if the Republicans do join hands after the primary, they'll have to forget some rough-an-tumble battling that is certain to develop before the vote in June.

At the recent Republican Assembly conference here, when Knowland hadn't even announced, there was evidence of mounting feeling. Knowland was the speaker, and while there was a lot of enthusiasm shown during his speech, there were those who sat on their hands, too.

Knight and Knowland are both forthright speakers and seasoned fighters. They're not going to run this one out, smiling and waving at each other.

Praises Collins' Column, 'Anarchy'

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish every bigoted hoodlum in the country could read Mr. Collins' column headed "Anarchy." How correctly he explains Mr. Eisenhower's position and action in the Little Rock affair; the only action the President could take to meet the challenge of anarchy.

* * * *

ALSO, IT is not difficult to guess who Mr. Collins is referring to as the radio commentator whom he fears might bite himself in his emotional frenzy. This erstwhile Republican who has degenerated into the lowest type of rabble rouser . . . this inciter of moron hoodlums who knows everything except an intelligent solution to anything . . . this demagogue, reactionist who has grown to hate the President so violently, is a vicious example of the depravity that can overcome one who lives a life of hate.

* * * *

THIS MAN is one of those pitiful souls who never has an intelligent solution, but who is always quick to ascribe an ulterior motive to any right act. The disdainful perfidy of their very nature conjures such questions as: "Why should anyone believe that Mary Magdalene was sincere . . . that she wasn't just putting on an act . . . that hers wasn't just an emotional, transient, fit of repentance? And what about that box of precious ointment she used? . . . What proof have we that she didn't steal it?"

When Is a Person Intoxicated?

TO THE EDITOR:

When is a person intoxicated?

This question and its answer spells the difference between guilt and innocence of a driver or pedestrian who causes a traffic accident or even becomes involved in one.

The drinking driver is in for trouble. And that is as it should be.

* * * *

TWO organizations have come out favoring the Uniform Chemical Test for Intoxication Act. They are the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and the American Bar Assn.

The Uniform Act makes submission to chemical tests a must. If a driver refuses the test, his license will be suspended six months.

"Any person who operates a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state," reads the Uniform Act," shall be deemed to have given consent subject to the provisions of this act to a chemical test or tests, of his blood, breath, saliva or urine for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of his blood."

* * * *

THIS ACT has more teeth in it than do the majority of statutes now on the books of 26 states.

If the arrested driver's blood contains 15/100 of 1 per cent or more by weight of alcohol, the test results are admitted as absolute evidence that the person was intoxicated.

The ratio of 5/100 of 1 per cent to 15/100 of 1 per cent is relevant but not absolute proof of intoxication; and less than 5/100 of 1 per cent means he was not intoxicated.

As I understand it, California has no such law. Let's get it!

Super-Highway 'Vandalism'

TO THE EDITOR:

If someone came into your office or home and broke up your furniture, window and walls, you would call it vandalism.

Well, look what we the people and our government are vandalizing—God's green earth. We are building superhighways, some over 500 feet wide going through grassy hills, vineyards, orchards, pastures, garden land, dairyland, and driving the farmer into place where he can make a living only by starting a dude ranch.

We are putting in big parking lots where kids used to play ball and running the kids into the streets, and nobody protests. Why is our automobile more important than farm land or playgrounds?

Week Begins Today to Aid Handicapped

WASHINGTON (UP) — More than 3,500,000 handicapped persons have found jobs since National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week was started 12 years ago, it was announced Saturday.

The figure was cited by Paul A. Strachan, president of the American Federation of the Physically Handicapped, in calling attention to observance of the week beginning today.

10-Story Beer Hall in Tokyo

TOKYO (UP)—Tokyo may be the home of the largest beer hall in Asia. A building 10 stories high and with a huge beer barrel on the roof is gradually guzzling into full operation. The building will house two movie theaters and practically every sort of European and American type tavern and restaurant.

Across the front of the building is a mosaic depicting the story of beer.

Pictured singing "Ol' Devil Moon" are Harvey Wagner and Jackie McFadden as Woody and Sharon in the Broadway musical hit "Finian's Rainbow" to be presented Oct. 18, 19 and 20 by the Singers' Workshop in Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. This tuneful, whimsical show will be presented by an all-star cast, singing and dancing with carefree abandon one of the favorite scores ever written for a musical show. Other hit songs from the score include, "How Are Things in Glocca Morra?," "Look to the Rainbow," "If I'm Not Near the Girl I Love (I Love the Girl I'm Near)," "If This Isn't Love," and a guaranteed show-stopper called "The Begat."

Will Screen New Talent

Members of the Lakewood Players will join 20th Century-Fox Studios in conducting a contest to discover new acting talent Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Fox West Coast Theater, 333 E. Ocean Blvd.

The contest is open to all persons 15 years of age or older. Contestants must prepare a two-minute dramatic scene, either alone or with another person. The contest will be held from 10 a.m. to noon each of the days.

Preliminary judging will be by Al Rashkow, Lakewood Players' director, and Bill Sorenson, Fox West Coast Theater manager. The winner of final judging by Fox Studios will receive a screen test. Contestants may register at the theater.

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

IT'S A SIN TO TELL A LIE

Patti Page comes from a wonderfully religious Tulsa, Okla., family which believes that movies, instrumental music in church, and white lies, are sinful.

If the local paper calls at 7 a. m. when Patti's home on a visit and she whispers to her mother, "I'm not here!" her mother hands her the phone and says, "YOU tell them you're not here! I'm not lying for anybody."

PATTI PAGE

And now we find Patti in the big, sinful city, starring in CBS' costliest TV show, "The Big Record," and involved in assorted minor deceits which are common in Show Business. For example, while I was visiting her apartment on Central Park South, hairdresser Ernest Adler arrived.

"You got Patti's hair with you?" asked Patti's husband, Charles O'Curran, the movie director.

• • • •

HE DID HAVE—boxes of it, including a pony tail, and when he dragged that out, I spoke right up to the pony tail and said, "Why, Patti, how you've changed!" I happened to ask what shade it was.

"Champagne blond," advised Mr. Adler. "I set it with champagne instead of beer."

"Is that common?" I inquired intrepidly.

"Oh NO!" His voice had a hurt quality. "When I asked Patti for beer to set it, she said she had nothing in the house but champagne."

"So," shrugged her husband, "they used one glass to set the hair and drank the rest."

"Champagne or beer gives body to the set," Patti said.

Patti's against the practice—which caused a scandal when Mario Lanza denied he did it—of "pre-recording" a song and then "mouthing" it on the air, although Eddie Cantor did it recently to "bravos."

It enables a singer to dance, romp, fall down, or do a 100-yard dash while ostensibly singing, without seeming to get out of breath.

And the "boom," holding the overhanging mike, is eliminated, and cameras can catch the whole set with the star gaily cavorting across it.

• • • •

"I DON'T LIKE IT for myself," frowned Patti. "For Janis Paige, I thought it was fine, for they found the secret of 'authenticity.' They showed her when she should look out-of-breath!"

As star of the show, Patti plans songs and clothes four weeks ahead, has no days off, and must suffer the brunt of the reviews.

To my query, "Did you mind them?" she answered, "I'd better not—I have a whole year to go on the show!"

Patti must scan the list of hit songs and watch the trend. "'Tammy' has been No. 1 for 5 or 6 weeks, so it's not going to drop to No. 30 in four weeks," she reasons. So she plans to do "Tammy" eventually.

"What kind of panic will ensue if you decide not to do it?" I asked.

"She'll be out a very, very expensive 'Tammy' arrangement, and a 'Tammy' hairdo," supplied hairdresser Adler.

• • • •

THE BUDGET for "The Big Record"—reportedly biggest in TV—didn't include clothes for Patti, who's a clothes-horse.

"You see, before this, they've had mostly men singers—and one necktie was all they had to buy every week. Well, I'm moving into a bigger apartment next week, for all the clothes they've got to give me."

"They'll be yours when the shows are over?" I indelicately asked.

"That's one of the things I'm working on!" Patti admitted.

"Are you wearing the Paris 'gunnysack' styles?"

"Yes, but we fit them into feedbags."

"How?"

"With a belt!"

Patti's husband, who's an owner of "Bally Records," thinks it's a dirty shame that his company can't even get a record on "The Big Record." Patti doesn't — she thinks that's a testimonial.

"I TRY TO FIGURE OUT, 'Would my mother dig this'?" Patti says. "If I don't think she would, I wonder whether it's right.

"They are the kind," Patti said, "who never call me up about anything. The night of the first show, I phoned them. They weren't home — they'd gone to church! They're members of the Church of Christ.

"I phoned again and my mother said she was just going to call me. This was a big thing for them to do. She thought it was wonderful. I spoke to my father. He generally has nothing to say.

"He said, 'Well, I thought it was good,' a great concession for him.

"So then I asked him, 'What did you like about it?' The daughter trying to get a compliment, you know. . . .

"So my father said, 'Well, I sure liked Eddie Cantor!'"

Spahn Faces Sturdivant; Braves Favored Today

(Compiled from UP and AP)

MILWAUKEE—Veteran lefthander Warren Spahn will try and deadlock the World Series for the Milwaukee Braves today while knuckleballer Tom Sturdivant will endeavor to provide the New York Yankees with a commanding 3-1 lead. The American League champions won Saturday, 12-3.

Spahn, 21-11, was beaten, 3-1, in the series' first game. Sturdivant, leading Yankee pitcher at 16-8, beat Brooklyn last year with a six-hitter.

The Yankees are 13-5 favorites to win the series but the Braves are 11-10 favorites to win today.

Tony Kubek, a 20-year-old Milwaukee boy, ruined the Braves Saturday with two home runs.

The rangy crewcut, who hit only three homers in 127 games, drove in four runs with his two blasts into the right field bleachers.

Mickey Mantle also deepened the gloom with his ninth series homer, a 400-foot drive into the bullpen after Kubek singled in the fourth inning.

Six Milwaukee pitchers, starting with Bob Buhl, eased the Yanks' way with 11 walks.

The lights were burning through the heavy gloom when the 45,804 wandered out of County Stadium after the 3 hour, 18 minute marathon.

Henry Aaron, whose two-run homer rekindled Braves hopes in the fifth when the score was 7-3, left eight Braves on base. The National League homer and runs batted in champ failed with three on in the second and sixth and two on in the first.

Bob Turley was almost as ineffective as Buhl in this heralded duel of bullet-throwing righthanders. He walked four and allowed three hits before Casey Stengel brought in Don Larsen in the second.

Larsen pitched as though he were still throwing that perfect game of 1956. He blew down the first seven Braves he faced, running his two-year series string to 34 consecutive batters, before Johnny Logan hit a two-strike single to center in the fifth. Aaron then came along with his homer.

Larsen wobbled briefly in the sixth when two singles and a walk loaded the bases, but Jerry Lumpe threw out Aaron on a close play to snuff out the threat.

A total of 19 walks by the six Milwaukee pitchers and two Yanks set a series record. The old mark was 16, set by the Yankees and Giants in 1936. Milwaukee's wild men passed 11 and the Yanks gave up eight bases on balls Saturday.

* * * *

KUBEK STARTED this wild scoring splurge. He hit Buhl's third pitch into the right field seats in the first inning.

Walks to Mantle and Yogi Berra and a wild pickoff throw by Buhl set up another run on McDougald's sacrifice fly that Aaron finally caught on his knees after stumbling. Harry Simpson, first of three Yank first baseman, drove home Berra with the third run of the first inning on a single off Red Schoendienst's glove.

Milwaukee had men on first and second with none out and loaded the bases with two out in the first but Turley got off the hook by throwing a third strike past Joe Adcock.

The Braves didn't let Turley escape for long. A walk to Hazle, Del Rice's single and Schoendienst's single produced a quick run in the second.

* * * *

TWO MORE YANK runs came across in the third off Juan Pizarro, 20-year-old Puerto Rican southpaw who had relieved starter Buhl in the first. Singles by Mantle and Berra and a walk to pinch hitter Elston Howard had loaded the bases with only one out. Jerry Lumpe, starting his first series game at third, singled off the lefthander to score both Berra and McDougald.

Gene Conley, towering 6-8 righthander, gave up the next pair in the fourth. Kubek's single and Mantle's home run did the trick.

Mickey's nine series homers moved him one ahead of Joe DiMaggio in the all-time class and tied him with Berra. Babe Ruth set the record of 15 and Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider each hit 10.

The Yanks closed out their big afternoon with five runs in the seventh against Bob Trowbridge, who had only his own wildness to blame. Walks to McDougald, Gerry Coleman and Larsen filled 'em up with one gone and Hank Bauer singled home the first two. Kubek's second homer of the day, deep into the bleachers, brought Larsen and Bauer romping in front of him.

Bauer now has hit safely in 10 consecutive series games.

Oregon Trounces Inept UCLA in Drizzle, 21-0

PORTLAND (U.P.) — The University of Oregon's driving Ducks, led by halfback Jimmy Shanley and clever quarterback Jack Crabtree, whipped UCLA, 21-0, with a surprising display of brilliant running and passing on a wet field before 16,332 fans in Multnomah Stadium Saturday night.

Oregon, victor over Idaho and last-minute victim of Pittsburgh, kept its strong Rose Bowl hopes alive with the decisive victory. It was the first time Oregon ever has beaten UCLA under Red Sanders.

It was the first loss for UCLA after wins over the Air Force and Illinois.

Oregon overturned UCLA, a 6-point favorite, by driving 70, 53 and 65 yards for scores in each of the first three quarters.

The scoring was shared by fullback Jack Morris, end Ron Stover and Shanley, the latter piling up 101 yards.

* * * *

OREGON SCORED the second time it got the ball. Shanley, sure-footed despite the slippery turf, sliced off sizable gains in leading his team on its 70-yard march.

Crabtree mixed in a 23-yard pass to Stover to the UCLA 12 and in three plunges Morris was over for the score. Morris kicked the first of his three conversions.

Rain began falling heavily in the second quarter but it did not bother Oregon. The first six Oregon passes were directed to Stover and he caught them all.

Three of them came in the second Oregon scoring march. He hauled in tosses from Crabtree for seven, 11 and, finally, four yards with the last one accounting for the tally.

Oregon took the second half kickoff and drove 66 yards to the final score, this time springing an unbalanced line on UCLA.

Crabtree, sliding behind the line on the split-T offense, repeatedly handed off to Shanley, who angled to the weak side for gains.

* * * *

THE FINAL PLAY of this drive came with Oregon on the UCLA 10, needing inches for a first down. While UCLA piled into the middle, Shanley scooted around left end, unnoticed, for the score.

UCLA never got beyond the Oregon 48 in the first half and it was not until the fourth quarter that the Bruins made a deep penetration.

Then they drove 64 yards to the Oregon eight. But a stout defense blunted that threat and moments later threw back another one that reached the 25.

The tough Oregon defenders handed UCLA its first blank in 22 games.

Shanley led the backs in rushing, gaining 101 yards in 20 carries.

3 TD PASSES

Spartans Blank Cal

BERKELEY (UP)—Michigan State, which normally grinds its foes into the ground with line plays, took to the air to score all three touchdowns Saturday as it ran up a solid 19-0 victory over a surprisingly stubborn University of California team.

Stopped cold on the ground by a rugged defense when within scoring distance, quarterback Jim Ninowski tossed two touchdown passes to ends Dave Kaiser and Sam Williams in the first and second quarters. And for top dressing in the last period quarterback Mike Panitch tossed to halfback Art Johnson for the final score.

This was supposed to be a walkaway for the big bad Spartans from the Big Ten as Cal had already lost to SMU and Washington State.

Michigan State marched to a touchdown the first time it got the ball, going 69 yards in 12 plays, with the payoff Ninowski's toss from the five to Kaiser for the score.

* * * *

BUT CAL CAME right back the first time it got its hands on the ball. Halfback Darrell Roberts passed to halfback Jack Hart, who carried to the Michigan five for a 63 yard gain. California couldn't push it over from there and three plays found the Bears on the ten. Max Hale tried a field goal from the 16 but it was wide, ending California's only real scoring threat of the day.

The second Michigan State touchdown came in the second period and ended another long 68 yard drive capped by a seven yard pass from Ninowski to Williams.

California decided to stay on the ground in the third quarter and made a lot of yardage. But every time the Bears threatened the Spartan defense tightened.

* * * *

THE FINAL SCORE came midway in the last stanza on a 32-yard drive with Panitch passing to Johnson from the five.

California threw back two Michigan State threats in the third period, stopping the Spartans at the 25 both times. In the final quarter Bear end Ron Wheatcroft stopped Walt Kowalczyk on a fourth down play at the four after the Spartans had reached the Cal two.

California's final threat came late in the third period when quarterback Gabe Arrillaga hit halfback Hank Olguin on a 24 yard pass play that carried to the visitors' 17. A 15-yard clipping penalty put the Bears back and Michigan State controlled things from then on.

U.S. UPSET

British Win: It's Their Cup of Tee

LINDRICK (AP) — Britain's reviled professional golfers won the Ryder Cup Saturday for the first time in 24 years, crushing a polished U. S. team that stumbled off the course in shocked disbelief.

The final score read: Britain 7, U. S. A. 4. One match was halved.

In a great last ditch stand and counter attack, the British won six of Saturday's eight singles matches to carry off the golfing upset of the century.

And these British pros, rising above years of frustration, really had to be good, since they lost three of Friday's four Scotch foursomes and left themselves only the dimmest chance of pulling the match out of the fire.

Here was the way the singles went:

Eric Brown, Scotland, defeated Tommy (Thunder) Bolt, Los Angeles, 4 and 3.

Peter Mills, England, downed Jackie Burke, Bellaire, Tex., 5 and 3.

Ken Bousfield, England, turned back Lionel Hebert, LaFayette, Louisiana, 4 and 3.

Dai Rees, Wales, blasted Ed

Boyd Cops Midget Race

Johnny Boyd of Fresno won the USAC national midget auto racing championship Saturday night by capturing the Gardena Stadium 100-lap main event before 6,500 spectators.

Boyd, starting from the ninth position, took over the lead on the 22nd lap and held on to edge Ray Crawford and Johnnie Parsons. Boyd's win netted him $600 of the $3,500 purse.

100-lap Main Event—Johnny Boyd, Ray Crawford, Johnnie Parsons, Bob Cortner, Dempsey Wilson, Darr Oakes, Harry Stockman, Art Bisch, 25:34 (new track record).

15-lap semi-main — Dickie Reese, George Amick, Norm Rapp, 3:46.22.

Heat Races—1-Boyd, Wilson, Bish, 1:30.92; 2-Reese, Joe Garson, Bill Cheesbourg, 1:30.35; 3-Don Horovath, Leroy Warner, Bill Garrett, 1:31.38; 4-Boyd, Reese, Wilson, 1:29 (new track record).

3-lap trophy dash—Bob Veith, Crawford, Bish, 40:61 (new track record).

INDIAN STARS SIDELINED

Rice Rolls Up Easy 34-7 Win Over Riddled Stanford

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Rice Institute's man-under duo of King Hill and Frank Ryan ran and passed the Owls to a 34-7 victory over flashy Stanford before a home debut crowd of 54,000 fans in Rice Stadium Saturday night.

Stanford's vaunted passing attack failed to materialize and the loss of three valuable players injured in the game held the Indians to a lone score in the final quarter when reserve fullback Rick McMillen went over from the six.

Coach Jess Neely's Owls scored almost at will against the Indians 26-0 vanquishers of Northwestern.

Rice scored in all but the third quarter when a 35-yard pass interception return by Stanford left half Jack Taylor of a Ryan pass on the Stanford one caught the Owls as the clock ran out.

The Indians never penetrated beyond the Rice 45 for the first three quarters, and only to the Rice 36 in the final, except for the score. Stanford's ace signalcaller, Jack Douglas, No. 1 end, Gary Van Galder, and fullback Chuck Shea were injured and benched.

Rice took command of the game from the opening gun when Stanford won the toss and chose to kick. Two minutes later Rice fullback Ray Chilton went over from the three.

End Buddy Dial, fullback David Kelley, halfback Monte Robicheaux and Hill accounted for the rest of the Owl touchdowns. Chilton lost a touchdown in the first quarter when he fumbled as he plunged over the Stanford goal line.

Statistics told the story. Rice ran up 583 yards total offense to Stanford's 205, of which 343 yards was Owl rushing and 240 yards passing. Stanford gained 52 yards passing.

Ryan rushed 78 yards and completed eight of 12 passes for another 123 yards for Rice. Hill carried five times for 65 yards and completed four out of seven aerials for 117 yards.

RICE BEST TRIBE FOE IN YEARS--CHUCK

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "Rice is the finest football team we have played in several years," Stanford coach Chuck Taylor said Saturday night after seeing Rice defeat his Indians, 34-7.

"Rice went out there and took the game away from us with their great play," he said. "They were terrific."

Rice coach Jess Neely said the Owls played "good, solid football."

"To tell you the truth I didn't think we could beat a team like Stanford like that," he said.

FRANCIS, DURDEN STAR

OSC Scores, 22-13

EVANSTON, Ill. (U.P.)—Halfbacks Joe Francis and Earnel Durden accounted for three touchdowns Saturday in leading Oregon State to a 22-13 victory over Northwestern and made a success of the defending Pacific Coast champions' first foray into Big Ten circles this season.

The Oregon State triumph, their third straight of the campaign, came before 34,500 fans who filled Dyche Stadium to watch the first gridiron clash between the two schools.

Officials called a total of 215 yards in penalties, 115 of them against Northwestern.

The Beavers stopped a Northwestern drive with six minutes to go in the first period and put across their first touchdown. Marching from its own 30 on a series of ground plays and a 16-yard pass from Francis to Bob De Grant, Oregon State moved the ball to the Wildcats' 38. Francis tossed a pass to Durden who caught it on the 10 and scampered untouched into the end zone.

Three minutes later another drive put the ball on the Northwestern 10, and Francis skirted the Wildcat right flank for a second touchdown. Ted Searle for the second time missed the try for the extra point but made up for it when he booted a second period field goal from the 21 after the Wildcat defense stiffened.

The Beavers iced the game with eight minutes remaining when Durden took the ball on a reverse at the Wildcat 15-yard line and sprinted into the end zone.

Northwestern scored in the second period after failing on four drives to move the ball past the Beaver 20. Ron Burton paved the way by intercepting a Francis pass on the Northwestern 28 and running the ball to the Beaver 49. A short series of plays and a personal foul against the Beavers moved the ball to the 16 and quarterback John Talley flipped it to end Fred Williamson for the touchdown.

Burton became the Wildcat hero again when he took a pitch-out from Talley on the Northwestern 21 in the third period and sprinted 79 yards down the west sideline for a touchdown.

Tarheels Turn Navy Bobbles Into 13-7 Upset Triumph

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina turned a recovered fumble and an intercepted pass into touchdowns Saturday to upset sixth-ranked Navy, 13-7, before a wildly-cheering crowd of 25,000.

The impressive victory gave coach Jim Tatum's Tarheels a big lift back up the football ladder.

Navy's vaunted offense, which had crushed Boston College and William and Mary, was held in check by a tight Tarheel defense until early in the final period when halfback Harry Hurst scored from the one to climax a drive that carried from Navy's 27. Ned Oldham kicked the extra point.

North Carolina just missed a third touchdown when officials ruled that Jim Schuler stepped out of bounds on what appeared to be a 61-yard scoring run.

North Carolina co-captain and end Buddy Payne personally halted Navy's last threat when he intercepted a Tom Forrestal pass on his own 26 with less than two minutes left in the game.

Cadets' Rally Pays Off

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Army's offense-minded Cadets, passing and running with poise, power and skill, rammed through three third-quarter touchdowns Saturday and established themselves as a definite Eastern power with a 27-13 win over Penn State.

It was a rip-roaring offensive game all the way as the Nittany Lions delighted a home crowd of 32,660 by outscoring the Cadets 13-7 in the first half.

But the roof fell in in the third quarter as quarterback Dave Bourland from El Paso, Texas, guided the Black Knights to three touchdowns.

Army employed its "foot soldiers" for huge ground gains that pierced the Lions' defense. The Cadets moved 71 yards with a third period kickoff for the tying touchdown as halfback Pete Dawkins climaxed the drive with a 10-yard run that outflanked the enemy.

Hawks Wheeze Past WSC, 20-13

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Iowa's flu-weak football forces wheezed to a 20-13 victory over Washington State Saturday.

Iowa, crowded hard by the West Coast team, broke out of a 13-13 tie with four minutes left in the fourth period and brought obvious relief to the Iowa clientele in the gathering of 47,334.

The Hawks, who at one time early in the week had 27 players affected by the flu, took quick advantage of a recovered fumble for the victory drive.

Alex Karras, all-America tackle, snapped up WSC quarterback Bob Newman's fumble on the Iowa 46. Eleven plays and 54 yards later Iowa had the winning touchdown on Kevin Furlong's dive from the one. Karras put on the finishing touch with a conversion.

Washington State, going all out for a possible tie, went to midfield but the Cougars were driven back. On fourth down they disdained a punt and lost the ball on their 29. Iowa, plagued by four lost fumbles, played it safe and ran out the time with conservative ground maneuvers.

Iowa shot into a 13-0 lead by going 60 yards in 13 plays for a first period touchdown and traveled 65 yards on 13 more in the second quarter. The Hawks appeared headed for another touchdown in the second period but lost the ball on the Washington State 14 when Don Nelson recovered John Nocera's bobble.

* * * *

WASHINGTON STATE, with Bunny Aldrich completing four passes for 50 yards, picked up a touchdown with 19 seconds to go in the half. An eight-yarder, Aldrich to Don Ellersick in the end zone, did the business.

The Cougars, with two minutes left in the third period, gobbled up Ray Jauch's fumble on the Iowa 30 and Chuck Morrell banged over from the one on the first play of the final period. Nocera smashed through and blocked Ellersick's kick which could have sent Washington State ahead.

Jauch, the sophomore halfback whose play was marred by two lost fumbles, scored the first two Iowa touchdowns with three and four yard runs, respectively.

* * * *

DICK KLEIN, Iowa's regular right tackle, didn't enter the game until the beginning of Iowa's surge for its last touchdown. Mike Hagler and Bill Gravel, normally starting backs, and regular center Bill Lapham didn't appear at all because of the flu.

Washington State	0	7	6	0	—13
Iowa	0	6	7	7	—20

W-S. scoring: Touchdowns—Ellersick (8, pass from Aldrich); Morrell (1, plunge). Conversion—Aldrich.

Sooners Reel Off 40-14 Win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A wobbly Oklahoma football team, obviously off stride after a bout with the flu, caught a stubborn Iowa State eleven Saturday, and it wasn't until the late stages of the Big Eight Conference contest that the Sooners were able to finally pull away with a 40-14 victory.

Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, won its 42nd straight game but it was the Sooners' second team that showed the spark which marked the previous triumphs. The alternates made two late touchdowns.

For the rejuvenated Iowa State team under new coach Jim Myers, the game was a moral victory if nothing else. It was the first time since 1951 that a Cyclone team was able to score against the Sooners.

* * * *

BOTH IOWA STATE touchdowns were on passes by halfback Dwight Nichols. Starting quarterback Carl Dodd made two of Oklahoma's six touchdowns with the others contributed by Clendon Thomas, David Baker, Jakie Sandefer and Bobby Boyd.

Wolverines Capitalize on Breaks, 26-0

ANN ARBOR (U.P.)—Michigan mixed the right blend of senior halfback Mike Shatusky and sophomore quarterback Stan Noskin Saturday to defeat penalty and fumble-ridden Georgia, 26-0, before a crowd of 85,002.

The Wolverines were the opportunists, looking good in spots but still showing a weak line, as they gained their second straight victory of the season while handing Georgia its third consecutive setback.

Noskin, second-string quarterback from Evanston, Ill., and Shatusky, both scored a pair of touchdowns against a Georgia eleven which never got closer than the Michigan 21-yard line.

The Georgia team helped every Michigan touchdown march except the first, fumbling and losing the ball five times and suffering 110 yards in penalties.

Georgia	0	0	0	0	—0

Michigan scoring: Touchdowns, Noskin 2 (3, plunge; 2, plunge); Shatusky 2 (46, intercepted pass; 5, run). Conversions, Van Pelt 2.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

As you're digging into your Sunday hotcakes and coffee, let me ask you two questions:

1. How long are you going to put up with Harvey Knox?

2. How long are you going to continue to lose money betting on those friends of the common people, the Milwaukee Braves?

If they seem like leading questions, that is exactly the way they were meant.

Parasites like Harvey Knox continue to live on the fat of the land because the people in the sports kingdom continue to feed them. I feed such parasites whenever I write about them, whether it be good or bad. You feed such parasites whenever you yourself devour—and enjoy—the information that is written about them.

The Harvey Knox saga took a sudden turn this past week when Harvey projected himself into the spotlight with a blast at the Chicago Bears, the latest employers of his talented son, Ronnie. The parasatic father ate up every line of type concerning the Knox family (father or son), regardless of the consequences to the real man in the family, the son, Ronnie, the football player.

Knox (the player) suffered a $500 loss this week when he was suspended by Bear owner George Halas. The father didn't mind—really—because he figured he earned $500 worth of publicity through his son's suspension.

But what about the son? He merely got himself racked up—but good—during last week's opening league game against Green Bay. Ronnie was slaughtered in his FIRST play in professional football, then he was re-injured during Bear scrimmages this week.

The parasite prospers, but his son suffers—but good!

As far as the Braves are concerned, let it suffice in this column to say: They may be nice fellows, but they ain't the Yanks.

Everyone in Milwaukee figured the Yanks were done when they lost that second game in New York. But the city of beer drinkers forgot one thing: They weren't playing the Dodgers or Cardinals. They were playing real competitors.

The Yanks are something they never see in the National League!

Dear Unidentified: Your postcard prediction—Texas 14, Oklahoma 13—won't be accepted by this department. I refuse to acknowledge it!

Dear Jack Shurtz, 6541 Montoro: I will continue to let Don Clark handle the Trojans. I will accept your suggestion that I write a column and let Mr. Clark do the coaching. I should try to coach a team that has an 0-3 record?

Dear Robert J. Smallwood, Paramount: Your request I refuse. Your letter—or any part of it—will not appear under this column. Neither will I dignify your plea that I answer your immature questions. To get an appropriate answer, I would suggest you return to Little Rock. We became civilized in California more than 100 years ago.

From the regular mail bag. . . .

". . . You must hate everybody. That column you wrote on spying on people watching the World Series through sidewalk TV sets, proves it. I happened to be one of those 'odd fellows' you wrote about. By the way, I saw you, too. You were that little jerk, 5-foot-2, with horn-rimmed glasses and a dumb look on his face." (signed) Arnie Brewer, 135 Bonito Ave.

(You've got the wrong guy, Arnie. I'm definitely NOT 5-foot-2.)

"The column you wrote about those friends of yours in Louisiana and Wisconsin ridiculing us Californians for our loxity in getting the Dodgers was absolutely correct. However, being friends of yours they must have realized that anyone connected with city affairs (like City Councilmen) and school affairs (like faculty representatives), must be so far behind the eight-ball to begin with, that they couldn't arrive at a reasonable decision if they were in front of a firing squad." signed) Grant Meyers, Lakewood.

(Why give them the excuse of a firing squad?)

"The nuttiest thing I've read in years was from that guy Tweed of Washington State, which appeared in your column. If he wants to put the PCC's Northern schools in a "Northwest Ivy League" with Montana and Utah, I would advise the poor jerk NOT to buy out the concession franchise. A crowd of 200 wouldn't buy enough beer and hot dogs to stall off the sheriff." (signed) Andrew Corvasi, Bellflower.

(. . . not unless the 200 concentrated on beer!)

". . . can you tell me why the five Long Beach public high schools are in the Harry J. Moore League? When I first read that, I thought it was a fraternity league, or something. Please tell me if the next league they will form around this joint is the Harvey J. Knox League. If it is, I will move back to Arizona." (signed) Stanley Laswell, 431 Maine Ave.

(Better start packing. Harvey won't last long in Chicago!)

BOWLS OVER GOPHERS

Fullback Jim Redinger (40) of Purdue bowls over Minnesota players for big gain in first quarter Saturday, his forward progress stopping just inches short of a first down on Gophers' 38. Minnesota's Bob Soltis (25) tripped him up while lying on ground. Gophers won, 21-17.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Salas TKOs Velasquez in Eighth

Former world's lightweight champion Lauro Salas, 129, Los Angeles, scored an eighth-round knockout Saturday night over Julian Velasquez' 130, La Habra, in a scheduled 10-round main event at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Salas, ahead on points, floored his 20-year-old opponent early in the eighth with a smashing left to the head. Seconds later, the 29-year-old Salas connected with a right to the jaw and Velasquez went down.

Referee George Latka didn't bother to count and Velasquezs' seconds came into the ring to administer to the fallen boxer, automatically stopping the fight. The time: 1:59.

Rhinos, Venice in Rematch Today

The Orange County Rhinos return to friendly home surroundings today for a 2:15 contest with the Venice A. C. Bulldogs at Anaheim's La Palma Stadium.

After losing two in a row, the Orange County pro gridders are a one-touchdown favorite. The two teams met earlier this season with the Rhinos winning 23-7 in a game that was close for three quarters.

13-7 UPSET

Hurricanes Trip Baylor

MIAMI (AP) — Little Fran Curci, 152-pound quarterback, sparked Miami's Hurricanes to a surprising 13-7 victory over Baylor Saturday night before 41,160 football fans in the Orange Bowl.

Two pitchouts, good for nine and 10 yard scoring runs from Curci to John Varone gave the Hurricane's a 13-0 halftime score after Varone converted following the first TD. A blocked kick on Miami's 20 and a pass from Doyle Traylor to Earl Miller gave Baylor its TD. Arthur Beal converted.

Gamecocks Upset Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Stocky halfback King Dixon sprinted 98 yards to score on the opening kickoff and sparked a three-touchdown comeback drive in the fourth quarter Saturday night as the South Carolina Gamecocks upset Texas, 27-21.

Dixon, a driving, 5-foot, 8-inch runner, shared honors with halfback Alex Hawkins as South Carolina, outplayed and behind 21-7 after three quarters, took advantage of its opportunities and surged back in the fourth period.

The loss was the first for Texas under the rebuilding regime of Coach Darrell Royal, after two successes.

Texas	7	7	7	0	—21
South Carolina	7	0	0	20	—27

Texas scoring: Touchdowns, Ramirez (21, run); Schnitt (8, pass from Fondren). Alvin (4, pass from Fondren). Conversions: Lackey, Fondren 3.
South Carolina scoring: Touchdowns: Dixon 2 (98, kickoff return; 36, pass from Hawkins); Hawkins 2 (10, plunge; 18, run). Conversions: Hawkins 3.

Minnesota Edges Fumbling Purdue

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — Steady Dick Larson, Bobby Cox's alternate at quarterback, led Minnesota to a 21-17 victory over an inspired, but fumbling Purdue team in the Big Ten opener for both schools before 65,605 fans here Saturday.

The veteran signal caller, usually overshadowed by Cox in the Gopher attack, scored two touchdowns and rifled a 16-yard pass to halfback Bill Chorske for the other.

Larson rallied the Gophers to a near-flawless second half drive after the Boilermakers had taken a 10-7 half-time lead on the brilliant passing of quarterback Bob Spoo and the kicking of Tom Fletcher.

The fiery Boilermakers controlled the first half, handling the ball 44 times to 18 for the Gophers. However, in the second half fumbles ruined three Boilermaker drives. Minnesota recovered five Purdue fumbles in the game.

* * * *

THE BOILERMAKERS closed up the score in the last second when coaches Murray Warmath of Minnesota and Jack Mollenkopf of the Boilermakers cleared their benches. Wayne Jones fired a 47-yard pass to move the ball to the Minnesota two, and then hit Francis Anastasia in the end zone for a touchdown.

Minnesota	0	7	7	7	—21
Purdue	0	14	0	3	—17

Minnesota scoring: touchdowns, Larson 2 (78, reverse and 5, run); Chorske (16, pass-run). Conversions: Rasmussen, Blakely 2.
Purdue scoring: touchdowns, Brooks (40, pass), Anastasia (2, pass). Field goal: Fletcher (5). Conversions: Fletcher 2.

A&M Rolls to 3rd Straight

COLUMBIA, Mo. (U.P.)—Four Texas Aggies, headed by Bobby Conrad who ran a kickoff back 91 yards, cracked through Missouri's off-and-on defense to down the Tigers, 28-0, Saturday for their third straight victory.

The Aggies, ranked fourth in the nation, scored 14 points in the second period and sealed the game with Conrad's long run to open the third period. Other scoring was by fullback Richard Gay on a one-yard plunge; by left half Roddy Osborne on a six-yard pass from Charlie Milstead; and by Bobby Marks on a six-yard pass from Osborne. Milstead kicked all the conversions.

Florida Hands Kentucky 14-7 Loss

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Halfback Bernie Parrish's breakaway running put the spark in Florida's precision defense Saturday night and the Gators rolled over Kentucky, 14-7, in their first Southeastern Conference test.

Kentucky scored its first touchdown of the year in the fourth period on Lowell Hughes' six-yard dash.

Jimmy Dunn sprinted 32 yards for Florida's first touchdown and the 142-pound junior pitched to halfback Jim Rountree covering 27 yards for the other.

Compton Tartars Rout Pierce, 64-0

Powerful Compton Junior College rolled to 400 yards rushing and a 64-0 victory over Pierce Junior College before a capacity crowd at Ramsaur Stadium Saturday night.

Littler in Field for L. B. Open

Rosburg, Bradley in $10,000 Tourney

By JERRY WYNN

Gene Littler, the golden boy of Southern California professional golf, will play in the $10,000 Long Beach Open at Lakewood, Nov. 8-10, it was announced Saturday.

Although no longer a novice on the tournament trail, the popular crew-cut San Diegan has lost little of the glitter that accompanied his entrance into the pro ranks in 1953 when he won the San Diego Open in his first pro tournament.

In 1954, he finished second in the U. S. Open, and a year later won the L. A. Open. Of all his accomplishments, he is most famous for an amazing three-year straight sweep of the rich Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas.

Littler has never played competitively in the Long Beach area. In a practice round at Meadowlark in 1955, he fired an eight-under par 63.

* * * *

OTHERS AMONG the touring pros to join the Long Beach Open field Saturday were Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto; Don Whitt, Alameda; Jackson Bradley, Houston, Tex., and Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill.

Rosburg, former Stanford baseball and links star who uses the unorthodox baseball bat grip, has been one of golf's most consistent money winners the past few years. Whitt flashed into prominence by reaching the semi-finals in the 1957 National PGA Championship. Bradley is a Long Beach product and former Recreation Park and Lakewood assistant pro who has made a big name for himself as a home club pro. Fairfield is one of the more promising younger players on the tour.

Many more entries are expected in the near future.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to the touring pro contingent, practically all of the leading Southern California home club pros (Eric Monti, Tommy Bolt, Jerry Barber, Jim Ferrier, etc.) are certain participants. Other players will come from delegates and celebrities who will attend the National PGA Convention in Long Beach, Nov. 7-15.

Pre-season tickets, costing $5 for all three days of championship play and admittance to qualifying and practice rounds, are now on sale. They may be obtained at all golf courses and driving ranges throughout Southern California and also at the Chamber of Commerce office and Apple Valley Steak House restaurant in Long Beach.

The tournament is being jointly sponsored by the Long Beach Century Club, the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and Los Angeles County, operators of the Lakewood course.

COMPETITIVE L. B. DEBUT

Popular Gene Littler (above) will make his Long Beach area competitive debut Nov. 8-10 in the $10,000, 54-hole L. B. Open at Lakewood Golf Club. Littler won the rich Las Vegas Tournament of Champions the past three years.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

(Editor's note: While Donnell Culpepper is on vacation, some of his outdoor buddies are pinch-hitting for him. Today's column is by Harvey Dryden, Saskatchewan Tourist Supervisor. Culpepper and Dryden were together for two weeks in June of 1954, flying from one lake to another in the uninhabited wilderness of northern Saskatchewan.)

By HARVEY DRYDEN

STONY RAPIDS, Sask.—Tanned, bewhiskered and toughened by 20 days at the paddle, six modern-day "voyagers" have just retraced a 400-mile canoe route through northeast Sasketchwan pioneered by famed geographer-explorer David Thompson 161 years ago.

Like Thompson, they roughed it, paddling from dawn to dusk, stopping regularly, like the old voyagers, for "un pipe." Often, they waded neck-deep in fast, ice-old water to "line" their three 16-foot canoes through rapids.

They saw a wilderness unchanged from that described by David Thompson, who, in 1796, sought a better route—than the Churchill-Clearwater-Athabasca Rivers' system—into the fur-rich Lake Athabasca country.

* * * *

THOMPSON'S ROUTE by way of Reindeer and Wollaston Lakes and the Fon du lac (then Black) River proved easier and faster to negotiate. But this advantage was more than offset by the very late spring ice breakup on Reindeer and Wollaston.

The six canoeists—Sigurd Olson, president of the United States National Parks Association, and crew chief; Dr. Omand Solandt, vice president of the CNR; Tyler Thompson, United States minister to Canada; Dennis Coolican, president of the Canadian Bank Note Company; Eric W. Morse, national director of the Association of Canadian Clubs; and Maj.-Gen. N. E. Rodger, former vice-chief of the general staff — covered the Thompson route in 20 days, starting from Southend, Reindeer Lake.

They are members of a group which has canoed more than 2,000 miles, retracing early Montreal-to-Lake Athabasca fur routes since 1954. The other members are A. H. J. Lovink, former Netherlands Ambassador to Canada (now his country's ambassador to Australia); J. Frank Delaute, secretary to Governor-General Massey; and Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's magazine.

* * * *

RETRACING the Thompson route took the adventurers over some of the "fastest water" in Saskatchewan's far north. Said Eric Morse of the tricky route: "I wouldn't recommend it to anyone who hasn't had lots of experience with white water."

But all agreed it was a wonderful trip. Sig Olson couldn't get over "that land of incomparable beauty. There's a stretch of country along the Fon du Lac, between Hatchet Lake and Manitou Falls, that the Saskatchewan Government should set aside as a wilderness reserve. You see sandstone of all colors, craggy cliffs, topped by stately evergreens; we even paddled through a 40-foot rock tunnel."

Mr. Olson was the party's "Bourgeois" (brigade boss in the old fur trade days). "He had the final say when the rest of us couldn't make up our minds," said General Rodger.

* * * *

THE PARTY MADE 25 portages between Southend, Reindeer Lake and their destination, Stony Rapids. The two longest were on the last leg, between Black Lake and Stony. They were three-and-a-half and two miles long, respectively.

"At the longer portages, we made what the voyagers called a 'pose'," explained Dr. Solandt. "We'd carry part of our gear halfway over a portage, then return for more. When we had everything halfway across, we'd do the last lap."

The canoeists ate 20 pounds of food a day. Their diet regularly included fresh-caught fish. "We had fish fried, baked, boiled and broiled," reported Denis Collican. Tyler Thompson thought cooking was fun, "but the trick was to keep the sand out of the frying pan."

* * * *

THE MEN SLEPT in tents and had little trouble with mosquitos and flies. Asked if they read a chapter from David Thompson's narrative nightly before bed, one group member said: "We did occasionally, but most of the time, we were so tired we just hit the sack right after supper."

As they made their way along the Fond du Lac River, averaging about 20 miles daily, the party saw, in turn, a moose, caribou and timber wolf.

"That wolf's den was so close to shore, we could have almost reached over and touched him as he came out," recalled General Rodger.

The canoeists had "fair paddling" for the most part. They "lined" their canoes through rapids daily. Being wet was normal, they stated.

* * * *

ASKED WHY MEN, like themselves, who spend most of their lives behind office desks, choose to spend their holidays roughing it by canoe through northern Canada's wilds, Mr. Morse answered for the group:

"We like to live and travel—for a few weeks a year—as the old voyagers did. They had an exciting, carefree, satisfying life, with no telephones, jet planes and fast motor cars. Here, we find nature unspoiled and we like it."

Future plans are indefinite. However, the modern-day voyagers hope, soon, to tackle the Athabasca Lake - Athabasca - Clearwater - Churchill Rivers' route—the one David Thompson hoped he could better.

CROSBY JOINS TIOGA CLUB

Bing Crosby, low handicap golfer who sings on the side, has joined the new Tioga Country Club near Long Beach, club officials revealed Saturday.

Crosby is the first of several celebrities expected to add their names to the growing list of Tioga members.

Deadline for membership applications is Nov. 1. For information on joining, call GA 5-1291 or GA 9-1865 or write to the Tioga CC, 1415 East Anaheim St. The club will be located on Carson Street, one-quarter mile east of Norwalk Blvd.

L.A.-Dodger Parley Today

A meeting that could affect the City Council's showdown vote on the proposed Brooklyn Dodger transfer will be held at Los Angeles city hall today.

The informal session was arranged after two councilmen who had been opposing terms of the transfer deal indicated they might change their minds if a few points could be cleared up. They asked that a representative of the National League club come west to talk the situation over.

As a result, the Dodgers will have Henry J. Walsh here for the meeting. He is an attorney for the Dodgers and a member of the club's board of directors.

The principal subject of the talks is expected to be the real estate deal that would give Los Angeles title to Dodger-owned Wrigley Field in partial payment for a stadium site in Chavez Ravine. Opponents of the deal have claimed the swap would favor the Dodgers.

The ordinance embodying terms of the transfer will come before the council for a final vote Monday. Ten affirmative votes—or a two-thirds majority—will be required for passage of the legislation.

Today's meeting will be televised at 1:30 p. m. over KTTV (11).

Bernard Hunt, England, defeated Doug Ford, New York 6 and 5.

Christy O'Connor, Ireland, conquered Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., 7 and 6.

After the British victory was assured, Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., came in with the day's only American victory. He beat Peter Alliss, England, 2 and 1.

Then the two in the tailend match—Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., and Harry Bradshaw, Ireland—came down to the 36th green and halved that hole and the match. They had seesawed all day.

Burke, skipper of the crestfallen American side, said afterward:

"I think we overtrained. We came here too soon and played ourselves out in a week of practice.

Golf Hearing Wednesday

The city's proposal to increase greens fees at the Recreation Park courses will have a public hearing before the City Golf Commission at the City Council chambers, City Hall, Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Among those scheduled to speak against the proposal are Mark Greer, president of the Southern California Public Links Golf Assn.; Col. C. E. Crockett, president of the Recreation Park Men's Club, and Mrs. Jack Swanburg, president of the South Course Women's Club.

All interested golfers are urged to attend.

Vikes Open Metro Play

Long Beach City College's Vikings, down but not out after a narrow loss to Santa Ana College, jump from the frying pan into the fire this coming Saturday night when they open their Metropolitan Conference season against Bakersfield here.

The Renegades, idle this past week, ripped Hartnell 52-6 the week before after opening with a 36-7 win over Gray's Harbor.

Long Beach State plays its second game in a row away, tangling with a strong Arizona State team at Flagstaff Saturday at 2 p. m.

St. Anthony faces an important Catholic League test here Friday night against Cathedral to top the prep slate. In other games; Wilson is at Mira Costa, Paramount at Lakewood, Poly at Lynwood, Downey at Jordan and Excelsior at Millikan.

Buckeyes Bury Huskies, 35-7

SEATTLE (UP)—Don Sutherin returned a punt 81 yards for a touchdown in the second half Saturday to set off an Ohio State scoring spree which buried Washington, 35-7, in an intersectional football game before 37,000 fans.

The teams had battled on even terms until Sutherin's electrifying dash through the Washington defenders, but after that the fired up Buckeyes scored almost at will.

Sutherin's long sprint came on the fourth play after the second half kickoff. He added the second of his four extra points to make it 14-7.

The Buckeyes scored again a few minutes later after Russ Bowermaster fell on a Washington fumble on the Huskies' 38. The Buckeyes smashed through for a touchdown six plays later with Galen Cisco going over from seven yards out. Sutherin made it 21-7 with the extra point.

Ohio State increased the lead to 28-7 on the first play of the fourth period when left halfback Don Clark, another Ohio State hero, passed nine yards into the end zone to Dick LeBeau.

The teams traded touchdowns in the first half. Washington broke the scoring ice early in the second period when Bobby Dunn sneaked over from the one to cap an 87-yard drive led by fullback Jimmy Jones and left halfback Luther Carr.

Ohio State matched Washington's second period score after left end Jim Houston recovered Dunn's fumble on the Washington eight and LeBeau drove to the one. Two sneaks later Frank Kremblas crossed into the end zone. Sutherin converted to tie it up.

Their last score came late in the game when second string halfback Joe Connavino bucked over from the one, ending a 70-yard drive.

It was Ohio State's 11th victory over Pacific Coast Conference opposition in 16 games.

Washington	0	7	0	0—7
Ohio State	0	7	14	14—35

Washington scoring: Touchdown, Dunn (1, run). Conversion, Dunn.

Ohio State scoring: Touchdown, Kremblas (1, sneak); Sutherin (81, punt return); Cisco (7, run); LeBeau (8, pass from Clark); Connavino (1, buck). Conversions, Sutherin 4, Spychalski.

SCHOENDIENST ALMOST HIT

Flipping his feet out of the way, Braves' Red Schoendienst escapes being hit by one of Bob Turley's fast-balls in second inning Saturday. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra made neat stop of ball (arrow). Umpire is Bill McKinley. (AP)

Bob Kelley Says---

SAN FRANCISCO—Mr. Waterfield and I just flew in from Las Vegas, where we served as chorus boys during Mrs. Waterfield's act at the Sands Hotel.

We arrived too late to see the Cal-Michigan State game. From what Les Richter told me, however, Cal might hold the score down to less than the three touchdowns predicted.

"Cal's got a better club than the two losses show," Les said. "The first defeat, by SMU, was helped by an absent-minded call by a quarterback. Then they went up to Pullman and drew five 15-yard penalties at crucial times. But the kids love Pete Elliot, and they play hard for him."

Elsewhere on these pages, you can check the score of the game and see how important "loving your coach" is.

The few Ram players I've noticed so far have the typical pre-49er attitude. Riding silently up and down in elevators with heads hung. Playing the 49ers is like a championship game. You never saw so many serious guys in all your life.

* * * *

TRADITIONALLY, a team that is quiet and sullen and serious before a game is "up." They're ready for a big performance. On the other hand, a team that is kidding and clowning and laughing before a ball game is in for a shock. They've taken it too lightly. They're not ready.

I have seen both kinds, and usually tradition holds good.

"But not always," Ram line coach Joe Madro told me, before the Eagle game last Sunday. Just before the kickoff, Madro walked into the scouting booth.

"What kind of an attitude have your boys got?" I asked.

"Good," Madro said. "Real quiet. You can't get 'em to say three words.

"Of course," he added. "That isn't always a sure sign. I've seen teams like that before. Then they come out and play a dull, ragged football game."

Madro was a prophet. The Rams were flat last Sunday.

* * * *

MOST PRO PLAYERS will tell you the crowds don't affect them, one way or the other.

"That is, all except here in San Francisco," Artie Hauser told me a little while ago. "These people just go wild for the 49ers.

"Maybe it's because this stadium is smaller and more compact than most. But when they start roaring when the 49ers are on the move, the roar thunders right into your ears. It actually rattles you a little."

I've noticed the same thing. There is no sound in the world like the 49er crowd when they begin to whoop it up. It's almost unworldly. You'll be able to notice it on our telecast today, on channel 2.

Or if you're in your car, Bill Brundige and Jim Healy will be handling the radio version on KMPC.

One thing about doing the broadcast on TV, you absolutely can't make a mistake. They'll be hundreds of thousands of fans watching who know that No. 82 is Soltau; you can't get away with saying Billy Wilson caught the pass, when they can see that 82.

Actually, that's our policy on radio, too. If you make a mistake, correct it—admit it. No one cares about an error, as long as you get it right eventually. At least, that's what Harvey tells me.

We Were Bad, Umps Were Worse-Haney

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Fred Haney Saturday declared "we were bad but the umps were worse," following the Braves' 12-3 throttling at the hands of the Yanks.

The watery-eyed little pilot minced no words about what he considered bad calls by the men in blue.

He claimed a decision in the first inning by second base umpire Joe Paparella cost the Braves two runs and another by plate umpire Bill McKinley in the seventh opened the flood gates for the Yankees' five-run splurge.

"Schoendienst said he had (Yogi) Berra on the relay from (Hank) Aaron in the first," Haney said, quietly, purposefully.

With one run in, Mickey Mantle and Berra drew walks off Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl. Buhl whirled and threw to Red Schoendienst in an attempt to pick off Mantle, but the throw, low and wide, skipped into center. Mantle went to third and Berra to second, sliding in under Schoendienst's tag.

* * * *

"RED HAD BERRA," Haney said. "If the right call had been made we would have been out of the inning with only one run, (Tony) Kubek's homer. "He was out," Schoendienst declared. "But what can you do?"

"The plate umpire blew one in the seventh when he didn't call (Jerry) Coleman's full swing for a third strike," Haney continued as he stalked back and forth in front of his locker in the Braves' quiet dressing room.

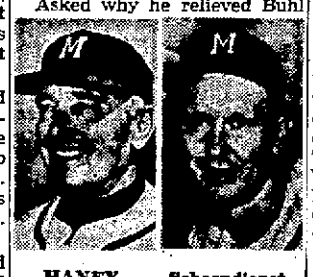

"That would have been the third strike and we would have been out of the inning with no runs scored," he said. "But we've bounced back before after lickings like this."

Haney said Buhl, his fast-balling righthander who lasted less than an inning, "has had days like that before. I thought he'd work himself out of it. He might have, too, if that call at second hadn't gone against us. I'd rather get beat that way than by 1-0."

Asked why he relieved Buhl with Juan Pizarro, 20-year-old rookie who never had appeared in a series game, instead of one of his more experienced hands, Haney replied:

"He's been pitching good ball for us."

In reply to a question about Tony Kubek's two home runs, Haney said, "we didn't figure him for a home run hitter, but then we haven't seen much of him. As for our 'book' on him, some of those pitches weren't where they were supposed to be."

INDIANA BOWS, 26-0

ND's Second Win Matches '56 Mark

SOUTH BEND (AP) — Notre Dame sent four different backs across Indiana's goal line and blanked the Hoosiers, 26-0, Saturday. The Irish now have two victories in two starts, matching their successes in the school's worst-in-history season last year.

The stout Notre Dame defense, which stopped Purdue last week in a 12-0 Irish victory,, held Indiana to 12 yards by rushing in the first half and 84 altogether. Notre Dame picked up 253 yards on the ground and 65 in the air.

Halfbacks Dick Lynch, Charles Lima and James Just and quarterback Bob Williams scored for the Irish on short runs.

Nick Pietrosante, 210-pound fullback, didn't score but continued his hard running of the Purdue game and wound up with 47 yards in 11 carries. Lynch got 50 yards in 11 tries and just 35 in only five rushes.

* * * *

NOTRE DAME drove 54 and 27 yards for the Lynch and Lima one-yard touchdowns in the first quarter. Williams sneaked a foot for another in the second period in a 45-yard push that included a 14-yard pass from Frank Reynolds to Lynch. Just ran six yards for the last touchdown 12 seconds before the gun.

Badgers Rip W. Virginia

MADISON, (AP)—A Wisconsin team with considerable power on the ground and a good aerial game overwhelmed West Virginia 45-13 in an intersectional football game before 38,000 Saturday.

The Badgers scored in every quarter, running up a 28-0 lead in the first half. They added 14 points in the third quarter and a 27-yard field goal in the closing seconds.

The Badgers scored before the game was a minute old on a 63-yard pass. Added another in that period and then coasted to victory with reserves seeing most of the action.

A sensational 94-yard touchdown run by sophomore Ron Steiner after a pass interception and a great 86-yard scoring gallop by senior Danny Lewis from scrimmage were high lights of the game.

West Virginia	0	0	7	6	—13
Wisconsin	14	14	14	3	—45

West Virginia Scoring—Touchdowns: Krutko (1-yd. plunge); Anastrasio (12-yd. run). Conversions: Mikanik.

Oerter Injured

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UP)—Al Oerter, Olympics discus champion, suffered facial lacerations Saturday in a two-car collision on U.S. 40 near Blue Springs, Mo.

Underdog Nebraska Tops Wildcats, 14-7

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UP) — Underdog Nebraska spotted Kansas State an edge in the statistical departments but thwarted a fourth period Wildcat drive on the one-yard line Saturday to win a Big Eight opener for both teams, 14-7.

Kansas State	0	0	7	0	—7
Nebraska	0	7	7	0	—14

Kansas State Scoring: Touchdowns, Wilson (33, pass from Borbin). Conversion: Zadnik.

Nebraska Scoring: Touchdowns, Cifra (10, run); Dillard (2, run). Conversions: Prusia, Cifra.

Streak Ends

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Fired-up William and Mary, winless in 15 games over a three-year span, methodically ground out touchdowns in the second and third quarters Saturday for an astonishing 13-7 football victory over Virginia Tech's fumbling Gobblers.

Groza's 11 Points Rip Steelers

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Lou Groza, who has been toeing the mark unfailingly since Cleveland began its fabulous professional football era 11 years ago, booted the Browns to a 23-12 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night.

He kicked three field goals and added two conversions.

Bob Gain recovered a second period fumble by Steeler quarterback Earl Morrall who was shaken up in a pass attempt on his own 30. Chet Hanulak tossed to Ray Renfro, who caught the ball on the 15 and ran over.

* * * *

MOMENTS LATER Morrall passed 22 yards to Jug Girard in the end zone for a Pittsburgh score, but the Browns boosted their halftime edge to 10-6 on Groza's 29-yard field goal.

The Browns boosted it to 13-6 in the third quarter on Groza's 45-yard field goal, but Pittsburgh got back into the game when Morrall threw 21 yards to Girard, who caught the ball on the 10 and jogged over.

Cleveland clinched the win with 10 fourth period points on Groza's 14-yard field goal and a pass-run from Tommy O'Connell to Milt Campbell which covered 25 yards.

Steelers	0	6	6	0	—12
Browns	0	10	3	10	—23

Steeler scoring: touchdowns, Girard 2 (22, pass from Morrall and 31, pass, run from Morrall).

Brown scoring: touchdowns, Renfro (32, pass and run from Hanulak); Campbell (25, pass and run from O'Connell); conversions, Groza 2. Field goals, Groza 3. (29, 45, 14).

Jayhawks Edge Colorado, 35-34

BOULDER (AP) — Colorado, plagued by fumbles that produced three touchdowns for Kansas, rallied for three scores in the fourth quarter to take a brief lead before the Jayhawks sailed through the air for a 35-34 Big Eight Conference victory Saturday.

Trailing 34-28 with four minutes left, sophomore quarterback Larry McKown took over the controls for the Jayhawks and guided them to victory. He connected on a 58-yard pass play to halfback Homer Floyd that carried to Colorado's 4. On the third play, halfback Larry Carrier plunged in for the tying touchdown. Quarterback Duane Morris kicked the decisive extra point.

46,558 See Colts Upset Bears, 21-10

BALTIMORE (UP)—Johnny (Sandlot) Unitas threw two second half touchdown passes Saturday night to lead the Baltimore Colts to an upset, 21-10, victory over the Chicago Bears before a crowd of 46,558 in Memorial Stadium.

Unitas, who learned his football on the sandlots in Pittsburgh, threw an eight-yard pass to end Jim Mutcheller in the third period to give the Colts a 14-10 lead and then connected with fullback Alan Ameche on a nine-yarder in the final period to sew it up.

The victory gave the surprising Colts the lead in the National Football League's Western Division. In their season opener last week, the Colts upended the Detroit Lions, 34-14. The loss was the defending Western Division champion Bears' second in as many starts. Green Bay beat the Bears last week, 21-17.

* * * *

BALTIMORE SCORED first in the opening period when Lenny Moore, who came to the Colts from the New York Giants, dashed 55 yards off tackle.

Chicago tied the score in the same period when quarterback Ed Brown threw a 56-yard touchdown pass to rookie halfback Willie Galimore and went ahead, 10-7, in the second period on a 22-yard field goal by George Blanda.

The Bears appeared to be on the way to another score late in the final period, but rookie linebacker Don Shinnick picked off a Brown pass on his own 15 and ran it back to the 30.

* * * *

THE TWO SCORING passes gave Unitas, who cost the Colts the price of a postage stamp, six for the young season. Unitas completed 16 of 26 passes for a total gain of 162 yards. The Colts picked up 177 yards rushing and held the vaunted Bears to 29 yards on the ground.

Colgate Crushed by Illinois, 40-0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill (UP)—Fullback Ray Nitschke scored three touchdowns Saturday as Illinois crushed Colgate, 40-0, in the Illini's home opener before a Memorial Stadium crowd of 41,594.

The Illinois victory evened the score for the last time the two teams met, in 1916 when Colgate won, 15-3. The victory also evened Illinois' season record at 1-1, and the loss was Colgate's first in two games.

Illinois' superiority was proved in the statistics which showed the Illini rolled 365 yards on the ground to only 101 for Colgate.

Illinois Scoring: Touchdowns, Nitschke 3 (8, plunge; 17, run; 10, pass); Mitchell (8, pass); Stewart (5, pass). Grothe (42, end run). Conversions, Haller 2, Yeagel 2.

Blue Devils Drop Stubborn Maryland

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Duke's methodical Blue Devils, held to a one touchdown margin since early in the game, ground out a second score with only seven seconds left to defeat stubborn Maryland, 14-0, Saturday.

A crowd of 25,000 saw the Blue Devils rack up their third straight Atlantic Coast Conference victory.

Gavilan Launches Serious Training

Former world welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba settled down to serious training Saturday for his fight with Gaspar Ortega of Tijuana, Mex., at Wrigley Field Oct. 15.

The Cuban Kid will box a four-round exhibition in the Tijuana bullring Monday night on a Red Cross benefit card.

Giants Fight Off Winless Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The New York Giants, generous to a fault, gave up four scores through the fumble and interception route Saturday night but hopped on two big breaks themselves to come from behind and defeat the winless Philadelphia Eagles, 24-20.

Jerry Norton, Eagles defensive back, returned an interception 99 yards for a touchdown in the thrilling but wild and wooly game in which the defending champions could be thankful the Eagles had no passing game.

Norton's interception, third longest in league history, and three Giant fumbles which turned into Eagle scores kept the Birds in the running before 28,342 fans. But offensively, the home team gained only 10 yards in the air in the first half and only six in the second.

In the game of jumping on opportunities, the Giants turned a blocked kick into one touchdown and scored another when rookie John Bookman latched on to a Bobby Thomason pass and returned the interception 31 yards for a score.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, ONLY two sustained drives, both by the Giants, resulted in scores. New York marched 77 yards on 14 plays from the opening kickoff to send quarterback Don Heinrich sneaking over from the one. And in the final period the Giants marched from their own 27 to the five where Ben Agajanian booted a 12-yard field goal.

The Eagles' height of frustration came in the third when they trailed, 21-17, and had a first down on the Giant one as a result of an end zone interference penalty. Three plays lost six yards and Bobby Walston kicked his second 15-yard field goal to make it 21-20.

Favor Rams in TV Tilt

San Francisco's 49ers find out today how well they rebuilt the dike after the Los Angeles Rams smashed it on a memorable Friday the 13th.

It was the last month in Los Angeles and the final score was 58-27, the only pre-season loss for the 49ers. But that setback shocked Coach Frankie Albert into a couple of moves to shore up the defensive corps.

So this afternoon at 1:30 when the Rams invade Kezar Stadium with a capacity crowd of about 59,000 anticipated, they'll meet a couple of fellows who weren't here before, linebacker Marv Matuszak, a 235-pounder, and defensive halfback Val Joe Walker.

* * * *

STILL, THE PASSING of Norm Van Brocklin and the running of Tom Wilson, Ron Waller, Tank Younger and Joe Marconi looks to be more than the 49ers can handle. Attesting the running strength on the club, coach Sid Gillman has installed rookie star Jon Arnett at end again.

The Rams are favored by six points. The game will be televised over KNXT (2) and broadcast over KMPC beginning at 1:30.

Los Angeles opened its league campaign last Sunday with a 17-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, while San Francisco was upset by the Chicago Cardinals, 20-10.

There was some good news from the 49ers camp, however. End Billy Wilson, out since Sept. 7 with a knee injury, was reported ready for service. Also, fullback Joe Perry, hampered by a knee injury and poundage picked up by inactivity, reportedly is regaining his shape and will see duty against Los Angeles.

* * * *

PERRY PLAYED only a quarter last week, his first game of the season, and lacked his usual sharpness.

As usual, Y. A. Tittle starts at quarterback for the 49ers with Hugh McElhenny at left half and rookie R. C. Owens at flanker. Clyde Conner and Gordy Soltau get the starting call at ends with Wilson available for replacement duty.

Praise, Shouting in Yankee Quarters All for Kubek

MILWAUKEE (AP) — All the praise and shouting in the Yankee dressing room centered on Tony Kubek, the Milwaukee - born all - around man of the Yanks, who hit two home runs and a single in Saturday's carnage.

"Kubek was pretty good, wasn't he," Casey Stengel crackled. "He wanted to wait until he got home to do it. It didn't disturb him none to move him around. He's just a 20-year old kid and he's played five positions in the big leagues."

Kubek, who played at third earlier in the series, went to left field Saturday.

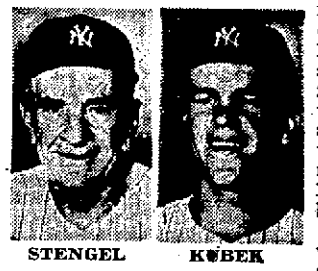

Casey had a warm word, too, for Bob Turley, his starting pitcher.

"I expect Turley will pitch again before this series is over," he said. "He had plenty of stuff, if only he could have got the ball over a little more."

Stengel said he may start Elston Howard at first base today, and Andy Carey at third.

In the shower room, Stengel told the Milwaukee-born Kubek: "You go home and thank your father and mother from all of us."

Casey dwelt at some length on Kubek's Milwaukee background.

STENGEL KUBEK

"You take a big strong boy like Kubek," said Stengel. "He's used to the cool weather like they have around here, you polish him up and then you bring him home and show him to the home folks."

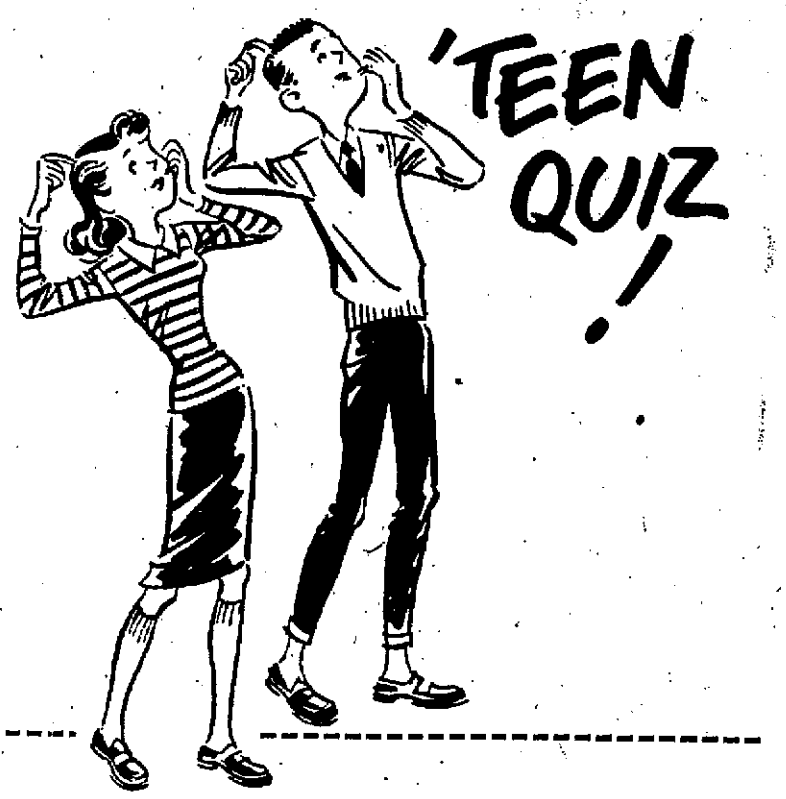

Then Stengel added, with a sly grin, "Sometimes—like today—it makes them mad as hell."

Stengel said he didn't mind the boos of the Milwaukee fans.

"I really love 'em," said the Yankee skipper. "I worked here for them (a reference to the fact that he once managed the Milwaukee Brewers in the American Association). I won a pennant for them. The trouble is, they forgot I worked here, and they don't seem to care too much about me now. But really, they're wonderful and I don't get mad when they boo me."

Stengel, relaxed and genial, was not yet in a mood to celebrate. "We still got a long way to go," he said.

Mickey Mantle, who hit his last previous homer August 30, talked about how good it felt to smash one Saturday. "It sure was a long time between homers. I knew this one was going out almost as soon as I hit it. He (Gene Conley) threw me a good curve ball."

Vets Can Still Get Big Home

In one of the few remaining developments in Southern California, Signature Homes in Garden Grove, formerly builders of custom homes, now offers veterans the opportunity of buying quality homes with 29-year loans at 4½ per cent interest.

Noteworthy about this is the fact that there are only 42 weeks left for veterans to use their certificate of eligibility and by act of Congress there will be no more VA-financed homes, salesmen point out.

Even now there is only one veteran-financed home for every 10 eligible veterans and these homes are being sold at a rate far beyond the ability to build them.

Veterans can take advantage of an offer that will never be theirs again, and save as much as $4,500 on a home they purchase.

Signature Homes in Garden Grove report a tremendous increase in activity among veterans who desire to buy a home of their own before this type of financing runs out.

More Units Are Opening

Norwalk Village, with a record of 800 homes sold in the first six units, even before they were built, is opening units 7 and 8, according to Natan Shapell, president of S and S Construction Co., builders of the community just off the Santa Ana Freeway near Rosecrans.

Priced from $13,900, homes in Norwalk Village are available to veterans on 29½-year loans, with low down payments. Financing is also available for non-veterans. Price includes semiautomatic dishwasher, sink-installed disposer, range hood with light and fan, parkway tree, lawns, and in some plans forced-air heat. Sewers, streets, and curbs are in and paid for.

These are three-bedroom homes, with one or two tiled and heated baths, and full-sized two-car garage.

To see the furnished models, take Lakewood or Bellflower Blvds. to Rosecrans, then east on Rosecrans just past the Santa Ana Freeway junction to model homes at Greenstone.

Realty Meeting

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet Thursday at 8 a.m. at Mayo's restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave., with Ruby Peterson, program chairman, introducing a record from the Long Beach Board of Realtors workshop.

Expecting Over 4,000 for State Realty Convention

More than 4,000 Realtors, representing every community in California, are expected by Monday in Los Angeles for the 53rd annual convention of the California Real Estate Assn. at the Biltmore Hotel. Over 3,000 of the Realtors paid their registration fees in advance to avoid the congestion of registering at the hotel, according to J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, president of the Association. The CREA state secretary, H. Jackson Pontius, reports that this will be the largest convention in the 53-year history of the association.

More than 80 sessions on specific real estate subjects are listed in the 36-page convention program covering all departments of real estate. An impressive list of nationally prominent speakers will address the general sessions which will be held in the Philharmonic Auditorium and the Biltmore Theater. The conferences, panel meetings and after breakfast round-table discussions will all be held in the Biltmore Hotel. Luncheon and banquet events will take place at the Ambassador, Statler and Biltmore hotels.

First event of the convention will be the CREA Past Presidents' Dinner tonight. Various displays featuring Realtor business-getting material, promotion for multiple listing services and exhibits of equipment, services and materials used by Realtors will be opened today at the Biltmore.

* * * *

MOST OF MONDAY will be devoted to committee meetings on internal business subjects. Sen. Thomas Kuchel will address a luncheon meeting of the appraisal division at the Biltmore. That evening the general convention banquet will be held at the Statler featuring entertainment by the Golden Horseshoe Review from Disneyland. Leo Carrillo will be toastmaster of the event which will honor the real estate boards in California celebrating 50 or more years of service.

The formal opening of the convention will be Tuesday morning in the Philharmonic Auditorium when the first general session will be called to order by Clive Graham of Long Beach, general convention chairman. After words of welcome by Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles, Dan Duggan, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, and J. Mortimer Clark, CREA president, the delegates will hear an address titled, "Real Estate—No Man's Island," by Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples Church of Chicago. James C. Downs Jr. of Chicago, president of the Real Estate Research Corp., will follow with his annual review of business and real estate conditions and a look into the future with predictions of business trends.

* * * *

TUESDAY EVENING two major banquets will be held. The executive vice president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, John M. Dickerman of Washington, will address the home builders' and land developers' division of CREA. James Q. du Pont of Wilmington, Del., will address the 6th Annual Salute Awards Banquet of the Institute of Real Estate Management.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight will address the general session on Wednesday morning. His subject will be "Dynamic California." Other featured speakers will be Eugene P. Conser of Chicago, executive vice president of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, and Albert M. Cole of Washington, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. That evening the social highlight of the convention will take place—the Presidents' Dinner Dance at the Biltmore Bowl. Entertainment will feature Myron Floren, Alice Lon, Bobby Sargent and the Happy Jesters.

* * * *

THURSDAY MORNING the Philippine Ambassador to the United States, General Carlos P. Romulo, will be the featured speaker. That afternoon the election of the new president and other officers of the association will take place. Also, reports will be given on the after breakfast round-table discussions which take place Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Subjects at the round-tables are the everyday problems which confront the Realtor in his service to the public.

Among the other principal speakers to address the convention are: Tom Collins of Kansas City, Bill Gove of St. Paul, Bob Ringer of Los Angeles, J. Wallace Paletou of New Orleans, Herbert L. Breed of Oakland, Dr. Arthur L. Bietz of Beverly Hills, and Robert B. Collins of Tulsa.

Lois G. Smith, classified advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram will be director in charge of a special roundtable session Tuesday when advertising will be discussed. Among those directing the program will be Earl Capper of the I., P.-T. staff.

Heads Sales Drive Plans

Heads Sales Promotion in Hancock Oil

G. Melvin Sheldon has been named sales promotion and training manager for Hancock Oil Co., according to Joe W. Perry, marketing manager. Sheldon will be responsible for the development and operation of a comprehensive sales and dealer training program. This coincides with Hancock's plans for retail expansion in California to provide more modern service station facilities and improved customer service.

Sheldon brings to Hancock twenty years of diversified experience in the petroleum industry. He was formerly with Hickok Oil Corp., Toledo., in charge of sales promotion and training; Richfield Oil Corp., Los Angeles, as sales promotion assistant to the retail merchandising manager; and most recently, Leo Burnett Advertising Agency, Chicago, serving the marketing department of Pure Oil Company.

A graduate of Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Sheldon is an active member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Toastmasters International, and The American Society of Training Directors.

Big Dividend by Home Savings

The highest quarterly dividend payment ever made by a savings and loan association was paid by Home Savings and Loan for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1957, according to Dwight Jenkins, local manager, 201 East First St.

Charles Brinton, treasurer of Home Savings, reported to Jenkins that dividends paid on withdrawable shares totalled over $4 million for the quarter just concluded. This record dividend payment was shared by the more than 180,000 savers affiliated with Home's 20 offices throughout Southern California.

Big Missiles Really Cost

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Uncle Sam's missiles cost from $4,400 to more than $4 million apiece, a trade pubisher says.

Bennett H. Horchler of Cleveland, publishing director of the trade magazine Aeronautical Purchasing, told a news conference that the magazine's Washington correspondent made these estimates of costs for 15 missiles:

Sidewinder, $4,400; Sparrow III, $40,000; Falcon, $9,000; Nike I, $20,000; Nike II, $80,000-$100,000; Tartar, $40,000; Bullpup, above $10,000; Petrel, $80,000; Corporal, above $100,000; Matador, $100,000; Redstone, $1,000,000; Lacrosse, above $50,000; Regulu II, $430,000; Snark, $1,000,000.

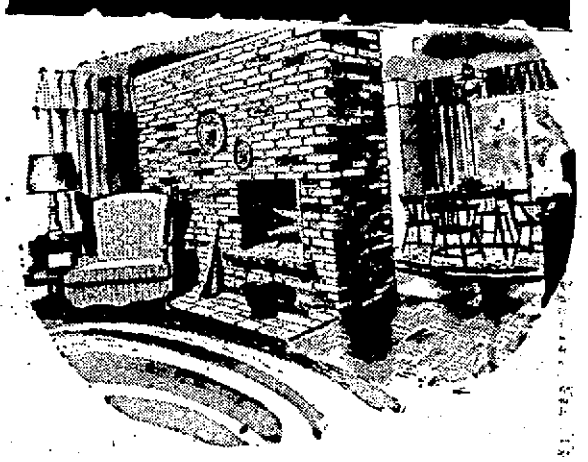

The Atlas, Horchler said, costs more than $4 million.

Walker's Launching Birthday Sale With Big Cake to Be Cut

J. F. BISHOP
Optimistic as to Future

Walker's 24th Birthday Sale starts Monday, and the traditional big Birthday cake is now on display in the store's Pine Ave. window.

This cake weighs more than 1,000 pounds.

This year the store is dedicating it to the Miss Universe Pageant. The cake is decorated with the flags of all the participating countries, and miniature replicas of the Miss Universe girls. Twenty-four marked pennies are in the cake—one for every year—and when the cake is cut and distributed, each customer who finds a penny will receive one of the gifts which are on display in the window.

Actually this particular birthday is also a FIRST, for it marks the first year since Walker's was purchased by Joseph Bishop, and Leo C. Malco. These men have been with the store since it's inception.

Bishop, president of the corporation, said, "We are very optimistic relative to the future of downtown Long Beach. We have recently had some fine improvements in this area. It will always be Walker's policy to keep pace with the new improvements.

Malco, in addition to being vice-president and general manager of the store, also directs the merchandising activities. He spent most of the month of August, with a number of buyers, in the Eastern markets.

They visited the company's buying offices in St. Louis, Chicago, New York, Miami and Dallas.

Said Malco, "I was delighted with the wonderful response and encouragement from our friends in the market. They went all-out to make our Birthday Sale a tremndous success. The values that we obtained for this event are the most outstanding of any in our history. I know that our customer-friends will be pleased with the savings that we are able to pass on to them."

Three Choice Stratford Homes Back on Market

There are three choice locations available at Stratford Homes of Anaheim, it was noted by Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents of the Cunningham Co. subdivision in Anaheim. The homes, with 3 or 4-bedrooms and two baths, were previously sold but placed back on the market because prospective buyers failed to qualify.

Priced from $15,755, Stratford Homes are available for only $900 move-in, as a result of new financing terms recently announced. A choice of gas or electric built-in oven and range is offered, with all kitchens equipped with ventilating hood and fan, garbage disposal, built-in clocks and door chimes and handsome hardwood Sakar cabinetry. There is also dining space in the kitchens.

* * * *

MORE FEATURES are paneled walls, dust-free slab doors, sliding glass doors, brick fireplaces, service porches, oversize two-car garages, lustrous oak floors with two-inch tongue and groove sub-floors, Pullman baths, stall showers and luxury-size mirrors. Some models are equipped with built-in bookcases and dressing rooms with patio doors in the bedrooms as well. Street lights are in and paid for and there are sidewalks throughout the development.

Major transportation to Los Angeles, Santa Ana and Long Beach is readily accessible, it was noted, while major shopping centers, including the mammoth Broadway center, are nearby. There are new schools and churches, parks and recreational centers and famous Southland recreational areas, including Disneyland, golf courses, beaches and resorts nearby.

Visitors may reach the models by driving out Carson (Lincoln Ave.) to Euclid and south to the homes.

Tails, Stripes Out, Says Mayor

NEW YORK (UP)—Protocol or no, Mayor Robert F. Wagner says he does not intend to wear striped trousers and tails when he greets Queen Elizabeth of England here Oct. 21.

Wagner, always dressed impeccably, just doesn't like the formal attire. He calls it a "rig."

Asked what he would wear, he pointed to his blue-gray business suit and said:

"Probably something like this."

Survey of Automation

CHICAGO (UP) — The Mortgage Bankers Association of America is going to hold a clinic on how far the push-button era of automation has gone in its industry. The electronic and tabulating equipment servicing clinic, sponsored by the association, will be held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, Sept. 23-26.

U.S.-Canada Economics Parley Set

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States and Canada will hold cabinet-level talks here next week on growing strains in economic relations.

The parley, set for Monday and Tuesday, will be the first full-fledged conference on economic differences since Canada's new government took office last summer. Outspoken criticism of some U. S. foreign economic policies by Canada's new prime minister, John Diefenbaker, may indicate the Canadian delegation plans to do some tough talking.

The conference will be the third session of the joint U. S.-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. Sessions were held in 1954 and 1955 but none was held last year because Canada felt they were not worthwhile.

New Members Are Approved

New members approved at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants were, Frank Hardin Courtney Jr., chief cost accountant for Star-Kist Foods; William G. Kormalis, supervisor of the cost accounting department of Arrowhead Products; Nathan Meltzer of the National Metal and Steel Corp. and Lawrence C. Richards, who is comptroller of National Metal and Steel.

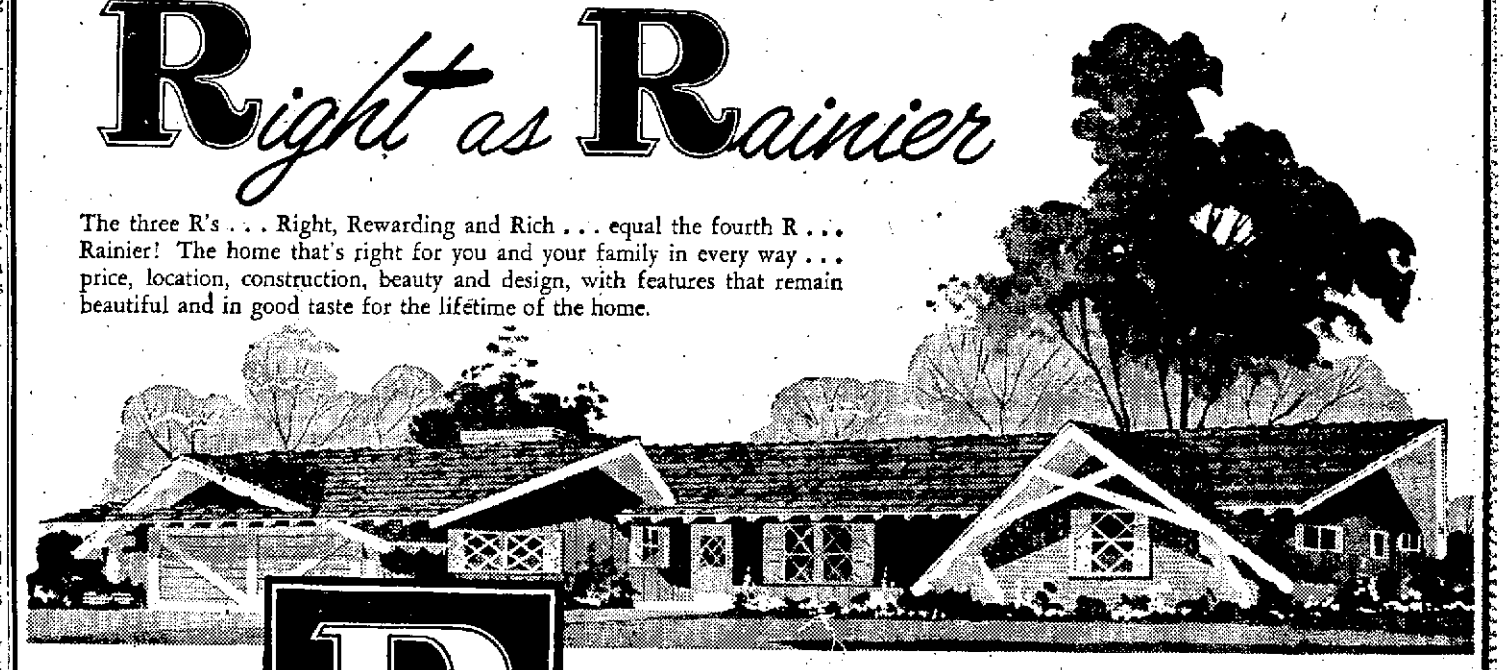

Douglas Exec Wins Aeronautics Award

NEW YORK (UP) — Aircraft executive Arthur E. Raymond has been named winner of the 1957 Daniel Guggenheim medal for notable achievements in the advancement of aeronautics, it was announced Saturday by Edward Warner, chairman of the judging board.

Raymond, vice president-engineering of Douglas Aircraft Co., will be presented the medal on Jan. 28, 1958, during a dinner here of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

TOM COLLINS
Famed as Dinner Speaker

Tom Collins Speaks Here

Tom Collins, Kansas City humorist and philosopher who is nationally recognized as an outstanding after-dinner speaker will be featured at the dinner of the Long Beach Sales Executive Club Monday night. The dinner meeting will be in the Supper Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Collins, who is publicity director of the City National Bank and Trust Co., of Kansas City, is a former newspaperman who became so popular as a dinner speaker that he changed his profession. He has been featured in radio shows and movie shorts.

Sales Now Soaring for Rainier Homes

Sales continue to increase since the opening of the fourth unit of Rainier Homes 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath and family room homes in Anaheim.

According to a spokesman for the Marjan development, buyers largely constitute families with growing children who will take full advantage of the new schools and churches nearby. Also within easy access of the homes is the Broadway Shopping Center, major transportation to Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles, and famous Southern California recreational areas including Disneyland, parks and beaches.

Kitchens in Rainier Homes are all-electric by Westinghouse and include built-in oven and range, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposals, exhaust fans, ventilating hoods, dining or serving peninsulas and natural finish alderwood cabinetry with raised panels. Optional equipment includes Westinghouse built-in refrigerator-freezers.

* * * *

LIVING AND FAMILY ROOMS have used brick fireplaces and sliding glass doors opening onto patio areas. There are Pullman lavatories topped with imported Italian marble, genuine lath and plaster construction, sliding wardrobes, walk-in linen closets, entry halls, front and side landscaping. Baths also have stall showers and ceramic tiled tub areas.

Hardwood floors, cement drives and walks and heavy shake roofs are more features, with optional equipment including complete hi-fidelity music system with AM, FM and four-speed record changer, custom designed patios and swimming pools, all contracted for before construction, to be installed and ready for use at the time of occupancy.

Priced from $18,640, the homes are available to both vets and non-vets on new FHA financing. Models are open daily on Broadway between Brookhurst and Euclid in Anaheim. Visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway from Los Angeles, turn south on Brookhurst (La Palma) to Broadway and east on Broadway. From Long Beach, drive out Carson (Lincoln) to Brookhurst and south on Brookhurst to Broadway, east to the models.

Accountants to Tour Plant

On Oct. 10 the members of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants and their invited guests will make one of their semi-annual plant inspection tours of the McCulloch Motors Corp. at 6101 W. Century Blvd. A first hand opportunity to observe the manufacturing of this line of small gasoline engines and their chain saws will be accorded the touring group.

The plant tour will be preceded by dinner on the grounds.

Bike Appeal

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Police said three thieves stole Donald L. Hickok's car, drove it for five hours, parked it, and rode off on bicycles.

New Jet Is Ready

DENVER (AP)—Lockheed Aircraft Co. is ready to offer a new two-engine jet utility transport to the U. S. Air Force.

Robert I. Mitchell of Marietta, Ga., sales manager of Lockheed's Georgia division, said the new plane is the JetStar, a 500-mile-an-hour jet which can seat 10 passengers in addition to its crew of two. Its two Curtiss-Wright TJ-37 engines are mounted on either side of the fuselage, just forward of the tail section.

Mitchell said the plane could be turned over to the Air Force soon for testing. He said the Air Force has indicated a need of approximately 200 planes of this type. The craft currently is being flight tested in California.

The company estimates the plane's cost will be about $720,000 each once total production rises to about 400.

L. B. Apartments for Vegas Motel

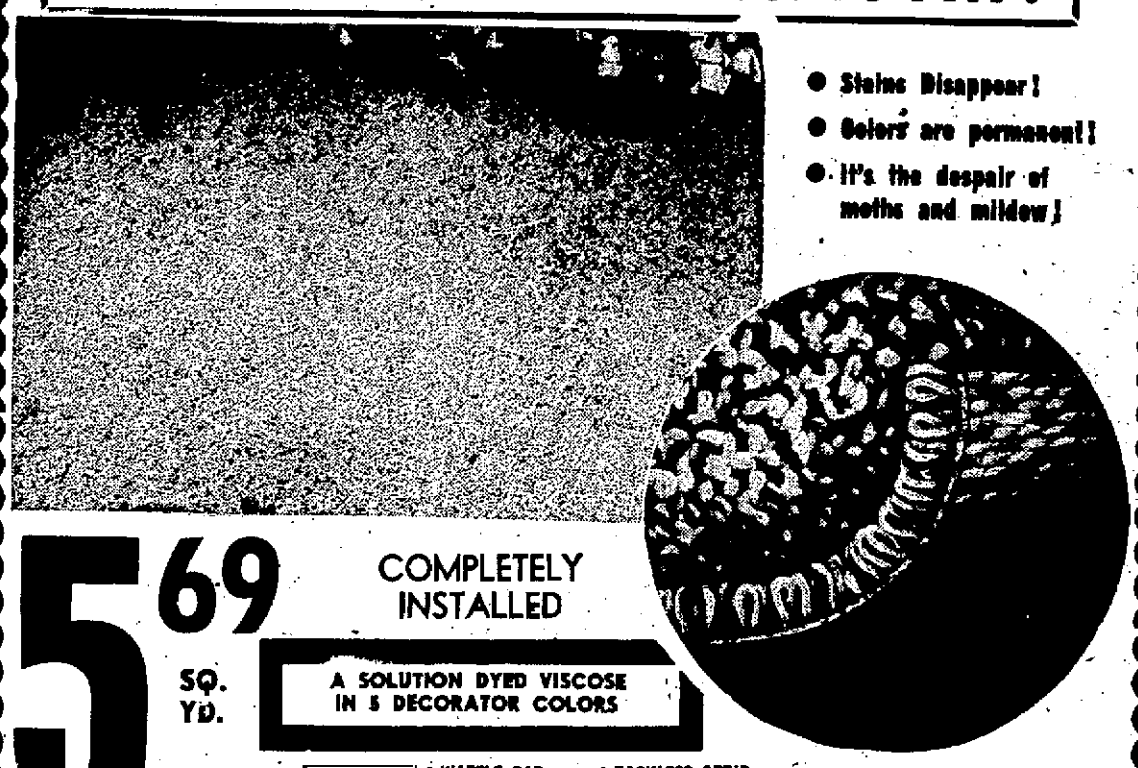

In a recent exchange of properties W. L. Harris and wife traded in their 8-unit apartment at 24 Neptune Pl., Long Beach, for the de luxe Ritz-Vegas Motel in Las Vegas, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wagner, formerly of Long Beach.

Consideration in the exchange amounted to approximately $250,000. The principals were represented by James P. Kelly, real estate broker, 1240 E. 4th St.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Bob Hope starts his season on (4) at 9 p.m. with a show filmed in Morocco and featuring Eddie Fisher, Marie McDonald, Gary Crosby, Ann Miller and the Les Brown band.

Film was made months ago at the U. S. Air Force Base as Hope and the troupe performed for the G.I.'s there.

Hope has six shows this season, alternating Sundays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The next, Nov. 7.

DAYTIME DATA

"Let's Take a Trip" (2) at 8 a.m. to the N.Y. City Opera . . . Salah El-Bitar, Syrian foreign minister, on "Face the Nation" (2) at 9 a.m. . . . "Catholic Hour" (4) at 9:30 deals with theology of the religion. . . . Koichiro Asakai, Japanese Ambassador, on "Youth Wants to Know" (4) at 10 a.m. . . . Scene from "Carmen" by the N.Y. Opera Co., on "Lamp Unto My Feet" (2) at 10. . . . Special Jewish High Holidays program for "Look Up and Live" (2) at 10:30. . . . "World Series" (4) at 10:45 a.m. (NO COLOR) . . . San Pedro's "Fishermen's Fiesta" at 11 a.m. (5). . . . Gov. Goodwin J. Knight answers questions on (11) at 1 p.m. . . . Rams vs. 49ers on (2) at 1:30 p.m. . . . The Rhinos play Venice on (5) at 2:15. . . . "Paul Winchell Presents" (7) opens at 4:30 p.m. with Frank Fontaine, Judy Scott and The Hambones as the guests. . . . Lauro Salas, former lightweight champion, on "Cavalcade of Books" (2) at 4:30 p.m. discussing a book about bull fighting. . . . Rev. Claude M. Sailhamer of the Olive Hill Baptist church here launches a weekly half-hour, "The Blessed Hope," at 4:30 p.m. on (13).

5 P.M.

"See It Now" (2) looks into the Post Office Department and its huge deficit. Ed Murrow and staff show antiquated procedures and handling methods.

5:30 P.M.

NEW TONIGHT is "Captain Z-Ro," a film series of adventures that will alternate weekly with "Long John Silver" on (5). Opener deals with a robot designed for space travel. Roy Steffens plays the part of Z-Ro.

"Outlook" (4) deals with the Atlas missile.

6 P.M.

Senator William F. Knowland and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in filmed interviews on "Clete Roberts' Special Report" (2).

The "Meet the Press" panel on (4) talks with Dr. Nathan Pusey, President of Harvard University.

6:30 P.M.

COLOR for "My Friend Flicka" (4) and a bitter feud between ranchers and nesters with Flicka becoming a plow horse to help a farmer.

7 P.M.

Gramps sneaks a snooze under some berry bushes, and Timmy thinks the old man is ill. Lots of excitement follows when Timmy eats some poisonous berries and "Lassie" (2) saves the day.

"Dan Smoot Reports" (13) on the plans of Sen. Knowland in 1958.

7:30 P.M.

Rushing to the airport, "Jack Benny" (2) runs into all manner of complications including Frank Nelson, Mel Blanc and Sheldon Leonard.

In a river-boat game of high-stakes poker, "Maverick" (7) is heavy loser to a woman who uses obscure rules to win. He gets his revenge.

"Sally" (4) and Mrs. Banford find themselves inadvertently involved with a group of existentialists on Paris' Left Bank.

8 P.M.

COLOR for the "Steve Allen Show" (4) with Anthony Perkins, Joanne Dru, Johnny Puleo and the Harmonica Rascals, Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane as the guests.

"Ed Sullivan Show" (2) has Danny Thomas, Kate Smith, Eva Marie Saint, Alan King, the Everly Brothers, the Piel Brothers (Bob and Ray), the Kirby Stone Four, Mr. Pastry, winners of the Harvest Moon Ball, the Mambo Aces and a juggler. Too much talent for not enough time. Next week Crosby and Sinatra take over this hour so Sullivan is off for Europe.

9 P.M.

NEW dramas for "G.E. Theatre" (2) with James and Pamela Mason as the first fall stars. Story of an author who has had a mental breakdown and tries to recover on an island in the West Indies only to run into a most unusual situation.

"Bob Hope Show" (4). See above.

Movie on (11) is "Deep Waters" starring Dana Andrews, Cesar Romero and Jean Peters. Conflicting tale of a fisherman torn between the lure of the sea and the love of a pretty girl.

9:30 P.M.

NEW dramas for "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2) stars Jessica Tandy, Tom Conway and William Shattner. There's no murder in this one but plenty of suspense and a shocking climax.

SPECIAL on (7) will present Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

Henry Armstrong, once one of the world's great fighters, will face a panel of "Dateline" (5).

10 P.M.

Jeff Richards portrays a courageous newspaperman of the old west in gold-rush days who crusades against local lawlessness until hoods raid his plant and kill his wife, on "The Web" (4). This winds up the series. Next week a big spectacular followed in a week by "Loretta Young."

10:30 P.M.

NEW TIME for the "Mae Williams Show" (5) as she tells of some star who came up the hard way.

The effect of atomic fallout on the people is discussed on "Your Decision" (7). State Senator Robert McCarthy is the host-moderator.

MONDAY DAYTIME DATA

Morgana King is guest star on "Today" (4) between 6 and 8 a.m. . . . Musician Joe Darensbourg talks Dixieland on "Panorama Pacific" (2) between 7 and 8. . . . Los Angeles City Council hearings on the Dodger move over (11) at 10 a.m. until conclusion. . . . World Series on (4) at 10:45 a.m. . . . Wally Cox on the "Arlene Francis Show" (4) at 2 p.m. . . . Dave Gardner, new comedian, on "Garry Moore Show" (2) at 2 p.m. . . . Don Rondo and Sonny James sing for "Bandstand" (7) at 3 p.m. . . . A Used Car Is Just a machine subject to repair. We have felt that a customer of Donel Edsel Sales Used Car Dept. should enjoy solid assurance of no cost for repairs on any car we guarantee.

Therefore we henceforth will place a bonded guarantee of 100% coverage on parts and labor, to be used in any garage in the United States, with no mileage restrictions, effective for 12 months. This, indeed, takes the gamble out of buying a Bonded Used Car — No Gamble at Donel Edsel.

WORLD OF WHEELS

More Models for Ford's Continental

By ART STEPHAN
Independent-Press-Telegram Auto Editor

Introduction of a full line of four models in a new Continental series for 1958, to be offered by Ford Motor Co., was revealed in New York last week.

Two all-new four-door sedans and a unique retractable-top convertible will be added to the previous two-door hardtop to give the Continental an across-the-board choice of four body styles in the famed classic prestige car line, the company announced.

The new Continental line was shown for the first time to Lincoln, Continental and Mercury dealers of the eastern region who met in New York for a meeting with James J. Nance, vice president of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of the Lincoln and Mercury Division, and other officials of the division.

* * * *

"THIS NEW AND complete line of highly styled Continentals will be a vital part of our program in the new Lincoln and Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co.," Mr. Nance said. "With this entry, we will make a strong bid for a top position in the luxury car field."

The new Continental, built on a wheelbase of 131 inches with an overall length of 229 inches, will be one of the longest and roomiest American made cars. It will be powered by a new V-8 engine with a horsepower rating of 375 at 4800 RPM and a compression ratio of 10.5 to 1.

The new Continental line, to be known as the "Continental Mark II," will be the successor of the "Mark II" which was introduced in 1955 as a two-door hardtop coupe. The company's plan for introducing a full line of body styles in the new 1958 Continental series had not been announced previously. Detailed features of the new cars were withheld until public introduction.

* * * *

FORD MOTOR CO. had said in May that production of the Mark II Continental had ended with completion of a model run of 3,000 units—a sales total never before approached in the ultra-high priced car field. Despite a great many inquiries about product plans for the Continental, the company made no further public announcement.

"Our 1958 plans reflect in no small measure the experience the company had with the Mark II," Nance said. "It was known that from a basic styling concept, the company had hit the target. From a prestige standpoint, it had hit the mark—the Continental brought distinction to the owner."

Merchandising for the new 1958 full-line Continental will bring the luxury car line within the reach of a much larger number of car buyers at a cost which reflects the economies of increased production, Nance added.

* * * *

PRICES OF THE NEW Continental, which will be announced when the new models appear in dealer showrooms in November, will be substantially lower than the Mark II, Mr. Nance said.

"This' achievement results from two factors—increased production made possible by our new plant at Novi, Mich., which was designed expressly for the type production we are using for the Continental, and secondly, the fact that the Lincoln for 1958 will incorporate Continental styling and performance, thus enabling the company to spread the costs of luxury car design and manufacture over an increasing number of units."

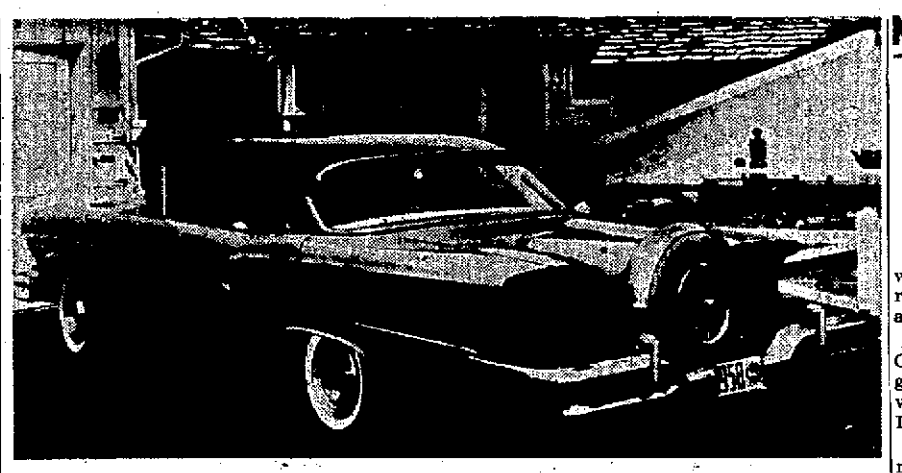

Seek Short Names for Quebec Towns

STE. ADELE, Que. (AP)—Municipal Affairs Minister Paul Dozois favors shorter names for communities in Quebec province. For example, he thinks authorities should cut down this one: The Municipality of the Parish of La Visitation De La Sainte Vierge De L'Isle Du Pads.

TRUCK-TRAILER HOME

Here is the Escort, a unique travel car manufactured in Denver, Iowa, by Homeway Mobile Homes. The revolutionary combination of station wagon and trailer features such innovations as shower, lavatory, thermostatically-controlled floor furnace, range with oven, sleeping accommodations for four—while retaining the highway and parking maneuverability of an automobile. The Escort will be on display today at Hale Young Ford Co., 2641 E. Anaheim St.

HERE'S EDSEL WITH CONTINENTAL KIT

Keeping pace with the 1958 models, Bonzer Manufacturing Co. of Long Beach shows their Continental Wheel Kit for the new Edsel. In keeping with Edsel's revolutionary lines, the Bonzer Kit has been designed with heavy accent on style and high fashion flare. Donel Edsel Sales of 2055 American Ave. is the new Edsel dealer here.

Must Control Higway Access for Safety, Engineer Declares

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A highway engineer says that studies show motorists are in more danger of being killed while driving on a highway on which access is only partly controlled than on one with no control at all.

Full control of access, on the other hand, brings a notable reduction in accidents.

The statement was made by Planning Director H. S. Wiley of the New Mexico Highway of the New Mexico Highway D Department at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

"The fatality rate on surface arterials with no control of access is 8.0 per 100 million vehicle-miles of travel," Wiley said. "Expressways having only partial control of access are guilty of killing 9.6 persons per 100 million vehicle-miles. Full control of access reduces the fatality rate to only 2.8."

* * * *

WILEY, WHO is in charge of future planning for the state's highway department, devoted considerable attention in his talk to the matter of access to highways.

"With regard to the control of access required for the interstate system by the Federal Highway Act of 1956," he said, "it should be noted that the state's own economic interest demands such control. It has repeatedly been demonstrated that free access sharply reduces the capacity of even the most modern highways. Therefore, to invest money in new roads that will within a few years be unable to handle the traffic flow for which they were designed would be the most flagrant waste of public funds.

"For business establishments along a highway, uncontrolled access grants only short-lived benefits. If a highway is rendered obsolete by the congestion generated by roadside businesses, it must eventually be relocated, leaving the businesses stranded."

* * * *

HE STRESSED that the purpose, on such highways, is "not to limit access, but to control it."

Wiley told his fellow engineers that changes in automotive design are among factors which can change the highway picture rapidly. A few weeks ago, he said, his department was momentarily perplexed at finding about twice as many unsafe sight distances as previously on identical stretches of roadway. The explanation was that a 1957 model car was being used for the new testing and the eye-height of the driver above the roadway was about seven inches lower than it was last year when an older model was used.

"In other words, drivers of new-model autos can't see as far over the vertical crests as they did in the old cars. As a consequence, we now have many more miles of highway which are critically hazardous because of this one simple change in vehicle design and we must compute new minimum safe standards for vertical curves."

Big Drop in Auto Production

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry will build 22,725 cars and 6,047 trucks this coming week, Ward's automotive reports said. The low level reflects the model switchover of both General Motors and Ford.

Last week the industry built 51,552 cars and 9,242 trucks. In the like week a year ago 59,367 cars and 19,926 trucks were produced. Ward's said GM's Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick and Oldsmobile divisions are set to start 1958 model output next week.

That's Not Ky. Dew in Bottle on Beach

CALAIS, France (UP)—A bottle bearing a message supposedly written by an American with a Kentucky address was washed up on the beach near this English channel port, police reported.

The message read: "Thrown from USNS Upshur, Sept. 10, 1957. If found, contact Mr. Charles Boarman, 823 Clay St., Owensboro, Ky., U. S. A."

MOTOR SPORTS

Many Outstanding Events for Cars Booked in Coming Weeks

By PAUL WALLACE

The waning year will bring with it a series of sports car races as promising in prospect as any ever held in California.

The first of four Sports Car Club of America events will begin the weekend of Oct. 19-20 with a warmup session—a San Diego Regional SCCA skirmish.

Dubbed the 6th annual Torrey Pines Sports Car Races, the event actually will not run over the old Torrey Pines course but at Hourglass Field, an airstrip-type course several miles away.

The real action is expected to start two weekends later on Nov. 2-3 at the chi-chi desert spa, Palm Springs.

The next weekend, Nov. 9-10, action moves to the Monterey Peninsula for the 8th annual running of the Pebble Beach Road Races, then returns the following week to Southern California for an SCCA go at the new Riverside International Motor Raceway.

* * * *

THE LATTER THREE all are SCCA national championship events. The top Eastern and Mid-western racing teams probably will make the long trip here for the bonanza in championship points waiting to be claimed in the three consecutive weekends of competition.

Enthusiasts should look forward to six days of racing between the best sports cars and drivers in America.

Carroll Shelby will be on hand. Phil Hill should be back from his summer duties driving with the Ferrari factory team. Maybe the aspiring grand prix driver Masten Gregory will be present.

Entries may also include a strong contingent from the famed "Lavender Hill Mob" of Washington, D. C., plus the Briggs Cunninghams, Jim Kimberlys and other name eastern racing buffs.

* * * *

WITH THE Palm Springs and Pebble Beach affairs always popular social events as well as race meets and climaxing with the nation's best drivers on the West's best course, Riverside, the series gives every promise of a large time for all.

The Pebble Beach race, incidentally, will be run on a new two-mile circuit on the grounds of Ft. Ord. The beautiful peninsula course dropped after the death of Ernie McAfee there, is still unavailable.

* * * *

TODAY THE second installment of a competition between the local Lions Associated Drag Strip and the San Gabriel Drag Strip will get under way at the latter course.

Last night, the valley hot shots brought their machinery here to open the challenge meet.

The local raceway at 223rd and Alameda Sts. will remain open from 3:30 to 11 p.m. Saturdays for several more weeks before the winter schedule of Sunday afternoon dragging returns.

Incidentally, LADS manager Mickey Thompson, an El Monte resident, now owns the ex-Al Hoskings Cadillac-powered Kurtis Kraft roadster, a mate to Bill Murphy's car.

Mickey has been working the bugs out of the big auto at recent sports car races. He seems to drive road racers as well as he tools dragsters although the Kurtis has given him a full share of mechanical and handling problems.

* * * *

THE ROAD RACE Training Assn. will hold a session next Sunday at the San Diego Hour Glass Field. Post entries will be accepted (at double the usual entry fee). Regular entry deadline is Friday.

Sports motorcycle racers will gather on the desert next Sunday to run the State Championship Hare and Hound cross-country event.

The affair is being sponsored by the San Gabriel Valley Motorcycle Club. It will get off at 10 a.m. with the route to the start limed from Hwy. 66 and Hwy. 395 near Victorville. The start, gas stop and finish will be at the same point.

All proceeds are to go to Bill Holcomb who was injured at a recent race in San Jose.

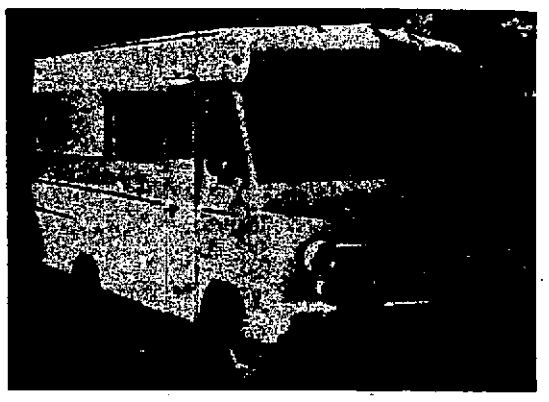

This weekend, the Antique Automobile Club is running a statewide meet with San Luis Obispo as the congregating point. The Southland contingent left Friday and will return today.

Film About Pamir

MUNICH (AP)—A West German film distributing company announces plans for a movie based on the sinking of the German sailing ship Pamir. The four-masted bark, with 86 seamen on board, sank during a hurricane in the Atlantic Sept. 21. Only six were rescued.

Forecast: Brilliant Fall Fashion Event Ahead

Hundreds to Attend PCC Fashion Event

The Pacific Coast Club's Sunrise and Sunset dining rooms will take on a rich seasonal atmosphere when masses of multi-colored autumn leaves and flowers are added to set the stage for the gala 10th annual fall fashion show and luncheon for PCC members and their guests Friday, Oct. 18.

Advance reservations indicate an attendance of more than 500. Members are asked to make reservations with the club in advance as space is limited.

Indications are that this year's fashion event may prove to be the most exciting in the club's long series, as a result of the season's trend toward unusual new stylings and the free use of luxurious materials and vivid, bright colors. In addition to the all-occasion wardrobe showing to be presented by Schick's, there will be millinery from America's top designers, handsome furs and smart accessories.

Mrs. Tex Ritter will act as commentator of the show and music will be by Ted Roe and his orchestra.

* * * *

LUNCHEON WILL BE served at noon. Many hostesses are planning to assemble their guests in the lounge for the cocktail hour beginning at 11 a.m. The fashion parade will immediately follow luncheon.

Among members of the Pacific Coast Club who have made reservations are the following:

Mrs. Charles R. Brantingham, who will be hostess to Mmes. Robert Emerson, Hugh Emerson and George Dunk. Mrs. James Foasberg and a trio of guests will also be seated at the Brantingham table.

Mrs. Herbert H. Frothingham will entertain Mmes. Darrell Neighbors, Roy Brown, Eleanor Kimball, Irene Burkhalter, Florence Hurd, D. C. Hurd and Doddridge Farrell.

* * * *

MRS. GEORGE DOLESSI'S guests will be Mmes. M. G. Dolessi, James Hanbery and Claude Fredrick.

Crowds of Americans Still Touring Continent

By ILKA CHASE

We're off! Having been thwarted in our attempt to get to Europe earlier in the season due to my engagement with the embroidery department of Roosevelt Hospital (very high-grade stitching) we are about to take our holiday.

I had thought that at this season of the year reservations would be a cinch, that every American tourist would have landed on home shores the day after Labor Day. Such is by no means the case. September and October are still packed and Mr. Conti, the gentleman who is arranging our accommodations, tells us that the holiday season gets later and later. I'd be dubious about going beyond October, though, I don't care what they say. I have lived through a few European winters. Brrrr. Art and architecture and delicious food and the time to enjoy them is what Europeans have. We have steam heat. As far as I am concerned, it ranks right along with Mom as an institution to be respected.

Also, it seems that the Pacific is now back in the limelight. My dear, you

A Woman in a Man's World

Capitol Hill Post Poses a Challenge

By VIRGINIA W. KELLY
Washington Staff Correspondent

The green pastures of a stimulating career always beckon alluringly to imaginative and dynamic women.

As Capitol Hill secretary to Representative Craig Hosmer of Long Beach, Mrs. Eilleen Squires Case has a challenging assignment in a field dominated by men.

Maturity is not only an asset but a necessity in the position of ranking assistant to legislators. On the Senate side the legal terminology is legislative or administrative assistant. In the House of Representatives, the senior assistants legally are called clerks, but Congressmen frequently grant the title of secretary.

A handsome and vital woman, Mrs. Case believes that qualified women are ideally suited for these well paid and responsible jobs. She reasons that few women assistants aspire to Congressional office, whereas nearly all the men potentially are opponents of the legislators.

* * * *

HUMOROUSLY, Mrs. Case said one must be wedded to one's job for there is little time for social life or hobbies. She explained, as the writer knows, that the more important a legislator is, and the more dedicated he is to the welfare of his constituents, the busier he and his staff will be. This is as it should be, and for that reason a Congressional assistant must have a warm and outgiving personality that enables her to deal with many varied human problems. Mrs. Case said, too, that a sincere interest in national politics and international affairs is vital.

Eilleen usually arrives at the office by 8:30 and seldom arrives home before 7:30 or 8. On occasion she has worked as late as 1 a.m.

Mrs. Case enumerated qualities necessary for success in Capitol Hill assignments: a sense of humor; good health and endurance; flexibility and adaptability; emotional stability; and an optimistic outlook.

* * * *

HER NEWSPAPER background was the training field that taught her to stay calm under the pressure of events and deadlines.

She gives full credit for her serenity to her religious convictions for more than 20 years.

Mrs. Case advises young women who aspire to be Capitol Hill secretaries to work for a broad education and varied business experience. It is necessary to have all the basic skills so that one may assist and direct the other members of the staff.

For office wear, she favors feminine semi-tailored suits and dresses.

In her leisure hours, she enjoys reading for a purpose and she owns one of the exercise couches "that give one the equivalent of nine holes of golf." Eilleen Case enjoys her apartment and cooking although—like most American women—she counts calories to maintain her trim figure.

Following high school in Batavia, N. Y., she worked as a secretary for a year to earn funds for college. She applied for and won a scholarship in piano at the Eastman School of Music.

After a year, she married and lived for several years on a fruit farm where she taught herself to cook, to can, and to sew.

Later she took a business course and taught bookkeeping, rapid calculating and business arithmetic. For all of this in the depression, she earned $15 a week. She worked for a year as secretary to a bank treasurer before becoming secretary to Dr. Meyer Jacobson, publisher of the Rochester, N. Y., Evening Journal. Mrs. Case did the research for his radio program. She went on to do rewrites, the Prudence Penny column, and was society editor for two years.

Mrs. Case said that society writing and editing taught her to meet all kinds of people and situations. She agrees that society writing is the most arduous and least appreciated job on a newspaper. She believes that society writing sells more papers than any other department.

* * * *

AT THE REQUEST of New York Sen. Robert Wagner, she came to Washington in 1938 to be secretary to Nathan Strauss, public housing administrator. With PHA until 1951, she served as Congressional liaison specialist, and as information officer. She became assistant director of public information for the Salary Stabilization Board. In 1953, she applied for and got the job on Capitol Hill with Hosmer.

Mrs. Case has one son, Ed Case, and two small grandchildren. Her son is program director and news commentator for television station KTHT in Houston.

Judge Maltby, Bride at Home

Now residing at 3065 E. 2nd St. following their late summer marriage are Superior Court Judge Joseph M. Maltby and his bride, the former Rita Skinner.

They were married in a quiet ceremony conducted by Judge Fred Miller at his home. Mrs. Miller was the only attendant.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Maltby was a nurse at St. Mary's Hospital. Her husband presides over Department E of the Superior Court here.

'Put More Men to Work!' Say Sandlarks

HUSBANDS OF SANDLARKS will be put to work Saturday night as they unofficially head the committee for the Fall Fun Festival at Mounted Police Clubhouse. Chef of the Week Dan Farnham, above, is anticipating his "kitchen chore" of carving for the prime rib dinner, when he will assist Mmes. Farnham, George Lake, Harold DeLance and Chuck Stevens, from left. Cocktails will be served at 6 with dinner at 8:30; dancing will follow. It is a benefit for Children's Home Society adoption work, recipients of funds from the local Community Chest.—(Staff photo.)

LIKE TO try our hand at radio announcing so tune in your set while we produce our version of "You Are There." The date is Oct. 1, 1957. Ready?

"You are there"

"This is Ila Tellu broadcasting over station. KFUN. I'm standing just inside the entrance at Virginia Country Club this lovely Tuesday morning. Bright sunshine is pouring in through the big glass doors and to my left are those gracious co-hostesses of today's brunch, Marion Heedwohl and Elaine Moore.

They have just surveyed the buffet where gleaming silver and rich autmn flowers make handsome companions. Apparently they found everything to their liking because they are smiling and relaxed as they wait for the first of more than 150 guests expected. Two others have just joined the hostesses. They are Ora Lee Ridings and Winifred Parr who are among those assisting. Although I haven't seen them yet this morning I understand Mary Whisenant, Maggie McFadyen and Flossie Rene are also here to assist as are Mrs. Heedwohl and Mrs. Moore's daughters and daughters-in-law, Louise Vinson, Lucia Moore and Sadorous Lower.

Here come the first of the guests and so we'll return you to the station because "I Am Here" and Ila Tellu is staying!

WHEN THEY FIRST started as a dance club there may have been good reason to call themselves "The Shufflers." Now they dance much better. Very few bruises result from their monthly parties. Saturday they'll descend on Virginia Country Club and among those cavorting with finesse will be Lillian and Otto Beck, Louise and Dayton Boyson, Lois and Roland Raasch, Naomi and Pat Tierney, Margaret and Stanley Smith and Virginia and Merrill Lilley.

Also braving the evening, sans shin guards, will be Maude and Harry Gillen, Betty and Homer Grant, Caroline and Bill Hardcastle, Bea and Bob Pettifer, Mary and Pete Merkus, Ardice and "Nick" Nicolaus and Mary Alice and Les Dahl. That isn't "dahl" but we'll end with Dahl.

IT'S A SMALL world even in Southern California. Florence and Dr. Ward DeWitt landed at International Airport last Sunday night on a flight home from Dallas and New Orleans and first people they saw were Virginia and Charles Wailes, waiting to board a plane on its way to Dallas! Flo and Ward were in Texas territory to attend the national osteopathic convention (where Ward received his fellowship from the American Osteopathic College of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, no less). After this they went on to New Orleans where they exercised their rights as tourists in the best American tradition—gawping to hearts content!

IF YOU'VE GOT a couple of extra hours some day ask Ed Simons about his daughter, Helen Lee, born Sept. 26 at Seaside. If you're pressed for time, however, we suggest you ask Pauline who is just as proud but less vocal in her description of the new little six pound, 12 ounce charmer. Mothers are like that. Look out for fathers! Incidentally, Pauline's birthday was Sept. 27 which made any other gift received that day as anti-climactical as the first page of a just read mystery story!

SHEER GOLF hysteria seized a goodly portion of the population during the past couple of weeks. In search of greener fairways and easier sandtraps went a whole passel of club swinging, cart toting, tournament-bound people who neither shanked nor hooked but drove straight to Carmel and Pebble Beach. Among 'em, one time or another, were Vivian and Harold West, Mary and "Red" Whisenant, Ina and Jay Reed, Myrl and Dr. Fred Clarke, "Matey" and Dr. "Duke" Mahannah, Helen and Charlie Foulks, Nell and Mark Taylor, the Harry Bouchiers, Bernice and John Watkins, Chuck DeCoudres, Helen and Bob Buck, Julia and Dr. Bob Helms, Dot and Bill Cook, Joan and Julie Bescos, Charlotte and George Waldvogel, Lillian and Glen Thomas, Jackie and Dr. Ed Neushutz, the Dr. Walter Newburns, the Wilbur Bradleys and Marge and Jim Ferrie.

ANYBODY BUT A real sport—and we do mean the athletic variety—would have felt like an alien with no place to register at Joyce and Al Jacoubowsky's home, 257 Belmont Ave., last night. Here's why. They had a small dinner party. Their guests were Betty and Jess Hill (director of athletics, USC), Eleanor and Forrest ("Toogie") Twogood (SC head basketball coach), Ada and Clem Miller (sturdy officer of SC's Trojan Club), Mary Lou and Dick Zehms (the old redhead himself, dean of Long Beach newspaper sports reporters) and the Jacoubowsky's guest of honor, Al Saake (director of athletics, University of Hawaii) who has been houseguesting with Joyce and Al while attending the big recreation convention here.

Hand me my gym clothes, mother, I'm trying out for the team tonight!

EVERYBODY partook with relish of food and drink at Della and Bob Joy's last Saturday night and we don't mean sandwiches and milk! No sirree, bob! The Joy's joyful guests rode the trails out to Garden Grove for cocktails, chuck wagon dinner and a stampede of fun; a real Indian summer western shindig, podner. Among those who went thataway were Mattie and Earl Sullivan, Ruth and George Clark, Dorothy and Milt McGrew, Isadine and Ken McCall, Eve and Ed Harvey, Julian and Mary Knutson, Phil and Fort Alcorn, Sybil and Al Beach, Nan and Roger Williams, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty, Dot and Lynn Harshbarger, Genevieve and Dr. Bob McCoy and Dorothy and John Edgar, to name just a few. Among those already dreaming every night of playing the new golf course every day are Dick Carmody, Sid Weinberg, Morris Carl, Art Lloyd, Bernie Solomon, Dr. Art Alban, Bob Kaller, Elmer Brower, Ted Phillips, Bob Kronick, Tenny Moore, Sam Leddel, Chuck Fabish, Dick Sukman, Sam Roska, Judge Ken Sutherland and ad infinitum.

Sitting or Standing It Was the Nicest

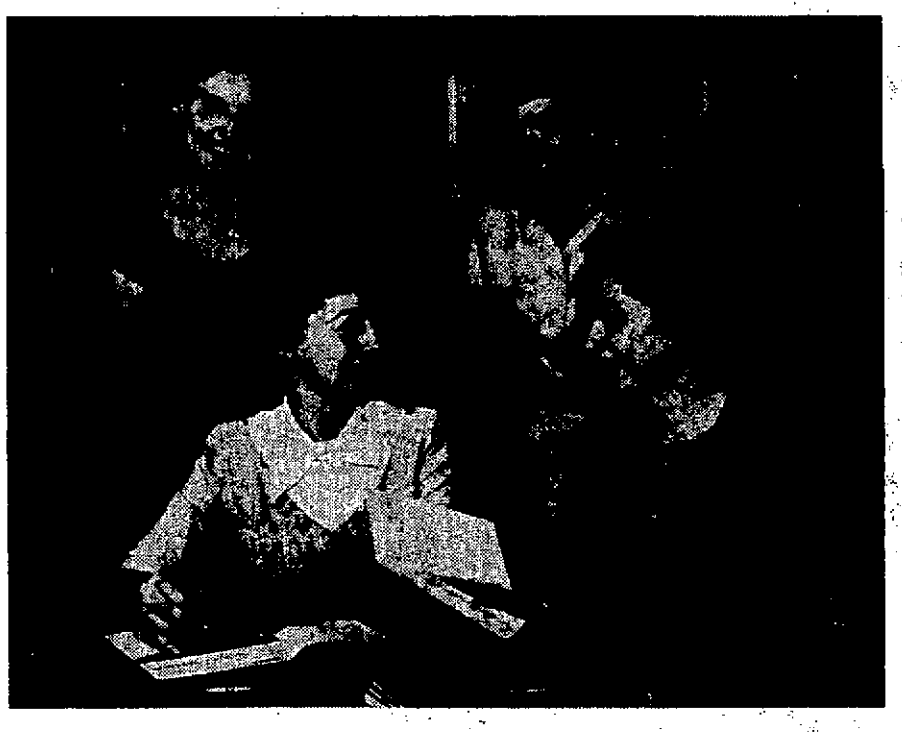

The best place to sit (or stand) Wednesday was at Virginia Country Club, provided you were invited by Doris (Mrs. Gerald) Secord to be one of her 300 guests at a tea honoring her soon-to-be daughter-in-law, Patricia Campbell. Patricia and Dick will be married at a simple "at home" ceremony on Oct. 25.

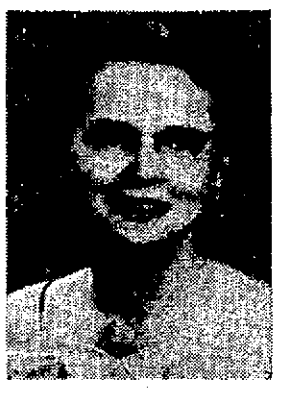

"Either way"

Jack and Stella's daughter, wearing a swish cinnamon beige lace dress, was never loveller as friends of both families crowded around to wish her happiness.

Assisting during the teatime hours were Midge Lupher, Helen Newcomb, Margie Sims, Sally Campbell (Patricia's sister-in-law), Betty Cooper, Barbara Wakeham, Hartley Gurrey, Betty Winckler and Alice Mainland (from Glendale).

Music Club Sets First Fall Date

Mrs. William H. Crutcher will conduct her first meeting as president of Woman's Music Club at the group's formal opening of the new club year Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in Ebell Auditorium.

An active member for nine years, the new president served on the executive board as second vice president for a one year term and as first vice president for two years. Mrs. Crutcher's other musical affiliations include Civic Music Assn. and she is a member of the board of the Long Beach Symphony Assn.

Rachel Morton, program chairman, has arranged a distinctive concert as the program with favorites of the club scheduled to be presented. Laura Killingsworth, coloratura soprano, Betty Kimber, soprano, and Connie Lu Berg, pianist will perform. An organ prelude will be played by Ruth Nichol.

The opening meeting also marks annual Presidents Guest Day and is open to all friends of club members. After the program a reception and tea will be given in the clubhouse patio.

Card Party Set

St. Anthony's Altar Society will sponsor a public card party at 8 p.m. Monday in Catholic Center. Bridge, 500, pinochle and canasta will be played with Mrs. Josephine Terry as chairman.

Rick Rackers Report Magazine Progress

Although summer may glide imperceptibly into autumn climatically, the transition of seasons is dramatically marked by renewed activities in Long Beach clubs. One of the events which challenges the attention of numerous organizations each fall is the announcement of Rick Rackers choice of the Woman of the Year, coincident with the publication of their yearly magazine, the Rick Racker Reporter.

Now in preparation, the 64-page edition will contain stories and pictures of local women's clubs. Mrs. Eugene Kirkpatrick, ways and means chairman, is editor of the magazine. Mrs. William A. Smith Jr., is art director.

Mmes. Lester Callahan, Paul Harder, Merretta Harris, Donald Hodges, Raymond Kelso Jr., Julius Molina, Loyal Pulley, Eldor Sagehorn, Norman Stow, John Turner, Arthur Frenzel, Greg Hoskins and Wendall Wilson comprise the assisting committee, and Mrs. Bess Settle Webster is serving as copy advisor.

The awaited announcement of the award will be made at a coffee hour Oct. 31 in Mrs. Gus Walker's Country Club Drive home. Special guests will be presidents of these organizations which will be included in the magazine:

Alamitos Bay Garden Club, Altrusa, American Association of University Women, Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital, Children's Benefit League, Children's Theater, Council of Jewish Women, Dames Club, Dental Auxiliary, Downtown OptiMrs., Ebell Club, Ebell Juniors, Hadassah, Junior League, Las Madrinas, Lawyers Wives, Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony, Long Beach Exceptional Children, Medical Auxiliary, Nightingales, Panhellenic, Pilot Club, St. Mary's Hospital Guild, Sandlarks, Uptown OptiMrs., and Woman's City Club.

Former recipients of the Woman of the Year honor, Mrs. Everett M. Findlay and Mrs. Gail C. Hudson, also will attend.

All proceeds from the publication, made possible by generous contributions of Long Beach merchants, will go to the West Long Beach Girls Club in Truman Boyd Manor. The club is supported solely by the Long Beach Assistance League and the Rick Rackers, the league's junior auxiliary.

Ebell Meet on Monday

Ebell Club of Long Beach will open the fall season Monday at 1:30 p.m. The clubhouse has had a rejuvenation on the exterior by a facial pack of fresh paint, a permanent wave of new lawns, shrubs and twisted junipers, intriguing eye makeup on the windows with glamorous pink glass curtains. The patio floors are blushing with a coat of red rouge and even the kitchen has had new gadgets purchased for it.

Mrs. Arthur F. Bonzer, presiding for the first time, will present members of the board of directors.

The day's program, a streamlined version of "The Song of Norway" by an all star cast in costume, will be presented by Mrs. Arthur A. Knoll, program chairman. The group, called "The First Operetta Group," is under direction of Harper MacKay.

Tea will be served in the clubhouse patio following the program.

University Wives Installation Noted

University Wives, auxiliary to the Long Beach University Club, installed new officers at an attractively appointed luncheon Wednesday at the clubhouse, 1105 E. Ocean Blvd. Mrs. Paul D. Southgate accepted the chairmanship from Julian Davis, immediate past president of the men's club, the day's installing officer.

Others accepting duties for the year were Mrs. Dominic Cavallere, first vice chairman; Mrs. Pat DeRosa, second vice chairman; Mrs. Chester Laubscher, third vice chairman; Mrs. Ernest Folsom, secretary; and Mrs. Cecil Willis, treasurer.

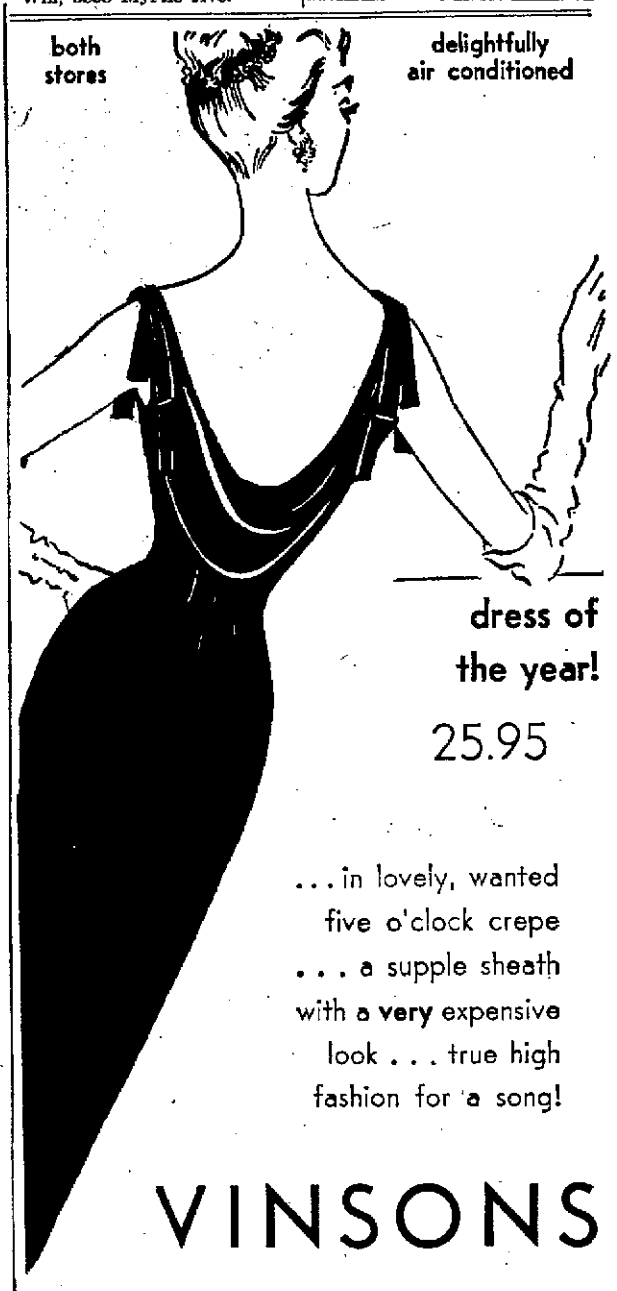

Mrs. Edward A. (Laura) Killingsworth, member of the auxiliary and well known local vocalist, concluded the program with a group of songs.

Pi Phi Events

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club will meet Oct. 14, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. John Pitblado, 3912 Cerritos Ave. when Bryan Waller will present the group with new and different ideas for Christmas decorations. Waller, prior to operating a gift shop, was an interior decorator.

Members of the group are also planning an afternoon of bridge on Oct. 25 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. D. S. Will, 3853 Myrtle Ave.

Kirkpatrick-Camden Vows

A spirit of hushed reverence prevailed last Saturday night at First Baptist Church as more than 500 guests gathered to witness the touching ceremony uniting Nadine Helene Camden in marriage with Robert Ray Kirkpatrick. Dr. Frank M. Kepner read the nuptial lines.

The popular young pair, daughter of Mrs. Buriram Leroy Camden of Santa Monica and the late Mr. Camden, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Kirkpatrick of Long Beach, both are natives of this city.

A princess gown of gleaming white peau de soie with Alencon lace embossed neckline enhanced the bride's youthful beauty. Pearls and sequins traced the neckline and were repeated in the princess crown of lace that held her fingertip length veil of French illusion. Her cascade bouquet was of stephanotis and phalaenopsis surrounding a single white orchid. An uncle, Louis P. Camden, gave her in marriage.

* * * *

PRECEDING THE bride to altar were her flower girls, Connie and Carol Hodges, Gary Kirkpatrick as ring bearer, and bridal attendants, Mrs. Kenneth Kiser, matron of honor, and Mmes. Henry M. Kline Jr., twin of the bridegroom, Donald M. Hodges, also a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Robert Dill, and Miss Carole Kolway, bridesmaids.

The attendants all wore dresses of nylon chiffon, fashioned with shirred bodices and full skirts with satin bows and full length streamers adding back interest. Their gowns gave a rainbow of color in the Paris blue worn by Mrs. Kiser and aqua, lavender, pink and pale green worn by the bridesmaids. Their cascade bouquets were of off-white spider chrysanthemums with pink rosebuds and streamers matching the colors of their gowns.

Mrs. Robert Ray Kirkpatrick

The bridegroom asked his brother, Eugene R. Kirkpatrick, to serve him as best man and guests were escorted to their places by Dr. Henry M. Kline Jr., Conrad Camden, brother of the bride, Donald M. Hodges Jr., and Don Mattson of San Francisco.

* * * *

FRIENDLINESS and warmth were felt as guests gathered in the church banquet hall following the ceremony to extend best wishes to the popular newlyweds. Decor echoed the white and pink theme of the church, with the five tiered wedding cake resting on a round table adorned with pink lace cloth and net skirt. Reception hostesses were Mmes. J. Roscoe Howell and Lloyd Vaughan. Mmes. Eugene Kirkpatrick and Bill Ridgeway presided at the guestbook.

Honor guest at the wedding and reception was the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. L. S. Kirkpatrick, who has been a resident of North Long Beach since the turn of the century.

The newlyweds sailed Monday aboard the Matsonia for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, and after Oct. 20 will make their home in Long Beach.

* * * *

BOTH YOUNG persons were graduated from Wilson High School where the bride will be remembered for her light opera lead in that school's presentation of "Naughty Marietta." She was graduated from Santa Monica City College where she was a student body officer and member of Epsilon Women's Honorary.

Her husband was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley where he affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega and was a member of Golden Bears. He received his law degree at the UCLA School of Law and is a member of Phi Delta Phi, legal, and Beta Gamma Sigma, business, honoraries.

Off to Europe

haven't been to Okinawa? Really! This information comes not only from the travel agency, but also from my friend Deppy Messanesi.

* * * *

MY CHUM is mad about it. "Eschew Europe," she cries, "the Pacific is heaven." I must say it sounds piquant. She went to the Fiji Islands and just like in the National Geographic, they do have all that hair. Deppy was shown into the governor's office for an interview. He was behind his desk, looking very businesslike, if with a slightly better thatch than some of his American counterparts, but wearing a Brooks Brothers coat and bow tie, and Deppy thought East and West had indeed met, until he got up and came around his desk to shake hands with her and she saw he was wearing a little skirt.

* * * *

ALL MY LIFE I have yearned to go to the Orient, but that will have to be for another time. This time we fly to Lisbon and then on to Rome, Florence and Venice.

My husband was dubious about the trip at first. Was I sure I felt strong enough? And we had little discussions about the budget—you know, married talk—but what I say is who gets younger and we live in parlous times.

Although he doesn't have quite the travel mania that I have, the doctor always weakens when I point out the wonderful pictures he can take.

* * * *

WE HAD AN experience once, though, that proves that some others must feel as we do and leads us to believe that mutual hobbies are the great unifiers. When I was in Monaco for the Kelly-Rainier wedding, I lost my camera case as I was leaving the Onassis yacht. It wasn't found on board and although I searched the quai industriously, I had to conclude that it had dropped from the pocket of my topcoat into the water and was lost forever.

But never lose heart! It had my husband's name and address written in ink inside the cover and two months later it arrived at his office with a Leningrad postmark. Some iron-curtain camera buff must have been at Monaco at the same time and a sympathetic cord was touched.

IN FASHION'S STRIDE . . .

Mmes. Richard Miller, Lee Shuff and James Matson and Miss Elizabeth Harmon share happy smiles over plans for the "Pretty as a Picture" fall fashion show Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., to be given by the Recent Graduate Section, American Association of University Women, at the Bank of Belmont Shore. Miss Harmon or Mrs. Arthur Griggs may be contacted for transportation or further information. Young women interested in AAUW and the Recent Grads group are invited.—(Staff.)

Emblem Club

Long Beach Emblem Club No. 106 has numerous activities slated for this week, foremost of which will be a canasta luncheon at Linden Hall, Broadway and Linden, Thursday, with Mrs. Sam Landsworth and Mrs. Edith White cochairmen, and a benefit spaghetti dinner at the Elks Club Saturday, beginning at 6 p. m. Cards will be after-dinner diversion. Mrs. Garnett Terhufen and Mrs. Manila Paine are in charge. Members anticipate the return of Mrs. Sam Beck, president, this week from Swampscott, Mass., where she has been in attendance at the national convention of Emblem Clubs.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Can't Live With Chester!

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

When my husband and I were married a year ago, he had a cat which he insisted on making a third member of our home.

I never had liked cats very much. I always thought they were arrogant, unfriendly beasts with no loyalty and no intelligence. But I loved my husband so much that I agreed to take in Chester.

Now I am ready to shoot Chester, or poison him. We have moved at last in a home all our own, with fresh new furniture, drapes and lovely wallpaper. Apparently Chester agrees. For he already has ripped great gashes in the upholstery, has torn the drapes (which, being a Siamese, he loves to climb) and has scratched the wallpaper.

My husband gets furious when I threaten to heave out Chester. But, honestly, I can't go on like this, with Chester tearing apart our expensive home. Isn't there something you can do with these horrible animals?

—TRUDY.

DEAR TRUDY:

Not very much, I'm afraid. There are chemicals you can put on the upholstery that is supposed to keep them at teeth-length. And there are scratching posts that are designed to divert them from their furniture assaults.

But they never seem to work for me. Actually, my cat seems to have developed a great fondness for the chemical I use; it seems to stimulate his claws.

So you're just going to have to put up with Chester, I suppose. After all, every wife has at least one cross to bear, and Chester is not the worst.—M. M.

District Meet Set

"Of Shoes and Ships and Sealing Wax" is the intriguing title selected by Anne Reher when she speaks to the afternoon session of the first council meeting of Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, Monday at the San Pedro Woman's Clubhouse.

Mrs. Reher, well-known lecturer and book reviewer, plans to tell the many products made from crude oil.

Mrs. Icy M. High, district president, will open the morning session by presenting Dr. Mabel E. Kinney, state legislation chairman for CFWC. Music, under the direction of Mrs. Edward Burns, district music chairman, will be provided during both sessions. Mrs. A. F. Benton, state vice president, will give a brief message on current state projects.

Council One Meeting Set

Dr. Ralph C. Smedley, founder of International Toastmasters Club; Mrs. Neil Jackson, international parliamentarian of Toastmistress Clubs; and Mrs. Gertrude McMahan, past president of International Toastmistress Clubs, are among those who will take part in the program when Council One, International Toastmistress Clubs, meets Monday at Huntington Beach Country Club.

The program will date back to 1926 with one of the original "Toasties" portraying her part in the formation of Toastmistress Clubs. Many of the original chairmen and officers who organized Council One in 1949 also will participate.

Charter members and those with a long active membership in Toastmistress Clubs are invited.

Aunts Fete Bride-Elect

A bridal nosebay on the door of the Eugene Chace residence in Rolling Hills this afternoon will herald the theme of a tea and shower honoring Marcia Penrose, who will become the bride of Robert Schuler Nov. 1.

Mrs. Chace and Mrs. Edwin H. Ripperdan, Marcia's aunts, and Mrs. Ora B. Ripperdan, her grandmother, will be hostesses and Pamela Chace will greet guests at the door.

* * * *

RECEIVING with the hostesses will be the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. Donald W. Penrose, and Mrs. Wayne Beckett.

The tea table will be covered with turquoise satin and an overdrape of white net, and will be centered with white roses in a silver epergne. Mmes. Edward Larsen, Robert MacDonald and L. W. Clarke will pour.

The more than 70 guests will include many from out of town and relatives of the engaged couple. They will present Marcia with a group gift of china.

Navy Wives

Long Beach Navy Wives Club No. 1 will meet at the Savannah Gardens Clubhouse, Tuesday at 8 p.m., with Mrs. Harold Koch presiding. Wives of servicemen are invited.

PARTY 'PLANTERS'

Seeds of fun have been planted by Alamitos Bay Garden Club and will bloom, full-blown, next Saturday night in the gardens of the Ralph Robesons, 65 66th Pl., when the club entertains at a "Come and Enjoy Yourself" affair. Party gardeners pictured are, from left, Mmes. James Carroll, John Arkush and Mrs. Robeson. A swiss steak dinner will precede games, dancing and just informal visiting.—(Staff photo.)

CLUB ANNIVERSARY

Wives of Navy Doctors Club will celebrate the organization's 22nd birthday Wednesday at the Officers Club, Allen Center. Beginning at noon, the party will borrow from Hawaii for its theme. Among club members who will model Hawaiian fashions are (from left) Mmes. Edward Schnell, William C. Thorne, Lyman Vaughan and Walter H. Taylor. Officers Wives Club and Fleet Officers Wives Club will join in the festivities.—(Staff.)

Mr. and Mrs. Roger G. Webster

Roger G. Websters Note Golden Date

Mr. and Mrs. Roger G. Webster, 4506 Barker Way, spent one of the most memorable days in their eventful life together on Saturday when they were feted at a golden wedding anniversary reception in the Santa Monica home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Webster.

Cohosts at the gala affair were the other Webster children: Grace Margaret of Philadelphia, Katharine of San Francisco, Frederic, Long Beach; Harold, Riverside, and Roger, of Dallas, Tex. Assisting were the couple's other daughters-in-law and their five grandchildren, Nancy, Donna, Diane, Alfred and Richard.

* * * *

THIS YEAR also marks the 50th anniversary of the First National Bank in Holtville which Mr. Webster founded on March 21, 1907, and served as cashier for many years. It was in Holtville, too, that he met the young woman who was to become his bride on Oct. 2, 1907.

After disposing of his banking and farming interests in Holtville, Mr. Webster brought his family to Long Beach in 1921, associating in March of that year with the City National Bank, Broadway and American.

* * * *

IN 1922 the new Belmont Heights Branch of the bank was started and Mr. Webster was appointed as its first manager, a post he held until the earthquake of 1933 damaged the building to such an extent the branch was closed. Subsequently he was associated with the Security-First National for a number of years.

Still active, Mr. Webster is engaged in business with his son as sales manager in the manufacture and national distribution of commercial and ceramic decals.

Service Set Launches Colorful Fall Program

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

As gay and diversified as brilliantly colored autumn leaves floating through the crisp air are the many exciting fall events happening in the service set.

On the evening of Oct. 12 Officers Wives Club members at Long Beach Air Force Base are honoring their husbands with a gala semi-formal cocktail party in the Officers Club at the Air Base.

Then among the "big ships" crowd there's to be a bridge party for the wives of officers attached to the USS Roanoke, at the home of Mrs. N. B. McIntosh in Garden Grove. Recently this group enjoyed a luncheon party at the Hawaiian with Mrs. C. A. Creel and Mrs. Irving Briggs as senior hostesses. Then the same gang had a bridge party at the home of Mrs. C. A. Creel.

* * * *

THE NEW executive officer of the USS Columbus, Cmdr. A. T. Nicholson, Mrs. Nicholson and children, Douglas and Nancy, just settled down here, coming from Honolulu. They now are "islanders" over at Naples.

Folks of the USS Implicit welcomed aboard and as residents here Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Marsh Wright, from Astoria.

* * * *

SATURDAY night a group of friends had an enjoyable time at the home of Mrs. Robert Gee, helping her celebrate her birthday. An evening of bridge followed.

* * * *

ONE of the cutest groups of service juniors is the Little Wheels Club at Long Beach Air Force Base. Little Wheels members will have a supper party and puppet show tonight at the Officers Club at the Air Base.

* * * *

MR. AND MRS. RALPH TAYLOR of Columbis, Ohio, are visiting with Capt. and Mrs. Walter Taylor, who are leaving this area for new duty and residence in Portsmouth, Va.

Recently the board members of the Wives of Navy Doctors' Club attended a farewell coffee given by Mrs. Edward Schnell at her home in honor of Mrs. Walter Taylor.

* * * *

ONE OF THE prettiest events of the week was the tea given by Mrs. Robert Campbell in her quarters at the Naval Station in honor of Mrs. A. L. Wadsworth of the Florence Ross Navy Wives Club No. 123 of this city. Beautiful autumn blossoms were used throughout the rooms and assisting at the tea table were Mmes. Wadsworth, Campbell, Myers and R. S. Clark, sponsor of Navy Wives Club No. 1. Among out of town guests attending was Mrs. F. D. Tremaine.

Mrs. Campbell presented Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Wadsworth with lovely corsages.

* * * *

WELCOMED back to our city are former residents Cmdr. and Mrs. William Calhoun Singletary and children, Lorne, William Jr., Thomas and Eunice. They are at home to their friends at 221½ Argonne Ave. They came here from Norfolk, Va., where the commander was commanding officer of the USS Coates. Cmdr. Singletary is attached to the staff of Commander, Mine Forces Pacific.

Mrs. Singletary is the daughter of former residents Capt. and Mrs. William L. Irvine, USN (MC) (ret), who now are in Coronado.

NAVY FOLKS Eddie and Shirli Shawgo and children enjoyed a family reunion party at the home of Mrs. Shawgo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Madigan and family, in Anaheim upon Eddie's return from the Far East aboard the USS L. K. Swenson.

Reminisces on European Trip

Mrs. Jessica Lewis has returned to her home at the Villa Riviera following a two and a half year sojourn in Europe. She is bubbling with enthusiastic reports on the friendliness of the people she met in the 23 countries visited and their generous hospitality.

While in Athens she was entertained by Dr. and Mme. George Sakalerious; he is the head of the philosophy and psychology department of the University of Athens. In Israel she was a guest in the home of Moshe Shartte, and in Paris visited at the German, Israel and Cuban Embassies. The internationally known painter, Carida Ramirez, cultural attache to the Cuban Embassy in Paris, also entertained Mrs. Lewis. Other hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Side of Paris. While in Paris she was the houseguest of Consul James Carson and his family at the American Embassy.

While in Las Palmas, Canary Islands, she was interviewed on a half-hour broadcast for Radio Atlantico and during her stay there gave a recital of readings from her book of poetry. One of her hostesses was the artist Gala de Reschko. While in Santa Cruz she was feted by Senora Leopoldo Massieu and her family.

Mrs. Lewis spent considerable time visiting the museums, art galleries, attending the opera and concerts.

TOPIC: TEA AND MUSIC

Mrs. Lawrence Hunt, standing, greets three of the new members of the Long Beach Auxiliary to the Southern California Symphony Assn. who will be honored at a tea Tuesday in her home. From left, seated, are Mmes. C. E. Forbes, Raymond Hazlet (Dorothy Judy Klein) and J. Sherwood Moore.

'Crazy Legs' Star of Bosses' Night

By ANNE GILCHRIST

For Queen Beach Chapter, National Secretaries Assn., autumn was launched on a gaily gregarious note with the group's annual bosses' night celebration last Tuesday at La Ronde Rue Restaurant.

Most exciting part of the football themed evening was appearance of none other than Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch as featured guest speaker. The nationally famous gridiron star and outstanding member of the Los Angeles Rams team was backed up by Rams' cheerleaders Lois Isbell, Malinda Lelliott, Linda Miller, Peggy Smith and Laurie Whiteneck and majorette Miss Karen Uker on the program including presentation of the film, "Highlights of the 1956 Rams Football Season."

* * * *

ANOTHER highlight of the evening was presentation of an award to Vervyl Sumrall (Star-Kist Foods, Inc.) who was named "Mrs. Business and Professional Woman of Long Beach." In a contest conducted by this city's BPW clubs in observance of National Business Women's Week, concluded last week; and presentation of the coveted title, Certified Professional Secretary" to Neva Blust.

Social program committee members responsible for the highly enjoyable evening were Betty Bainter, Lu Berger, Betty Fleenor, Norma Gilcrease, Betty Guley, Jeanne Hissner, Cal Holmes, Edna Ley, Lola Lyons, Glea Robinson, Sheila Ryan, Betty Willcoxen and Marge Hunter. Florence Hansen arranged the decorations.

Women Accountants

The necessary merits and eligibility standards for scholarship awards will be the subject of Marian Darlington, dean of women at Long Beach City College, when she appears as guest speaker at the Wednesday evening dinner meeting of Long Beach Women Accountants.

President Doris Deardon will conduct the 7 p.m. meeting in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel. She has announced that the club will welcome visitors, whether or not they are accountants. However, reservations are necessary and may be made with Estelle Cannon.

Season Opens

Delta Chapter, Lambda Sigma Pi Sorority, officially opened the new club year with its dinner meeting last week at the Hawaiian Restaurant. President Edna B. Osborne conducted; Mary Cook, social chairman, made dinner arrangements. Ways and means events to raise funds for philanthropy were planned as well as other fall into winter sorority activities.

Soroptimists

A whimsical, endearing talk, filled with the basic truths of sound philosophy, was given to Long Beach Soroptimist Club by Alfred Stolliker, bursar of Los Angeles Junior Business College at the women's service club luncheon at the Lafayette recently.

"I invested two dollars," said Stolliker, referring to his marriage license, "and reaped my greatest dividends" which, he explained, were his children. In his anecdotes of family life and its happiness he impressed members with the importance of the small and commonplace happenings of their lives and the wisdom of appreciating each day.

Club to Hear Roger Young

Long Beach Attorney Roger Young will be guest speaker at the 11:45 a.m. luncheon meeting of Long Beach Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Association at Assistance League Clubhouse. Chosen topic is "A Lawyer Is a Doctor's Best Friend."

ROGER YOUNG

The program also will feature vocal excerpts from "My Fair Lady" by Mrs. James Kimber, a member of the auxiliary and prominent in Singers' Workshop productions. Mrs. Elliston Farrell will preside.

Chapter Opens Year Tuesday

First meeting of the year for Los Cerritos Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open with a noon luncheon and program Tuesday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Russell M. Brougher will tell of her trip in the spring to the DAR Continental Congress in Washington, D. C.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. C. D. Kelty or Mrs. Irene Anderson.

John Bowlers on Trip East

Planning to combine business with pleasure, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Bowler Jr. left on Saturday for a five-weeks cross country trip.

First stop will be Las Vegas where they will meet Mr. and Mrs. Norm Durkin for two days at the Desert Inn. Other stops enroute to New York will be Denver, Cedar Rapids, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. While in New York they plan to see several shows during their week's stay, and from there will go on to Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City. They will return home via Fort Worth and Dallas.

Bowler, publisher of construction magazines, plans to confer with manufacturers of heavy construction equipment and publishers of other construction publications. He will study methods and activities in other regions in connection with the huge federal road building program in prospect for the next 10 years.

Alums to Meet

Sigma Kappa Alumnae of Long Beach will meet Saturday at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Vargas, 301 Lime Ave., at 12:30 p. m. Barbara Friendson and Aloha Gorsuch will assist the hostess.

New alumnae members to be welcomed will include Mmes. C. R. Behmyer, Paul Cargal, Raymond Martin, Vargas, Norman Moore and Misses Nancy Sundstet and Gorsuch.

Realtors Wives

Realtors Wives Club of Long Beach will have a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Howard Dumm, 1052 Andrews Dr. Mrs. Frances Meyer will talk on "Glamorizing Quickie Foods." She will prepare the foods for eye appeal and serve them for taste appraisal.

Art Circles Widen

By VERA WILLIAMS
I.-P.-T. Art Editor

Thirty-seven works — paintings, graphics and sculpture — ranging from the 12th Century to the present are seen in "Art From Long Beach Collections" at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Works from 13 art collections are included.

Dutch, German, French, Italian, Mexican and American artists' works show key examples high lighting famous schools and periods in art history. Italian primitives, 17th Century Baroque and 19th Century Academic are among the periods represented. Also seen are paintings by impressionists Cassatt, Monet, Pissarro, Renoir and Les Fauves, Vlamink, Matisse and Rouault. Others included are German expressionistic artists Ernest Kirchner and Max Beckmann; also a selection of contemporary American artists.

The works are loaned for the exhibition from the collections of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Conrad, the Cultural Arts Center Assn., Edward Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCullough, David E. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. James Kresl, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Messick, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Person, Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Ridder, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Saltzman and The Studio. Included also are five prints which have been loaned anonymously.

The large exhibition represents only a portion of the number of art collectors in Long Beach. The Museum has acquired listings from many collectors, not all of which could be included in the exhibition.

Three other exhibitions: A one-man show of Ben Messick's paintings and graphics, Sepik River art and "Bronze Age to Brancusi," also are shown in the Museum. All may be seen through Oct. 29.

FRANCES ARMSTRONG, portrait artist, will be honored with a reception to which the public is invited from 2 to 5 p. m. today in Pacific Coast Club Galleria, 850 E. Ocean Blvd. The reception opens an exhibition of Mrs. Armstrong's paintings through October.

* * * *

WATERCOLORS by Rex Brandt, Phil Dike and Caesar Hernandez will be shown through October in Palos Verdes Public Library Gallery, under the auspices of the Community Arts Assn. and the public library and art gallery of Palos Verdes Estates.

The public is invited to a tea and reception for the artists from 3 to 5 p. m. today in the gallery.

THE FIRST in the series of 15 Friday evening film programs will be seen at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., Oct. 11.

"Looking at Sculpture," "Figures in a Landscape," "She Shall Be Called Woman," "Corroboree" and "Namatjira, the Painter," are the first five art films to be shown in the one-hour program. First showing will be at 7:40 p. m. and the second at 9. Films are related in subject matter to the exhibitions at the Museum.

In order to reserve a seat at either of the showings, tickets may be obtained from the Museum one week in advance of the program. Limited space in the gallery necessitates issuing tickets, which are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Tickets will be honored up to five minutes before the start of the program. There will be no charge for admission.

Beginning this month, the Museum is open to the public from 7:30 to 10 p. m. on Fridays.

EXODUS GALLERY, 235 6th St., San Pedro, presents its first one-man exhibition, paintings and drawings by Connor Everts. Everts has exhibited internationally and his work is familiar to local gallery-goers. He is represented in the permanent collection at the Long Beach Museum of Art. He has won prizes at the Los Angeles County Museum's annual exhibition of Los Angeles and vicinity artists; he won a cash award at the National Orange Show, one of his paintings was selected for purchase at the Long Beach Museum of Art's juried exhibition, and he won first award at the Palos Verdes juried prize exhibition.

Other exhibitions that have included Everts' work are Santa Barbara's Pacific Coast biennial; California State Fair; Seattle's Frye Museum West Coast painting exhibit; San Francisco Museum annuals in both drawing and painting, and an exhibit in Mexico City called "Americans in Mexico." His work is traveling in an exhibit called "5x5" for the Association of Western Museum Directors.

The show at Exodus Gallery will present the development of a painting, from first sketches to completed work.

A reception for the artist is slated for 2 until 5:30 p. m. in the Exodus Gallery. The public is invited. The exhibit will continue until Oct. 25.

* * * *

THE MUNICIPAL Art Commission of Los Angeles will honor the Southern California chapter of Artists Equity Assn. by sponsoring a month-long exhibit of its members' work at the Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Los Angeles. The park is at Vermont Ave. and Hollywood Blvd.

The exhibit will include 160 paintings, drawings, watercolors, sculptures and mosaics, representing varied schools and styles, by 100 members of the chapter.

Civic Music Group Slates Eger Players

A new experience in fine music will be offered by the Eger Players in a concert on Thursday at Wilson High Auditorium, under the auspices of the Civic Music Association. The only ensemble of its kind in the world, the Eger Players feature French horn with piano, violin and cello in a variety of combinations, playing solos, duets, trios and quartets.

Joseph Eger, leader of the ensemble and America's foremost French hornist, has appearod as soloist with major orchestras and ensembles throughout the world. It is largely through his unique artistry that the French horn has found its rightful place in the family of great solo instruments.

The instruments of the group have been chosen to permit great variety in repertoire. They afford a wide contrast in tone quality and still maintain a rare ensemble rapport. Audiences have displayed such curiosity ahd interest in the hitherto unrealized possibilities of the horn, that Mr. Eger often devotes some time during the concert to an informal question period, worked into a novel and informative demonstration.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

Now that the season for musical and cultural events is about to open in Long Beach, I think that a word about our privileges and obligations is in order.

I have entertained you (I hope) in my past articles with stories of my encounters with great personages—great music and great beauties of nature. They all go together; they are to be enjoyed by all who have interests beyond the mundane, the trite and the sordid.

Our city is especially blessed in climate, in seashore and in mountain nearness. It is blessed with commerce—the Navy, the oil and industry. We are a large family—some 300,000 souls. How shall we respond to all these blessings?

* * * *

A CITY represents the spirit of the people within it. Some cities are cruel with slums and the outlaws that are bred by them; some cities are black with the belchings of furnaces that give men bread but no inspiration; some cities are full of fear and the dark cowerings of suspicions and hates; some cities are beautiful but dead in the dust of the past.

What shall we make of our city?

First, there must be a desire among our peoples for the best life affords, yes—the best—for to aim high is to attain high. What is the best life affords? Is it wealth, is it fame, is it power? These are but material gains and soon have their little day. The best life affords comes from the souls of men who have lofty ideals, noble purposes, love in their hearts for their fellowmen. Such men have given libraries, foundations for research and health, parks and reserves, paintings, sculpture and music. These things do not die, but go on, blessing mankind.

* * * *

CITIZENS of Long Beach, inform yourself of cultural things. Make them a part of your life and soon any lesser fare will not satisfy you. Contribute what you can to a furtherance of good things for our city. Some can give ideas, some can give personal service, some can give money (some could and do, give lots of money). If the idea is good and the pressure is strong, we imbibe but a portion of the spiritual fare, we will become citizens of enthusiasm and worthy effort.

accomplishment will follow.

To my mind it is a crying shame that a city the size of Long Beach has no adequate art gallery. Consider Laguna Beach and little Carmel with their beautiful art galleries.

* * * *

WHILE IN New York recently I spent an afternoon in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The treasures therein are fabulous, simply fabulous. And most of the treasures were marked "Gift of ——." Not only do thousands cross the threshold of this museum every month in quest of beauty, but every Saturday night (except in summer) programs of symphonic music are given to a capacity audience free of charge. New York is a big city; it was once small, but the desire for cultural things has been strong.

We are launched upon a new season of artistic endeavor; the Art Center is having Sunday afternoon concerts, free; the Long Beach Symphony is preparing for us some excellent concerts; the Los Angeles Philharmonic, with one of the country's finest orchestras, is coming to us here in Long Beach for concerts; the Civic Music Association has a splendid lineup of entertainment.

* * * *

PARTICIPATE in these events. Cultivate the best in yourself by exposing yourself to inspiration. And then, if

Theater Group Casts for 'Wizard of Oz'

Tryouts for the Long Beach Children's Theatre fall production, "The Wizard of Oz," will take place Thursday at 10 a. m. in Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St.

Any woman interested in acting is invited to read for the cast of 18 characters which include such well loved personalities as the Scarecrow, Tin Woodman, the Cowardly Lion, the Winkies and the Wizard himself.

For those who enjoy backstage activities of theater, volunteers are needed in costuming, make-up, properties and stage sets.

The colorful dramatization, a new script by Adele Thane, is based on L. Frank Baum's famous children's adventure. The play promises to be one of the gayest and most ambitious presentations offered by the local volunteer group.

"The Wizard of Oz" will be presented in a series of performances for school children on Nov. 23, 24, 30 and Dec. 1. Rehearsals take place three mornings a week at Colorado Lagoon clubhouse.

Mrs. Lewis Kean Jr., volunteer director, and Mrs. William F. Macrate, casting chairman, invite women interested in any phase of production to attend the casting.

John Baird to Speak at Musical Arts Dinner Meet

"Music Is What You Make It" John Baird will tell the Musical Arts Club at a dinner meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Assistance League Clubhouse.

Baird's life-long avocational interest in music has resulted in his being a member of the five-man board of Municipal Arts Commissioners of Los Angeles, vice president of the Opera Guild of Southern California and member of the advisory board of the Southern California Symphony Association.

A lecturer in universities, Baird is also known for his Sunday morning radio show, the Music Hour, and has appeared frequently on television.

Arthur Carah will preside at the meeting, and Marcia Hannah will introduce the speaker.

Shampoo Trick

Here's a hair washing trick used by Mrs. Floyd Williams, 1121 Claiborne Dr. Before shampooing rub vaseline on the forehead and temples just beneath the hairline to keep soapy water from running into the eyes. Children, especially, applaud!

ALLURING Dorene Porter plays the glamorous Rita Marlowe in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" ribald account of motion picture industry, opening Friday at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave. Pat Brown directs.

Emerald Isle First Forum

Earl Brink's "Ireland in Blossom Time," first all-color film lecture of the 1957-58 City College General Adult Division series, opens at 8 p.m. Monday in the Wilson auditorium. The program will be repeated at Jordan on Tuesday, Millikan on Wednesday, Poly on Thursday and in the Lakewood High School auditorium on Friday.

Tickets for the series of seven programs are now available at any General Adult Division center or at the auditorium box office each evening next week.

"Ireland in Blossom Time" explores every corner of the Irish Republic's 27,000 square mile area, including some seldom-visited places. The film will also present sequences on such famous Irish festivals as the An Tostal, the Dublin Spring Show, the International Horse Show and the Pageant of St. Patrick.

Dear Abby

She Has REAL Problem!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I married what I thought was a "man" against the advice of many who said he was a "Mamma's boy."

"He was born in his mother's 44th year and always was attached to her. On our wedding night he cried so hard I had to let him go home to his mother. She sent him back the next day but he keeps running between me and his mother. I am 36 and this is my first marriage, if you want to call it that. We have been man and wife in name only for almost a month and I want to know what to do. DISAPPOINTED.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: This man is emotionally still in his mother's arms. It will take a good doctor to help him mature sufficiently to be a good husband. If he wants to be helped and you are patient you possibly could work it out together with professional help—otherwise an annulment is in order.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Who are you supposed to congratulate, the bride-to-be or the groom-to-be? I always get mixed up. STELLA.

DEAR STELLA: The groom-to-be is congratulated—and the bride-to-be gets "best wishes."

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I married for the second time. I am 61 and my wife says she is 58. My wife owns the building we live in and she is charging me $80 a month rent. I pay all the utilities and refurnished the place. None of my friends ever heard of a man paying rent to his wife. Have you? PAYING RENT.

DEAR PAYING: Your wife is a real business woman—and she is giving you the business. I have never heard of a man paying his wife rent, either.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a pair of albino rabbits but I would rather have a deodorized skunk. My father says I can't get the skunk unless I sell the rabbits because I need the money from the rabbits to buy the skunk. What should I do? C. C.

DEAR C. C.: I am fresh out of friends who have deodorized skunks (I did know one) but I suggest you call your humane society. Maybe you can make a deal with them.

* * * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MICKEY: Don't give her a ring—give her a compact with instructions on how to keep her powder dry!

IF YOU HAVE a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

We have to be a Janus this week to see the whole picture at Long Beach State.

First, a backward glance: Last night in the main dining room of the college cafeteria, 95 new sorority pledges were introduced to parents, college officials, fraternity men, and fellow sorority members in the traditional "Panhellenic Presents" which is the climax to the sorority rushing season.

Gowned in pastel shades, each pledge stepped though a floral arch, and, after her introduction, was claimed by a fraternity man as his partner for the dancing which followed.

Decorations were in the theme of a Japanese garden, and refreshments were served by mothers of the actives.

Paula Turner, assisted by Vic Medevic and Patti Kozak, was in charge of the Presents planning.

LAST THURSDAY noon the Board of Student Organizations, which coordinates the activities of some 60 student groups on campus, staged its annual Organization Day in the cafeteria patio. About 30 different organizations set up booths or arranged displays designed to make their activities better known to the many newcomers at LBSC.

Chris Turner was chairman in charge of this event.

NOW, LOOKING to the future: The big happening this week is the Leadership Conference which will be held next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Idylwild Arts Foundation.

Two bus loads of Staters, 80 in all, will depart Friday afternoon for their mountain conference site. The better part of the next two days will be spent in working out the answers to problems centering around the whole student activities program. Principal speaker will be Dr. Marshon DePoister of nearby Chapman College, who will discuss "Student Leadership."

Also on the agenda are volleyball, hiking, ping pong, dancing and eating—the last sure to be stimulated by the mountain environment.

Dick Holtz is chairman of the committee handling arrangements for this important yearly gathering.

NEXT FRIDAY night in the Soroptimist House from 8 until 10 p. m., Sigma Chi Nu, nurses' sorority, will be the host group at an Acquaintance Tea.

Planned as a means of making nurses at State better acquainted, the event will see president of the college, Dr. P. Victor Peterson, members of his staff, and head nurses from hospitals in the surrounding area as honored guests.

Mrs. Gladys Korber is in charge of the planning.

AND NEXT SUNDAY, members of the LBSC Alpha Phi Sorority will join with their sisters at USC and UCLA in a Founders' Day Tea in the Alpha Phi House at USC.

Founded in 1872, Alpha Phi is the oldest national sorority represented on the Long Beach State campus.

Introduction of each school's pledges and an exchange of chapter songs are on the program.

AFTER LOOKING both to the past and the future, one brief note on the present: Today, Tri-Delts and their dates gather at the home of Pati Braun in Belmont Shore for a bicycle journey to Anaheim Park.

Fifty persons are expected to be in the group which will start out at 11 a. m.; just how many riders will remain some 40 miles and countless aching muscles later is an unanswered question at press time.

Creative Touch

Fire your imagination with a creative treatment of that old drab fireplace in your living room or family recreation room. Brick and stone are fitting for a hunting lodge, perhaps, but maybe you're more than a little tired of a lodge for a living room. If you cover that old fireplace facing with fireproof asbestos board, you're off to a good start.

Oswald Jacoby

How Would You Bid It?

Take a look at the South hand. It's a pretty good one. Nine sure tricks at no-trump and first round control of three suits. If you are the first bidder it is surely worth forcing a two bid.

However, you happen to be second hand and East has opened with a bid of one club. You still have the same good hand but how should you bid it?

In a recent New Orleans duplicate most South players chose to double or to bid two clubs.

Now take a look at the North hand. Not much of a hand but a nice seven card spade suit. Invariably after South doubled or cue bid in clubs North would bid spades indefinitely and the partnership wound up going down at some high spade contract.

The only pair to play the simple no-trump game were Sidney Lazard, one of our top young players, and June, his wife.

June has only been playing for two years but with Sidney's teaching she is well on her way to becoming a top woman player.

One of the points that Sidney has stressed and which all experts stress is that when your opponents open the bidding you don't ask your partner to bid unless you are ready for a major suit response.

Hence, June did make a strong bid but one that did not ask Sidney to take any action. She simply bid three no-trump.

Sidney looked over his seven spades wistfully but decided to pass. He assumed that his wife knew what she was doing and was correct. West chose to open a heart and when the suit was continued she made four odd.

Doggone Hollywood! It's a 'Raunchy' Town

By TED KREC

He Looks Good!

Hollywood, the place where widows mourn by ordering black olives in their Martinis, is responsible for one of the most distressing trends in men's clothing. I refer to the "casual look."

For the uninitiated, the "casual look" many times is just a fancy name for the sloppy look.

Bing Crosby and his outlandish garb and Howard Hughes with his sneakers are two of the leading offenders in this regard. With them, it was a form of trademark; unfortunately many of our younger men have, over the years, attempted to imitate this super-casual garb with the sole result being that they look terrible!

* * * *

AGAIN THIS casual nonsense has made the news — this time in Bob Kelley's sports column. One day last week Kelley wrote a piece about interviewing Tommy Wilson of the Rams. According to the article, Wilson was attired very nattily, but his companion, a 6-foot-7 end from Purdue named Lamar Lundy, was dressed in blue tennis shoes, Levis and a blue sport shirt. The two footballers had come to a radio station to record an interview and, according to Kelley, "our little group got some curious glances, most of them aimed at the giant Lundy."

Is it any wonder? Can you imagine a man being 6 feet, 7 inches tall to start with? Dress him in this ridiculous type of apparel and you'll see what I mean.

I don't know why it is, but whenever people come to Hollywood, they immediately affect a bizarre attire. A fellow in a supermarket was remarking about this just the other day.

"People come in here right after they've moved out from another section of the country," he said, "and they really look neat—hats, coats, ties, the full treatment. After a week or so, they've left off the ties. Then the coats are next. And pretty soon they're coming in looking like castaways."

* * * *

SEE WHAT I mean? If I still fail to make myself clear, go up to Hollywood some day and just stand on a street corner and look around. Don't pay any attention to the gals with their poodles dyed to match their outfits—just look at the men. I guarantee you'll see the longest parade of clowns since the circus hit town last time!

Unfortunately, I repeat, many of our younger set are adopting this nonsensical "casual" garb. You see them lined up in front of movies all the time—young fellows dressed in Levis worn so low on the hips that they defy gravity, T-shirts and clodhopper shoes. And nine times out of 10 their girl friends are dressed fetchingly in some cute little frock, too. If I'd ever dressed that way when I was squiring young ladies around, I would have been told that the "trash has been picked up already this week—and next time use the back door!"

Just take a trip out through the corn country and you'll see scarecrows dressed better than many of our young men. "Raunchy" is the word most applicable to this Hollywood-style "casual look." And in case you're unfamiliar with the word, "raunchy" was coined by Ferry Command pilots during World War II to describe the look of a flier who carried his uniform in a briefcase.

Wise up, lads — even Brando has given up the "torn T-shirt" look.

St. Anthony's High School Mothers' Club will meet at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in Catholic Center. A talk and demonstration of hi-fi music will follow the business session.

School Menus

Good Food, Hot or Cold, for Students

The following menus will be served in Long Beach Elementary Schools in the week of Oct. 7-11.

MONDAY: Hot dog, garden peas, sliced peaches, cinnamon crunch cracker and milk.

TUESDAY: Chili beans, fresh carrots, fruit gelatin, cornbread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on potatoes, shredded beets with lemon butter, chocolate pudding with marshmallow garnish, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

THURSDAY: Hamburger on bun, cut green beans, autumn fruit cup, cheese slice and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, chopped spinach, circus salad, toasted French bread and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 25c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

Junior-Senior Menu

MONDAY: Spanish rice, cut green beans, autumn fruit cup, toasted cheese special and milk.

TUESDAY: Italian spaghetti, garden salad, cantaloupe slice, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hot meal loaf sandwich, mashed potatoes with gravy, spinach and milk.

THURSDAY: Home-style baked beans with barbecued wiener, coleslaw, applesauce, toasted French bread and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, garden peas, molded pineapple and cottage cheese salad, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Our Children

Kiddies Going Steady Is Just Passing Fad

By ANGELO PATRI

"I know what you think about 'going steady' for the adolescents and I have no trouble with my teenage girl, but what would you do when a 10-year-old girl announces that she is Tommy's steady and shows you a bead ring to prove it?"

First let me say what I would NOT do. I would not magnify the situation out of all proportion. Boys and girls should get acquainted with each other's way. Usually the younger ones do not "go steady." They are more likely to make faces at each other and scorn any association. The rare ones may for a time, play going steady. That is about all it amounts to. It is an imitation of their older brothers and sisters and more than likely to be forgotten in a day.

In any case it is better to smile and say, "Indeed. Tommy is a nice boy, a good friend to have," and go on from there. There will be a good many Tommies in a little girl's life if she follows the usual healthy pattern of her group and the more the merrier.

The little girl who has no brothers is more likely to have a boy playmate than not. This is instinctive, a drive to know about boys and quite as it should be.

It is not surprising that even the younger boys and girls who have still to feel any sex stir within them should imitate what they see and hear on all sides. The movies, the advertisements, the shop windows, wherever one looks sex is accented. It would be a stupid child who went untouched to some degree by the bombardment.

* * * *

THAT IS one good reason why any such statement by a 10-year-old girl should be passed over with a smile and a light word and the subject changed. She is unaware of the implications of her words and it is well not to accent them. She still is in the little girl stage where play is uppermost and imitation is strong.

Association with girls her own age is best at this time and while there should be no prohibition of play and friendship with boys of the same age group there should be no loud protest, no shaming, no pressure put on it unless, which is unlikely, the boy in question is an undesirable playmate because of his character.

Should a little girl seem to be unusually interested in boys some new and interesting activities, some more attractive and active girl companions should be brought into the picture and father should become more of a factor in the child's life.

Chi Omegas

Chi Omegas will have a dessert meeting at 12:30 p. m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Woelflin, 3919 Myrtle Ave. Mrs. Edward Bragg will preside.

Worry Clinic

Changing an Attitude Is Trick With Child

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-306: Norma B., aged 18 months, is a smart little girl.

"Dr. Crane, we can't get her to eat vegetables," her fond mother protested.

"She screws up her mouth and spits them out. But aren't they good for her?

"So what can we do to change her attitude?"

Newborn babies have no natural liking for meat or potatoes, spinach, cod liver oil, orange juice, or bread and butter.

Those are classified as neutral tastes and flavors.

There are some definitely negative or unpleasant items, like pepper, quinine and excessively hot or acid tastes.

* * * *

THE ONLY positive tastes are sugar and a mild salt solution.

So how can we "condition" a baby to change a neutral food like vegetables or even cod liver oil, into a positive delicacy?

Well, we must start with a positive and pleasant taste, then gradually fasten the new food to its figurative "coat tails."

In the last national election, many candidates rode into office on the marked popularity of President Eisenhower.

That is the same technique which we psychologists advise as regards a baby's food appetites.

At the outset, the new baby has no positive fondness for his mother.

But if she nurses the baby, or prepares his bottle, he does enjoy the warm, sweet milk. Incidentally, human milk is much sweeter than cow's milk, which is why we medics add sugar to the cow's milk if the baby uses the bottle.

The contentment and happy mood produced by a bottle of warm, sweet milk, give the baby a mellow outlook on life. He then wears rosy tinted glasses, as it were, and what does he see?

Well, his mother usually is linked with the milk, so she soon becomes a coat-tail rider. The baby thus spreads his enjoyment from the sweet milk to the inevitable accompaniment thereof, namely, Mama.

She has become a glorified lump of sugar!

The baby also may develop a great fondness for a flannel cloth or woolly blanket that is wrapped around the bottle to keep it from sliding off the infant's chest.

That's why many babies in later years require some fuzzy piece of cloth to hold against their face as a prelude to going to sleep.

* * * *

AFTER MAMA, the infant includes Daddy as a pleasant object. Finally the baby sits at the table in his high chair.

Now comes the tricky job of making spinach a coat-tail rider. While baby is in a gleeful mood, slip him a tiny bit of the new food.

Praise him and get him as happy as possible, even though he may act puzzled and hesitate about that new taste quality.

And don't rush him. Wait till next day to feed him the second bite. If you repeat this process deftly, he soon will transfer his generalized happy mood to the new food. It thus becomes a coat-tail rider.

Finally, people can even become fond of bitter substances like beer or tobacco or hot things like tabasco sauce or whisky.

Conference Concludes for Food Editors

(Editor's Note: This is the last article by Miss Flanary on the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference which she has been attending in Chicago.)

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegrnm Home Economics Editor

CHICAGO — As a wonderful climax, and in keeping with clever and unique invitations, in various languages, which had previously been sent to our offices, the food editors started off Friday at an International Breakfast. It was in the Gold Coast Room at the Drake Hotel, sponsored by Aluminum Company of America.

We learned what you can do with Alcoa Wrap Aluminum! Each hour of the day seems to bring forth new ways and new ideas for its use. Throughout the coming months, we'll be bringing some of them to you.

* * * *

TICKETS ON the "Tuna Clipper Luxury," sailing from Terminal Island, Calif., admitted us to the Grand Ball Room at the Drake where we were guests of the Tuna Research Foundation.

Fish chowders are a great favorite on the tuna boats. Most of the recipes used by the chefs are of a southern European origin due to the fact the fishermen's backgrounds are primarily Portuguese, Italian and Yugoslavian. This fact is further reflected in the serving of red or white wine with clipper meals.

We'll share some of these clipper specialties wtih you when we return to Long Beach.

* * * *

MEN LIKE foods that are sweet, according to Mrs. Rose Marie Pangborn, a University of California food technologist, in her talk to the editors at the Sugar Information meeting.

These facts were brought to light as a result of a special program conducted by that university to determine the relationship between sugar and flavor in many foods. More than 30,000 people tasted samples of canned peaches which were prepared with varying amounts of sugar and acid.

Results showed that they preferred the peaches sweeter than was currently believed and they did so consistently from year to year. Several household surveys were conducted on a variety of canned fruits with the same results.

* * * *

ALAS AND ALACK, it's our last day at the 15th Annual Food Editors Conference. It's been a grand one—a full one (both the conference and the food editors), informative one, a happy occasion, and as you may well believe, the old modus operandi is functioning from force of habit entirely.

To bid us farewell and send the 150 newspaper food editors on our various ways, the Angostura-Wupperman Corp. planned a Pirate Party. The French Room at the Drake, was complete with "Spanish Main" flavor. Naturally, though, the "hidden treasure" of flavor in the canapes (and some of the liquid refreshments, too, we must admit) is Angostura bitters.

Douglas H. Bradley, their president, came from New York to make the occasion a memorable one.

Thus we bring to a close our wanderings through, in, about and around the city of the real cool breezes, Chicago.

Sorority Plans Fashion Benefit

National Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will receive proceeds from the third annual fashion show-luncheon being presented by Beta Sigma Chapter of Delta Chi Sigma sorority at noon, Oct. 12, at The Hawaiian.

Fashions from Long Beach shops will be modeled by chapter members, with Mrs. Wayne Smith of Beta Xi Chapter as coordinator and commentator. The Malahini dancers will entertain.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Glen Burns, 3512-A E. 1st St., and tickets will be available at the door.

To Observe Founding

The 87th anniversary of Kappa Kappa Gamma will be celebrated by the Long Beach Alumnae at the annual Founders' Day banquet Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. in the Hawaiian Restaurant.

With the theme of "Something Old—Something New" the Kappas will commemorate their founding at Monmouth College, Ill., in 1870. The changes involved during the progress of the sorority since its establishment will be depicted by members of the association.

Decorations, with Mrs. James L. Shively in charge, will feature the sorority's emblem, the golden Key, and its flower, the fleur-de-lis. Mrs. John D. Walker, association president, will be mistress of ceremonies. General chairman is Mrs. Allen N. Willett. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Hugh Gardner, 4329 Stanbridge Ave.

Parties Tell Duo Goodby

Several farewell parties have taken place recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Lee, 2331 Charlemagne Ave., who are moving this month to Bakersfield where Lee will be general superintendent of that city's transit system.

What ostensibly was a surprise birthday party honoring Lee last week became, in actuality, a farewell party for the couple. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wehrman, 131 E. Eagle St.

* * * *

MRS. LEE was complimented at a luncheon last week given by her sister, Mrs. Robert England, 339 W. 31st St. Included in the guests was Mrs. Margaret Clark, mother of Mrs. Lee and Mrs. England.

Others who have entertained for the departing couple were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miller.

AAUW Officer Schedules Tour

Mrs. Ray Winthrop Townsend has announced her plans for meetings during this third year of her four-year term of office as national vice president of American Association of University Women, South Pacific Region, which includes branches in this state, Nevada and Arizona.

On Oct. 11 Mrs. Townsend will attend the state regional conference at Chico to give a report on the AAUW Anniversary convention held recently in Boston. She will also conduct the administration workshop.

"Today's Crisis in Education — A Challenge to AAUW," will be the subject discussed by Mrs. Townsend when she meets with Los Gatos-Saratoga branch at Los Gatos on Oct. 19.

* * * *

PHOENIX BRANCH, Ariz., will be hostess for a luncheon on Nov. 2 with Mrs. Townsend as guest speaker. Her topic will be "AAUW-Present and Future Indicative." On her return trip from Phoenix she will visit northern branches in Arizona, including Wickenburg, Prescott and Flagstaff.

En route to Washington, D.C. to attend the meeting of the national executive board of directors, Nov. 21 through 24, Mrs. Townsend will be the speaker at a joint dinner meeting of three branches in Las Vegas, Nev.

Balloon lands on grounds of Hotel Raymond near Pasadena in 1903. Those were the days when ballooning was an adventure.

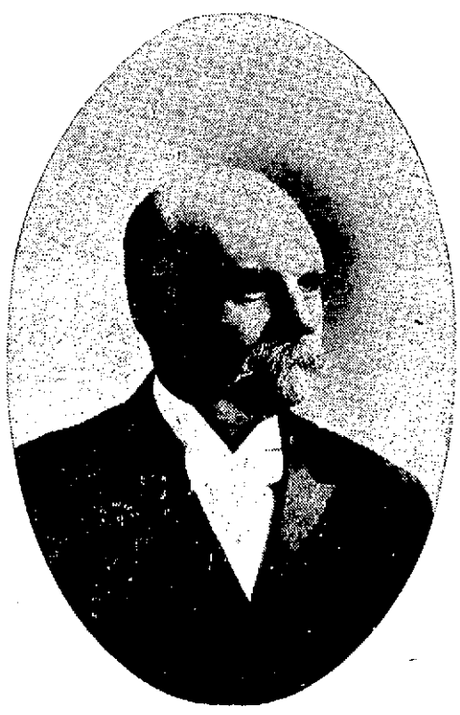

Daring Young Man in a Flying Balloon

By Harry Karns

WHEN Maj. David Simons of the Air Force recently ascended to 102,000 feet to set a new attitude record for manned balloons, he wore an emergency pressure suit, rode in an aluminum gondola equipped with a dry-ice cooling system, and carried with him a pair of two-way radios and a couple of parachutes. His balloon was made of polyethylene and controlled by an electric valve.

This may be science. But it's not ballooning. Not in the old tradition—the tradition of Montgolfier, Wise, and the fabulous Prof. Thaddeus Lowe.

Lowe, who in his "declining" days built the famous Mt. Lowe railway and resort in the Sierra Madre Mountains behind Pasadena, was the one-man air force of the Union Army in the Civil War. In his time only hot air, a few patches, and a wicker basket stood between the balloonist and eternity.

Portrait of Thaddeus Lowe in elegant-type clothes he so often wore when up in clouds.

THAD LOWE originated in Jefferson Mills, N. H., where he kept the neighbors in a constant state of unrest by his tests of natural laws. He was particularly fascinated with the law of gravity.

"One thing about that Lowe boy," a townsman recalled later, "he was never underfoot."

Though he had no formal education, he was called "professor" by his 23rd year, and it was a title which his showman's soul easily tolerated.

The times were looking for him. America prior to the Civil War was searching for a means of rapid communication across the Atlantic. Cyrus Field's Atlantic cable had experienced a discouraging setback.

LOWE PROPOSED a balloon crossing. His eloquence and confidence impressed the noted physicist, Joseph Henry, head of the Smithsonian Institution. Henry discussed Lowe with the Smithsonian regents, who gave the young balloonist a provisional go-ahead. "Go inland and make some trial ascents."

His first big experiment took place at Cincinnati. He proposed to ascend while surface air currents were flowing westward and travel on an upper current which theoretically would be going east. He waited for days for the right conditions.

They developed at 4 o'clock on the morning of April 21, 1861.

Prof. Lowe was six feet tall and of powerful physique. He had a formidable black mustache. Wearing the silk hat and black coat in which he had attended a banquet in his honor the previous evening, he stepped into his basket, severed his balloon from the earth, and rose into the darkened sky.

MOST OF THE reporters automatically treated the project as a failure. Then the telegraph began clicking with a report from Lexington, Ky.: "Large balloon seen rapidly moving eastward."

At about 7,000 feet Prof. Lowe had hit his eastward current, which swept him along at breathtaking speed. For a time it looked as if he would make the Atlantic flight whether he was ready for it or not.

The Civil War had just started, and down in South Carolina folk had their eyes peeled for strangers who might be Yankees.

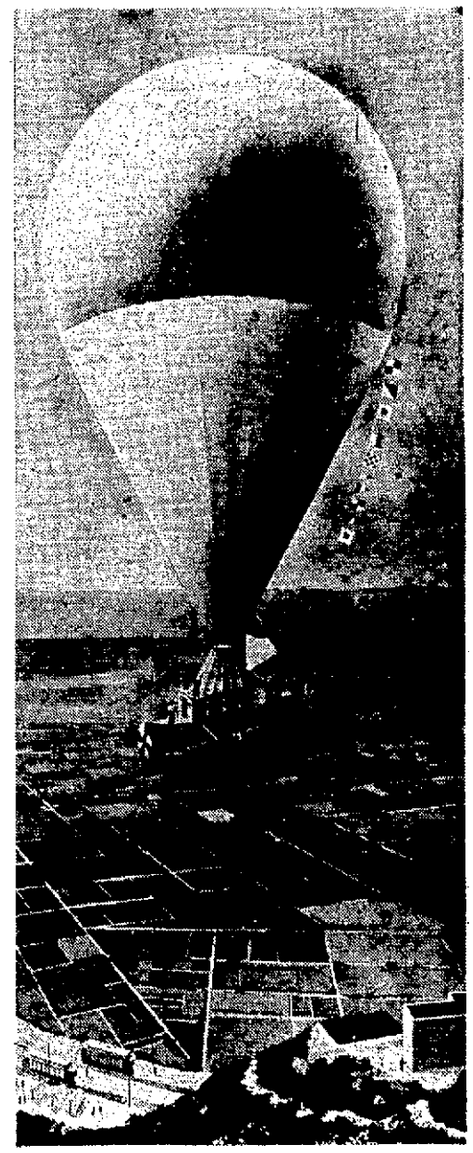

Just after lunch on April 21, a field hand noticed a distant black speck in the sky moving from the direction of the Allegheny Mountains. The speck grew into a balloon, and the balloon settled to earth. There in the gently swinging undergear stood a dark-clad man in a black silk hat. Satan or a Yankee, for sure.

"Field workers armed with pitchforks and shotguns surrounded the stranger, Lowe stepped forward smiling. "I left Cincinnati this morning," he said.

"THAT'S FAST GOING, YANKEE. But it'll take you a hell of a lot longer to go back."

But it didn't take so long, at that. They escorted him to town, where his claim of being a civilian scientist was verified—and he talked himself up a railway

IT PROBABLY will come as no surprise in this Tranquilizer Era that a man named Alan Hinton, with offices on Murray St. in downtown New York, is making a good living selling Happiness. His colorful 10-ton trucks, with skyline views of paradise on the side, ply the streets of the city imprinted with the promising, almost apocalyptic question, "Do you want Happiness?"

Hinton, a hard but cheerful worker, has no couch on the premises, nor has he ever put together a best-selling guide to serene and confident living. His line is real estate and he turns it out in a sizable factory on nearby Staten Island.

Hinton is vice president of Hinton & Co., which manufactures Happiness Homes (he usually eschews the word "cage" in his catalogues) for man's jolly feathered friends and companions—mostly parakeets, canaries, parrots and myna birds.

IN THE COMPETITIVE bird housing game even the parrots don't talk sales figures, but annual sales of all bird cages may run as high as $12 million. Hinton is probably one of the largest manufacturers of bird cages in the U. S. Since 1950, when he stopped selling another company's cages and started making and selling his own, the bird cage business has had a boom rivaling that for U. S. housing in recent years.

French's Pet Bird Institute of Rochester, N. Y., estimates that the U. S. parakeet population itself has increased tenfold since 1951. Today the nation has some 14 million parakeets one for every fifth home, including the White House. Canaries are also undergoing something of a revival (there are four to five million in the country).

EVEN THOUGH business has fallen off slightly since the big parakeet year of 1954, Hinton still estimates he uses 200 tons of steel wire a year and 200 tons of steel sheet to make his homes. His plant goes full blast before every holiday that calls for the giving of gifts, including Mother's Day. As his friends say, no wonder Hinton's happy.

While Hinton's success is partly the result of the nation's soaring parakeet sales, it also stems from his colorful merchandising ideas. He holds patents on the split level home for pet birds as well as the Cape Cod (with garden), which has a colorful planter box around the outside. He has plans for a ranch type as well as a colonial home. He also does a big business in such items as edible rocking chairs for birds, shower baths, parakeet pinball games, bird toys, bird valentines (seed compressed into the shape of hearts), cuttle bone and the good old staple, bird seed.

BIRD SEED, in fact, was the original line of Hinton & Co., prior to the firm's entering the cage, or home, business. The company has been selling bird seed since 1900, when Hinton's father, Frank, who still goes to work every day, started it as a young Irish immigrant.

Another big factor in Hinton's success stemmed from his hiring an engineer named Max Haas, who fled Nazi Germany in 1938 and did important work in high frequency wiring for the U. S. during the war. Haas and three employes started Hinton's Staten Island factory in 1950, an enterprise now calling for as many as 100 employes during busy periods. While this factory has scores of machines, including welders, power presses and bending machines, bird cage manufacturing still calls for a lot of hand craftsmanship. Perhaps the most important job is the making of grooved wooden forms into which the wires that make up the sides and top of the cage are laid prior to welding. Haas estimates that the forms, or fixtures as he calls them, in the Staten Island plant are worth about $25,000.

ALONG WITH WIRE, the company uses electrolytic tinplate, cold rolled steel sheets or chromium or nickel plated steel sheets for its cages.

A lot of the Happiness Bird Cage factory employes have their own birds. But perhaps the top parakeet man is Hinton himself. He has one bird, whose name is Lucky. It doesn't talk, it laughs.

Hinton's friends have been trying to get him to teach the bird to say a few words. They feel it would be appropriate if the pet would reply, when asked why so happy, "Just lucky, I guess."

Homes for growing U. S. population of pet birds are spot welded at Hinton's plant.

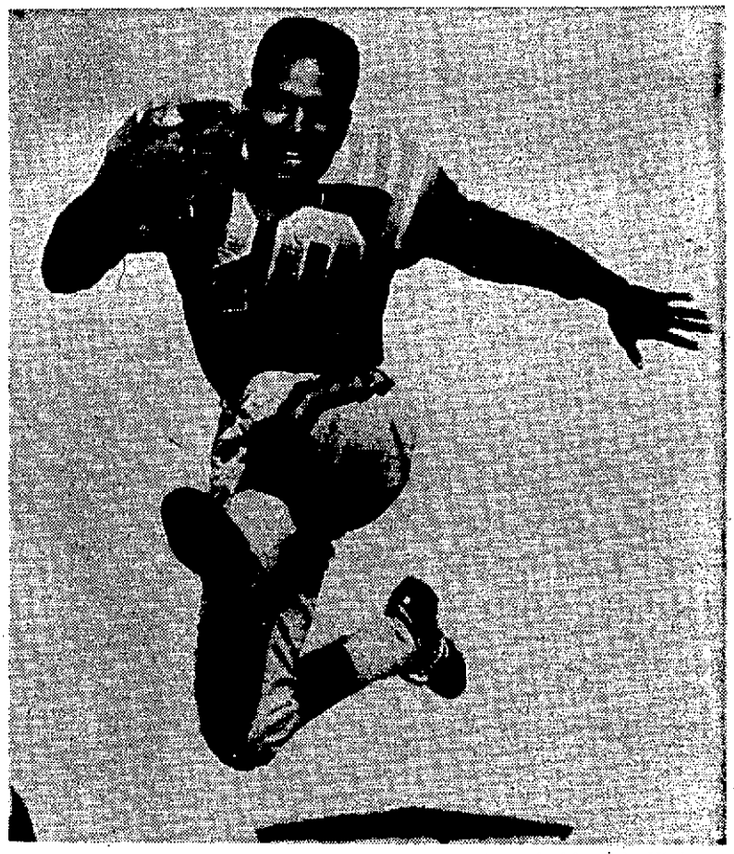

Grooved wooden forms, like one above, are to a modern bird cage what a blueprint is to a new home. When a given cage is in production, it is used over and over in mass output.

Once they are formed, the parts are then assembled, ready for welding into a future home for a fortunate pet of some proud household.

Sample of Long Beach's present-day football talent is Dave Schilling, St. Anthony High back, who scored 13 touchdowns last year.

Lonzo McGlothern, a real flash and a comer, is probably Poly High School's best backfield ace. He'll bear watching again this year.

Football's 50 Years Young in Long Beach!

By Dick Zehms

A HALF CENTURY of American football is being played out this season in Long Beach—on eight fronts.

It wasn't always like this. In 1908, when player-coach Fred Trude converted the Long Beach High School team from rugby to the U. S. brand, there was only one team in town.

Those were the good old days . . . when surreys with fringe on the top bounced down Pine Ave . . . when dairy farms snuggled at the foot of Signal Hill . . . when the 20-mule teams were hauling borax to the harbor for export, providing cargo ships could get close enough to the shore to permit loading . . . and when touchdowns counted five points—before inflation set in.

THIS SLEEPY seaside village was united on one front—football. Long Beach High was the apple of the town's eye.

We've come a long way. In this 50th season, five public schools are hard at it. So are one parochial school, one city college and one state college.

It's an auspicious occasion 50 years later, if only because this 1957 season marks the formation of an all-Long Beach public school athletic conference named in honor of Harry J. Moore, "Mr. CIF." Harry, who retired last June as assistant superintendent of schools here, served for more than 40 years in the California Interscholastic Federation.

Poly, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan and the new Lakewood prep institution are banded together in a single athletic fold to settle a family feud (the first league game is scheduled Oct. 18). Long Beach is a city divided 50 years later. There are five separate loyalties among the public high school fans. Another segment lives and dies with the fortunes of St. Anthony's High in the Catholic League. Another supports Long Beach City College of the Metropolitan Conference, and still another backs Long Beach State College in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

LONG BEACH HIGH took to the American-style game like a polar bear to an ice cube. Trude's first efforts were successful. Long Beach enjoyed a 5-3-0 season in 1908, mainly through the inspired efforts of Trude, who was player, coach and manager, and cohorts Ed Peterson, captain, and Rupert Armstrong, Buell Funk, Pat Fulton, Floyd Frazier, Tommy Davis, Wilmot Long, Ross Middough, Carl Poor, Clarence Rees, Ivan Ringheim and Stubby Smith.

This was the foundation on which Long Beach High, later to become Polytechnic, built a remarkable record of football achievement. Until 1926, the Jackrabbits were the No. 1 athletic love of the city.

Then Woodrow Wilson High took to the gridiron, to be followed in 1928 by Long Beach Junior College. In 1933, Jordan High and St. Anthony's joined the flock. Next came Long Beach State College's 49ers two years ago, then Millikan last year and Lakewood this fall.

IN THE INTERVENING years other football teams blossomed and died here. The Southern California Military Academy and the Dewey Vocational School fielded teams for a short time in the prep league. In World War I the Keel Klub operated. And at the turn of 1930 the Long Beach Longshoremen, Policemen, Firemen and Lifeguards sent teams into action.

Chief historians of Long Beach football who have provided most of the facts in this story include James C. Heartwell, one-time sports writer turned banker; Rockwell Kemp, one-time SC grid star, coach and now athletic director at Jordan; Don Drury, City College publicist; Gene (Skip) Rowland, ex-Wilson and UCLA player now coaching Wilson's varsity, and Leo Haggerty, St. Anthony's High coach.

Elsewhere on this page you will find the "lifetime records" of the schools as compiled by the various historians. There is disagreement in a small measure here and there, since at the outset the various schools were using junior varsity and Class "B" players in their varsity lineups for want of manpower.

HOWEVER, IN THE MAIN the records are authentic—or as authoritative as newspaper clippings, yearbooks, and musty old records will permit.

As the pioneer, Poly High of course rules the roost in the matter of victories and championships. League titles are legion. The Jackrabbits, moreover, have won more Southern California Interscholastic crowns than any other school in the Southland—six—in 1919, 1923, 1929, 1930, 1934 and 1936.

Dio de la Raza

By Barbara V. Myers

"HOLIDAYS" a historian once wrote, "are the memorial stones raised along the path by which a nation rose to greatness." Although the discovery of this hemisphere on Oct. 12, 1492, by Christopher Columbus was the first "stone" so placed in our nation's path to greatness, it was not commemorated nationally until 400 years had passed.

In 1892, President Benjamin Harrison recommended a general holiday on which the "people should, as far as possible, cease from toil and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer."

Now the majority of states have set aside Oct. 12 as a holiday. Cities, streets and parks have been named in honor of the explorer and statues, such as the one presented to Columbus, Ohio, by the city of Genoa, in 1955, have been erected.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER similar honors have been given. In many countries Oct. 12 is celebrated under the name Dio de la Raza, or Day of the Race. The great South American country of Colombia, the cities of Cristobal and Colon at the Atlantic end of the Panama Canal, whose names together form the Castilian version of the name of the explorer, and the great cathedral in Havana, reputed to have held the bones of Columbus, are but a few of the places that carry his name.

Yet all these memorials are but relics compared to the spirit of the man which lives as part of the American heritage helping to mold the character of oncoming generations. For though Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa, Italy, his life reflects many values which have become synonymous with the American way.

HE DID NOT, for example, let the circumstance of humble parentage and lack of schooling keep him from dreaming great dreams, and setting out

Viet Nam-born Chinese lad bids goodby to Eve Myers, former San Pedran, after a recent CAT repatriation flight.

Flight in the Far East

CIVIL AIR TRANSPORT, designated air carrier for Free China, recently made nine flights to Saigon, Viet Nam, from Taipei, Taiwan (Republic of Free China), to bring back Viet Nam-born Chinese students who chose to retain their Chinese citizenship.

The one passenger aboard one of the nine C-46 aircraft, with three crew members, was Eve Myers, former San Pedro resident.

The plane made the direct nonstop flight from Taipei to Saigon in seven hours and returned the next day with 51 Chinese students aboard, via Tourane (Viet Nam) and Hong Kong to Taipei, Taiwan.

A TOTAL OF 447 Chinese boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 have been flown out of Saigon to date on the nine aircraft.

Miss Myers is employed in the public relations office of Civil Air Transport in Taipei and has lived on Taiwan (Formosa) for the past five years.

Civil Air Transport was founded by Gen. C. L. Chennault of Flying Tiger fame.

HOLLYWOOD

Up They Go!

HOLLYWOOD'S constant search for new screen personalities brings into sharp focus five lovelies recently placed under contract by Universal-International Studio. They include one redhead, two brunettes and two blondes, and their birthplaces range from Hollywood to Sandviken, Sweden. Beauty is not their only common attribute—they are all in search of film fame. Here is a peek at them, as they start their climb toward stardom.

Judy Meredith, 20, once with the Ice Follies, also makes her screen bow in the forthcoming "Summer Love."

Joanna Moore, a honey blonde from Georgia, already has appeared in two pictures. Future looks bright.

Science's Loud Mouth

By Rennie Taylor
Associated Press Science Writer

PROBABLY the loudest mouth in existence is SAM, a mechanical contrivance at Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park.

It can shout loudly enough to be understood at least 1½ miles away, and it is the forerunner to a projected machine to make the voice carry at least four miles.

Some day SAM's successors may come in handy at the battlefront, to harrange the enemy or terrorize him. They might be useful to communicate with men underground or people overboard in a ship wreck, or individuals lost in the wilds.

BUT RIGHT NOW SAM's assignment is to make noise for scientific research. To prevent it from driving the neighbors crazy, it is set to talk into a 30-foot long tunnel constructed on a framework resembling a cattle chute. The tunnel itself is only one foot in diameter and is surrounded by 12 tons of sand.

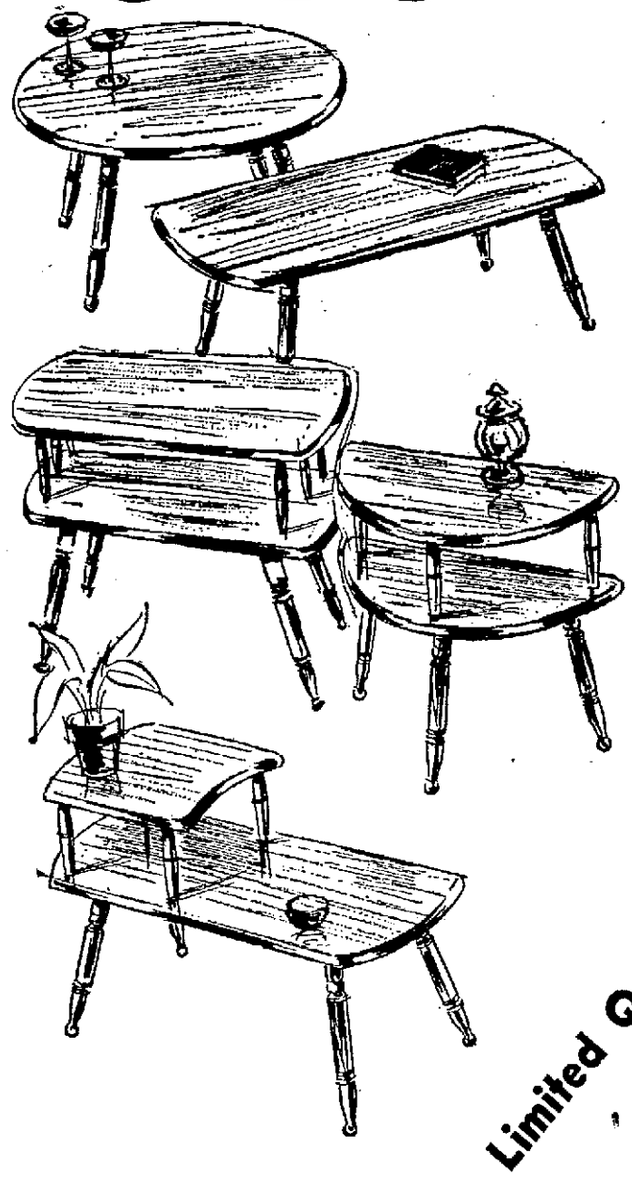

SAM, which is short for Stanford Airstream Modulator, is the creation of Dr. Vincent Salmon, acoustics expert for the Stanford Research Institute.

Because of its versatility it can imitate, for research purposes at least, the sounds of many noisy gadgets. In this role it will help researchers to work on noise control problems in the laboratory. Otherwise they would have to work beside roaring jet engines, diesel trucks, freight trains and riveting machines.

ESSENTIALLY SAM is a super-loud speaker which operates on compressed air, like the horn on a diesel truck or diesel locomotive. Because the characteristics of the noise it produces can be changed in many ways, it may be able to show the way toward making sounds less offensive if not less intense, Dr. Salmon said.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Gem in a Hillside Setting

Heavy shake roof helps provide a pattern as house is seen from the roadway above.

Master bedroom of Myers' home has roomy proportions, is a quiet daytime retreat.

Den, dining room (beyond shoji screen) and living room of Earl Myers' home are under single central beam. Unifying agent is lofty and dramatic ceiling.

By Eileen Ball

OCCUPYING a scenic hillside all its own is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myers. Located at 2 Georgeff Road, Rolling Hills, the house embodies an architectural philosophy that combines beauty with function, living with leisure, privacy with hospitality.

The Myers home is rambling, but the architect, James Friend, AIA, simplified what might otherwise have been judged a complicated plan by means of a continuous ceiling. Flowing planes are centered with an enormous structural beam that spans from one room to another. However, architectural features in no way interfere with or dominate the family residing there or the furnishings which they have installed. Plainly stated, this dwelling place that is spectacular in many ways, is primarily comfortable and compatible with its occupants.

THE ORIENTATION of the many rooms was determined with the pool and patio as focal points. Thus, the living room, kitchen, den and master bedroom all relate directly to this spacious outdoors area that, as a result, is an integral part of the structure.

A large, circular, guest landing leads down in a sloping sweep to the door. The house, located at a level lower than the road, makes the most of its far-flung cedar shake roof to dramatize its appearance from above.

The front door opens to a gallery-entry that extends across the front of the house, as does the living room it borders. The floor is polished, cocoa-pink-flecked terrazzo; and between three ceiling-height colonnades of Arizona fieldstone are set wide stationary panels of clear glass that separate the indoor planting from the shrubbery growing outside the house. Thus, all along this highly effective area, greenery grows in a profusion that brings the outdoors right into the house.

SEPARATING THE terrazzo entry from the living room are shoulder-height storage compartments of natural Philippine mahogany. At the far end of the long entry, one sees into the dining room alcove where an attractive, turquoise-blue, wrought iron-and-glass breakfast set stands. Against the background of greenery, this rearrangement seems to be a secluded garden rather than actually inside the house.

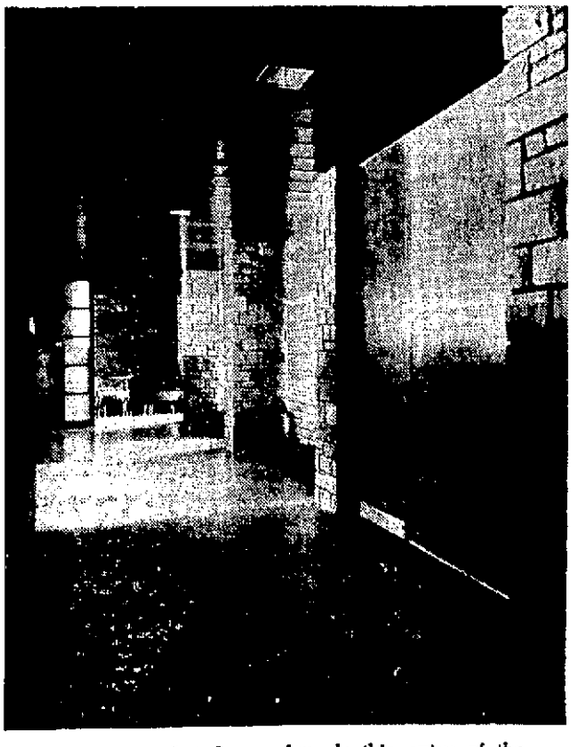

The level ceiling of the entry is surfaced in mahogany. In the living room adjacent, the ceiling is loftily pitched up to the central supporting beam which, in its enormity, is importantly scaled for the living room and for the den and dining areas which merge with it. Walls of the living room are paneled in natural mahogany. However, the back wall of the long, comfortably furnished room is entirely of glass, sections of which slide open to a fabulous view.

A massive sliding shoji screen of plastic parchment set in ebony framing may be pulled across the opening between the living room and the dining area. Open or closed, the eye is permitted to carry over the ceiling-height partition into the dining area—with the ceiling beam conducting this line of vision.

At the opposite end of the living room, a huge fireplace of the Arizona fieldstone features an oversized firebox and widely extended hearth. The carpet—custom-woven to the exact dimensions of the room—is a soft wool chenille. Casement draperies for the vast glass expanse are a matching soft cocoa tone.

The den, a smaller area located next to the living room in a manner that it enjoys the masonry back of the fireplace, is furnished with a saffron leather sofa, lounge chair and things to improve your home is presented regularly in

Southland Magazine

Twin living rooms and a gallery are features of this seven-room house that has been designed for maximum living but without requiring an airport-sized site. The gallery, with "2-story" windows, adjoins the informal living room and can be used for many purposes; i.e., for a potting shed or greenhouse, for sketching and painting, for indoor play area. It has an easily kept concrete floor and a storage closet at one end.

Trim Ranch with Twin

By John O. B. Wallace

AN ADEQUATE living area is the goal of any home. When you have a home with two living rooms, you know it's been designed for maximum living. And if this has been accomplished without an airport-sized plot, you have a design achievement.

This, happily, is the case with the House of the Week, HW-72. It has unusual features to recommend it to the home buyer looking for something special but at a price within his means. You can build this luxury house and still stay out of the luxury price range because it has a total of only 2,118 square feet.

The overall dimensions are 70 feet by 38 feet, 4 inches. The main level of the house has 1,572 square feet. The informal living room area has 546 square feet.

THIS HANDSOME ranch house was designed by Architect Alan Wood Fraser. Here are some of its features:

Three bedrooms. The master bedroom is 16 feet by 13 feet.

Two baths. They're back-to-back for ease of plumbing installations.

The two living rooms! One is 20 feet by 15 feet. The other, for informal living, is on a higher level and is well over 400 square feet in area. Its actual dimensions are 21 feet by 21 feet.

The dining room. It is below the informal living room and has a large bowed-out window.

A roomy kitchen. It has a snack bar ideally suited as a breakfast nook for the modern family.

A two-car garage. It's on a lower level at one end of the house.

AN INTERIOR GALLERY! This is a unique contribution to the features of this home and can be put to many exciting uses.

A flagstoned entrance patio. This is a practical feature and also adds a mark of distinction to the exterior design.

This house lends itself to any locale and any climate. It is a year-round beauty for any American, anywhere.

The exterior design has been meticulously executed. The size, style and arrangement of all windows add unusual charm to the styling of this house; fullest use is made of all natural light sources.

FLAGSTONES, used on the entrance patio, also have been selected as exterior surfacing material for the front of the bedroom wing. Horizontal wood siding, asphalt shingles and a decorative overhang on the roof add contrast.

A flagstone wall extends from the corner of the bedroom wing to make an enclosure for the entrance patio.

Inside, there is a center hall. An angled lattice wall is a modish touch between the front door and the living room. The latticed wall also forms a vestibule which enlarges the apparent space of the living room but at the same time maintains the center hall plan.

EACH OF THE three bedrooms has corner windows, good wall areas and spacious wardrobe closets. Double closets in the master bedroom form an

TV set. Here, too, the ceiling plane carries over in a continuous statement of plan. Further contributing to the feeling of singleness, the glass wall of the living room extends into the den where a panel slides open to the patio.

In the dining room, an Italian provincial dining set is the focal point of interest. Here, privacy or openness is a matter of choice and responds to the dictates of occasion by the use of the hidden shoji.

The kitchen is proportionally large and has been made outstanding by the use of pink marble-pattern plastic for its extensive countertops. Centering the room is a huge cooking island that is located under a large and handsome polished copper hood. All cabinets are of natural mahogany, —the ceiling is pale pink, the floor is pink vinyl. At one end of the kitchen and built in along its angled wall is a long sofa-bench, upholstered in foam rubber covered in pink leather.

OFF THE KITCHEN are maid's quarters. A bath is available to bathers as well as a complete dressing room, a pantry and a service area.

The master bedroom, opening to the pool and patio from the bedroom wing, is paneled in Oriental ash that has been rubbed with a soft cocoa-rose stain. There, the carpet is the same as that used throughout the dining room, den and living areas. Furnishings are Italian provincial, including two separate double beds spread in quilted, cocoa antique satin to match the draperies.

Adjacent to the master bedroom is an enormous dressing room and bath. The dressing room is carried out in tones of cocoa and pink, with pink Norwegian rose marble surfacing the countertops. Adjacent is an ivory-and-pink bath.

The Dusty Road to Ballarat

By O. G. Boyd

AN OLD WOODEN SIGN along the rocky desert road read: BALLARAT 21 MILES. In a cloud of dust loaded down with various tools of the prospector, the gray burro walked sedately along. Leading the ancient animal, with faded overalls tucked into the tops of his hob-nailed boots, and his old black Stetson perched jauntily on the side of his head, was the grizzled figure of Chaparral Charley.

The road led into a small canyon whose sides, composed of a black lava flow, narrowed to a U at the bottom. A few mesquite trees and greasewood bushes bunched together to form a small oasis were the only green things in sight.

"Git a move on, Cadwallader," said Chaparral to the old burro, "ef that little ol' spring is dried up I'm a goin' to bust right out cryin' ".

THE OLD BURRO sensed the nearness of water, too, for his long rabbit ears flopped forward as he broke into a trot. The pots and pans that adorned his flanks rattled and banged like a steam pipe on a winter morning.

"Doggone you, Cadwallader," said Charley, waving a futile fist in the air, "I'm sure goin' to take it out of your hide ef you mess up that water—ef there is any," he added doubtfully. When he arrived a few minutes later the burro was standing with his forefeet in the small seepage.

"Git out of there you ol' hog," Chaparral said, exasperated. "Been tryin' to larn you some manners for 20 years and all for nothin'." Charley eyed the muddy mess distastefully but stretched out full length on the ground and took a few eager gulps.

HE TOOK THE PACK and pack saddle off the animal's back and poured some rolled barley into his gold pan. While the burro was eating he adjusted a set of hobbles to the burro's four legs.

"Nary a bit of use jes' hobblin' two of 'em," he complained bitterly, warily eyeing the burro's dainty hoofs, "dern ol' critter kin run jes' as fast with two like he didn't have none on."

Cadwallader had finished his meal now and was rolling luxuriously in the desert dust. When he got up there was a ticket out of Confederacy!

Lowe went straight to Washington, staged a balloon demonstration over the capital, and secured an appointment from President Lincoln as Chief Aeronaut of the Union Army. He was 29.

Riding equipment which today's Air Force wouldn't send up in target practice, he flew 3,000 missions over battlefields. For the first time in U. S. military history ground fire was directed by a "spotter" from a station in the air.

LOWE RELAYED his intelligence from basket to earth either by telegraph or by means of a pasteboard tube sent down on a thin wire line. During the famous Battle of Fair Oaks, where his reports saved the Union from a disastrous defeat, he sent a message to an assistant by way of the tube:

"Did you see that? They shot my hat off. And I'm just a civilian!"

On his next trip aloft he wore another tall black hat—with a bull's-eye target painted on it in white.

The Official Records of the War of Rebellion are sprinkled liberally with reports of the Professor's operations. More than once he made the difference between defeat and victory. In his report on the operations of the Army of the Potomac, Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan wrote: "To Professor Lowe, the intelligent and enterprising aeronaut, who had the management of the balloons, I was greatly indebted."

THE FACT IS, American military aviation is indebted to the intrepid Professor for its beginnings. He was the pioneer of U. S. military aerial reconnaissance.

Following the Civil War, Lowe contributed significant inventions to the gas and refrigeration industries and settled in Southern California. Here he was a civic and business leader until after the turn of the century. One of his last projects—never brought to fruition—was the designing of a balloon with a huge gondola for carrying tourists to the mountain tops.

cup-like depression in the sand. The sharp eyes of the old desert rat caught the glimmer from a piece of rock that protruded from one side of the imprint. He picked it up and examined it critically.

"THAT'S CERTAINLY a good lookin' piece of rock, Cadwallader," said Charley, a look of amazement coming over his face. "Do you know what it is?" he shouted, holding the rock in the air, his hand shaking, "that's high-grade from the ol' Goldfield Con. an' it's richer 'an all gitout. Know it anywhere. Never seen any ore like it. Might pay to do a little more diggin'."

It certainly did pay to do a little more diggin', for in a short time he unearthed about fifty pounds of the ore, together with some bleached bones which he handled gingerly. There was a look of awe on his face as he viewed his find.

"It's a dern poor burro that don't do nobody no good," said Chaparral, a smile on his wrinkled face. "Looks like we got ourselves a pretty good little stake, Cadwallader. Might be seventy-five ounces of gold in that little heap of ore. Give a lot to know how it got here. Some poor miner packed it here on his back, I guess. Weren't no water. Guess he jes' didn't make the grade, that's all.

"TAKES ME BACK to the time when Goldfield was boomin'," mused Charley. "Sure was a poor man's camp. I've seen the boys comin' off shift with their overalls tied at the bottom. They had so much high-grade in 'em they could hardly walk. Funniest lookin' bunch of cripples you ever did see. They staggered down the street to an assayer who bought it off 'em for half what it was worth."

"Did I git any of it, you asks, Cadwallader? Sure did. Didn't do me no good, howsomever. Easy come, easy go, as they says. Weren't called stealin' in them days. Jes' high gradin'".

"Know what we're goin' to do now, Cadwallader?" said Charley, and his face glowed in anticipation. "We're goin' to turn smack aroun' and head back to Barstow. When we gits there I'm goin' to hire you a corral and you're goin' to have all the alfalfa hay and oats you kin eat. An' once a day you're goin' to have a load of the finest swill I kin find in the back of Gung Duk's eatin' place. Might keep you from knockin' over garbage pails all over town and gittin' inter a peck of trouble."

"YOU THINK I ORTER bury this feller's bones, you say, Cadwallader? That's jes' what I figured on doin'. Goin' to write him an epituge too. Guess that's all I kin do for him.

He dug a shallow grave and covered the bones. Taking a piece of paper and an empty tobacco can for a receptacle, he wrote laborously with work worn fingers:

"Here lyes a miner
Safe in the fold.
I buried his bones
And took all his gold."

Appetizers for After the Game

Finger foods with football names meet with terrific response from guests at after-game party. Above, pigskin parades, touchdown canapes and more.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

KICKOFF your fall entertaining with an after-the-game party that's sure to score with the food-and-fun fans.

Let guests help themselves to tasty finger foods from a large appetizer tray. As hostess, you can decline the penalty of missing out on the party fun by planning ahead and keeping the refreshments simple. So many appetizers are merchandised in glass jars these days, that by little more than a flip-of-the-lid you can be all set for your guests. Stuffed green olives pearl onions, pickles, cheese curls, salted nuts, cheese and meat spreads, cocktail franks, and pimientos are examples. All of these foods are available in glass containers that let you see in advance just what you are getting.

To serve with hot or cold beverages, here are several quick-tricks that will have guests in a huddle around the serving center. Arrange the appetizers on a large tray or Lazy Susan with bowls of crackers, potato chips, salted nuts and corn curls near by. If you're entertaining a crowd, you'll probably want to make several appetizer trays.

Pigskin Parade

Use lid flipper to remove pry-off cap from a jar of cocktail franks. Drain and rinse franks. Cut a deep slit along one side of franks. Insert small strips of cheddar cheese in the slits. For variety, stuff some of the cocktail franks with small dill pickle slices, cut crosswise, and others with slices of stuffed green olives. Place stuffed franks on broiler rack in broiler pan and broil about five to six inches from source of broiler heat until franks are heated through, about 3 to 4 minutes. Serve piping hot on cocktail picks.

Winning Teams

Cut Swiss cheese into ¾-inch cubes. Top each cube with a stuffed green olive or a cocktail onion skewered with colored plastic toothpicks.

Cheddar Bowl

2 5-oz. jars sharp pasteurized process cheese spread
1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce
½ tsp. dry mustard
dash Tabasco sauce
2 tblsps. catsup
2 tsps. minced onion

Have cheese at room temperature. Combine all ingredients and blend until mixture is fluffy. Heap into a bowl and serve as an appetizer "dunk" or spread with crackers and potato chips.

Touchdown Canapes

Select a variety of assorted jars of meat sandwich spreads, such as beef with barbecue flavor added, or a liver with bacon combination, for canape toppings. To make canapes, cut rounds or any fancy shapes desired from slices of day-old bread. Toast lightly on one side only in broiler. Brush untoasted side of bread lightly with melted butter. Spread generously with meat spread and garnish prettily with slices of stuffed green olives, strips of pimiento, sieved hard cooked eggs, tiny pickle slices, or parsley. Keep canapes refrigerated until serving time.

Complete appetizer tray with stuffed green olives and small sweet pickles.

Hot Potato Salad With Bacon

½ lb. bacon, diced
5 potatoes, cooked in jackets (3½ cups)
1 onion, diced
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 beaten egg

Cook bacon. Combine potatoes, bacon, and onion. Add remaining ingredients to bacon drippings; heat thoroughly. Pour over mixture and mix well.

SERVE WITH: Tomato Juice—Hot Potato Salad—Buttered Asparagus—Glazed Pineapple Rings—Poppy-Seed Rolls—Jelly Roll and Vanilla Sauce

STEAKS

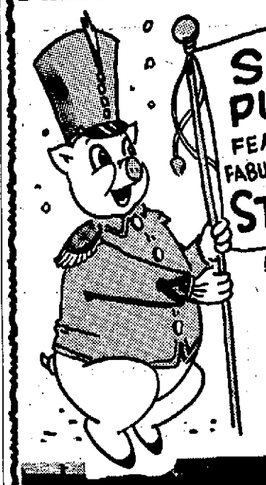

Beef Tenderloin, also known as Filet Mignon, is a boneless, very tender little steak that is cut from the beef tenderloin, and is really not expensive when you consider it a solid piece of meat. A one inch thick steak weighs 4 to 6 ounces. They are thick, but for the person who wants his steak well done, it would be a good idea to butterfly it. Because it is always tender and cooks quickly, it is excellent company fare.

to make them come true. Indeed, his career might well be labeled "poor boy makes good."

Settling at Lisbon, Portugal, the center of the greatest seafaring nation of the day, he read scholarly books on geography and learned as much about navigation as he could.

His marriage to the daughter of a famous Portuguese navigator gave him access to the best maps and charts of the day, and also raised his social rank to the place where he was able to meet important officials.

NOR DID HE LET discouragement, poverty or ridicule overcome his faith in his dream. Though by 1483 he presented to Portugal's King John II his theory that Asia could be reached by sailing west, it was not until 1492 that a sudden long cry of "land ho" from the masthead of the Santa Maria proved him not a fool.

In between were long years of vainly seeking support, not only in Spain and Portugal, but through his brother in England and France. Though he often must have been disheartened, he never gave up. Finally, on April 17, 1492, he succeeded in persuading King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain to subsidize the expedition.

Then followed the grim weeks on the "sea of darkness" with a starving, terrified crew on the verge of mutiny. A weaker spirit would have turned back many times, but Columbus looked only west to sail on.

AND SAIL ON he did, not only once but four times to discover what he thought to be the western islands of India, but which we know was Central America, the northern mainland of South America, and a multitude of islands including the Bahamas, Trinidad, Jamaica, Haiti, Porto Rico and Cuba.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you tell about the name SKINNER.—Mrs. S. K., Downey; M. S., Huntington Beach.

S.K. AND M.S.: The English surname SKINNER has a dual occupational source. Originally spelled Skynnere, it is diversified in meaning, either a dealer in hides and furs or a man who prepared skins for sale. The first seller's shop in "Ye Olde England" was given the descriptive name of "Skinnery." The Skinners attained prominence in Hereford, Essex and Devonshire. One member of this family was honored by being made Lord Mayor of London in 1596. The coat-of-arms of the Skinners of Hereford, descended from Stephen Skinner who died in 1557, has a gold chevron between three silver griffin heads on a black shield. The first of this family in our country is believed to be John Skinner of Windsor, Conn., who married there about 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would greatly appreciate the brief genealogy of the name SEAL.—The Seal Family, Long Beach.

LINGUISTIC evidence shows that this surname originated as "At the Sele." Sele was the English spelling of the French "Salle" meaning "Hall." "At the Hall" described the manor house location of the family. In English records of 1347 a John Atte Sele was listed. By the 16th century the name was altered, for example, Richard Seale of Warwick, 1574. The Seal family coat-of-arms, granted in 1599, had three black wolf heads and a blue bar on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the brief genealogy and coat-of-arms of NUTTALL.—Mrs. A.W. and G.W., Long Beach.

A.W. AND G.W.: NUTTALL was the name of an English manor house many centuries ago. This early surname was acquired by the family who dwelled there. The oldest spelling was Nut-Hall from "Knot-Hall," or Hall on the Hillock. A Hall was a large, imposing manor house owned by a nobleman or a member of the landed gentry. Agatha de Nuthal lived in Nottinghamshire in 1272. The family coat-of-arms has a black shacklebolt on a silver shield.

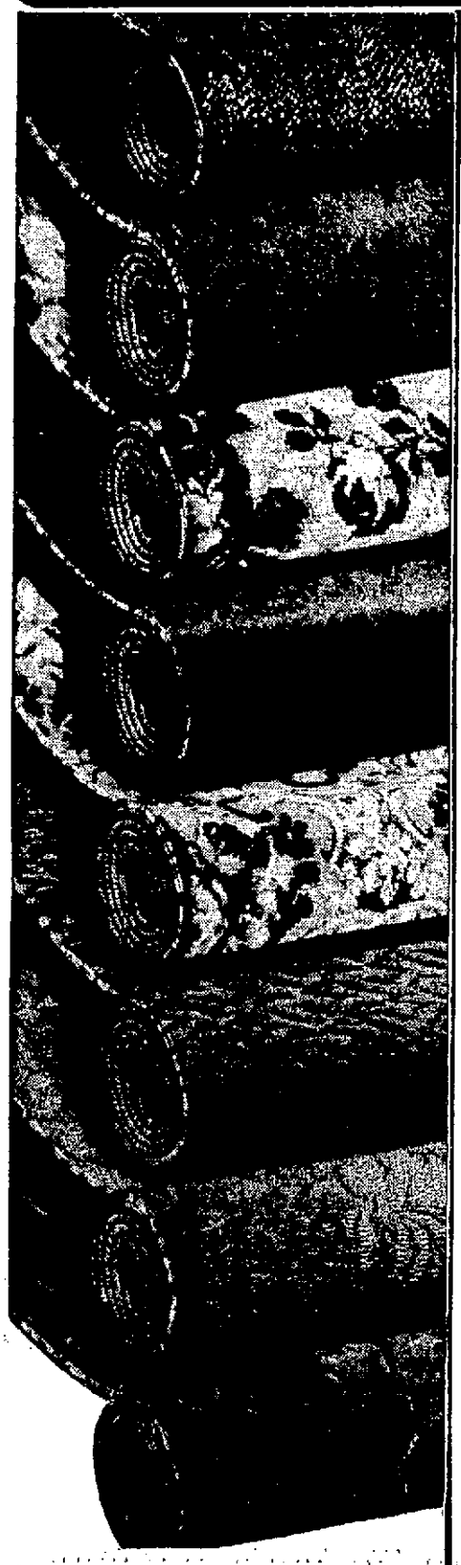

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like to know what you have in your genealogy research files pertinent to the name WENZEL or WENZELL as I use it. —W.V.W., Long Beach.

W.V.W.: WENZELL, from the German surname Wenzel, was given, many generations ago as a complimentary name for a clear-thinking, sharp-witted, wide-awake ancestor who was baptized Wenceslaus meaning "the wise one." This name was rare for it is a description of the mental prowess of the progenitor, rather than his physical attributes. In southern Germany Wenceslaus was shortened to the nickname Wenz-el. The name was used in memory of King Wenceslaus of Bohemia, a 14th century ruler famed for his benevolence.

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Money Lessons Are Important to Children

Children can learn the value of money with tiny bank.

By Alan Farrant

AS SOON as your child wants something he does not possess, the time has arrived to start teaching him the value of money. No definite age can be set as the starting point for such training, because it varies with the individual.

But such training is all-important! See to it he quickly learns the way to get money is —work! If the child grows up without an appreciation of the connection between work and money, he may always try for easy and quick returns.

Do not make the mistake of paying the child for every bit of help he gives around the house. Homemaking is for every member of the family, and he should realize this. But he can be paid for extra jobs, such as a special trip to the store, or raking up an unusual amount of leaves.

WHEN CHILDREN are 10 years or more old, they can be expected to find jobs away from home. Parents should check closely into the work, for it may be a job too strenuous, or of too long duration. But if it is necessary to make the child quit, be sure he understands why—otherwise he'll quickly be discouraged about working for a wage.

All phases of money-importance must be taught.

Sometimes a youngster will borrow from a member of the family, then fail to pay it back. Wrong! Others go shopping and fail to give back the change. Wrong again! And as for taking coins from mother's purse: again, wrong!

AS SOON as the child has saved up a little money—from earning it, or from his weekly allowance—he wants to spend it. He should be made aware that he can spend, save, or share. But the spending urge will be the strongest. He must be helped, by showing that if he saves he can soon get something better.

And as for sharing, it should be pointed out if he buys something as a gift for a friend, then both he and the friend are happy. It is advisable, however, to let most of the money be spent when the child wants, and for what he decides to buy.

Problems of saving are numerous. Where will he keep the money? How will he know where it is? How will he figure out how much he spent? How much is left?

THE EASIEST WAY is to have the child keep written records, extremely simple ones. Even before he can write and solve adding and subtracting, records he can understand can be thought up. It must be explained carefully, slowly. For very young children it is expedient to use only a coin of one value. Always give him nickels, never dimes. This makes it much easier for him to understand.

Small amounts are kept in a "piggy bank," or small box, larger ones in a bank. But if in a bank, let the new depositor fully realize the bank takes care of the money only. Unless this point is stressed, the child will be confused. He will think he has spent the money, getting only the bank deposit book.

Parents putting in a little effort on this training will find it time well spent. For as the child grows older his responsibilities toward money will be superior to the untrained child. His value of the dollar will be such that the tendency to spend foolishly will be held to a minimum.

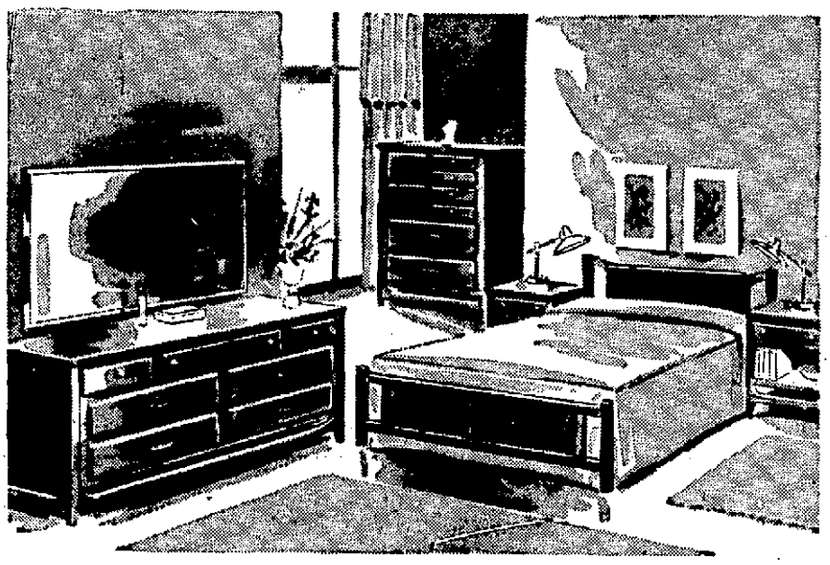

And what more could you ask?

LONG BEACH FOOTBALL'S 50 YEARS YOUNG

St. Anthony's is the only other Long Beach prep school to win the VIF crown, although Wilson, Jordan and Millikan have made a run or two at it on occasion. The Saints turned the trick in 1948.

State College, of course, is too young to be a power in the collegiate field at this infant stage of three years, while City College's Vikings hit the jackpot with a Junior Rose Bowl triumph over Boise, Idaho, in 1950 and claimed a national championship.

WHEN THE NAMES of all-time greats are bandied about there is bound to be a difference of opinion according to Long Beach loyalties, but foremost on the list must be Morley Drury, the "Noblest Trojan of Them All," from Poly; Norman (Moose' Standlee, Wilson fullback product who went on to Rose Bowll fame with Stanford and professional glory with the Chicago Bears and San Francisco 49ers; Norman (Red) Franklin, ex-Polyite who won All-American recognition at Oregon State; Johnny Olszewski, the great fullback at St. Anthony's and later a star with California's Golden Bears, and Bob Davenport, the dynamic Jordanite who whirled, smashed, drove and dove from his fullback slot for UCLA.

Bob Parke is dean of grid skippers in Long Beach.

Dozens of others belong on the same list.

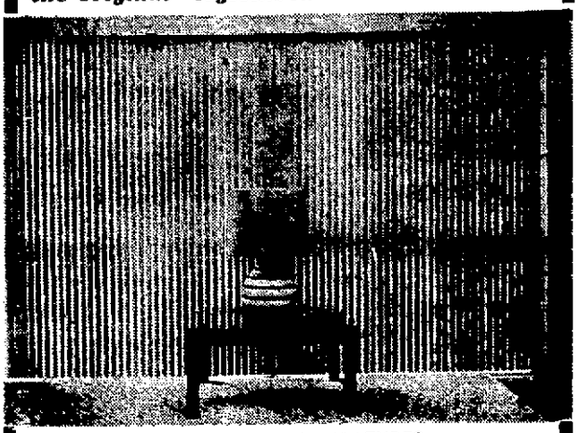

IN THIS 50TH YEAR of high school football here, Bob Parke, once a dashing halfback at Poly, stands out as the dean of the grid skippers. This is his seventh successive year at the Panther helm. The neophytes are Dave Levy, serving his first season at Poly, and Chuck Toy, who will be introducing Lakewood's first team to the public.

Dave is the 14th coach in Poly's 50-year history. Parke is the fifth at Jordan, Leo Haggerty the eighth at St. Anthony's, Rowland the seventh at Wilson, Tom Kincade the second at Millikan and Toy the first at Lakewood.

Mike DeLotto has handled State College in all three seasons of its short life, while Jim Stangeland at City College becomes the tenth to command the Vikings

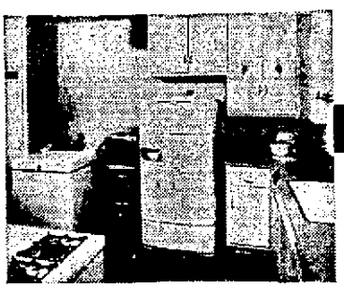

Time was when these gents would have commanded the entire Long Beach scene—had they bossed Long Beach High in 1908. It's a different picture today. They must share the spotlight and the newspaper space as the city grows.

Drumbeats Under an Eerie Moon

ALICE LANG had wanted to go to Africa for many years, and when she began to correspond with a man in Africa whom she had never seen, the desire grew. Finally, she arranged, by mail, to marry the man, Andrew Miller, warden of a wild animal sanctuary. But the marriage was set in the nebulous future, since Alice, a nurse, was required to remain with her bedridden mother.

When her mother died, Alice set off on the journey, and at the end of the trip she was disappointed, for Andrew did not meet her. He sent his younger brother, Rusty, to meet her and bring her to her future home. A number of adventures involving witchcraft, wild animals and native customs befell Rusty and Alice before they finally reached the isolated place where Andrew waited. And before the trip was over Rusty and Alice were in love. Then she found herself accused of her mother's murder.

This is part of the story of "The Moon by Night" by Joy Packer (Lippincott, $3.95), chosen by the Literary Guild as its September selection.

"THE ACTRESS," by Bessie Breuer (Harper's, $4.95): Of special interest in California, this novel tells of a young film starlet who tries to make a life for herself away from the cameras. When Hollywood is unable to give her what she wants, she tries to start a new career in the motion picture colony in Rome. Miss Breuer, playwright, novelist, short-story writer, talent scout, draws on her wide knowledge of humankind and the theater for this engrossing book.

"THE HEALING POWER OF FAITH" by Will Oursler (Hawthorn, $4.95): Author of a dozen books and countless magazine articles, Mr. Oursler declares that no work he ever attempted affected him as profoundly as gathering material for and writing this rather long account of healing by faith when all other means fail. The job took him more than two years during which he delved into an enormous mass of material, extending back, he feels, to the dawn of time itself, and to every race and creed on earth. An additional feature of the book is the first published listing of American churches of all faiths having a special interest in spiritual healing.

From "The Merchant of Venice"

"TWISTED TALES FROM SHAKESPEARE" by Richard Armour, illustrated by Campbell Grant (McCraw-Hill, $2.95): With the same irreverent satire that characterized "It All Started With Columbus" and his other previous best sellers, Mr. Armour strikes a rich vein of tomfoolery in this new one, "in which Shakespeare's best-known plays are presented in a new light, the old light having blown a fuse, together with introductions, questions, appendices, and other critical apparatus intended to contribute to a clearer misunderstanding of the subject."

Comments Mr. Armour in his introduction: "Much of his good taste Shakespeare inherited from his father who once held the position of ale-taster for the town of Stratford. Young Will made the local team and met the Bidford Sippers in a spirited contest, winning his liter. According to Legend, the chief source of information about Shakespeare's youth, it took him two days to get home from Bidford, which was only a short walk but a long ways on hands and knees."

Of "Macbeth" he observes: "There are some beautiful passages. One of them is the hallway in Macbeth's castle, where Lady Macbeth loved to fingerpaint on the wall in other people's blood."

Of "A Midsummer Night's Dream": "One question, never satisfactorily answered by scholars, is this: Did Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' result from something he ate?"

Of "Romeo and Juliet": "If the part of Juliet has sometimes overshadowed that of Romeo, it is because Romeo spends so much time under the balcony."

Of "The Merchant of Venice": "The earliest recorded performance . . . was before King James I on February 10, 1605. He ordered a second performance two days later, hoping against hope that he would get the point this time."

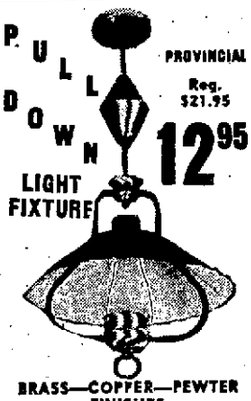

Of "Hamlet": "Hamlet is unquestionably Shakespeare's Magnum Opus, of enormous interest to scholars and critics who would otherwise have been forced to seek honest employment."

Of "Othello": "That Othello is a late work is further indicated by the fact that, Shakespeare having run out of gravediggers, gatekeepers, and ghosts, there is no comic relief. In fact only the final curtain brings any relief whatever."

Shakespeare never took a greater spoofing, but even Shakespeare would have loved it.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"If we go to France, should we buy French francs even though the franc has been devalued now?"

AT THIS writing, yes. The franc slid for tourists to 420 to the U. S. $1. And the open market slid at the same time. If you can get better than 420 in New York or San Francisco, buy. France allows you to bring in all the francs you want.

"Can you suggest a place to have shoes made while we are in Spain?"

I haven't bought any shoes in Spain for several years. But if you ask the concierge at the Palace Hotel, he has a couple of good places. I've heard one problem with Spanish shoes is they make them too tight.

This certainly happened to me. I had them make me some boots. Took them off in the plane going over to Rome and walked into Customs in my socks. Couldn't get them on again until they had been stretched for a couple of days.

I have an idea this is a Spanish custom. Mexican boots usually come out small. And Texas bootmakers say when they are making boots for Mexicans, they always make them a size small. Mexico prefers them that way.

"What is the evening entertainment in the Caribbean?"

YOU HEAR the calypso and drink the rum punch. That's generally. Depends on where you are. There are plenty of night clubs in Havana. A few in Kingston, Jamaica. Two in Fort-de-France, Martinique.

Nothing that I found in Curacao. Dirty Dick's Swizzle Stick in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. Steel oil drum music.

A couple of real wild ones in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. Lots of beating on four-foot drums. Lots of brass, warm, tropic breeze and usually a rich odor of fish and strong perfume.

If you want to just stay home and turn on some calypso music, this is the standard "1, 2, 3 rum punch."

One part lime juice. Two parts cane sugar syrup. Three parts dark rum. Shake it up, pour it over ice and grind a little fresh nutmeg on top. Sweet, fragrant and powerful.

"With three months in Europe, renting a house in Southern Italy, shall we buy or rent a car?"

BETTER WAIT until you get there before you make a decision. Three months is right on the edge of the break-even point. Under three months it is usually cheaper to rent. Over three months, usually better to buy and sell back.

I'd wait if I were you and see what prices you can get (maybe on used cars). And how much assurance that you can sell back. In the meantime, take a CIAT bus.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Atoms for Peace

By Aubrey B. Haines

LAST JULY 12 the first nuclear heat plant in America began feeding electricity over Southern California Edison's distribution lines in the Santa Susana Mountains.

This is the sodium reactor experiment, part of the Atomic Energy Commission's program to develop economically competitive civilian power from nuclear energy. After many experiments to test the operation, the reactor plant will be operated full scale this fall.

In 1945 over Hiroshima atomic force first proved it could be used to kill in war. Today, however, the atom is being used for peace.

One might not think that atomic science would find a place in the design of a better dishwasher, but it has.

A MANUFACTURER wondered what combination of detergent, water temperature, spray and rinse would give best results. Scientists found that dried, fried egg was hardest to wash off dishes and silverware. Then getting some radioactive phosphorus, they fed the isotope to a flock of hens. In about 30 days the phosphorus showed up as a tracer element in the yolk of the chicken eggs.

Someone fried the eggs on an ordinary stove and ate them, without scraping the skillet, the plate, or the fork very clean. The dirty dishes were then ready for the dishwasher test. By examining the dirty dishwasher, rinses and utensils, scientists could measure the amount of phosphorus isotope on each.

By repeated experiments the manufacturer found the combination that washed dishes best.

APPLIED to livestock and poultry raising, atomic science is a research tool as important as the microscope. Scientists believe that atomic energy can make a vast contribution to the practical study of animal disease.

One of the more fascinating projects now under way is a study how milk is formed in the body of the cow and other mammals.

Research is making progress on what food elements make up the lactose in milk. Some practical uses of atomic energy in poultry raising have been found.

Scientists used to assume that chickens could get the sulphur they needed in their systems only through eating plant food that contained it. But by using the isotope sulphur-35, it is found that animals can utilize inorganic sulphur. Tracer atoms of sulphur — put into ordinary plant foods — have been found in the feathers and amino acids that support life.

A principal problem atomic scientists have worked on recently is how to treat radiation sickness — the effect of nonfatal exposure in an atomic bomb explosion.

More popular interest, however, lies in use of atomic radiation in treating cancer. Here scientists can report many new discoveries and some progress. Radioactive gold injections are beneficial in treating cancer of the ovary. In this disease fluid develops which must be drained off every few days. Radio gold stops accumulation of fluid and is effective one-third of the time.

OTHER radioisotopes are useful in medicine as substitutes for radium. Radio cobalt is effective in many cases, but having a radiation half-life of five years, it must be removed from the body. A most novel application comes from inserting radioactive elements in a hollow nylon thread, not much thicker than surgical gut.

Extremely flexible, the thread can be stitched around a tumor for effective treatment. Another application comes from a surgical gun, built something like a toy water pistol. It shoots radioactive pellets into bladder tumors.

Atomic by-products have contributed largely to agricultural research as well as to medicine and industry. Several years ago scientists at Brookhaven National Laboratory, New York, exposed some ordinary seed potatoes to atomic radiation.

The experiment was part of a broad research project in biology. These irradiated potatoes were planted with some untreated ones to control the experiment and show effects of the treatment. An unusually rainy spring that year, none of the potatoes came up.

CROSSING OFF their experiment, the scientists charged it to hard luck and decided to try again next year. But when they plowed up the ground for another experiment, they found that though the untreated potatoes had sprouted they had almost completely rotted away.

On the other hand, the irradiated potatoes had not sprouted but were good as new, with no indications of rot.

All this progress, coming about in the past decade, is without historical parallel. Thus concern for national self-preservation may give way to desire for universal well-being as the motive force of atomic progress.

Grooming problems of chow and cocker, respectively, are discussed by Mrs. L. Howard Kendall, Mrs. Helen Phariss.

PET PARADE

Putting On the Dog

By Eleanor Avery Price

WITH numerous dog shows and obedience trials on tap for this fall, dog owners are renewing their attention to the grooming of their pets, although owners of fine show dogs such as Mrs. L. Howard Kendall with chow, Champion Trojan of Poppyland, and Mrs. Helen Phariss with cocker, Shrdlu's Copy Boy, shown in accompanying picture, know that a few minutes' daily grooming every day of the year is much better than a sudden spurt of struggling with combs and clippers to get the dog looking his shining best.

In fact, since puppies are easier to handle than grown dogs, grooming should begin the day a puppy is acquired. The pet learns to enjoy attention and will accept being placed on a grooming table or bench. When he is older and perhaps too big to lift, he will jump onto the table of his own accord.

BRUSHING should always be a gentle procedure to inspire his confidence in you. It is even permissible to offer the pet an occasional tidbit while tending his appearance.

Smooth-haired breeds need little more than a soft brushing to remove loose hair and to give the coat a sheen. Brisk massage is also helpful in keeping the oil glands functioning properly.

Long-coated dogs need heavier brushing, and tangles and mats must be worked out gently if they have been allowed to appear. Watch also for burrs.

When grooming your dog, keep a look-out for fleas or their black specks. If these pests are seen, stand the dog on newspapers and apply a flea powder according to directions. Comb the coat gently and promptly burn the papers and the contents. If you prefer, use one of the concentrated liquid flea removers which is added to water. Immerse the dog to the neck only. If necessary, carefully sponge around ears and on face.

ENTRIES CLOSE at noon, Oct. 7, for the San Fernando Kennel Club dog show and obedience trial set for Oct. 20 at Recreation Park, San Fernando.

BIRD, FISH and ocelot fanciers interested in entering pets in the competitive shows of the California Pet Fair to be held in Municipal Auditorium, Long Beach, from Nov. 6-10, may write to California Pet Fair, P. O. Box 5061, Long Beach 5.

AN OPEN DISCUSSION on the activities of the American Kennel Club will spotlight the Orange Empire Dog Club two-day convention on Oct. 26-27, with John Neff of New York as guest speaker. Other guest panelists will discuss leash laws and other problems. Contact Nina Mulzner, 1215 24th St., San Bernardino 9-1425, if you would like to attend either day.

Take Your Camera Along When You Fly

Airline personnel usually are very interested in their photo-taking passengers, often can help.

By the Shutterbug

SINCE fall and winter vacations have become so popular — and so many of us have made flying our regular mode of travel — we thought we'd go in for a little "plane talk" especially for you picture-takers.

First of all, cameras make ideal traveling companions on any flight. You can take your choice between a simple box camera or a more elaborate one — between a camera that will make snapshots or one that will shoot movies.

BEFORE YOU START shooting pictures from the air, it might be well to remember two basic points: 1. Always be sure neither your camera nor your arms come in contact with any part of the plane, or vibration will make your pictures turn our blurred and fuzzy. Your camera should be close to the window, but not touching it. 2. For the best results, use a filter to cut through atmospheric haze.

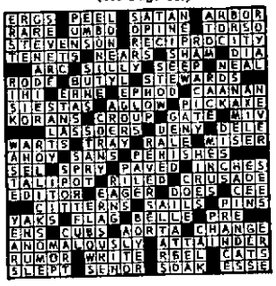

It's easiest to make good clear shots when the plane has reached an altitude of at least 2,000 feet, since the ground then doesn't move by so rapidly. The best seats for picture-takers are those in the back half of the cabin and on the side away from the direct rays of the sun. On an eastbound flight, try to sit on the left side; on a westbound trip, choose a seat on the right side.

YOU'LL FIND the effect of the plane's speed will be minimized if you shoot "oblique" views — by holding your camera pointed ahead of the plane or to the rear, rather than the straight down or straight out the side. In other words, shoot when the plane is approaching or leaving the subject, and not when it is flying parallel to the subject.

Start your picture story well before take-off time. A busy airport is a fascinating place—filled with excited passengers, teeming luggage trucks and taxiing planes — bustling with activities.

In the air, watch for interesting terrain — a canyon, a mountain range, unusually contoured fields, a bridge or a harbor. Get part of the plane wings and engines in some of your shots—and be alert for striking cloud-and-sky effects.

Boat Talk

By Bob Ruskauff

ALL THREE of these are "firsts" at Alamitos Bay Yacht Club — family, club, community.

Saturday night, as the 31-year-old ABYC had its annual trophy presentation dinner at the Lafayette Starlight Room, a little of all three was strongly evident.

Trophies were in the hundreds — some elaborate, some little mementos, but all symbols of a thing which the strong, vital membership of the ABYC does almost every weekend — between-time, throughout the year.

THEY SAIL BOATS, they work on their boats, they built their own club and have work parties, in which all join to keep improving it and their facilities, at 5437 E. Ocean Blvd.

It was in May of 1926 that 14 charter members met at S. W. Holmer's Boat Shop and formed the club. Richard L. Russell Sr. was first commodore. ABYC was incorporated and built its first facilities the following year.

All was not always serene going through the early years, but today Alamitos Bay Yacht Club is not only "in" but, for admirable reasons, is known and regarded well throughout the world of yachting.

THERE ARE SOME 350 voting members but that isn't the crux of it. Only one member of a family has a voting membership. Hence (and it works this way almost to the decimal) this means that ABYC has a junior membership of 1,000 youngsters. At 21, junior members must convert to a senior status. This they invariably do, so if ever a club had a certain, future heritage, it would be ABYC.

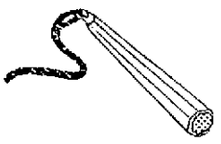

Many firsts are rightfully claimed by the club and, as was pointed out by Ann Exley—wife of Commodore Sid and the mother of three smart-sailing lasses, Sue, Pat and Jane:

"The Southland has kicked over a lot of the staid traces in yachting. Southern Cali-

BOATING Brief

THE LEAD

The lead will tell you what sort of bottom your anchorage has when you do not have a chart. Fill the tip of the lead with tallow or soap, then allow the lead to hit bottom. When you haul it in, it will have bits of sand, seashells, etc. Very often the lead will come up with nothing adhering to it. This means that the bottom consists of rocks. Always try to have a chart of the water you cruise.

Skimmers on Alamitos Bay (circa 1938) inspired one-design small boat racing.

fornians are adventurers. It wasn't done before, so we did it."

SMALLBOAT one-design racing was, in effect, born on Alamitos Bay. Today, literally thousands in perhaps 40 different classes, teem waters of the west. But, in 1930, there was none of it. Then one day:

An old Marion-type hull drifted into the bay. Clarence (Clay) Pasel, boat builder, took it and converted the craft into a heavily-canvassed, scow-type sailboat which he called the Patricia Skimmer. A class was started.

In 1931, against the advice of many who said, "those little (16½-foot) boats should never be allowed on the ocean," they were allowed to compete off the breakwater, in the Midwinter Regatta.

ROSE PASEL SAILED to victory in the class and the fast-sailing skimmers were a sensation. So was Rose, who became the first Midwinter's woman sailing champion and, later, of the Pacific Coast.

Thus the ABYC scored two firsts all at once.

But the greatest thing, really, is the family angle. Again, as Ann Exley put it:

"This is a definite family contribution to combat juvenile delinquency. In yachting, particularly, youngsters do learn to take care of themselves and what sportsmanship means.

"Poor sports? Oh, at times, maybe. But the other kids soon make good sports out of them." And good citizens.

BOAT HOOKS: Today's feature in sailing, an ocean race off Newport for K-38 sloops, representing eight Southland yacht clubs, competing for the Al A. Adams and Son Trophy, one of the more coveted perpetual awards.

In speedboating, top boats of the nation point toward Mead Lake on the coming weekend.

Trim Ranch With a Gallery

unusual entrance; they also serve as insulation against noise from other parts of the house.

One bathroom is convenient to the center hall. The other, with a stall shower, is private for the master bedroom. A lavatory for the living areas could be installed in the corner of the informal living room marked "storage" on the floor plan.

A graceful, open stair leads from the dining room to the higher informal living room. A wrought iron railing gives a balconied effect to this room.

A STRIKING FEATURE of this house is the gallery. It has a "two-story" window exposure, offering a wide and high vista. The gallery floor is reached by going down two steps from the kitchen hall. An openwork railing separates the gallery from the informal living room.

There is a closet at one end of the gallery for storage purposes, and there is ample space for the hobbyist to move around below in the gallery. In this plan, a bench has been placed for potted plants. This area could serve as an indoor greenhouse. But it also could be used for other purposes. The "two-story" windows would provide abundant natural light for sketching and painting.

THE GALLERY has a cement floor, easy to keep clean. The gallery's uses could be as varied as the interests of the homeowner. Also, there is space for an optional door from the outside leading into the kitchen and down into the gallery.

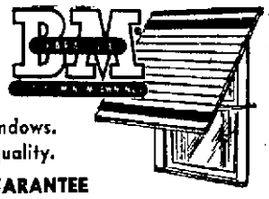

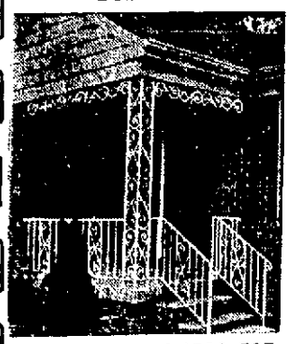

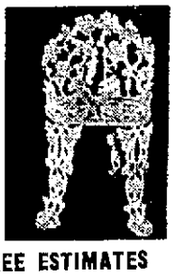

The basement could be finished into still another living area. There is space, too, in the basement for an optional fireplace.

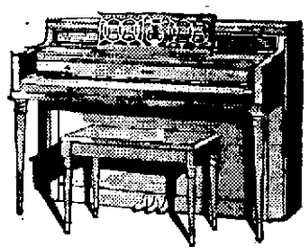

The kitchen, nearly square in shape, combines ease-of-work area and room for a family snack bar. The L-shaped counter area is convenient to the dining room.

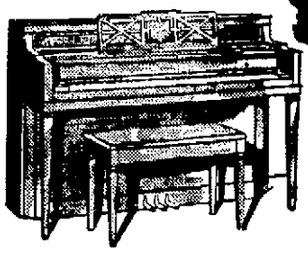

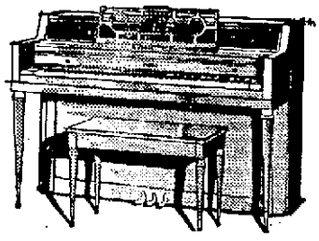

THROUGHOUT THIS comfortable, spacious home, full advantage is taken of the views at both the front and the back. The dining room captures the rear view through a huge bow window. The living room next to the master bedroom has a picture window nearly 10 feet wide. The master bedroom has corner windows—and the front bedrooms have full scale windows.

Should you wish to exploit the views from this trim house still further, build it on an elevated plot, or on top of a hill. You'll be living on top of the world!

Water Key to Cymbidium Success

By Joe Littlefield

RECENTLY we visited a garden-minded friend, and were amazed to see an exceptionally healthy-looking collection of potted cymbidium plants. They are the type of orchids that grow outdoors in partial shade. The blossoms last from three to five weeks and longer.

He's won many flower show prizes with huge chrysanthemums; large, beautiful, showy roses, carnations and other attractive flowers. From them he turned to growing cymbidiums and is one of the pioneer growers, having grown them for the past 15 years.

We asked him what his answer is to the common lament, "Why won't my cymbidium plants bloom?" His answer was most interesting. Perhaps, in the following comments, you may find an answer as to why your cymbidiums are undependable bloomers.

FOR A NUMBER of years this friend was successful in growing and flowering cymbidiums. About five years ago he noticed a decided decline in the growth of his plants, the narrowing down of foliage, regression of bulbs to smaller size, and fewer flowers. In many cases, no flowers at all!

He started to check into this trouble from several different angles. He tried several composts, fertilizers and methods of watering the plants. When he watered the plants heavily, they grew progressively worse.

Cymbidiums thrive when watered with distilled or rain water. "Bathing" in summer also is big help.

So he got the idea that it was a watering problem. He tried distilled water. Many months later, results from the distilled water-treated group of plants proved the trouble was with the water!

The metropolitan water he used contained excessive amounts of sodium salts. It's the sodium salts that are detrimental to those plants.

FROM THEN ON, he installed a deionizer. A deionizer simply removes all minerals, making it equivalent to rain water or distilled water.

We observed the results of his cymbidiums in pots which were watered with deionized water for a year. They showed tremendous progressive vigorous growth from the small bulbs and leaves to almost giant proportions.

This was the opposite of cymbidiums which he watered with metropolitan water. They showed regression, becoming smaller.

Now, if the compost soil that plants are growing in contains proper balance of minerals they won't need much supplemental feeding. This type of compost usually breaks down too soon, and requires more frequent repotting.

THE MORE advanced growers use a compost soil containing material such as fir bark and shredded redwood bark. This type of compost is very porous and requires regular feedings. Feed with a balanced fertilizer throughout the year. Remember, feeding is important and helpful if used in the right degree.

You must understand, so far, we've been discussing his pot culture cymbidiums. If you've had poor luck growing cymbidiums such as we described, you should use rain water in season, and distilled water the rest of the time for those plants. However, if the collection is large, definitely it would pay to install a deionizer.

Should you have cymbidiums growing in partial shade in open ground, and they are planted in a soil medium that is coarse and porous containing large quantities of bark fibers and wood shavings, the plants then have a higher tolerance to the sodium salts in metropolitan water.

IN THE OPEN outdoor bed, it is much easier to leach out the sodium salts that might build up in the plants' root zone area. Leaching means to periodically flood the soil to wash down any accumulation of the salts buildup.

GIBBERELLIN

The Greatest Plant Discovery Since the Days of LUTHER BURBANK

- Makes Geraniums Grow to Giants
- Jumps Rose Bushes 3 times normal height
- Sprouts Beans 8 inches in 24 hours
- Speeds Young Tree growth years in weeks

Not Treated — Gibberellin Treated

The greatest plant discovery since the days of Luther Burbank. Japanese and American biochemists working for 24 years have at last come up with a plant growth secret called GIBBERELLIN, a fantastic chemical that makes geraniums spring into GIANTS! Asters, petunias, poinsettias, dwarf dahlias leap to prize winning size, tomatoes rise to huge size in half the time of small tomatoes, celery that doubles stocks and leaf growth almost immediately, young trees acquire growth of years in weeks. Right now is the best season to use GIBBERELLIN. Whatever you have, a garden, a farm, flowers, plants or bushes you will find a ready need for GIBBERELLIN. The plain fact is until the advent of GIBBERELLIN, most plants, vegetables, and flowers rarely measured up to ordinary growth expected. But GIBBERELLIN brings miraculous plant growth results even in the hands of ten-year-olds!

ONLY 2.98 for a 15-gram package of powdered chemical. You pay only 3c per plant — since a 15-gram package treats 100 plants. You're paying more right now for so-called fertilizers which in most cases are worthless. You simply take the 15-gram powder package of GIBBERELLIN, drop it in a quart of water and you have a quart of GIBBERELLIN. Your cost is only $2.98—because you don't pay for free water.

You have seen it praised in Popular Mechanics, Science and Mech., The Farm Journal and your favorite Sunday garden sections and now it's available to you through ARMAND ENTERPRISES.

Send $2.98 in check or cash or money order (no C.O.D.) (plus 4% tax) . . . to

By Dorothy Jonson

Extreme heat breaks down the vitality of your plants just as it breaks down your own powers of resistance. In order to keep your plants healthy during the coming winter, be particular to continue your watering program generously until the time when we get rain. The average gardener, functioning according to the pattern of previous years, doesn't always remember that an additional contribution of moisture is necessary when the garden has suffered severe heat. And if that additional contribution of moisture is given regularly throughout the entire season, it will do a great deal to offset the injury done by the heat and will assist your plants (especially roses) through the winter months.

People ask what to do about worms that get on their fuchsias, chrysanthemums and other flowers. A spray combining malathion and dieldrin has been found highly satisfactory in destroying these pests without injuring the plants.

Mums for Color

Young chrysanthemums of many attractive varieties are available in nurseries throughout the state now. Because they are already blooming, or just about to bloom, they will add ready color to your garden if planted immediately. This lovely perennial is very popular, largely because the flowers are excellent for indoor decoration.

HOW TO Build a Bench from Plywood

1. SIMPLIFIED DESIGN takes top and apron from one sheet of plywood, 2x8 feet long. To make the bench, just follow dimensions, cut the pieces, assemble.

2. EXPLODED VIEW shows how pieces fit together. Ends of 2x4 frame braces are notched to fit notches cut in center and end blocks. Blocks must be large enough to accommodate flanges that hold tapered metal legs. Predrilled apron pieces and edging strips are screwed and nailed to blocks and top.

3. THESE 14 pieces are all you need to build the bench. Frame (1) includes 2x4 braces, 2x10 center block and two 2x6 end blocks. Top (2) and apron (3) are cut from one piece of ¾-inch plywood, 2 feet wide by 8 feet long. Facing strips (4) that trim the edges of the bench are of ¾-inch hardwood stock.

4. PLYWOOD apron does two big jobs—it hides frame pieces and welds bench into solid unit. Edging around bench top is nailed on last. To prepare bench surface for finish you've selected, fill all nail and screw holes with a wood filler and sand to silky smoothness. To prevent warping, it's a good idea to coat both top and bottom of the bench with a clear resin sealer. Steel-wool between finish coats.

5. METAL LEGS for bench are simple to attach. They come in kit complete with flanges, mounting screws and plastic tips to protect your floors. Buy the 14-inch length for best seating height. Or, if you prefer, there are wooden legs available you can stain or paint to harmonize with finish of the bench. Here, again, it's easier to get flanges fastened straight if you prebore the screw holes.

AL MOFFET

That Service Is Mercurial

A FELLOW sat down the other day in a booth at the big Chicken Pie Shop, 737 Pine Ave., ordered a chicken pie dinner and asked the waitress if she would serve him as quickly as possible because he had to catch a plane for San Diego.

Exactly 60 seconds later, the waitress brought him a big chicken pie with loads of chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, fresh biscuits with butter and honey, a cup of steaming coffee and for dessert a homemade apple cobbler.

"Wow!" exclaimed the patron, a middle-aged business man. "I'd heard that the service was fast here—but I sure didn't think it was this fast!"

Sixty-second service is by no means a rare occurrence at the Chicken Pie Shop. It happens quite frequently when a patron asks his waitress to put on an extra burst of speed. The average guest gets his food within two or three minutes, and even when the place is mobbed it doesn't take longer than five minutes for the waitress to arrive with her tray of good things to eat.

INCIDENTALLY, that businessman exclaimed "Wow!" again when he got his check. The price for all that fine food was only 90 cents. The shop's chicken noodle and chicken giblets dinners are also only 90 cents. The cube steak dinner is 99 cents and for $1.25 you can enjoy a ham dinner.

Owner of the shop is Al Moffet, a friendly man with a particular talent for pleasing people. Assisted by his brother Hank and a large staff, Al sells over 8,000 chicken pies a week. All the pies (featuring a light crust and big chunks of chicken) are made on the premises. Hank also runs the shop's wonderful take-home department and delicatessen which feature imported delicacies, tricky salads and sliced cold meats.

The shop is open daily and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

I'll always remember . . .

My newspaperboy days

by BRIG. GEN. DAVID SARNOFF

This being National Newspaper Week, my thoughts return to the time when I was a newspaperboy on the bustling streets of New York. I was 9 and had been in America two days. My mother, four younger children and I had come from Europe to join my father, an earlier arrival. So on a hot July day in 1900, almost before we had unpacked our meager belongings, I began peddling papers to help our struggling family.

I remember gazing up with awe, a bundle of papers under my arm, at The World's Pulitzer Building, highest in the city. And I still remember some of the headlines I called in my broken English: "King Humbert of Italy Assassinated" . . . "U.S. Marines in Peking" . . . "Galveston Hurricane and Tidal Wave Take 6,000 Lives."

When school started I got up at 4 a.m. to deliver my papers. After the last class, I went out with a fresh bundle. Then, in five years, I proudly opened my own newsstand. By this time I had decided I wanted to be a reporter. One day when I was 15 I screwed up my courage and went to the Herald office.

In the marble and glass entrance I stopped the first man who looked like an editor. "I want a job," I blurted. "What kind of a job?" he asked. "Any kind." He studied me a minute. "Fine. Come in tomorrow. Your pay will be five dollars a week."

The next day I got a surprise. The "editor" turned out to be manager of the Postal Telegraph on the first floor. My work was delivering telegrams. But the pay looked big, so I turned my newspaperboy job over to a young brother and took it.

Well, I wasn't a reporter. But I was still in the world of communications, a world which became my life. You may say I stumbled into my career by accident. But I never would have had that "accident" had I not first had the good fortune to be a newspaperboy. ■

On Parade

Today — and with the first issue of every month — PARADE uses this column to present a special service to readers. It's a checklist of what we consider tops in current and forthcoming books, records, movies, TV shows — or anything else we think should be brought to your attention. Here's what we place "At the Head of the Parade" in October:

• Television: Today don't miss Bob Hope's first "special" of the season (NBC). Recommended for October 13: Mickey Rooney doing Pinocchio (NBC); for October 18: the opening session of the new Frank Sinatra show (ABC); for October 20: "The Life of Winston Churchill," first of the new 26-week documentary series, The Twentieth Century (CBS).

• Movies: Raintree County, three-hour epic with Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor, Eva Marie Saint, based on Ross Lockridge's prize-winning novel . . . Until They Sail, a moving love story set in wartime New Zealand, with Jean Simmons, Paul Newman, Joan Fontaine . . . Sayonara, with Marlon Brando, adapted from James Michener's novel.

• Books: Operation Sea Lion, by Peter Fleming (Simon & Schuster, $5), a fascinating chronicle of Hitler's plan to invade Britain in 1940 . . . Bat Masterson, by Richard O'Connor (Doubleday, $3.75), authentic biography of the great Wild West Sheriff who wound up a New York newspaperman.

• Records: Satchmo (Decca LP, $19.50), four-record "musical autobiography" of the great Louis Armstrong . . . The Five Beethoven Concertos (RCA Victor LP, $15.98), with Arthur Rubinstein at the piano and Josef Krips leading the Symphony of the Air.

Just don't overdo it

Go easy on "easy terms" when you buy a car, because the longer you pay, the more you pay. It's wiser to pay down as much as you comfortably can, then pay the balance as soon as you can. On the GMAC Plan you get terms arranged to suit your needs—at reasonable cost. It's the way over 2,000,000 families bought their cars last year. How To Help Your Baby Enjoy Eating

Does your baby wiggle with joy when he spies food coming his way? To help your little one welcome mealtimes from the very beginning, try these tips: Serve meals promptly when baby is hungry. Let him decide how much he wants to eat. Be sure baby is comfortable when he's eating. Meals served in mother's or daddy's arms suit a little baby best.

● Heinz makes it easy to please your little beginner. In our exclusive baby-food kitchens, located in the nation's garden spots, Heinz specialists carefully select the pick of each crop and pack it at flavor peak. That's how Heinz Baby Foods—over 80 kinds altogether—get their famous better color, perfect texture and finer flavor.

● When the doctor says baby may start Strained Foods, offer a variety of good flavors and textures. But stay with one baby likes, for a week or more, before you try switching to another.

● Expecting someone new in your family? Congratulations! We'd be delighted to send you, free, an authoritative new book for expectant parents, "The ABC's of Prenatal Care." This reassuring book answers hundreds of questions, and gives good practical help. Another book you'll be needing: Heinz "Feeding Guide for a Healthy Happy Baby." It includes sample menus, feeding ideas, pages for baby's records, etc. Write Heinz Baby Foods, Box 28, D-23, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

● Big breakfast news: Heinz Strained Cereal-Egg Yolks-and-Bacon, a hearty breakfast in one jar. It satisfies baby's big early-morning appetite easily, at your busiest time of day! This new Heinz Exclusive combines enriched farina, wheat germ, nutritious eggs and tasty bacon. Comes in a Junior-food version, too.

● Can baby play safely in your kitchen? Check these points: Are pot handles turned in, where curious hands can't reach them? Are sharp knives kept high? Are low cupboards bare of baby hazards? Remember: cleaning fluids, moth balls, sprays and many common household items are poisonous.

● Friends from the start: this baby and her Daddy, and her Heinz Strained Orange Juice she enjoyed from the very first swallow! Heinz Orange Juice is made from fat tree-ripened oranges—finely strained and flash-pasteurized. No other orange juice—fresh, canned or frozen—contains less peel oil or seed protein. That's why babies love Heinz Orange Juice—and can digest it so easily.

● Your newborn has no chin? Don't worry, that's no sign he has a weak character! It's nature's plan; little babies have little chins so they can nurse more easily. A big jaw would be a handicap to sucking (and that's your newborn's greatest satisfaction, as well as his only way of eating—till he meets a spoon). But baby's jaw develops fast. When he has teeth—upstairs and down—he'll have a chin (or two!).

When you're 70, sometimes youngsters can get you down.

Add 'em up—1,452 years!

by MIKE SULLIVAN

A man in Georgetown, Ky., raised eyebrows thereabouts by taking out a five-year subscription to a local newspaper. Reason: He was 106 years old.

• • •

In a Kenosha, Wis., home for the aged, a 70-year-old man resented a remark by a 65-year-old companion, hit him with a glass jar, knocked him over a table, then announced: "I'm not taking that kind of talk from younger boys!"

• • •

Retirement? Not for an up-and-coming citizen of Chamberlain, S.D. At 95, he was reappointed to another four-year term as a U.S. Commissioner.

• • •

For the 73rd consecutive year, a man in Mechanic Falls, Me., trained a horse this season for the Oxford County Fair. The trainer is 91.

• • •

When young love cooled for an 83-year-old woman in Muskegon, Mich., she divorced her 76-year-old husband. Reason: He had deserted her in 1928.

• • •

A horse and buggy driven by a 72-year-old man in Freeman, S.D., was hit by a model-A Ford. The horse broke its leg, had to be shot — but its driver was unscratched.

• • •

The owner of an antique shop in Bryn Mawr, Pa., wasn't so lucky. Still bicycling to work at 78, he was hit by a car, injured slightly.

• • •

In Julesburg, Colo., a motorist of 72 got his first traffic ticket — a warning that his ancient jalopy had straddled a parking line. He was so tickled with the ticket that he had it framed.

• • •

On her 100th birthday, a Philadelphia woman was asked the secret of her longevity. Her frank reply: "I don't know how I ever got this way."

• • •

A 100-year-old woman in West Hartford, Conn., however, had a formula: "Take as good care of yourself as you do of your automobile."

• • •

And a younger lady of 97 in Springfield, Mass., offered this debatable recipe for growing old gracefully: "Hard work never killed anybody."

• • •

When a new bank was opened in Goodrich, Mich., an 85-year-old man celebrated the occasion with a bang. He set off a firecracker he'd been saving since 1908.

• • •

In Sheboygan, Mich., a youngster of 76 made rhubarb pies from plants which, he estimated, were 49 years older than he was.

• • •

In Seymour, Ind., a 93-year-old man decided his house needed repainting — so he painted it.

• • •

Another 93-year-old in Coalgate, Okla., admitted age was creeping up. Hospitalized with a broken hip, he said every limb had been broken "one to three times — but I've never been hospitalized before!" ■

PRINCESS CHARLOTTE, Prince Rainier's mother, poses beside a sports car.

The odd hobby of the

Princess of Monaco

MARCHAIS, FRANCE.

A recent visitor to this village in northern France learned two interesting facts: 1) It is one of the four homes of Princess Charlotte Grimaldi, 60-year-old mother of Prince Rainier of Monaco and mother-in-law of Grace Kelly; 2) The Princess has a most unusual and dangerous charity.

The charity involves calling at French jails for likely parole candidates. When the Princess finds a prisoner she thinks she can rehabilitate, she asks the authorities to release him in her custody. She then puts the parolee to work in one of her villas, assuming all responsibility.

Until recently the Princess' private parole and rehabilitation system worked well. (She has four ex-prisoners working on her estate here.) A few weeks ago, however, it struck a snag. Princess Charlotte brought suit to evict René Girier, 38-year-old safecracker once known as the Raffles of France. She told the court she no longer could supervise Girier's daily activities and no longer would be responsible for him.

The news shocked townspeople here, because the Princess and René Girier had been most friendly since they first met in Laon jail in 1955. At that time the scholarly-looking Girier was serving 20 years for armed robbery. The Princess said she could rehabilitate him into a useful citizen. Soon she set him up in her beautiful villa 35 miles from Rheims, announcing that she had made him her private chauffeur.

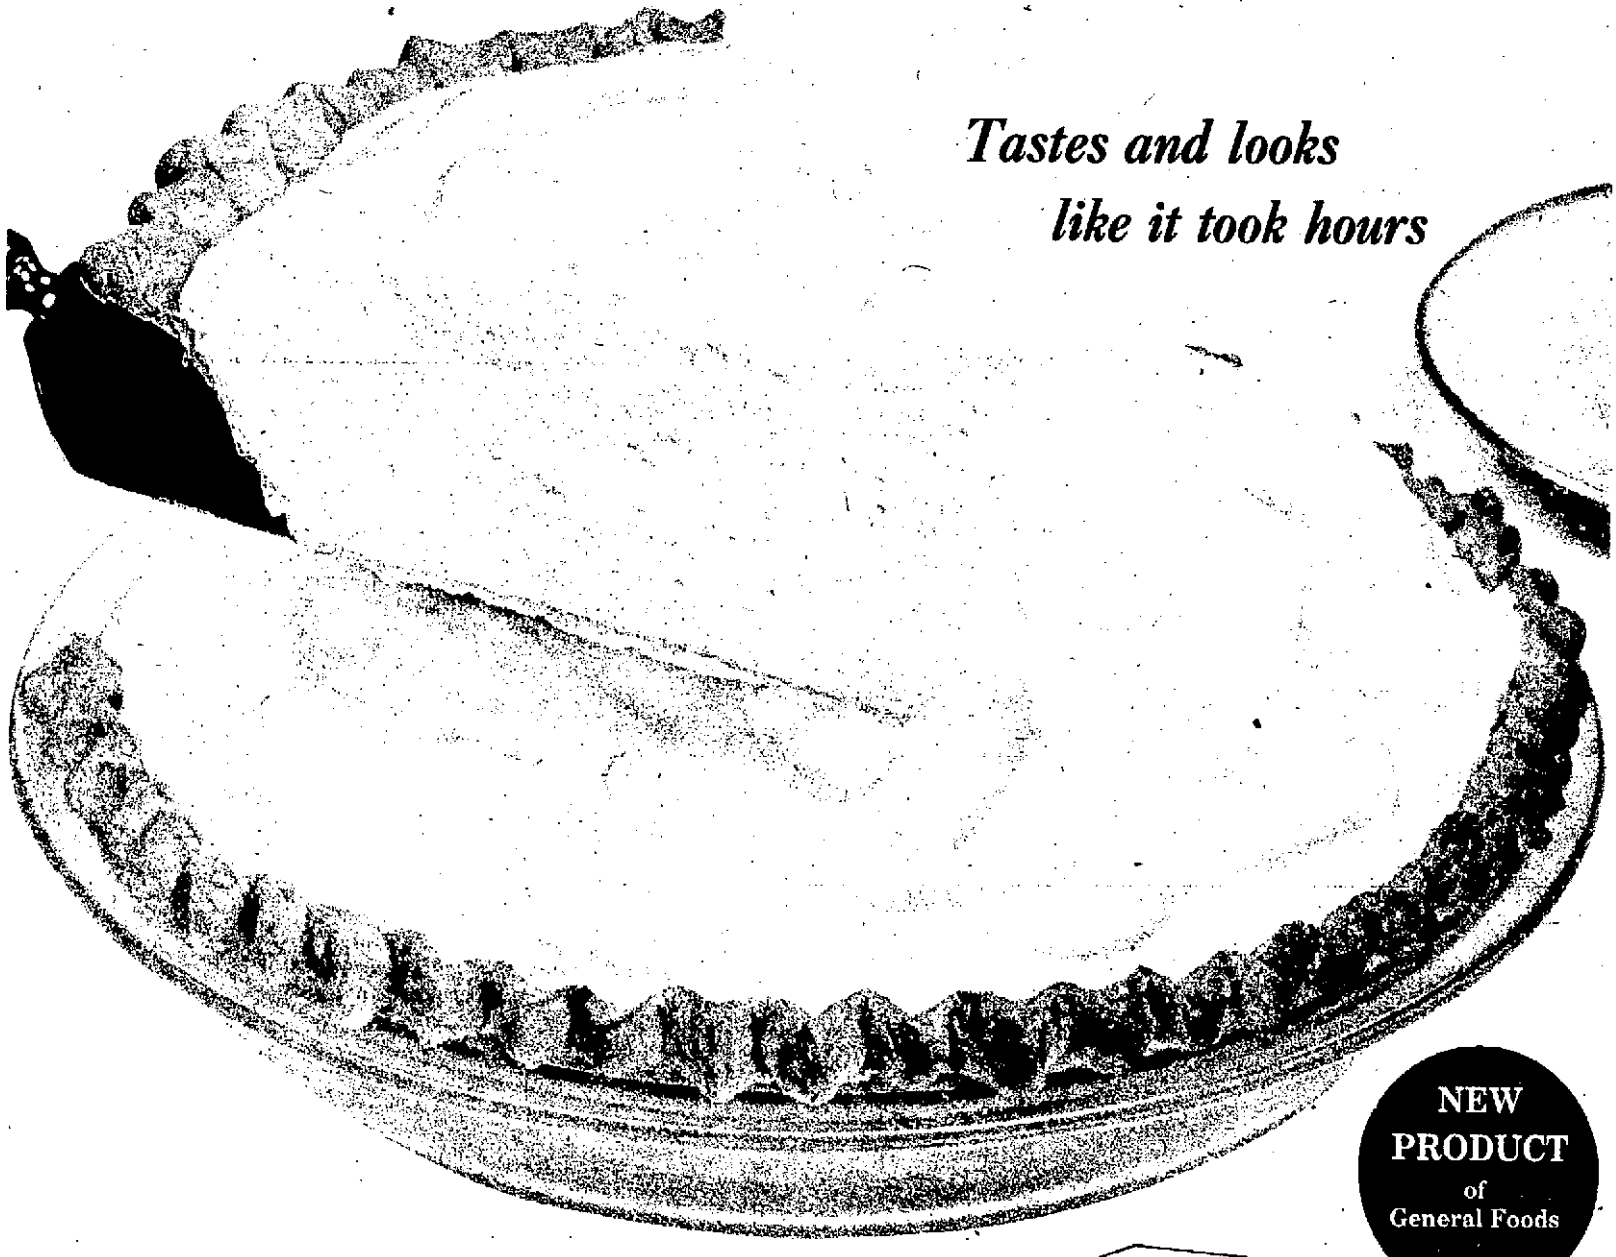

When her son married Grace Kelly in Monaco, the Princess had Girier drive her to the wedding. Presently, when he smashed up the car and his license was revoked, she hired another chauffeur to drive him. To help her parolee further, she placed him as manager of a book shop in Rheims.

But this past summer something happened between the charitable Princess and the ex-thief. Whatever the reason, the Princess has washed her hands of Girier. He in turn is sad and disillusioned. "Once she throws me out of her house," he sighs, "I am without a responsible domicile. Then they come and put me in jail."

Will all this dissuade Princess Charlotte from further efforts at personal prisoner rehabilitation? Locally, you can get a bet either way. ■

AN EXCITING, AUTHORITATIVE FORECAST OF...

Medicine's next

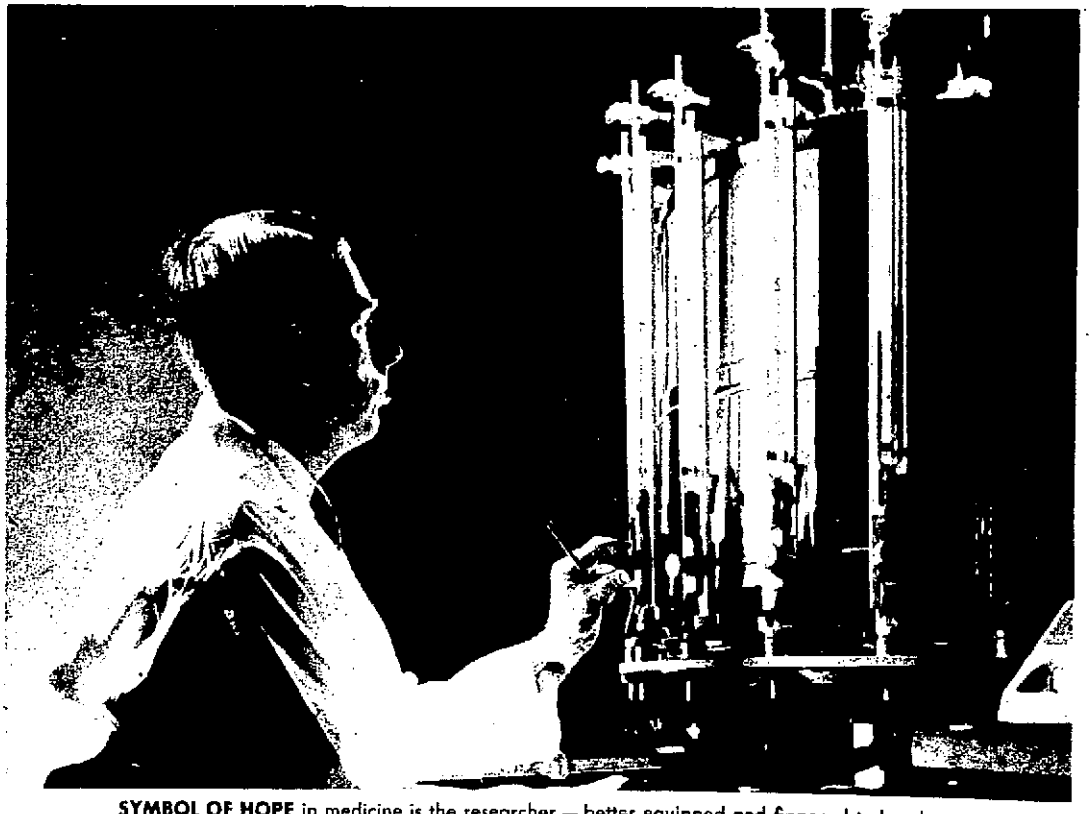

In just 10 years, medicine has chalked up amazing victories with cortisone, tranquilizers, broad-range antibiotics, drugs to combat TB, the Salk anti-polio vaccine and other new discoveries. All have alleviated pain. All have shortened hospital stays. Indeed, more than 1,200,000 Americans owe their lives to the achievements of "medicine's golden decade."

But what of the next 10 years? Do they hold as much promise? PARADE asked medical research experts throughout the U. S. Their answer: The decade ahead holds more hope than ever against heart disease, cancer, mental illness and other disorders.

On these pages is a timetable of medical breakthroughs — the great forward strides you will be reading about tomorrow. Each breakthrough will mean better care, soon or in the predictable future, for you or someone you know.

The timetable is based on many calculations: pres-

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

SYMBOL OF HOPE in medicine is the researcher — better equipped and financed today than ever before.

PENICILLIN REACTIONS — 1957

About 650,000 Americans are sensitive to penicillin; the number grows yearly. When such persons receive the drug, painful hives and itching result. But just this week a new drug, the only one of its kind, was announced. It prevents the allergic reaction by removing penicillin from the system. In early tests, the drug has produced near-miracle results in hours in some cases. It probably will be available for use by doctors by November.

BLOOD CLOTS — 1958

In a half dozen or more ailments, blood clots cause pain and inflammation and even may endanger life itself. The clots form in blood vessels of legs, arms, the face and other parts of the body. Present anticoagulant drugs do not dissolve blood clots; they simply act to prevent further clots from forming. Now a new drug, not yet made public, promises to be the first medication that actually can dissolve clots once they are formed. Doctors probably will begin using it on phlebitis and other blood-clot-inflammatory disorders.

LUNG VIRUSES — 1959

Virus research is the fastest-moving field of medicine. Viruses thought to be involved in virus pneumonia and certain forms of bronchitis have been isolated in the laboratory. These findings, too, are yet to be announced; but scientists definitely are excited about them. In addition, viruses thought to be responsible for some cases of croup in children have been isolated. The strong implication: Vaccines are on the way to give protection — especially to children — against two or three major disorders.

MEASLES VACCINE — 1960

This is another of the predictable victories in the virus field. Work is proceeding to develop a vaccine against victories

ent studies; accumulated knowledge; the fact that medical research now can call on more scientists (about 50,000 of them) and more money (about $300,000,000 a year) than ever before in history.

At best, prediction is a hazardous and tricky business. The timetable may be off a year or more in one or another category. But you can be sure of this: Sooner or later, you will benefit from the great advances outlined here.

1957	Penicillin reactions	1963	Diabetes
1958	Blood clots	1964	Alcoholism
1959	Some virus infections	1965	Sterility
1960	Measles vaccine	1966	Schizophrenia
1961	"Behavior" drugs	1967	Certain cancers
1962	Hardening of the arteries	1968	Whole organ transplants

TIMETABLE of discovery: in these medical fields experts foresee breakthroughs leading to improved care of patients.*

measles (non-German type). The virus has been isolated. Best bet: By 1960 we will have a vaccine that will protect against a type of measles which now affects more than 600,000 Americans annually, can lead to serious bacterial complications and occasionally proves fatal

MENTAL "BEHAVIOR" DRUGS — 1961

Today we have tranquilizers to "quiet down" the emotionally disturbed patient, other drugs to lift the spirits of the depressed. The next step: drugs to alter your behavior by helping you adapt to everyday stress. Says one expert: "In all probability, we will have drugs which will induce — very subtly — healthy, social reactions to problem situations. Thus, the individual's natural abilities to adapt will be bolstered."

HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES — 1962

Today, doctors suspect that somehow fatty acids in the system are involved in arteriosclerosis, the nation's No. 1 killer. By 1962, you can expect a breakthrough in this controversial field of research. Until now, doctors have been unable to study the chemistry of the body completely. They have been hobbled because only 70 per cent of the body fluids involved could be identified. But beginning this year, researchers will be able to study the "hidden" 30 per cent. New, revolutionary laboratory equipment makes the intensified search possible. In five years the way may be open to prevention of the disease and better care for those who already have it.

DIABETES — 1963

This year the first anti-diabetes drug taken by mouth was made available. It represented the first basic advance against diabetes in more than a generation. Today, more researchers than ever are seeking clues to the cause of diabetes, which still is unknown. Good bet: Researchers will make a fundamental breakthrough. Perhaps they will not hit upon the cause, but you can look for a real advance, possibly on the preventive side.

ALCOHOLISM — 1964

Scientists know that, to the problem drinker, alcohol is a narcotic. He must have it or he suffers "withdrawal symptoms" not unlike those experienced by a heroin or morphine addict. Recently doctors have become enthusiastic about a new finding in alcoholism. Apparently, a certain enzyme (a substance that speeds chemical actions in the body) is overproduced in the bodies of alcoholics. The researchers hope to find a way to neutralize the enzyme, or somehow reduce its production chemically. Says one expert: "If I had to bet on it, I'd put my money on alcoholism as yielding to discovery in the near future."

STERILITY — 1965

Today more than 5,000,000 American couples want children, yet remain childless. Now doctors have isolated a certain hormone which will stimulate ovulation in the female and sperm production in the male. However, a way must be found to make the hormone synthetically if it is to be manufactured for mass use. The prospect is that this hormone probably will be synthesized by 1965.

SCHIZOPHRENIA — 1966

This is the most serious of all mental disorders; it fills about 50 per cent of today's mental-hospital beds. Recent studies, though, indicate that there is something in the blood of a schizophrenic which makes him prone to the disorder. With this lead, experts expect to solve the mystery of the disease. Never has there been so much optimism concerning a breakthrough against "split personality" as there is at this moment.

CANCER — 1967

Cancer, of course, is not a single disease, but perhaps a dozen disorders which appear in different forms. In this field, there is extreme caution. A widespread feeling: Cancer chemotherapy — that is, use of chemicals to kill the disease organisms — will pay off in 10 years. Most hopeful area: leukemia.

Also likely by 1967: a much better understanding of the role of viruses in cancer. For example, one scientific team has just showed that viruses can be involved in mouth cancers.

WHOLE ORGAN TRANSPLANTS — 1968

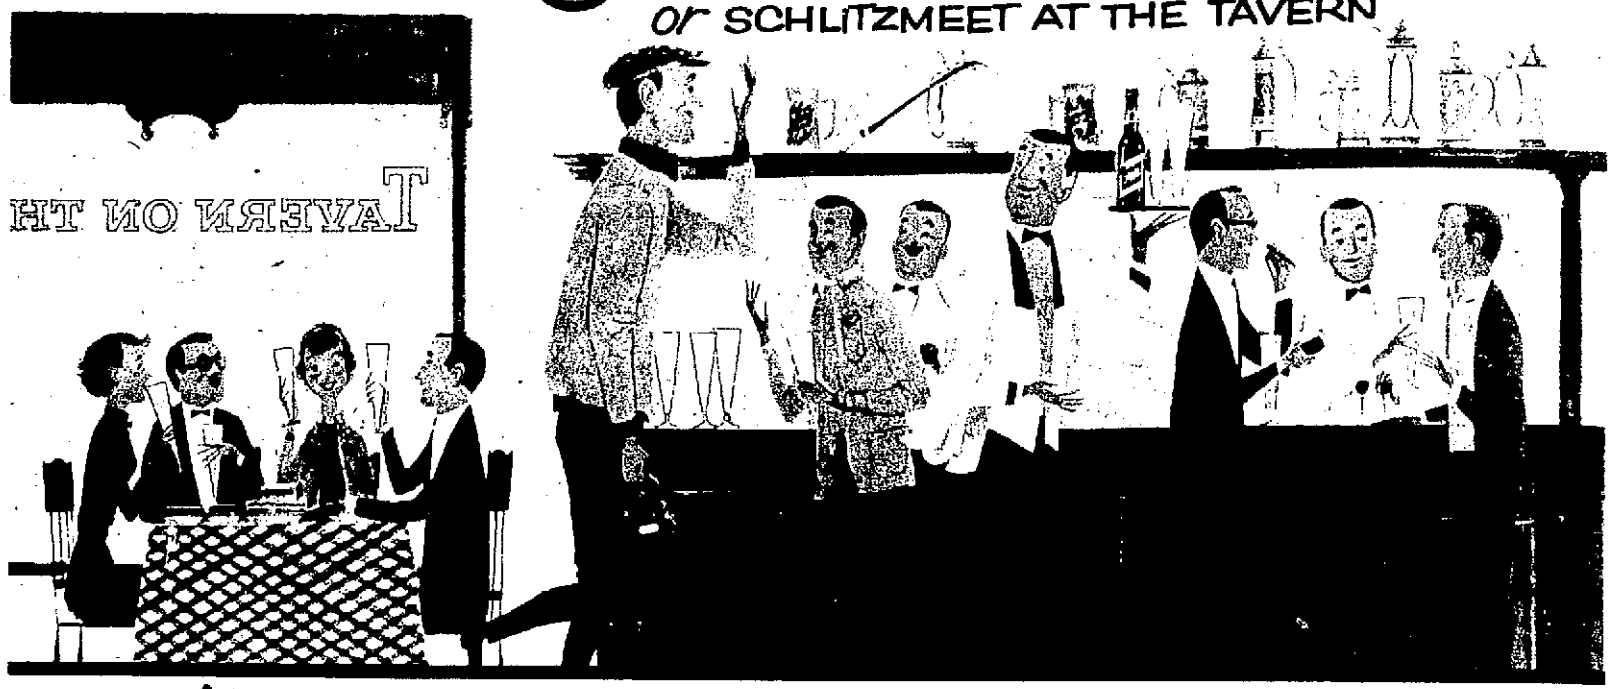

For the past three years, kidneys have been transplanted from one identical twin to another. A few lives have been prolonged by transplants of the thyroid gland from dead infants to adults. The big stumbling block is that non-identical twins and other unrelated persons resist transplants. But doctors hope to break the enigma of the resistance factor and thus make possible life-saving transplants for all who need them.

Research will probe still other medical mysteries: the relation of the central nervous system to heart and other diseases; whether some people are naturally immune to cancer and how the immunity works; ways to reduce the death rate among newborn infants and the number of "birth failures"—crippled newborn; the cause of high blood pressure; the basic nature of the aging process, whereby, for example, some people are physically "old" at 35, others comparatively young at 65. Look for vast strides in these and other fields in the years ahead.

That is the timetable. Of course, skeptics will look down their noses. But in 1947, you could have predicted cortisone, Salk vaccine and a good many more "medical miracles" that skeptics would have termed preposterous. And you would have been right! ■

Rules of the roost

They may not work—but the man keeps trying

by DICK EMMONS

Around our house, a dim, cavelike structure hollowed out of a large, overhanging mortgage, we live by a set of fairly strict regulations. One of these is a general order to leave the funny papers strictly alone on Sunday afternoon, because Daddy is under them.

Another, known formally as the Emmons Code of Ethical Behavior, is that every man aboard is expected to perform his or her assigned duties without shirking.

I had this one written into the bylaws a while back when my attention was drawn to a serious case of buck-passing, or, more exactly, bike-passing. This breach involved Ann, our 8-year-old, who suddenly developed the habit-forming habit of leaving her bike outdoors for someone else to put in the garage. Nine times out of nine, I was the someone.

"Now we're getting somewhere," I applauded after our family council had voted three to two in favor of assigning duties so that one person would be held responsible for things left undone. (The two negative votes came from Davie and Dickie, the 4-year-old twins, who opposed the motion because it said nothing about oatmeal cookies.)

A List — and a List

My wife, Helen, and I immediately sat down to prepare lists of the things we felt we should be solely accountable for. Her list, which seemed suitable enough to me, included such things as general housework, cooking and supervision over the children during the daylight hours. For myself, I set down specific rather than vague duties:

"Beating all rugs less than four by six feet in size; churning the butter; maintaining the pump and cistern, if we should get one; watching for leaks in the back-porch roof; seeing to it that any snow which drifts down the chimney does not pile up on the hearth."

For some reason this flabbergasted my normally affectionate bride. "I don't suppose you would consider tearing off the calendar pages once a month?" she asked tartly. "Possibly you could wedge that in between vigils on the back porch."

I smiled understandingly. Then, being basically a generous sort, I agreed to perform certain other household tasks, including cleaning up my basement workshop at regular intervals.

With this performance pact in effect, our ship of state sailed smoothly for several days. As there seemed to be very little butter to churn, or snow on the hearth, I employed my leisure time fashioning a pair of bookcases for my den. Concentrating on producing a professional-looking job, I momentarily overlooked the assigned task of tidying up after an evening's work.

Careful There, Dear

My wife, coming downstairs uninvited as I was putting the third coat of varnish on, accidently tripped over a length of board and came up, distraught, her hair full of wood shavings.

"It occurs to me that keeping the basement neat and free from obstructions was the one practical duty you agreed to perform!" she rasped.

Trapped, I searched frantically for a way out — and found it. "I would have cleaned up," I stammered, "but I was so eager to finish these things — for you!"

"For me? I thought you said you were making bookcases for your den?"

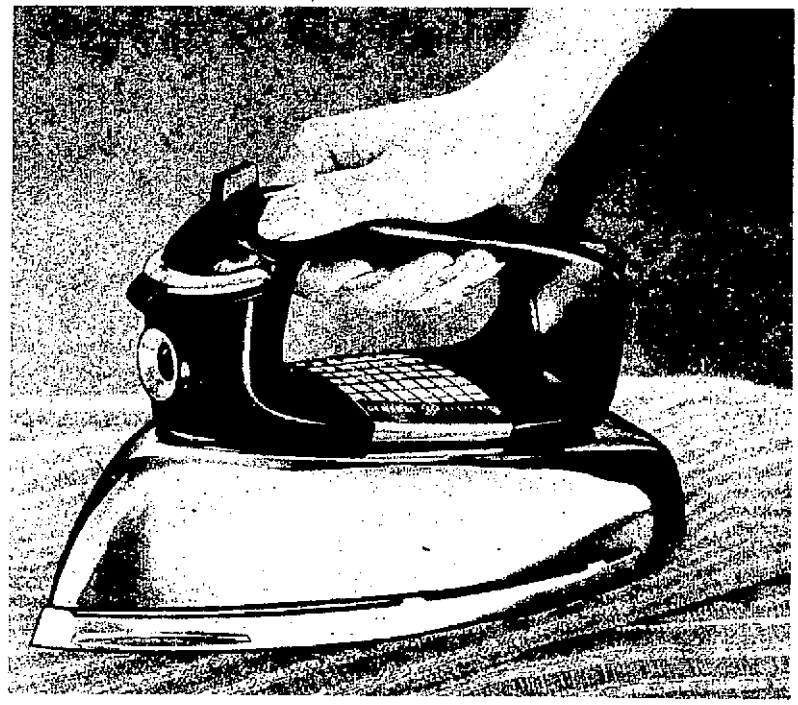

I chuckled hastily. "A mere cover-up. A subterfuge. Actually, they are shelves for your preserves closet."

"In that case, forget what I just said," she murmured, slipping her arms around my neck.

All of which proves that rules are made to be broken and bookcases are made to hold currant jelly. ■

These embassy daughters lead story-book lives

Washington's 'fairy princesses'

by FRED BLUMENTHAL Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

This is the capital of a democracy, but no princess, real or fabled, ever lived such a life as a select group of local girls—the daughters of foreign ambassadors to the U.S.

Their fathers, often wealthy to begin with, get plush expense allowances. As a result, these girls live in magnificent mansions, with spiraling marble staircases, soaring ballrooms, spacious dining rooms glistening in crystal and gold. They have dazzling wardrobes, the pick of shops in Paris, New York and Washington. They help direct staffs of servants, are floated around town in chauffeur-driven limousines.

Invitations clutter their morning mail in this party-loving capital. Dates? They have their pick of poised young diplomats or dashing military and naval officers.

Yet, surprisingly, most of the girls are determined to lead useful, satisfying lives. Below and on following pages, PARADE picks six examples to show you what a democracy's "fairy princesses" are really like.

CHILE'S Josephine Puga, 23, is a newcomer to Washington; her parents arrived here only this spring. An expert pianist (having studied classical music since she was 6), she's also a painter of near-professional quality. Her favorite colors are black and white. ("Mother," she says, "tells me I dress like a widow.") Each morning Josephine goes to market to do the embassy's food buying — up to $100 worth a day. She's now studying social work here, hopes to enter that field when she goes back to her native country.

Their interests range from politics to parties and from Ike to Elvis Presley

SWEDEN'S Monica Boheman, 24, was born in Paris and baptized in Turkey, lived in Poland, England, France and Greece before whisking into Washington six years ago. She speaks fluent English, French and Spanish, just as fluently plays the guitar. (She loves American folk songs.) One of her biggest thrills so far: meeting President Eisenhower.

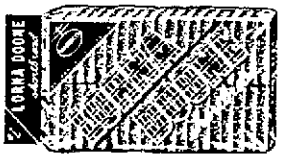

URUGUAY'S Susana Rodriguez Nery, 19, is the stepdaughter of Dr. José Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States. She lives in a palatial home in the heart of Washington (two blocks from the White House), follows politics on the Potomac with a professional's eye. She's a great admirer of President Eisenhower (she collects Ike campaign buttons), Ernest Hemingway, hi-fi music, cha-cha dancing, and — "I'm not ashamed of it" — Elvis Presley. Born in Uruguay, she's lived here 11 years, is taking liberal arts and interior decoration at Marymount College.

BELGIUM'S Patricia McMahon, 16 (see cover), actually is an American. (Her father was the late Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut). She became a Washington "princess" when her mother married Ambassador Baron Silvercruys. Patty attends a fashionable girls' school here, edits the school newspaper. A lover of embassy parties, she also has a serious side: She wants to tour the Belgian Congo soon, be a lawyer when she grows up.

SPAIN'S Mercedes Areilza, 19, is a graceful, brown-eyed blonde who has proved a great help to her father as a part-time social secretary. One reason: She can type out invitations in English, Spanish, German and French. Away from the typewriter, she enjoys reading (mostly the classics), painting. Mercedes has one burning ambition — to join the Spanish diplomatic corps — but she admits it's unlikely she'll follow in her father's footsteps. "No women are allowed to be diplomats in Spain," she explains. "I guess that's because we talk too much."

NORWAY'S Solveig Morgenstierne, 19 and strawberry blonde, is a recent graduate of a Washington secretarial school, now works in the office of Rep. D.S. Saund (Calif.). Shy and introspective, Solveig has spent several vacations swimming and painting at her family's summer cabin in the Norwegian mountains. More recently, however, she spent some time teaching Norwegian to an American naval officer. Born in the United States, she expects eventually to take out American citizenship.

You can save a lot of calories by sweetening with Sucaryl

and you can't taste the difference

WEIGHT WATCHERS' CRANBERRY BAKED APPLES

6 medium red cooking apples
2 cups cranberries
2 tablespoons Sucaryl solution
½ cup water

Set oven at 450°F. Core apples and pare one-third of the way down. Place in a shallow baking dish. Combine the remaining ingredients in a small saucepan and cook until berries pop. Fill center of each apple with a tablespoon of the cooked cranberries; pour remainder over apples. Cover with aluminum foil and bake for 20 minutes. Remove foil and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

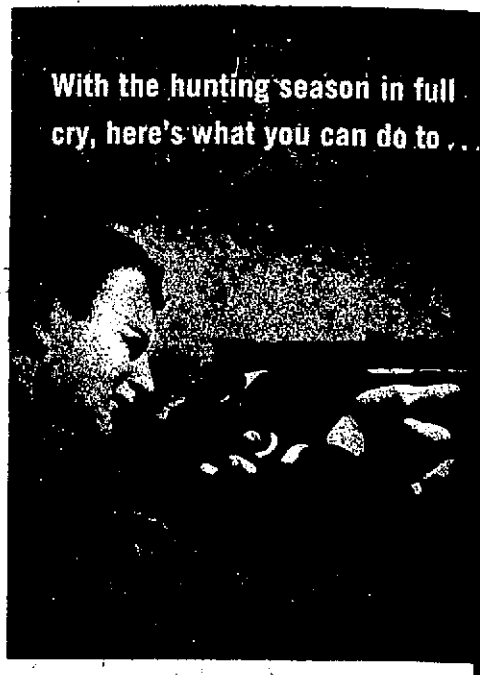

Sucaryl makes it easier for you to watch your weight . . . by giving you wholly natural sweetness without bitter aftertaste, without one single calorie.

You use Sucaryl practically anywhere you would sugar . . . in coffee, tea or any other drink . . . on fruits and cereals. Cook with it, bake with it; any Sucaryl-sweetened dish tastes just like its sugar-sweetened twin. Sucaryl, of course, is for anyone sensibly counting calories, and for those who cannot take sugar. Your drugstore has Sucaryl in tablets or solution. Low-salt diets call for Sucaryl Calcium. Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill. and Montreal, Can. Abbott

Non-Caloric Sweetener—No Bitter Aftertaste

by EDWARD D. FALES, JR.

It's fall — and a young boy's fancy turns to thoughts of hunting. But unless you do something to prevent it, death may go into the woods with him. A recent report by the National Rifle Association discloses that nearly half of all fall hunting accidents involve boys under 20.

What can you do? The answer is simple. Just make sure your son has a "diploma"—certifying he knows how to handle a gun safely—granted by the NRA or some other qualified instructor.

The NRA course is free. It takes only four hours. And it works. In California, trained teen-agers have proved 19 times safer than non-trained hunters. Of 17,000 youths who took the course, only three had accidents.

To take the course, your boy will need a .22 rifle, 15 bullets and a few cents for targets. The NRA-trained instructor will teach him:

- To shoot accurately.
- Never to climb a fence while carrying a gun. (See box at right.)
- Never to plug a gun barrel with a cork to keep it clean (since a boy may fire the gun without taking out the cork, causing the barrel to explode in his face).
- Never to take a "sound shot" (a blind shot at game, figuring the location by the sound it's making).

Where to Go

How does a boy (or an adult, if he so desires) get to take the course? More than a dozen states now are cooperating with the NRA in giving the courses; ask any warden or license-issuer and he'll direct you. If you live in a state not part of the program, write to the NRA at 1600 Rhode Island Ave., Washington, D.C., for courses in your area.

Your son's life — or yours — may depend on it. Reported one California youth: "Over and over it had been drilled into me by the NRA to hold my fire till I was positive I was aiming at game. Well, one day I spotted a ring-necked pheasant. I could clearly see the red wattles on its neck. It bobbed, moved a little, bobbed again.

"But I held my fire till I got a closer look. Suddenly the pheasant rose straight up six feet, pushed aside some boughs and walked toward me. It was another hunter. Those red wattles were the collar of his red shirt. If I hadn't taken that course, he'd be a dead man today."

Keep your son alive

What every boy should know about guns

Before any boy—or adult—goes hunting with a gun, he should know the answers to these three questions:

1) How do you climb over a fence while hunting?

2) If you pull the trigger and the gun fails to fire, what do you do?

3) What 10 things are the main causes of gun accidents?

Answers

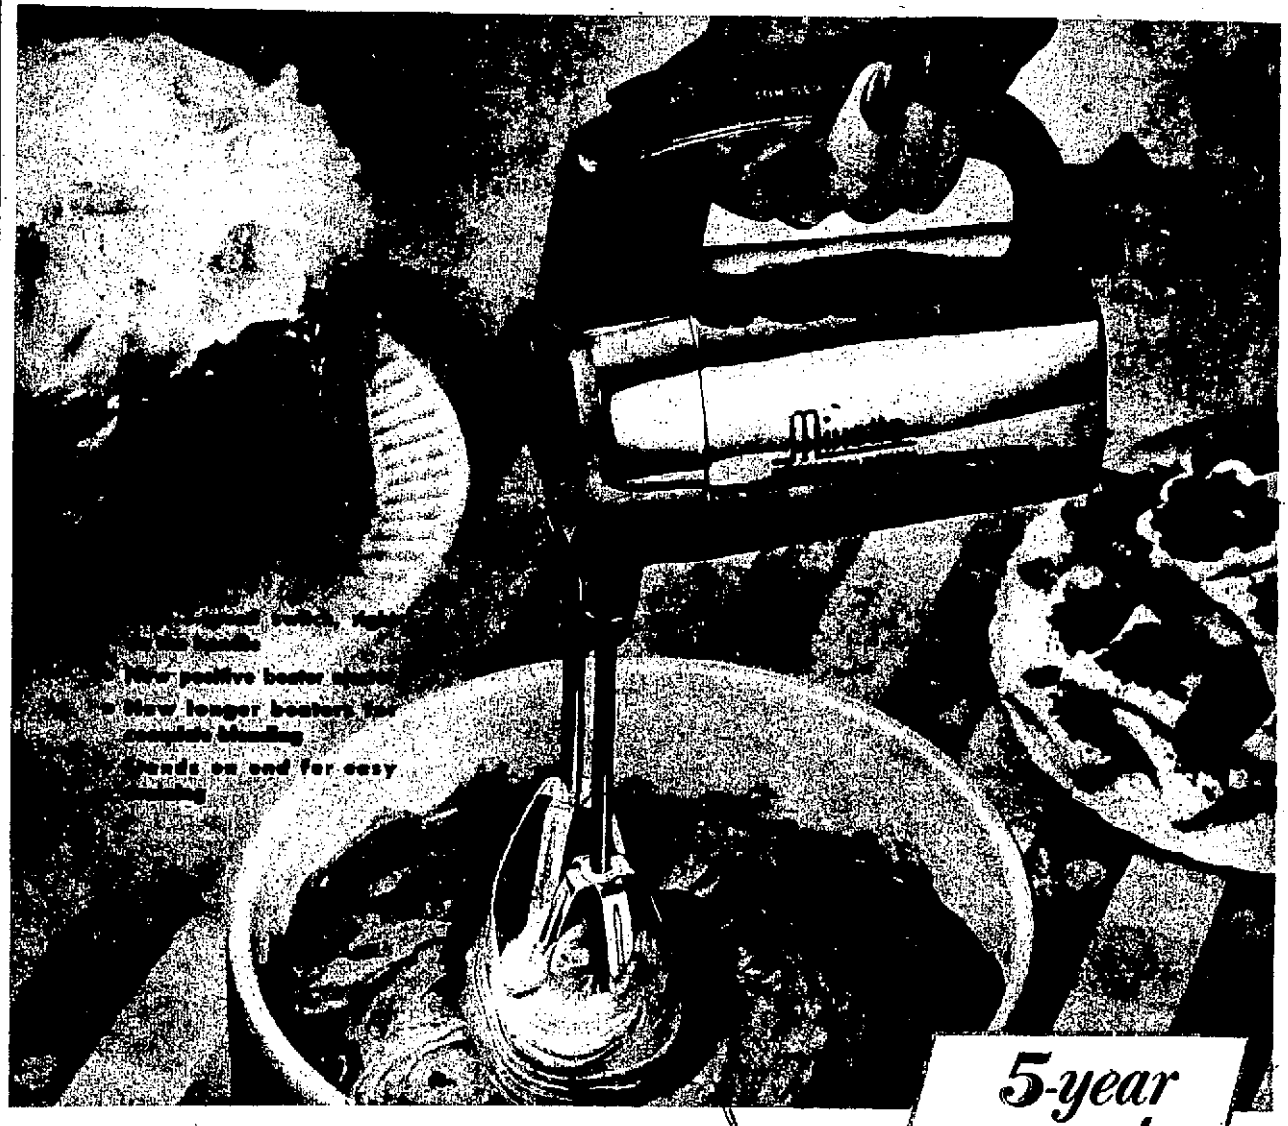

1) First, unload the gun. Second, lay it down. Third, point the muzzle away from you and your companions. (Never assume a gun is empty.) Fourth, climb over the fence and pick up the gun. Fifth, open the gun and see if there's any dirt in barrel. Sixth, reload.

2) Point your gun in a safe direction and wait three minutes. If a "slow primer" is smoldering like a bad firecracker, this allows time for it to burn out. Otherwise, it may give you a bad burn.

3) The 10 are: stumbling; catching the thumb under the telescope and letting the hammer slip; excitement; putting the wrong-size ammunition in the gun; drinking; using old ammunition; "sound shooting"; shooting at game that's running between hunters; leaving ammunition around home to be picked up by children; wearing white clothing that's mistaken for a deer's "flag." ■

Fire in the house—could you escape?

THE AIR near the floor may be cool — but don't breathe it.

Nobody knows when fire will strike. Take this test—memorize it. It may save your home, even your life

by HERMAN PERL
President, Fire Detective, Inc.

Today is the beginning of Fire Prevention Week, and a good time for all Americans to ponder the appalling losses due to fire each year — and ways each one of us can prevent them. The first six months of 1957 alone saw $627,967,000 go up in smoke as the result of fire damage. A good deal of it was due to sheer carelessness.

A main trouble is complacency. You may think you know all about fire prevention and what to do in emergencies — but do you? Surveys and records of organizations such as the National Fire Protection Association and the National Board of Underwriters show that most Americans are "fire illiterates."

Today's quiz poses 10 basic statements on fire and fire escape procedure. Answer each as "right" or "wrong," then check your score below — and read the explanations on the opposite page.

QUESTIONS

1 Home fires can be virtually eliminated by proper safety precautions. RIGHT WRONG

2 Of the fires that strike an estimated 800 American homes daily, more than half break out during the day, while families are using household appliances, smoking and cooking. RIGHT WRONG

3 When a fire breaks out in your house, it keeps spreading gradually until it is extinguished. RIGHT WRONG

4 If a fire strikes your home, your first consideration should be to gather your family and get away from the flames. RIGHT WRONG

5 The heat from a fire always rises. RIGHT WRONG

6 Open doors increase your chances of escaping from a fire in your home. RIGHT WRONG

7 If you're trapped and forced to go through a smoke-, gas- or heat-filled area to escape, the air nearest the floor is always safest. RIGHT WRONG

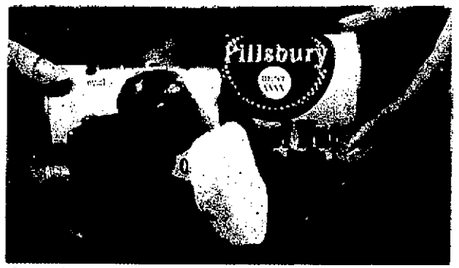

8 If you awake to discover a fire in your home, you should try to save only your most valuable papers, jewelry, clothing, etc. RIGHT WRONG

9 If you find yourself on an upper floor, and hallways and stairways are blocked by superheated air or flames, the best way out of the house is to leap from the window. RIGHT WRONG

10 Since you cannot predict the course of a fire, your best protection is your ability to improvise escape routes quickly. RIGHT WRONG

SCORING: All these 10 statements are wrong. Take 10 points for each one you marked properly. A perfect score means you're a fire specialist, but if you got over 70 you're still far above average. A mark of 60 is passing; below that, you're a fire hazard in your own home.

WHY CORRECT ANSWERS ARE IMPORTANT TO YOU

1 Experts say that from 50 to 90 per cent of fires are preventable; but fires are also caused by electrical storms; faulty wiring, overheated furnaces. These can't be foreseen, but you should be prepared for them.

2 About 60 per cent of home fires occur at night.

3 There's nothing gradual about the spread of a fire. Experience shows the critical point usually is reached four to seven minutes after a fire starts. After that, temperatures and burning action are likely to become unbearable to human life.

4 Your first consideration should be to escape not just the flames but the house. Most fire victims are not burned to death; they're gassed. Burning furniture, clothing, etc., give off poisonous fumes, which mix with superheated air and rise through the house. Study shows that 74 per cent of home-fire victims die upstairs from downstairs fires — asphyxiated by toxic gases.

5 Fire-heated air does rise, up stairways and hollow walls — then starts "building down" from the ceiling of the top floor. Poisonous air layers then grow thicker in a downward direction — saturating halls and stairways.

6 A closed door is a good, temporary defense against superheated, gas-laden air. If you suspect fire, feel the door for heat. If it's hot, it's a warning you couldn't get through the hall alive. Instead of opening the door, block it with furniture or a wet mattress to keep out heat, smoke and gases.

7 The air nearest the floor is coolest — but also probably the deadliest to breathe. A crouched position is best. To breathe, take short, shallow breaths through your nose.

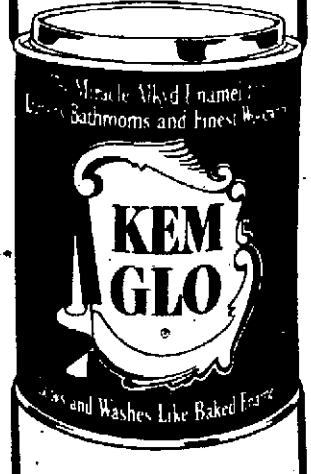

8 Forget your treasures; you may barely have time to get your family and yourself out of the house. Rescue should be your only thought. Arouse your family and call out precise instructions. If the fire has not advanced too far, gather all occupants and leave quietly, closing doors behind you. Call the fire department from a neighbor's house.

9 Jump only as a last resort. If your bedroom isn't equipped with a rope ladder (as it should be), use a bed sheet as a rope, making sure it's securely tied inside the window. Remember, if you're hurt while escaping, you can't help others.

10 Nothing could be worse. Your best protection is a carefully prepared, well-rehearsed escape plan. It's a good idea to go through the house with the entire family, visit each room and discuss what people there would have to do in case of fire. ■

'The stars won't be hurt'

by LLOYD SHEARER Parade West Coast correspondent

HOLLYWOOD. For the past two months, the year's biggest story here (and in many other parts of America) has been the trial between the state of California and the so-called scandal magazines. What does it all mean? Will the publicity seriously hurt Hollywood — or, conceivably, help it?

For some of the most authoritative answers available, I recently went to Jerry Giesler, probably the top criminal lawyer west of the Rockies and certainly the best-known lawyer in this town. It was Giesler who uncovered the unique dirt-gathering methods used here by the scandal magazines, and who later supplied the California attorney general with much information used in the trial.

Beyond that, Giesler, in his own words, "grew up with Hollywood." Born Harold Lee Giesler in Wilton, Iowa, 66 years ago, he came to Los Angeles in the early 1900s, got a job as truck driver and attended law school at night. Later, as a partner of noted criminal lawyer Earl Rogers, he learned the bag of courtroom tricks he has used effectively ever since.

In 40 years, Giesler has earned more than $3 million defending an arm-long list of Hollywood greats — from Rudolph Valentino and Charles Chaplin to Shelley Winters and Marilyn Monroe. He also has handled dozens of cases free.

Tall, paunchy, soft-voiced, with a profound knowledge of what makes people tick, Giesler is uniquely qualified to discuss the scandal trial. Herewith, in question-and-answer form, he does so.

Q What effect has the trial had on the people within the motion-picture industry?
A My personal opinion is that it hasn't, and won't, have very much effect on the industry. Temporarily, it will cause some attempts to be made to protect Hollywood. But the attempts won't go very far.

Q Do you think the public believes all that scandal dished up about Hollywood stars in the scandal magazines?
A Most people with common sense realize that it's trash. They may like to know what's going on, but they also consider the source of information. I don't think any star is going to lose much of a following because he or she was written up in a scandal magazine. In many cases they may even gain a following.

Q Do you know any method of controlling the off-screen behavior of a movie star?
A The only way I know is to lock these movie stars in corrals. They get in trouble because they have too much free time. They make maybe one or two pictures a year. That's not enough work to keep a man out of trouble.

Also, they play intimate love scenes on the screen. It's hard to stop just because a director says, "Cut."

Q Do you think the motion-picture industry is rotten from the top down?
A No — though in some instances it's rotten at the top. What you must realize is that anyone connected with this industry is constantly under the spotlight. An executive in a lumber company may be guilty of the very same transgressions, but who cares? If someone is connected with Hollywood, he's automatically good for headlines.

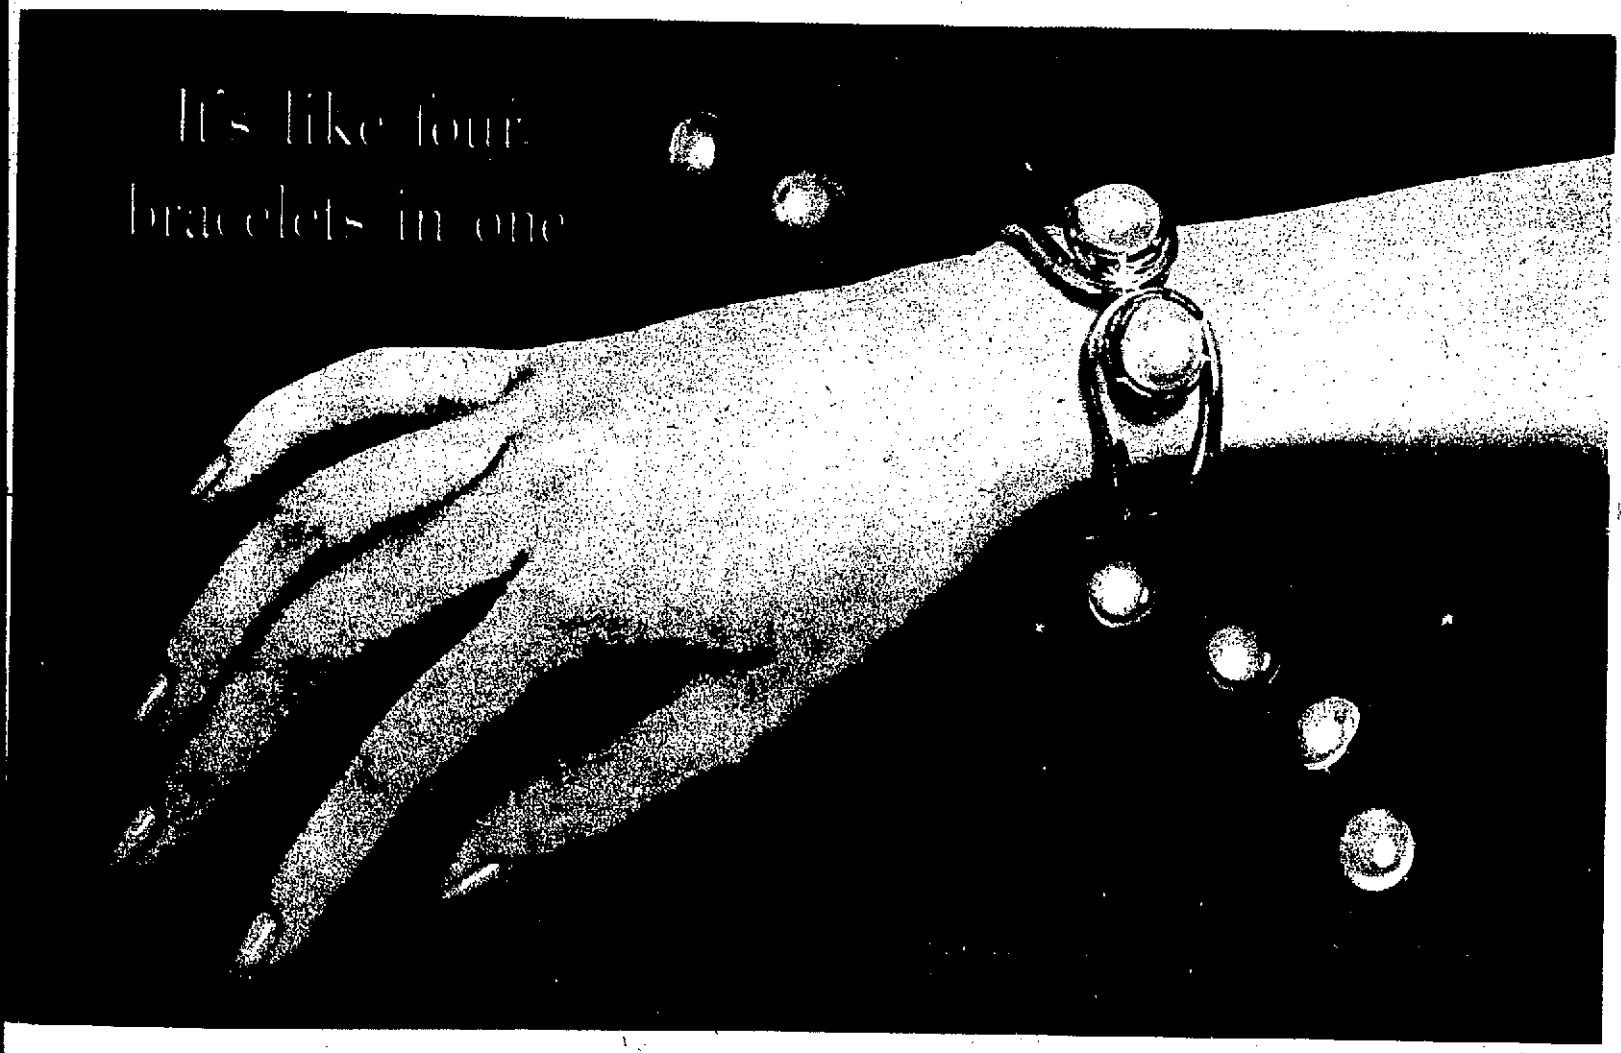

For example, the papers recently told about Jack Warner losing $200,000 on

MARILYN MONROE retained Giesler when she went to court (above) to divorce Joe DiMaggio. Among Giesler's other clients: Errol Flynn, Bette Davis, Sonja Henie, Edward G. Robinson.

'The public is much more tolerant nowadays'

the French Riviera and Darryl Zanuck gambling at Monte Carlo. Executives in any other company would not set that sort of pattern. The stockholders would scream that it was poor public relations. But movie people can get away with it.

Q Isn't there a morals clause in every film contract that says the studio can kick the player out if by his actions he arouses public disfavor?

A Yes — but I don't know of any star dismissed by a studio under that clause. There are several reasons. Lots of times when a star gets in trouble, he becomes a bigger box-office attraction after the scandal. Again, many stars are responsible for enormous profits. Kick out two or three and you may well cut your profit margin by 50 per cent or more.

Q Is it true that the studios themselves are responsible for the rise of scandal magazines by refusing to tell the truth about their stars?

A Well, they've been scared to death of the truth all along. In the past they've been able to control some of the scandal by being very close to the district attorney's office. But this D.A. we've got in Los Angeles now, William McKesson — they have no connection or influence with him.

The best policy, of course, is to tell the truth. If something happens to a star, release the news quickly. It's then read and forgotten. Once you make it a secret, however, you cloak it with glamor. It becomes a big thing. The studios have seen that, and I think they're revising their policies.

Q You were the first man to unearth Confidential's operation in Hollywood. Can you disclose how you found out that the Hollywood Research Bureau was acting as a clearing house for Confidential?

A It's strange how you get information when people know you're looking for some. Bob Mitchum retained me to sue the magazine because he felt he was libeled in one of the stories. Mitchum is a very truthful man. I investigated all the aspects and felt we had a strong case.

Just about then I had a call from a girl. She told me all about Marjorie and Fred Meade, who ran the Hollywood Research Bureau. I decided to check out her story. Marjorie Meade was the niece of the publisher of Confidential. Well, we sued.

I went East to take publisher Harrison's deposition. Confidential has a very tricky setup. They sell out each issue to one major distributor who then sells the magazines to distributors in other states. That way, Harrison has become a millionaire who can afford high-priced legal brains to keep his magazine out of court in most states.

Q Do you know of any way the scandal magazines can legally be put out of business?

A Possibly the best way would be for the Post Office Department to deny them mailing privileges, or for Congress to pass a law prohibiting the interstate passage of salacious material of that particular type.

GEORGE MURPHY is on the council now trying to guard Hollywood against scandal.

Q One scandal magazine claims it is read by 16,000,000 people, that the public wants this sort of material and that the magazine is filling a need. Do you believe that?

A No. People will read that sort of trash, because everyone wants to know what the other fellow is doing. Curiosity about people is part of human nature. But they'd just as soon buy any other magazine.

Q Is it true that the film industry wouldn't give you any help in cleaning up these scandal magazines?

A They wouldn't give me any practical help. I talked to various representatives, and they wrote letters and paid a lot of lip-service. But I never got any real help. Now the Motion Picture Industry Council is making a big effort to protect the industry. They've got a lot of fine men on the Council, like George Murphy. But I don't think they've got any power.

The only way you can prevent scandal is to control the private lives of human beings. That's impossible. Maybe you can tell the stars to be more careful in the future. But murder doesn't deter murder. And scandal doesn't deter scandal. Sometimes it actually breeds more.

Q In this recent trial Clark Gable, Corinne Calvet, Maureen O'Hara, Dorothy Dandridge and other stars were discussed. What effect do you think this will have on their careers?

A I don't know, but I certainly don't think they will be hurt at the box office. The public nowadays is much more tolerant, much more willing to forgive. The public also doesn't believe very much of this trash; so in many cases it turns out to be publicity for a star.

Are attorney Giesler's views typical of the movie colony? In general, yes.

When the scandal trial first got underway, panic reigned in Hollywood. Fearing subpoenas, stars took off in droves. Once the magazines were discredited, however, by admitting in court the kind of tipsters they employed, the panic quickly subsided.

Hollywood currently feels that the public no longer expects its screen heroes to be paragons of virtue who regularly pay off the mortgage, teach Sunday School and retire by 10 each night. The hero-worshiping era is finished, and Hollywood is reconciled to that fact — even happy about it.

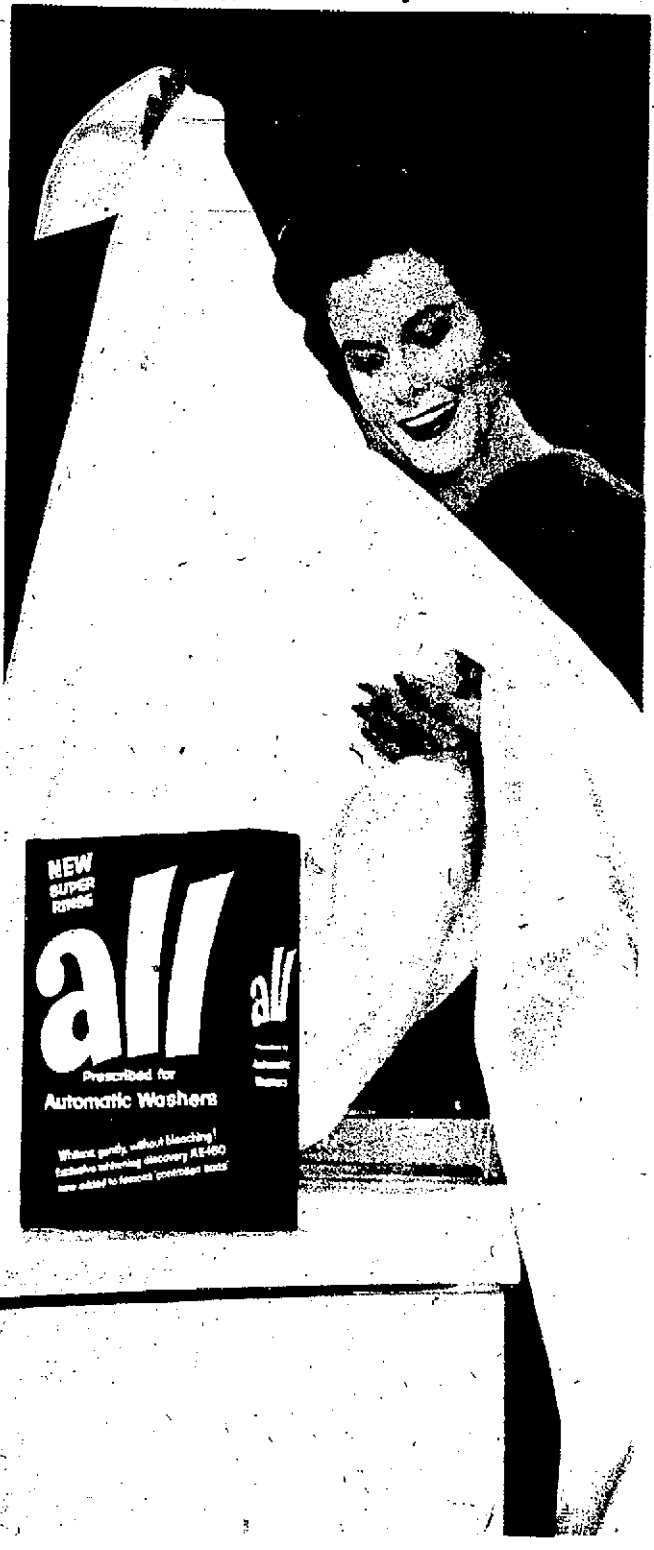

And some people here feel the scandal magazine trial gave Hollywood a well-needed shot in the arm. As one studio executive explained to me: "All this publicity makes us once again an industry peopled by colorful, exciting, uninhibited personalities. If our detractors say decency doesn't play a large part in our private lives, I always point to Jimmy Stewart. So long as we have Jimmy Stewart on our side, they can't knock us too much. Besides, in this business, it's better to be knocked than to be ignored." ■

SNATCHING a toy from baby Bill, Teba the ocelot leaps lithely from his playpen. He'll get it back later.

Love me, love my ocelot

EL TORO, CALIF.

You've seen that traditional pair, a boy and his dog — but have you ever seen a baby and his ocelot? You can here. The baby is Bill Hobbs, 8-month-old son of a Marine staff sergeant. The ocelot is Teba, 16 months old and as nice a pet as a crawling-age youngster could want. In the wild, ocelots range from Arkansas south to Paraguay, grow up to 4' long and are considered fierce. But a young one can be truly gentle — witness these pictures. The Hobbses usually keep Teba on a leash, but let her off when Dad is home. Then she plays with Bill like an affectionate house cat, grabbing his toys, racing with him, guarding him from possible harm — and occasionally licking him with her rasplike tongue to remind him that, after all, she's older than he is.

PACING her human playmate, Teba stalks as Bill crawls. ▶

Fluffy steamed pudding

Making a steamed pudding used to be quite a chore — and chances were it would turn out soggy, not fluffy. So you'll love this new, quick, sure-success way to make a light-as-air pudding, using cake mix.

To make the Pudding: Prepare 1 package cake mix (lemon-flake, apple-chip, yellow or spice) as directed on package. Then, either: 1) Fill 10 or 12 well-greased custard cups ⅔ full. Cover tightly with foil. Steam ½ hour. Turn out at once; serve hot with Cherry Sauce (r.) . . . or 2) Measure 2 cups of the batter into a greased five-cup mold; cover tightly; steam 1½ hours. Loosen carefully; turn out on serving plate. Serve with Cherry Sauce. (With remaining batter, make and bake one cake layer or six cup cakes; frost and serve for dessert the next day.)

CHERRY SAUCE

- 1 can (1 lb.) red tart pitted cherries (packed in water)
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Red food coloring
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

Drain cherries. Measure liquid; add enough water to make 1⅓ cups. Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan; gradually stir in cherry liquid. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil; boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in a few drops red food coloring. Add cherries, lemon juice, almond extract; mix well. Makes about 2½ cups sauce.

A DRUM'S rat-a-tat-tat leads Union and Confederate Army "troops" side-by-side when the Skirmishers meet.

The Blue and the Gray march—for fun

MANASSAS JUNCTION, VA.

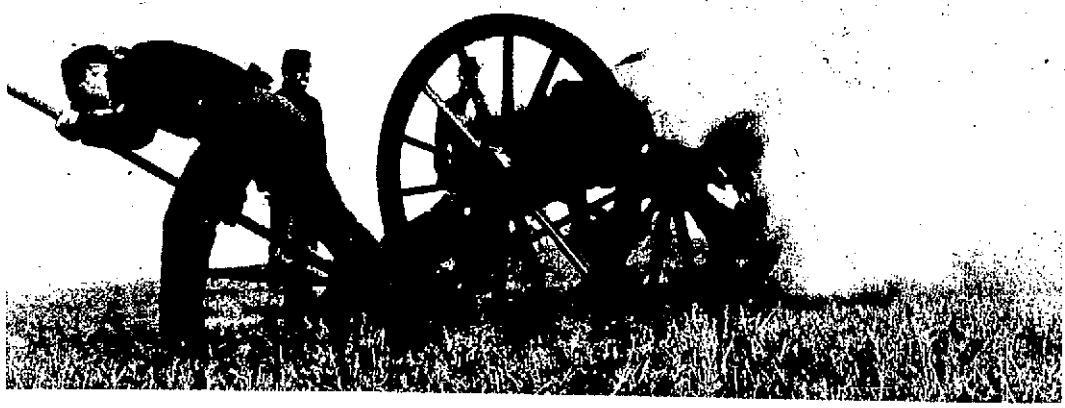

Tourists, visiting the Manassas National Battlefield Park near here one recent Sunday, stopped in their tracks aghast. A line of Union Army soldiers, resplendent in blue Civil War uniforms, swept across a grassy hill — the same hill where, 96 years before, the Confederate Army turned back Federal troops in the first battle of Bull Run. Then, a moment later, the air shrilled with Rebel yells. A band of Confederate soldiers scrambled up the hill after the Yankees. A bewildered tourist turned to a park guide, asked an explanation.

"They're members of the North-South Skirmish," said the guide, "a bunch of fellows who put on Civil War uniforms and shoot muskets and cannons." The guide chuckled. "If Grant and Lee were here today, they'd soon have their arms around each other in the spirit of things."

The Skirmishers came into being in 1950 when John Rawls of Washington, D. C., a historian and a Southerner, challenged Ernest Peterkin, a Naval Office employe and a Northerner, to a shooting match with muskets. They got up teams, named them the First Virginia Greys and the Washington Blue Rifles. Today there are 400 members with teams as far west as Michigan. Members must wear Civil War uniforms, fire only 1861-65 guns. The teams hold matches twice a year (one will be next week end in Quantico, Va.), often get together for picnics with wives and children in period costumes.

But as for actual warfare between the Blue and Gray teams? "That's long over," says Rawls. "Our purpose is friendship." ■

The Families Nobody Wants—Part II

How the DiNofas

"NON-RESIDENT" CALIFORNIANS, the six DiNofas look determined as they pose for PARADE. Refused food and rent money by welfare, they had been sleeping in car.

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

Until they moved to California a year ago, Dominic and Jane DiNofa considered relief payments something remote — something other, poorer Americans turned to in desperation. Back home in Providence, R.I., DiNofa, a roofer, had worked steadily for 14 years. On his $74 a week, the family lived modestly in a rented house and owned a seven-year-old car.

Jane DiNofa, however, was an asthma victim; Rhode Island winters meant misery and medical bills. As her attacks grew worse, the family made a difficult decision to give up what they had and go west to a drier climate.

They set out in June, by car. It was a happy trip; the four children babbled excitedly about the cities they would see, and the movie stars. Dominic and Jane talked about how soon a man with a trade could be established in a job and "really settled down."

Six months later, DiNofa was jobless, hopeless and in need of relief. The man who never had thought of public welfare went to the Los Angeles Bureau of Public Assistance to ask for a small grubstake. What he received, instead, was the run-around. It was the same senseless, callous, costly run-around needy Americans on the move receive all over the U.S.

The Bureau quoted him the law: To qualify for relief in California, a person must live three years in the state, including a year in the county where he applies. DiNofa had been in California little more than six months. Legally, he was a non-resident.

In almost any other state, he would have met similar treatment. As PARADE learned in an extensive, months-long survey, every state but New York bases its relief program on a fear of supporting penniless "foreigners" from other parts of the country. It makes no difference that booming industry needs — even recruits — workers from other states. The laws are the same laws used in England 300 years ago to keep the poor tied to the land.

In most states, had DiNofa needed medical or psychiatric help (California is a notable exception), his request would have been measured by the same antique yardstick. In ecame 'stateless'

ct, except for his Rhode Island background, e might have forfeited his legal rights en- ely. In all states, a person can lose resi- nce as well as gain it. In some, he can lose in minutes simply by showing "intent to ave." Thus many Americans — by one timate 250,000 yearly — wind up "state- ss," without legal residence anywhere.

DiNofa, however, still was a Rhode Island sident. Los Angeles would have been elighted to pay rail fare and meals "back ome" for six DiNofas— a $200-plus item. iNofa refused — for the first time in years, ane's asthma was improving — and turned the Travelers Aid Society. Today, with ravelers Aid help, DiNofa has a $66-a-week b. For the Bureau of Public Assistance he as only bitterness.

By his estimate, $40 or $50 — "$75 at e outside" — would have bridged the gap etween a job layoff and an unemployment ompensation check. Before the layoff, Di- Nofa had been convinced he was settled — e had enough confidence to pay off his union initiation fee in full even though it wasn't due. Thus when the bomb fell, the family was almost broke.

They moved first to a cheap rooming house; then, as their money trickled away, they spent two nights in the car. Finally all their food was gone. Still DiNofa insisted he could find a job. But when the children had been without food 24 hours and wept from hunger, he asked for help.

Yet all his heartache and near-starvation were unnecessary, welfare officials — public and private — agree. Laws assuming that all out-of-state residents are lazy and angling for a handout cost more than they save, these officials say. Insisting that each state care only for its own means days of tedious check- ing and mountains of paper work.

To back up this point, welfare workers point to New York. The state swept its an- tique settlement laws off the books in 1946, and since has used need as its only yardstick. In New York, all you have to do to get gen- eral relief or categorical assistance (aid to the blind, disabled, aged or dependent chil- dren) is be there. (Hawaii and Puerto Rico have a similar approach.) Yet last year, relief granted those who had been in the state less than a year made up less than 2 per cent of the relief outlay.

Actually, New York authorities believe the state spends less on relief than comparable states. The reason: closer investigation of ap- plicants, so that money is doled out wisely and where needed. And who handles this counseling? The welfare workers who, in other states, would be too busy checking "legal residence." Continued on Page 32

Five views of residence laws

LAURIN HYDE, National Travelers Aid Assn.: "Freedom of movement we take for granted — until we collide with residence laws. It is high time that 20th-century America toss into the discard a 17th-century Elizabethan law which denies the spirit of the times."

HENRY L. McCARTHY, New York City Welfare Commissioner; "You can't have your cake and eat it, too. You can't tell people you need more workers but won't take care of them if economic, social or health disaster occurs. I'm against such outmoded barriers."

America's stateless families can be helped

And studies in other states also have shown that well over 90 per cent of "non-resident" relief applicants are hard-working people interested in jobs, not handouts. But laws that have lasted 300 years die hard.

Recently Wisconsin passed a one-year residence law. During the battle in the legislature, the Wisconsin Welfare Council pointed out that only 1½ per cent of applicants had been in Wisconsin less than a year. Nonetheless, advocates of the bill insisted the state was playing Santa Claus to "lots of out-of-state people . . . coming . . . because of our liberal laws."

Generally, no one seems more emphatic in denouncing these laws than those who must wrestle with them day after day. A spokesman for the Los Angeles Bureau of Public Assistance, commenting on DiNofa's case, adds: "Remember, we're bound by the law."

"Personally, I think residence laws are antiquated and out of place in a modern society," says Oregon's attractive welfare director, Geraldine Derby. In Florida, California and Arizona— three states with strict and strictly enforced laws — PARADE heard the laws described by public-welfare officials as "unjust," "archaic," "senseless."

A Try That Failed

Most welfare workers blame the state legislatures; but in a few states, the welfare officials have refused to press for abolition or amendment of the laws. In March, 1956, Congressman Aime J. Forand of Rhode Island introduced a bill which would have simplified welfare programs nationally. (The Federal Government helps support aid to the blind, disabled, dependent, and aged; the states pass out the money and decide who shall be eligible. The states pay for general assistance, or poor relief.)

Forand proposed that each state submit a single, comprehensive plan for welfare of all types. The Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare would have power to approve or disapprove these plans before authorizing funds — except that no plan could be approved which included residence requirements.

The bill died in committee. Welfare officials, public and private, split; some were adamantly opposed to Federal intervention, others felt that the "stateless" were the concern of the whole nation, not any single state. A similar bill, introduced by Forand, in May, 1957, probably will meet the same fate.

Some of those who favor Federal supervision claim residence laws are unconstitutional. They conflict, this argument goes, with the provision forbidding a state from WASHING UP, Dominic and Jane DiNofa reflect on months of hardship. DiNofa now has steady job, and family has left hotel above for better quarters.

RAYMOND HILLIARD, Cook County, Ill., Welfare Commissioner: "The public is told high residence requirements will keep out indigents and cut expenditures. Bunk! People seek betterment regardless."

FEN HILDRETH, Arizona Commissioner of Welfare: "We presume that the higher the requirements, the less will have to be spent on welfare. It's not a good approach, but a lower requirement would mean a lot more people trying to get help."

W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON, Illinois state senator: "I want to blockade the apparently open avenue to this state of people who come here to take advantage of our liberal laws. I think residence laws are needed, and, what's more, should be strengthened."

—if you will come to their rescue

"abridging the privileges and immunities" of U.S. citizens. The Federal Government, however, does not favor this view. Charles I. Schottland, commissioner of Health, Education and Welfare, told PARADE:

"One of the fundamental concepts of the Social Security Act is that conditions will vary widely from state to state . . . We feel that it would be desirable for some states to relax or eliminate their residence requirements . . . however, this is quite different from requiring their elimination as a condition of receiving Federal funds . . ."

One proposal which has received support is for the Federal Government to handle all "stateless" persons and those whose legal residence anywhere is less than a year. Above that minium, it would be up to the states. Other remedies also have been suggested:

- A uniform residence law for all programs in all states, eliminating the problem of the "stateless" and who's responsible for each applicant.
- An interstate agreement dealing with all welfare cases and the physically and mentally ill, under which states would agree to help each other's residents on the spot.

But abolition of all residence laws, not compromise, is the main goal of many welfare workers. In this fight, the National Travelers Aid Association has led the way. Its local societies know the agonies and despair involved better than anyone else.

Says the group in its statement of principles: "The right of free movement can be preserved only through removal of length of residence requirements." Among its supporters has been the American Red Cross, which is particularly concerned that servicemen's dependents often are ruled "non-residents." (Other victims include unwed mothers, stung when they leave home to avoid shame.)

The list of opponents to residence laws also includes, among others, these organizations: the AFL-CIO, the National Council on Alcoholism, the YWCA, the National Association for Mental Health. Yet no action, these agencies agree — not even a compromise step like an interstate agreement — can be taken until you and the rest of America campaign to give less lucky Americans a fair shake.

Of course, you haven't seen hungry children, pain-racked oldsters, dangerous psychotics frustrated and confounded by 300-year-old laws — as these agencies and PARADE reporters have. The problem is remote, as it was for the DiNofas until a few months ago. You never expect to need relief or free medical care. Maybe you never expect to move.

She Never Left Home

But you can stay home and still become entangled with residence laws, as Mrs. Emma Paust did. Mrs. Paust was born in New Jersey and never has left the state. Recently, she needed state psychiatric care — and was refused. The grounds for refusal went like this:

Years ago, Mrs. Paust married. Shortly afterwards, she and her husband separated and he moved to California. They never were divorced. Under New Jersey's residence law, a woman takes the legal residence of her husband. Thus Mrs. Paust was a "non-resident" of a state she never had left, and a "resident" of a state she never had seen!

In the bewildering world of the residence law, such travesties are not uncommon. To save a few pennies on paper, thousands of lives can be shattered. Today the web catches Emma Paust and the DiNofas; tomorrow it could be you or someone you know. It can be — unless you do something about it. ■

Machamer

Hal March, witty emcee of The $64,000 Question (CBS-TV, Tuesday nights), found wit aplenty in these cartoons by Jefferson Machamer. The Nebraska-born artist now lives in Santa Monica, Calif., where he founded his own art school. He is married to actress Pauline Moore, has three children and a "solid-gold granddaughter, 2." His hobby: sharpening lawn-mowers at 50¢ each. ■

AMAZING OFFER TO READERS OF THIS NEWSPAPER

THE COLLECTED WORKS OF

Zane Grey

IN ONE MAGNIFICENT MATCHED LIBRARY SERIES

The New "Golden West De Luxe Edition"

Bound in handsome buckram and cloth, in glowing shades of red, tan, blue. Stamped in genuine gold. —Luxurious volumes you will be proud to display!

ZANE GREY

Most beloved Western story teller of all time. The blood of Indian chiefs flowed through his veins, and he actually lived the rugged life made famous in his exciting books.

Now Ready! Your First Volume

THE DUDE RANGER

One of the Latest Zane Grey Masterpieces

SUPPOSE YOU were an Eastern "tenderfoot"... and suddenly your uncle died and left you a huge cattle ranch in Arizona! And suppose one of the first things you learned was that the cattle had been mysteriously disappearing!

Ernest Selby decided to find out for himself. He traveled to Arizona and applied for a job as a cowboy at his own ranch — under another name. But as soon as he did, he found himself up to his ears in trouble! The cowboys accused him of having arranged a fake stagecoach robbery. The ranch boss's flirtatious daughter, Anne, made him fall in love with her — then laughed at him! And Dude, the handsome cowboy who considered Anne his property, started a violent feud with Ernest that HAD TO end in sure death for ONE of them!

You'll thrill to every page of this sweeping action-crammed epic of a lone Easterner's fight for Western justice against overwhelming odds!

All the Glory of the Old West — Its Sweeping Action, Color and Romance — Recaptured in Beautiful Volumes Your Family Will Be Proud to Own

HERE is an amazing opportunity! Now you can bring into your home The Collected Works of ZANE GREY — in beautiful matched volumes, "Golden West De Luxe Editions."

WHO can read Zane Grey's tales and not be swept away by their colorful action, their breath-taking thrills, their blood-tingling excitement? here are fearless men and the women they fought for; ruthless desperadoes and trigger-quick outlaws. Here is the roar of blazing guns — and the awe-inspiring silence of prairie and canyon.

How proud you will be to display these volumes in this luxurious edition — each book gorgeously bound in beautiful buckram and sturdy cloth! Yet, because of a tremendous first printing, these handsome volumes come to you for less than the price of ordinary books!

Just picture them in your home — and imagine the world of pleasure they will open up to your family! The partial list that follows gives you only an inkling of the thrills that await you:

1. THE DUDE RANGER. See description above.
2. RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE. Brave days of old Utah — drenched with blood of men who gambled their lives for adventure, gold!
3. WILDFIRE. The tempestuous story of a great wild stallion, a fiery girl — and the man who was strong enough to tame them both!
4. ARIZONA AMES. His blazing six-shooter spread terror among the toughest badmen!
5. SHADOW ON THE TRAIL. Quick-shooting Wade Holden fights with rawhide-tough rustlers.
6. ROGUE RIVER FEUD. Violence and death on Rogue River, where men stopped at nothing to win the high stakes of the rich salmon runs.
7. DESERT GOLD. Spine-tingling adventures of men and women crazed by the lure of riches.
8. WEST OF THE PECOS. Into this land of the lawless came a hard-riding, straight-shooting young man — who turned out to be a girl!
9. THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS. Mighty epic of warfare on the border. Throbbing with rip-roaring excitement!
10. CALL OF THE CANYON. Smashing drama of death and danger — racing to a climax that leaves you breathless!
11. 30,000 ON THE HOOF. Pioneer Huett battles screaming Indians and lawless rustlers in gun-brattling Arizona.
12. WILD HORSE MESA. Panquitch, the phantom stallion, was a symbol of adventure. A reckless party sets out to capture him, and runs head-on into a storm of intrigue.

The other great volumes, of which space does not permit description, include: 13. THE VANISHING AMERICAN; 14. FIGHTING CARAVANS; 15. THE HASH KNIFE OUTFIT; 16. THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER; 17. TWIN SOMBREROS; 18. THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT; 19. WESTERN UNION; 20. UNDER THE TONTO RIM; 21. ROBBERS' ROOST; 22. SHEPHERD OF GUADALOUPE; 23. THUNDER MOUNTAIN; 24. TO THE LAST MAN; 25. THE MAN OF THE FOREST. Every one is complete — not a thrilling word is cut!

LANCE

WARREN TUFTS

SHE MIGHT'VE BEEN A WHITE GAL ONCE'T BUT SHE'S ALL BLACKFOOT NOW! SHE DON'T TRUST WHITES AND SHE DON'T LIKE YOUR SHOTGUN TREATY WITH HER FOLKS! SHE AIMS T'BUST IT BY GITTIN' YEW!

MEN, THIS GIRL IS A KILLER! SHE WILL BE OUR PRISONER UNDER 24-HOUR GUARD. I GIVE FAIR WARNING: I'LL BREAK THE BACK OF ANY MAN TRYING TO BEFRIEND HER!

BREAK CAMP! WE MOVE ON THE GALLOP IN TEN MINUTES!

WE'LL FIGURE OUT WHAT TO DO WITH HER AFTER WE CLEAR BLACKFOOT COUNTRY...

SHE'LL PASS! LET'S MOVE OUT!

YESSIR, BOY, THIS JIST PROVES THERE AIN'T MUCH POINT TO LIFE! MILLIONS O' MILES FROM NOWHERE...HAIN'T SEEN A GIRL IN WEEKS AND WEEKS AND WEEKS...AN' THEN HERE COMES THIS BEE-YOO-TI-FUL CREATURE! —AN' IT TURNS OUT SHE'S GOT A LEANIN' FOR KILLIN' PEOPLE! OH, ME!

YESSIR, BOY, IT MAKES Y'WONDER: IS IT WORTH A BROKE BACK TO BEFRIEND HER??—CUZ I COULD BEFRIEND HER REAL GOOD, I COULD...

HEY, YOU LISTENIN' TO ME, BOY? WASSAMATTER, YOU SICK OR SOMETHIN'?

POGO

SO YOU HEARS UNSEEN VOICES?

YEP...I HEARS DISEMBODIED TONES.

LIKE WHAT, FOR A NINSTANCE?

LIKE UNTO THE VOICE OF A ANGEL

HEAR 'EM? FROM ABOVE, SORTA.

WELL, I HEARS 'EM... SAME AS YOU.. BUT WHAT YOU GOTTA DO IS DON'T GET PANICKY, DICKEY. ..DON'T CUT AN' RUN, SON! DON'T SHOW THE WHITE FEATHER, FATHER!

YOU MEAN IT AIN'T SERIOUS? HEARIN' UNSEEN VOICES?

OH, HEARIN' UNSEEN VOICES AIN'T LIKE A DISEASE... IT'S PROB'LY ALL IN THE MIND... JUST DON'T GO SCAT, CAT... DON'T DROP DEAD, FRED.. DON'T GO MAD, DAD... DON'T TAKE IT ON THE LAM, SAM.

HOW COULD IT BE JEST IN MY MIND? YOU SAYS YOU HEARN 'EM TOO!

SO DO I!

THE VOICE OF THE UNSEEN VOICE, AGAIN!

IT GOT A CERTAIN ERIE QUALITY... LIKE A R.R. TRAIN OR A BIG LAKE GARBAGE BOAT.

OH, WHIST, MY LUMP, MY LOVE IS TRUMP.

GOR BLIMEY.

AS NEAR AS I CAN FIGGER, FRIEND, YOUR HEAD GOT HOLES IN IT... LITTLE WEAK PLACES WHERE YOUR THOUGHTS LEAK OUT.

FACT?

YEP.. AN' WHEN YOUR TERRIFIC BRAIN POWER BUILDS UP THE PRESSURE TO A POINT WHERE OTHERELSE YOU'D EX-PLODE YOUR HEAD OFF WHY THESE LI'L SAFETY VALVES OPENS AND OUT SQUEAKS YOUR THOUGHTS.

DOGONE!

I IS A SORT OF FASCINATIN' STUDY, AIN'T I?

OH FEARLESS FRED, THE FOOTPAD DREAD, PUT POTATOES ON PATER'S HEAD.

IT'S A PITY SOME OF THESE THOUGHTS OF YOURS AIN'T BEIN' RECORDED INSTEAD OF FREE-BOOTED TO THE FOUR WINDS, GO TO SPEAK.

I KNOW... SOME OF 'EM, LIKE THAT LAST ONE, I NEVER HEARD MYSELF AFORE.

A VALUABLE GARDEN OF TREASURE IS BEIN' ALLOWED TO GO TO SEED.

WHAT A LOSS.. LISTEN TO HOW BRIGHT I IS.

OH PRITHEE, DIDST THOU GLADLY GLOW? THE GLIMMER OF THE GLEAMING SNOW? OH BLOWLY BLUE THE IG IGLOO AHA AND... ...

A PITY.

THIS IS A NEWSPAPER, JANE! NOT A RESCUE MISSION!
I'M NOT ASKING YOU TO RESCUE ANYBODY... JUST TO GIVE HIM A CHANCE AT A JOB!
I'D SAY DANNY IS ABOVE AVERAGE IN INTELLIGENCE... HE HAS A GOOD PERSONALITY AND HE LEARNS QUICKLY! HE WAS DOING WELL AT HIS JOB UNTIL HE WAS LAID OFF ALONG WITH SEVERAL OTHERS! LOSING THAT JOB WASN'T HIS FAULT!
BUT HE'S HAD ABSOLUTELY NO TRAINING OR EXPERIENCE! YOU DON'T BECOME A REPORTER OVERNIGHT! YOU KNOW THAT, JANE!
YES! AND I ALSO KNOW THAT YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR A CUB FOR A COUPLE OF WEEKS! YOU SAID YOURSELF THEY'RE NOT EASY TO FIND THESE DAYS!
I DON'T KNOW! I'M NOT SURE HOW THE PEOPLE IN THE NEWSROOM WOULD LIKE WORKING ALONGSIDE A PAROLED CONVICT!
BOSS, I'M ASHAMED OF YOU! WHAT KIND OF PEOPLE DO YOU THINK WE ARE?

THUD! CRASH!
WH-WHAT IS YOUR FRIEND DOING TO MY ASSISTANT, MR. ROPER?
MIKE SAID HE WAS GOING TO QUESTION HIM, COUNTESS!
GO AHEAD! PHONE THE POLICE!... OR IS THERE SOMETHING YOU DON'T WANT THEM TO FIND HERE?
COME ON, JOKER! THE MUSIC IS GREAT! LET'S TRY THAT WHIRL ONCE MORE!
I'M SORRY! VERY CLUMSY OF ME!... BUT YOU ALWAYS SAID I WAS A LOUSY DANCER, CONNIE!
OKAY!... NOW WE RUMBA! ...UH-ONE, UH-TWO...
WAIT! LET ME GO!... I'LL TELL YOU EVERYTHING!

I SAW YOU COME FROM LAWYER WOLF GNAF'S OFFICE — SIT DOWN, SAM, MY BOY —

MR. PULPWOOD, YOU'RE A NEWSPAPERMAN — YOU CAN HELP ME —

WELL, MAYBE — GLAD TO DO WHAT I CAN — GET SOME BAD NEWS, DID YOU?

GNAF CLAIMS MY FATHER, JOHN SUNDOWN, SIGNED EVERYTHING TO HIM, BEFORE HE WAS KILLED —

I HEARD SO — LIKE AS NOT TRUE — NEEDN'T RECORD IT HEREABOUTS TO MAKE IT LEGAL —

I BELIEVE GNAF THEN HAD MY DAD KILLED, OR DID IT HIMSELF —

IF YOU CAN HELP ME PROVE THAT — BY THE NEWSPAPER FILES FOR 1930 — BY WITNESSES —

WHOA! I WAS SENT OUT HERE AS A YOUNG MAN TO DIE, BUT FROM T. B. — NOT FROM GUNSHOT WOUNDS —

OLD NEWSPAPERS MIGHT HELP — HE WOULDN'T HAVE LEFT ANY WITNESSES — AND IF NOW HE GETS THE IDEA —

— THAT YOU'RE TRYING TO HELP ME —? YES! I SEE YOUR POINT —

SON, I LIKE YOU — HATE TO SEE A GOOD MAN GET KILLED — BUT IF YOU STAY HERE ANOTHER WEEK I WOULDN'T BET TEN CENTS YOU'LL BE ALIVE THAT LONG —

I'LL BE ALIVE!

WITHOUT THE WOLF, CARIBOU HERDS OF THE BLEAK ALASKAN MOUNTAIN RANGES MIGHT EVENTUALLY DISAPPEAR

LICHENS AND MOSS ARE SCARCE ON THE WINDSWEPT SLOPES, AND EACH SEASON MORE CARIBOU ARE BORN THAN THE LAND WILL SUPPORT

BUT THE WAITING WOLF PACK PICKS OFF THE WEAKER STRAGGLERS, LEAVING THE REMAINING HERD STRONG AND HEALTHY

ALSO, THE LEFTOVERS OF THE WOLF'S FEAST ARE EAGERLY DEVOURED BY THE GRIZZLY BEAR, FOX AND LYNX

SO ACTUALLY ALL THESE ANIMALS DEPEND ON THE WOLF...

FOR WITHOUT THIS EFFICIENT PREDATOR THERE WOULD HARDLY BE ENOUGH FOOD IN THIS HOSTILE LAND TO SUSTAIN OTHER ANIMAL LIFE

IN MANY INSTANCES DIFFERENT FORMS OF WILDLIFE ARE SO DEPENDENT UPON EACH OTHER THAT SHOULD ONE TYPE BE ELIMINATED OTHERS WOULD SUFFER AND PERHAPS ALSO DISAPPEAR

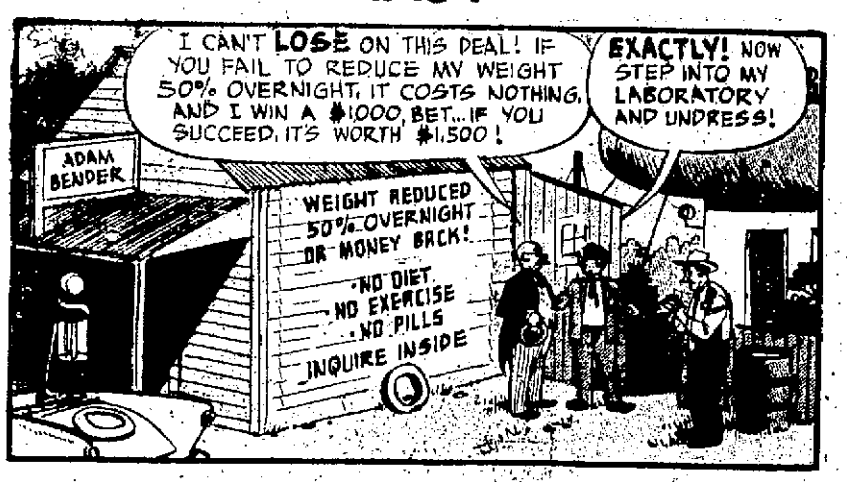

EVEN NOW DEER IN MANY AREAS HAVE BECOME SO NUMEROUS THAT WINTER FINDS THEM WITH THEIR FOOD SUPPLY EXHAUSTED

FORMERLY THESE ANIMALS WERE HELD IN CHECK BY THE WOLF AND MOUNTAIN LION, BUT WITH THESE PREDATORS REMOVED THE DEER NOW OFTEN OVERPOPULATE AND SO DIE OF STARVATION
